Tebbetts Rated Tops By Joe McCarthy

BOSTON, Sept. 30 (AP)—Win, lose or tie, Manager Joe McCarthy is convinced he has the best catcher in the American League in Birdie Tebbetts.

"I don't know of anybody else that has outcaught him," said the skipper of Boston Red Sox after Wednesday's 5-1 victory over Washington.

"Tebbetts really has been a big help to our pitchers. I don't think he ever hit as good in his life. I don't know about the National League. They've got a pretty fair catcher at New York in that big Cooper, but in the American, you'd have to give it to Tebbetts."

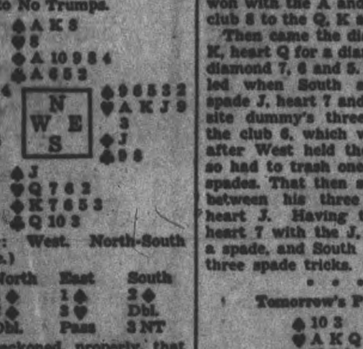
ENEMY BIDS CAN HELP

LISTENING to the opponents' bidding is always important. It is especially helpful when it enables you or your partner to make deductions that show you have a game or slam in the deal. Sometimes this occurs after your partner has shown strength in a particular suit by doubling its bid by the other fellows. In case that is the only suit not stopped in your own hand or by cards indicated through your partner's bids, it may enable you to steer a safe course into No Trumps.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	1 ♠	2 ♦
Pass	3 ♠	3 ♥	Dbl.
3 ♠	Dbl.	Pass	3 NT

South reckoned, properly, that a game for his vulnerable side would be worth more points than about a three-trick doubled set of his not vulnerable opponents. But he did not know there was probability of a No Trump game until he heard his partner's business double of the spades, which plugged up the only spot in which stoppers had not yet been indicated. North's double of the spades, in its turn, would have been impossible except for South's show of strength in the double of 3-Hearts.

The declarer, one of the finest card players in St. Louis, John E. Simes, showed the boys at New York's famous Cavendish club how they play cards in the Middle West. He had to be skillful to pull that contract through. The heart 10 lead went to East's K and the club 9 was returned to the 10 and J, the 2 being played from dummy. That was a fine play, encouraging either a lead of the suit from West or else a heart, which likewise would build the needed ninth trick, if followed by right tactics. West selected the heart 5. A diamond was tossed from dummy. East won with the A and returned the club 8 to the Q, K and A.

Then came the diamond A and K, heart Q for a diamond discard, diamond 7, 6 and 5. The last was led when South also had the spade J, heart 7 and club 3 opposite dummy's three spades and the club 6, which was discarded after West held the club 7 and so had to trash one of his three spades. That then squeezed East between his three spades and heart J. Having to guard the heart 7 with the J, he discarded a spade, and South finished with three spade tricks.

Bethel Church 120 Years Old

KEENE, Sept. 30 — The anniversary of the first service held in the Fife Settlement 120 years ago was observed in a very successful service last Sunday at Bethel. The guest minister was the Rev. H. G. Douglas, of Peterborough, who gave a very inspiring message on the text "All are yours, and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's." It was a challenging message to make good the devotion to the higher interests of Christian faith and all that it means in this life and that which is to come. "Death" said Mr. Douglas "is not the climax of our faith but the ushering into a fuller revelation of all that Christ hath done for all who believe in Him." Keene United Church choir under the direction of Mr. David Potter sang two anthems "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Just As I Am."

Some former members shared with the congregation this event. It was interesting to hear some recall those days when they sat in the family pew as children and shared those cookies and candies as long winded sermons were preached. A clock was placed on the wall to remind the man in the pulpit that time is no respecter of any person, that clock still ticks when it is wound. The singing of the evening hymn "The day is past and over; all thanks, O Lord, to thee" and the benediction brought to a close another anniversary of much interest.

Fraserville Church Marks Rally Day

FRASERVILLE, Sept. 30 — (ENS).—Rally Day was observed at Fraserville United church on Sunday. The order of worship for Rally Day was followed, the theme being, "Go teach all nations."

The program was as follows: Call to worship by Mr. R. Finlay; hymn, "Jesus Shall Reign Wher'er the Sun," followed by a responsive prayer led by Mr. R. Finlay; hymn, "Jesus Loves the Little Children"; story entitled "The Llama and the Silver Bird" read by Miss Elva Atchison; prayer by Rev. Mr. Heyward; offering and deduction; hymn, "Far Round the World."

Kathryn and Mary Waterman and Danny McClenaghan then favored with a lovely number, with Mrs. L. L. McClenaghan at the piano.

Mr. Heyward then gave his address on "How the Good News Travels in the Church Today," after which he led in the "Litany of Dedication"; hymn, "In Christ There Is No East or West," followed by the benediction.

Thompson led in the devotional. Readings were then given by Mrs. F. Lackey of Fraserville and Mrs. Fred Wood of Bailieboro, also Mrs. McKay of Springville sang a solo. A dainty lunch was served at the close.

Teach Young By Example Norwood Minister Urges

NORWOOD, Sept. 30 — (ENS). —The rally day service of the Presbyterian Sunday school was held in St. Andrew's church on Sunday afternoon, and was followed by a baptismal service.

The children entered the church in processional down both aisles, while the entire congregation sang "Jesus Loves Me."

The Rev. R. D. Duncanson was in charge of the service as set out by the Board of Sabbath Schools and Young People's Societies of the Presbyterin church in Canada.

Philip Hinds was the leader for the Old Testament scripture, Clive Fredericks for the New Testament scripture and Carl Burtt for the 'Praise to God.'

In his charge to the children of the Sunday school, Rev. R. D. Duncanson said they were to consider their Sunday school as an avenue or a road into the church and charged the older members of his flock that it was the responsibility of every adult, not only the parents and teachers, to teach by example and precept the correct way of life.

In future the Sunday school will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2.30. The minister felt that it was his duty to be at the Sunday school and in this way he can attend both Havelock and Norwood.

'If You Want Real Relief From Gas, Indigestion Try Syntona' She Says

Suffered Stomach Disorders Two Years. Got Dizzy Spells. Headaches; Nervous, Could Not Sleep. Tells of Relief.

MRS. AGNES STEELE

"Any person wanting real relief from stomach disorders should certainly try Syntona Herbal Compound," says Mrs. Agnes Steele, Hyde Park, Ontario, in a recent interview.

"I speak from experience, because for two years I could hardly eat a meal without suffering with gas, indigestion and sour acidity afterwards. I would get terrible gassy cramps in my stomach, belch up hot, sour liquids, and could get nothing to relieve the bloated, distressed feeling. I became subject to throbbing headaches and dizzy spells and often could not get to sleep for hours after going to bed at night.

"Since nothing else was helping me, I finally decided to try Syntona and actually I was amazed how soon my food began to digest better. As I kept on taking it, the gas, sourness and other distress all cleared away and now I eat well and have no trouble at all. For the first time in two years I am free of headaches and dizziness and my nerves are relaxed. I sleep fine and feel far more rested and energetic in the mornings."

The above experience related by Mrs. Steele is a typical story told by thousands of men and women who have successfully used Syntona to overcome common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver or bowels. If you make up your mind to try Syntona, the chances are it will give you the very same good results.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

British Ship Blows Up In Baltic

Say Finnish Ship Picks Up Survivors Floating In Lifeboats

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 1—(Reuters).—A British ship blew up and sank in the Baltic today.

The explosion was said to have been caused by a mine.

Danish aircraft located the scene tonight and reported that the crew has been picked up in a fishing boat and taken ashore.

The name of the ship was given here as the Leth.

(Lloyd's register does not list any ship by that name.)

Dutch Report

SCHEVENINGEN, The Netherlands, Oct. 1—(Reuters).—An unknown ship blew up and sank today at 54.38.5 degrees latitude north and 12.33 longitude east, the Scheveninger radio said tonight, quoting a message from a Finnish ship.

The message said the 2,522-ton Finnish ship Fanny had taken on board members of the unknown vessel's crew who were found in lifeboats.

It was not yet known whether anyone was lost.

The position given is in the Baltic Sea off the North German coast.

Mattress Plant Has $2000 Fire

A fire in the packing room of the Peterborough Mattress Company this morning at 9.15 caused $2,000 damage, a quick estimate by owner-manager Jas. B. Ellis just after the fire was extinguished. It started in the basement packing room and James Helsey, operator of the picking machine, turned in the alarm that was answered immediately by the Fire Department.

One pumper was sufficient to dampen down the smouldering loose packing material. Fire Chief George Smith thought a friction spark, caused by the picker striking some iron matter in the packing, might have been the cause of the blaze.

Invades Police Station Shoots At Officers

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (AP)—Lawrence Haggard, 48, (Negro) was killed today when he invaded the Central police station and began firing at officers on duty.

Patrolman Daniel Marsh, one of those on duty at the headquarters station, said the man walked in and began firing without a word.

Three other officers, Patrolmen James Colleran, Joseph Burns, and Rudy Andra, on hearing the shots, rushed to aid, but were forced to retreat. They ran around to another entrance, and fired two shots at Haggard. He collapsed, crawled into the lieutenant's office and died.

3-Power Agreement Reached On Merger

FRANKFURT, Oct. 1. (AP)—A final three-power agreement on the economic merger of the three western occupation zones of Germany is expected within a few days, Allied sources said today.

The British and United States zones have been merged economically for several months and the entity is named "Bizonia." The inclusion of France in the merger would result in the existence of a "Trizonia."

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, said Thursday agreement on details of the merger already has been reached between military and government authorities in Germany.

Secrets Too Dangerous For Spy Trials

Many Espionage Suspects Will Go Free To Safeguard Defence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(AP)—A top Congressional spy-hunter said today many persons suspected of espionage in the United States may never come to trial because of the danger of exposing secrets still closely kept.

Discussing this probability, Representative John McDowell (Rep. Pa.), acting chairman of the House of Representatives un-American Activities Committee, told reporters a "fundamental change" in American court processes may be necessary.

Explains Situation

He said the "maddening" situation shapes up about like this:

1. A "hundred or more" of one-time United States secrets probably have been stolen and handed over to Russia, including information on the atom bomb, jet propulsion and radar.

2. But the United States still has many secrets our potential enemy has not yet been able to crack. McDowell thinks Russia hasn't got enough information to make an A-bomb.

(In Paris today, Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky, told the United Nations the Americans have no monopoly on the bomb.)

3. Some spies are believed to be known, or else espionage evidence points strongly toward certain persons. The committee has recommended spy trials for four persons.

4. But to bring all potential spy cases into open court might, in the normal flow of evidence, force into the open many of the well-kept secrets.

Enlarge Social Services—PC's

OTTAWA, Oct. 1—(CP).—A platform stressing free enterprise and government economy but providing enlarged social services and aid to industry today was placed before the Progressive Conservative national convention. The 30-plank proposed platform was submitted by the convention's resolutions committee and came under immediate study by the 1,311 delegates, who were to reduce it to final terms during the day.

Outlawing of Communist "activities"—a term not immediately defined as to whether it means banning of the Communist party—was a major plank in the proposed platform.

Another called for an immediate Dominion-Provincial conference to effect an "equitable agreement" with the provinces that would include the elimination of duplicate taxation.

Raise Tax Exemptions

The 193-man resolutions committee also proposed tax relief for the small-income earners and for small business. This would include raising of the personal income exemption from $1,500 to at least $2,500 for married persons and from $750 to at least $1,250 for single taxpayers.

Other major points in the 6,000-word policy proposals:

1. A hardened foreign policy that would include no appeasement of Russia and strengthening of the Commonwealth.

2. A defence program placing emphasis on air strength. Canada would join immediately in the Berlin air lift.

3. Revaluation of the Canadian dollar to a "realistic" level. The dollar now is held at par with that of the United States.

4. Development of natural resources for maximum production to bring about an improved standard of living.

5. Expanded international trade, with elimination of "abnormal" barriers created by licence quotas and embargos.

Permanent Farm Price Floors

6. A broad farm program topped by permanent floor-price legislation. The aim would be to stabilize farm income. Producers, who now must market wheat through the Wheat Board, would be allowed to market all grains in any way they wish.

7. A contributory social security program headed by retirement pensions at 65 without a means test and including accident, sickness and disability benefits, health insurance and family allowances without restrictions as to the number of children in a family.

8. Establishment of a National Labor Council, composed of government-labor-management representatives, to deal with causes of labor unrest.

Peterborough's Delegates Not Revealing Favorite

By TOM ALLEN
Examiner Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—Large conventions such as this National Progressive Conservative assembly here in Ottawa can be pretty dull business for delegates unused to conventions. Like hockey games to people who do not often go to see them, they may sound better and more exciting over the radio, with a skilled commentator to interpret. The play is sometimes too tricky to be noticed by people jammed in rows of seats. There are subtleties at this convention which are not apparent in the assembly hall, for instance the by-plays which led to Mr. Ivan Sabourin, Quebec Conservative leader, denying on Wednesday night a report that the Quebec delegation will support Donald Fleming for the leadership. The Quebec delegation is, by the way, larger than the Conservatives have had at any earlier conventions. It is interesting that the French-speaking chairman of the convention is Leon Methot of Three Rivers. Mr. Methot is a Conservative but he is also politically associated with Premier Duplessis and the Union Nationale Party in Quebec.

Well Organized

The convention has dulled from the brilliance of its opening on Thursday morning, but it is still as lively as can be expected from a large group like this. One reason for the sustained interest is that the convention is well organized. Mr. Gordon Fraser, MP for Peterborough, remarked in conversation with the Examiner's representative that it is much better organized than the Winnipeg Conservative convention of 1942. "A better convention in all ways," Mr. Fraser said with satisfaction. The arrangements are elaborate and efficient. The assembly hall itself shows the carefulness of the planning. If a delegate wishes to speak from the floor, he can stand at one of four microphones spaced on the floor, and make himself heard.

There tends to be a sagging of attention while resolutions are repeated in English or French, but it is done speedily and the platform is so brilliant that the eye can be excited by it while the mind sags. The officers in charge of arrangements seem to have fallen down somewhat in the housing of the huge crowd. The difficulty is due more to Ottawa's lack of accommodation for thousands of visitors than to lack of planning. Every hotel and rooming house is bursting at the seams. Commercial hotels which are far from first-class are bunking two strangers together in one brass bed and when the unhappy pair get up in the morning they have to wash in a Victorian basin and get water from a jug. That sort of accommodation is a disappointment to delegates who have

Sentence Aldred 18 Years In Pen

TORONTO, Oct. 1 — (CP). — Twenty-three-year-old Fred Aldred was sentenced to 18 years in penitentiary on a manslaughter charge in the shooting of storekeeper William Cowan, 57.

The youth received two years concurrent after he pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering Cowan's grocery store at nearby Malvern where the shooting occurred Aug. 1.

A jury Thursday acquitted Aldred of murder but convicted him on a reduced charge of manslaughter.

He heard the sentence stolidly, although at time he appeared dazed.

His girl friend, with him at the time of the shooting, 17-year-old May Hill, was given a two-year suspended sentence on a breaking and entering charge.

Aldred sobbed quietly Thursday as he was led from Criminal Assize Court after hearing the verdict.

The nearby Claremont youth had staked his life on the claim that the storekeeper was fatally shot while holding his own revolver during a scuffle. Aldred said in a statement admitted as evidence that he told Cowan he broke into the store to look for something to eat for himself and his 17-year-old girl friend.

Mr. Justice Keiller McKay told the jury the verdict must be guilty of murder or manslaughter, as "the verdict of not guilty is not open on the evidence."

Three Trapped, 70 Escape As Fire Sweeps Tenement

QUEBEC, Oct. 1 — (CP). — Death toll in a mid-evening $35,000 fire that swept a crowded three-storey block in St. Roch quarter rose to three to-day when burns and shock suffered by a day-old infant proved fatal.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Paul-Eugene Drolet, 39, and a man tentatively identified as 50-year-old Paul Henley, veteran of two World Wars, were the other victims.

The heroism of Paul-Eugene Drolet, who carried three of his children to the street down a ladder, saved lives higher count of dead in the building occupied by 75 tenants.

Drolet rescued a 10-year-old son Henri, as well as another of his six children and the day-old infant from the burning building. Flames kept him from reaching his wife who had managed to get to a window before her escape was cut off.

The father was painfully burned about the face, hands and back. His infant child also suffered burns which caused its death in hospital to-day less than 24 hours after birth.

Firemen were within feet of reaching a window to Mrs. Drolet's room after her husband's efforts to get to her but were driven away by a sudden burst of flames.

A fireman said pandemonium ruled in the block with people streaming out of exits after the first of three alarms was sounded at 9:30 p.m. The blaze, of unknown origin, is believed to have started in the third floor room of Omer Pare, about 70, who was carried to safety.

Chinhsien Airfield Knocked Out By Reds

PEIPING, Oct. 1 — (AP). — The vital Chinhsien Airfield today was knocked out by Red gunfire, pro-government reports said.

Chinhsien, southern anchor of the air lift for Mukden, is the second most important government stronghold in Manchuria.

The airfield, some four miles from the part-modern part-ancient Manchurian city, had been used a short time earlier to land government reinforcements from Mukden.

Observers here were skeptical of a government report that Communist troops had been cleared in the area between Suiyuan province's capital of Kweisui and Tsining, 60 miles to the east.

At Nanking, government military authorities predicted a major battle was in the making in central Shantung. Communist forces were pulled out of recently-conquered Tsinan and moved southward toward the Yenchow-Hsuchow area in an obvious bid for the rail junction there.

Met Accused On Road With Pistol

Preliminary Hearing Opens Today In Lindsay Court

LINDSAY, Oct. 1.—(Special).—"You have not shot him, have you? Yes, in the head."

This was one of the startling questions and answers from Miss Sarah McCallum, a witness in the preliminary hearing on a charge of murder today, of Mrs. Jane McAllister, Kirkfield. Mrs. McAllister is charged with the murder of her husband, 30-year-old war veterans in their cabin near Kirkfield, on Sept. 5. The court heard Miss McCallum recount the question and answer as part of a conversation she had with the accused on the night of the shooting.

Miss McCallum's evidence told of meeting the accused woman on the road a short distance from the McAllister home outside the little village. She was carrying a pistol, the witness said.

"Oh, Sarah, go in and see what I've done to John," Miss McCallum quoted the woman as saying. She sobbed this several times.

Saw Gun

"She put her hand in my car and I asked her what was in it. I saw it was a gun."

"What did you do?" I asked Jane."

"I did something awful," the accused moaned several times.

"You haven't shot him have you, Jane?"

"Yes, in the head."

Miss McCallum said after that she told Mrs. McAllister to go back to the house and that she would get help for her. When she drove by, the bride was trudging along the road back to the cabin.

"That was the last I saw of her that night," said the witness.

Saw McAllister

One of four witnesses heard this morning, Miss McCallum said she had been driving past the Kirkfield home about 10.15 the night of the shooting. She said she saw John McAllister standing in the doorway, framed in the light from the house.

She continued to drive down the road, where she was taking a neighbor home. She went into the neighbor's house for a moment and was turning around in the driveway when she saw the accused approaching, with the pistol in her hand.

It was then, she said, that the conversation with Mrs. McAllister took place.

The woman was wearing slacks and a plaid shirt, she said, and had nothing on her feet.

Another witness heard this

Hundreds Police Seek 2 Killers

PEMBROKE, Oct. 1 —(CP)—Hundreds of Quebec provincial and local police were rushed into a widespread manhunt during the night for Donald and Douglas Perreault, wanted in connection with the slaying of two Montreal policemen a week ago.

The general police alarm in the western half of the Quebec province came after an earlier "hot tip" leading to the bush near Pembroke proved futile.

A 13-year-old girl in Hull, Que., started the alarm when she told police a man, masked with a handkerchief and holding a revolver knocked at the door of her house Thursday night.

Nearby she could see another man, also masked, sitting at the wheel of a black car, similar to the black Cadillac in which the two thugs made a successful break through a cordon of Montreal city police following the slaying outside a Montreal east-end bar.

The young girl told police that the men drove off toward highway No. [illegible] leading north to Maniwaki, about 100 miles north of Ottawa.

Earlier a Pembroke truck driver told police [illegible] broke that he had seen a black [illegible] parked off the side of the [illegible] River road near Pembroke.

Labor Wins Test

GLASGOW, Oct. 1 (Reuters).—The Labor Party retained the House of Commons seat for the Gorbals division of Glasgow in Thursday's by-election, results showed today. Mrs. Alice Cullen, Labor, won the contest with a clear majority over the combined vote of two opponents. Figures were: Mrs. Cullen, 13,706 votes; Willis Roxburg, Conservative, 7,181; Peter Kerrigan, Communist, 4,233.

800 Soldiers, No Weapons, To Guard U.N.

PARIS, Oct. 1 — (Reuters). — Detailed proposals for a nucleus United Nations guard of 800 men, with a suggestion that it might later be increased to "several thousand," were announced Thursday night by Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations.

He proposed that the nucleus guard, entirely non-military in character, should comprise 300 men permanently mobilized, with 500 men in reserve, living in their own countries but ready at short notice for service.

The guard will be armed, according to the proposals, with personal emergency defence weapons, such as revolvers, rifles and light automatic arms.

It will include four armored staff cars, 36 jeeps and trailers, 36 "three-quarter supply" trucks and 20 mobile radio transmission units.

Have No Tanks

Lie said no tanks, artillery or major offensive weapons will form part of the regular equipment, but a special liaison officer at United Nations headquarters will seek assistance of member governments in supplying aircraft and ships as needed.

Recruited as far as possible from physically fit men without dependents, the guard will wear special United Nations uniform. Lie said "the provision of a guard would immeasurably strengthen the hands of United Nations missions which are established for the express purpose of assuring pacific settlements without recourse to the use of force and would assist them to expedite peaceful settlements."

Much further study was needed before proposing the final strength of the guard but Lie said its maximum strength should be "several thousand more" than the nucleus of 800.

It will be "charged with protecting the persons of United Nations observers who might be subject to personal attack from undisciplined individuals or to guard neutralized objectives vital to the success of their negotiations."

Russian Actor Dies

MOSCOW, Oct. 1.—(AP). — A communique from the Council of Ministers (Cabinet) of the USSR today announces the death of Vassily Ivanovich Kachalov, Russia's greatest actor.

All Russian newspapers printed the communique on their front pages today. A tribute signed by leading figures of the Russian theatre termed Kachalov "the greatest actor of the world."

US No Monopoly On A-Bomb Vishinsky Tells U.N.; Hints Soviet Has It Too

May Vote Important Change In UN Lineup As 12 Eastern Powers Hold Important Meet To Form Bloc

PARIS, Oct. 1—(AP).—Russia accused the United States today of seeking war and said the Americans have no monopoly on the atom bomb. In a violent attack on United States atomic policy, Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the 58-member United Nations political committee that the United States is pursuing "war aims."

He added that "it is a mistake to believe that only one nation has a monopoly on atomic energy. That is a dangerous miscalculation."

Later in his speech, Vishinsky repeated what was interpreted as a hint that Russia also has an atom bomb. He said the United States was building a bomb stock pile "in the illusion that America has a monopoly on the atom bomb."

"This is an interesting illusion, particularly for the Republican presidential candidate, Mr. Thomas E. Dewey, who, I learn, has said that America possesses exclusively the secret of the atom.

U.S. Wants Exclusive

"Is this not proof that America's aim is not real co-operation through international control, but, in fact, nothing less than a plan to retain what they consider to be exclusive knowledge of atomic energy?"

This was not the first Russian hint that the Soviet Union already has the secret of the atomic bomb. Vishinsky made a similar speech to the U.N. about a year ago.

Last week, however, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian member of the Atomic Energy Commission, told reporters: "We are quite certain Russia has not yet produced an atomic bomb."

Vishinsky declared today that Bernard M. Baruch's plan for controlling atomic energy was designed to give United States "unlimited control of the economy of the world through the dictate of the atom bomb."

Russia has "no more illusions," he added. "In fact, these are war aims. The American plan is designed to permit the United States of America to take over control of all atomic energy."

The United States is "merely trying to confuse the peoples of the world." He then appealed to the United States to "show goodwill from the beginning and ban this horrible weapon."

"I am asking you, members of the majority, why are you shrinking from this ban?" the white-

Douglas Fairbanks Decorated By Italy

ROME, Oct. 1. (AP)—Defence Minister Randolfo Pacciardi today awarded film actor Douglas Fairbanks Jr., the Italian Military Cross for valor.

The award was made for action at Salerno, in September, 1943. Fairbanks was a lieutenant-commander in the United States navy, in charge of a naval party which raided behind the German lines. A force of Italian naval speed boats was under his command.

US May Restrict Importing Of Potatoes From Canada

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(AP). — Representative August H. Andresen (Rep.—Minn.) said today Canadian and American officials plan to meet soon on the possibility of putting restrictions on imports of Canadian potatoes to the United States.

Andresen, chairman of the House of Representatives food investigating committee, charged two weeks ago the government was, in effect, supporting the price of Canadian potatoes in spite of a huge domestic surplus.

The Minnesotan repeated to a reporter today that up to $100,000,000 will be spent in price support of American potatoes this year. And, he said, any imports from Canada "cost us just that much more for the support program."

A check with Agriculture Department officials confirmed that a discussion with a Canadian group on the potato question is planned but the scope of the session has not been determined.

One Department official said: "It is possible that we might arrive at an informal or voluntary arrangement with the Canadian people as to the number of potatoes that should be shipped into the United States."

Andresen said that, on the basis of present imports, a total of about 10,000,000 bushels of Canadian potatoes may be shipped in this year.

Canadian potatoes have been selling at $2.75 a hundredweight in New York and New Jersey, he said, at the same time that the American support price was $2.50.

Rivers To Hang For Slaying Of Indian Girl

SAULT STE. MARIE, Oct. 1—(CP)—Richard Rivers, 20-year-old Ojibway, today was under sentence to be hanged Dec. 9 for the hotel room sex-strangling of his sister-in-law.

A jury in Ontario Supreme Court Thursday night convicted him of murder after deliberating nine hours and 32 minutes. The non-treaty Indian from the Mississagi Reserve near Blind River, 96 miles east of here, appeared stunned but said nothing when Mr. Justice G. A. Gale sentenced him to die.

Weary after days of firefighting, Richard Rivers and his brother, Leonard, 18, left the firelines July 21 and headed for Blind River. Leonard Rivers went by bus to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Richard Rivers rented a hotel room in Blind River and made a date to take his sister-in-law, May Rivers, 21, Leonard's wife, to the movies the night of July 22.

The next morning the stripped and beaten body of the girl, strangled with a man's belt, was found sprawled across a blood-soaked bed in Rivers' hotel room.

Rivers claimed that during the evening he "blacked out" after drinking. He said he came to four hours later on the Main street, went back to the room, saw the body and left town. He insisted that he did not know how the girl met death.

Defence counsel Ian Munro suggested in his address to the jury that someone else entered the room and killed the girl while Rivers was out—"the town was full of fire-fighters."

His Lordship told the jury that its verdict was "amply supported by the evidence."

Rejects London Defence Centre

PARIS, Oct 1 (AP) —Gen. De Gaulle said today the five-power defence pact for Western Europe solves no defence problems because it is centred in London.

"It is wrong to centre in London the defence of Europe," De Gaulle said.

In his comments De Gaulle took it for granted the new defence groups would head up in London, although there has been no official indication of this. His assumption evidently was prompted by approval of the British cabinet of the selection of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as Chief of the new Defence Union. The five powers are expected to announce Viscount Montgomery's appointment soon. De Gaulle commended Montgomery as a General.

"Europe must be defended in Europe. That is a geographical, historical, psychological problem. It is wrong to centre in London defence plans for Europe. The natural centre of a defence plan is France. But for the present moment France is hardly present. The problem fo European defence will have to be reconsidered when France has a real government."

25,000 German Officers Being Used By Reds For Military Purposes

Berlin Paper Says 80 Generals, 18 Admirals Included In Trained Fighting Men Now Doing Communist Work In Many Areas

BERLIN, Oct. 1—(Reuters).—An estimated 25,000 German officers are on the Soviet payroll, the British-licensed weekly newspaper Berliner Montags Echo charges. The paper says the group includes 80 generals and 18 admirals. In a review of the use by Russia of former German army and navy officers for military and political aims, the newspaper says that it is a well-known fact in the eastern zone of Germany that highly qualified fighting members of the German Army disappeared quickly after returning home from Prisoner-of-war camps in Russia.

Get Training By Soviet

"The explanation, of course, is that they are taken away again to be schooled," the newspaper says. "Then, after long training, they reappear in Soviet Army units, as has been proved by the capture of a number of them in China and on other 'democratic people's' fronts."

The paper then gives news of the present whereabouts of several well-known German officers.

Field Marshal Paulus, it says, now is a teacher of tactics at the Moscow Military Academy.

Col.-Gen. von Richtofen, commander of the Condor Legion which fought for Generalissimo Franco in the Spanish civil war, is reported to be attached to an air training school in the Crimea.

Sub Expert

Admiral Ssalwaechter is said to be working as an expert at the Russian submarine base at Riga.

All units commanded by these men are easily identifiable because they have been named after Western German towns, the newspaper adds.

Majority Vote System Applied

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 — (CP). — The man who wins the Progressive Conservative party leadership in Saturday's voting must have a majority — more votes than all other candidates combined.

That means that, if all 1,311 eligible delegates cast ballots, the winner must have at least 656 votes.

The same procedure was used at the Liberal national convention here in August Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, with more than 800 on the first ballot, had more votes than the combined vote for his two opponents.

Too Few Think Most Too Lazy Kiwanis Told

Importance of thinking was stressed by Dr. Percy Lowery, immediate past president of the Ontario Dental Association, speaking at the Kiwanis luncheon on Thursday at the Empress Hotel. He said that a critic once said that five per cent of the people think, five per cent think they think, and 90 per cent of the people are too lazy to think, but that he preferred to say too busy rather than too lazy to think.

"Is it possible," he asked, "that today youth are subject to think more by others, than ourselves." He pointed out that films were stated to be made to appeal to a person with the mentality of a 12-year-old, and he criticized pulp magazines and radio programs. "Time might be better employed," he said, 'than listening to Superman.'

Thinking, he said, produced tolerance, honesty, initiative, neighborliness and knowledge. He quoted a business executive who told him that "the fellow who will think, not from the standpoint of his salary, but from his opportunities in relation to the success of the organization would stand out like a sore thumb."

Dr. Lowery began his speech with a short explanation of the organization of the Canadian Dental Association, which consists of all practising dentists in Canada and has only one paid executive. The nine provinces each have their own board responsible for dentistry and which appoints four representatives to the Dominion Council, which sets up policy under which the profession works. "We are not unionized," he said, "except for the benefit of the people we are privileged to serve."

Dr. Lowery was introduced by Dr. C. McKee and thanked by Charles Spieran. Edward Pridham presided.

Had Liquor In Car Pays $17.50 Fine

In police court today Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, fined James A. McIntosh, RR 3, Bobcaygeon, a total of $17.50 for illegal possession of liquor.

McIntosh pleaded not guilty, and his defence was conducted by J. C. M. German of Cobourg. McIntosh said he was transporting the unopened 13-ounce bottle of rye whisky from one legal place to another.

He said he was taking the whisky to the summer cottage of a friend, Thomas Mathias, on July 11, and that he stopped at McIntosh's Dance Hall at Bobcaygeon merely to pick up Mathias as passenger before continuing on to the cottage at Chemong.

In a routine check on the cars parked outside the dance hall Provincial Constables Milton of Lindsay and Warren of Bobcaygeon said they found the bottle of liquor in the rear seat of McIntosh's car after he had denied having any.

Crown Attorney V. J. Elderry, KC, said that as there were no articles of clothing or other personal effects carried in the car, and as the time was 1.30 a.m., he doubted McIntosh's story and he asked for a conviction.

Magistrate Philp agreed and levied a $17.50 fine after finding him guilty.

James A. Fenton was fined $12.50 for being intoxicated on No. 7 highway on Thursday.

On pleas of guilty Business Fleets Ltd., of Windsor and Karl A. Duffus, Monaghan Rd., were convicted of illegal parking and were fined $3.

RAIN WELCOMED

Today's rain may not have been popular with schoolchildren but it was welcomed by farmers and hydro officials. Farmers report that the land is badly in need of moisture and hydro officials are hoping for it to replenish the water supplies that turn the turbines. The same story applies across the breadth of Ontario and Quebec. The famous Montmorency Falls in Quebec is reported dried up and in northern Ontario several forest fires are burning.

haired Russian asked. "What precludes adopting such a step now?"

American proposals for control of atomic energy, he said "are only a smoke screen hiding a race to build atomic weapons."

Vishinsky spoke in reply to Warren R. Austin, United States delegate who repeated Thursday American proposals to submit to international control of atomic energy under U.N. authority, without veto.

Canada Backs U.S. Plan

Canada's representative on the Atomic Energy Commission, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, sided with Austin Thursday and warned that the U.N. is seeking "to control something which, if not controlled, might mean the end of civilization." He circulated a resolution calling for a working control plan.

China's T. F. Tsiang started off today's debate with the statement that the American proposal was "only a mild step in the limitation of national sovereignty."

Meanwhile, a new bloc of 12 Middle Eastern powers, which might radically alter the voting line-up in the U.N., was reported in progress.

Foreign ministers and chief delegates to U.N. of the countries concerned have scheduled a meeting for tomorrow. A well-informed Greek source said a cohesive group will be established at that time.

12 Eastern Powers Meet

All 12 have known somewhat anti-Soviet sentiments, and they all stand in the shadow of Russia. Their more immediate tie is the current situation in Palestine, where members of the Arab League have sought to prevent establishment of a Jewish State.

The member countries occupy adjoining parts of three continents — Europe, Africa, and Asia. They are Greece, Turkey, Afghanistan, Egypt, Ethiopia, Iraq, Iran, Lebanon, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen. All except Greece and Ethiopia are predominantly Moslem, and all members of the Arab League belonging to U.N. would be included.

Observers noted that these 12, in combination with 20 countries constituting a Latin-American bloc, could form a solid working majority of the 58-member general assembly once they agree on a program.

Groundwork for the bloc was completed this week in a conference between the Greek Foreign Minister, Constatin Tsaldaris, and the Egyptian Foreign Minister, Ahmed Mohamed Khashaba Pasha. Later Tsaldaris voted with the Arab League against a motion to put the Palestine issue at the top of the political committee's agenda.

There From Peterborough

Peterborough and district are well represented. Among the folk noticed are Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, who was named one of the nine vice-chairmen of the convention; Mr. and Mrs. Fraser, the Hon. Harold Scott, Mrs. Jack Cridland, ex-Alderman Floyd Curtis, Mr. James Juby and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Morris of Lakefield.

None of them seems to be wearing Fleming buttons or Diefenbaker ribbons. Mr. Fraser was reticent when we asked him whom he was supporting for leader. He reminded us that as chairman of the Ontario credentials committee he had to be silent on the matter. His support will undoubtedly go to the man who is the successful candidate.

Even now before hearing the candidate's speeches which will be given this evening, the general assumption is that Col. Drew will be elected. However, the flags of the Diefenbaker headquarters on one side of the entrance to Lansdowne Park and of the Fleming headquarters on the other, are still flying. Premier Drew has still refrained from stating any "policy" probably on the theory that it is the convention's business to devise a policy, and the new leader's to carry it out, not to state it before he is elected.

Find Prices Firmer In Light Trading

TORONTO, Oct. 1.— (CP). — Prices were generally firmer in light trading here today. Industrials edged ahead slowly on fractional gains. Golds were stronger and base metals woke up in mid-session for some good advances.

Refining oils sparkled in a very quiet industrial list as Imperial Oil and International Petroleum traded actively for fractional advances. The list opened at a slow crawl and began to pep up towards noon. Gains were scattered throughout a wide group of selected issues. Utilities were head and a few banks firmed while liquors weakened. Federal grain showed good gains in the agricultural list.

Golds showed little action as only a handful of juniors changed prices. Chesterville, East Malartic, United Keno Hill and Pamour were better and Louvicourt, Sullivan and Dickenson weakened.

Base metals were stronger in quiet action. International Nickel rose ¼ and Waite Amulet, Penn Oreille, Gulf Lead and Labrador were ahead 1 to 10 cents. Noranda eased ⅛ and Sherritt, Eureka and New Calumet weakened

Power Blackouts Inevitable-Hydro

TORONTO, Oct. 1 (CP)—Compulsory electric power blackouts for southern Ontario municipalities are practically inevitable.

Ontario Hydro Commission chairman Robert Saunders made this gloomy statement Thursday. He said cool and cloudy weather this week has sent power consumption skyrocketing.

The dull weather Thursday increased power consumption by 40,000-50,000 kilowatt hours and practically wiped out any possibility of municipalities staying within the quotas set by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Southern Ontario centres had been warned that if they continued to exceed their quotas their power would be shut off at hourly intervals from dawn to dusk.

Free Gold Market

9. Aid for mineral and oil development, including a free market for gold, the Canadian price of which now is fixed at $35 an ounce.

10. Dominion contribution to the completion of a trans-Canada highway.

11. A long-range program of selected immigration aimed at greatest development of national resources.

12. Creation of a Canadian national flag. No mention was made of a National Anthem.

13. A penal reform program.

14. Revision of radio regulations to include appointment of the regulatory body by parliament, rather than the government; opportunity for establishment of private trans-Canada networks, and abolition of the $2.50 licence fee on receivers.

Investigate Freight Rates

15. Support for an investigation into railway freight rates, particularly on rate "discrimination" as between different areas of the country. This proposed plank said the various geographic divisions should "share the benefits of and assume the responsibilities that were imposed as war measures.

In addition, the resolution said the party believes that in computting the tax liability of farmers and others, "allowance should be made in respect of members of the family who contribute to the revenue."

This would mean that in such cases the taxable income might be divided among more than one person, thus reducing the tax collected.

Of the current heavy federal surpluses, the resolution declared:

"We condemn the accumulation and manipulation of excessive governmental surpluses by the present administration for purely political purposes in place of giving much-needed relief to our citizens from excessive taxation."

In foreign policy, the proposed resolution would favor:

Strong support of a "western defensive union"; strengthening of the British Commonwealth and closer relations with the U.S., without sacrificing sovereignty in either case; closer relations with France and active support of the United Nations.

Towards Russia, Canada should take an attitude of "friendly firmness" and should resist any policy of "appeasement in the face of aggression."

It called for immediate creation of an "adequate" air defence force, an effective airborne force, an air training program comparable to the Canadian officers' training corps and stimulation of pilot training through federal support of flying clubs and air cadets.

Emergency civil aid and defence plans would be set up for urban centres, and the government would establish an emergency plan for the conversion of industry from peace to war.

For the farmer, the party would offer a broad-guage program that covered most agricultural issues except that of margarine.

Some of the proposed farm points besides floor prices:

1. A wheat board which would be empowered to handle coarse grains on a voluntary basis—it does not deal with these products now—and which would let producers market all grains in any way they wanted. That would mean re-opening of wheat trading on the winipeg grain exchange, closed to this form of transaction for several years.

2. An agricultural products marketing act, to provide "orderly" marketing.

3. Removal of embargoes on farm products.

4. Establishment of a board of livestock commissioners similar to the wheat board.

A major omission from the proposed policy was any reference to a Canadian bill of rights, a top project of John Diefenbaker, Commons member for Lake Centre, Sask., and one of the leadership candidates.

The proposed policy said economic control involves political control. From that, there was "no stopping place short of the totalitarian state."

"Similarly," the proposed policy added, "we are opposed to the centralizing and bureaucratic system of governmental administration from which the present government is unable and unwilling to extricate itself."

Should Be Outlawed

On the issue of Communism, the resolutions committee plank would have the party declare that 'Communist activities in Canada should be outlawed."

It would pledge a Progressive Conservative government to 'such new legislation as may be necessary to expose and eradicate the treasonable activities of those whose objective is to overthrow our government by force and establish a Godless dictatorship controlled from abroad."

Pending an official explanation of the resolution, this did not appear to mean legislative outlawing of the Communist party itself.

Another point in the Communism resolution is that investigation of Communist suspects in Canada be intensified and their activities exposed to the public.

This might mean a parliamentary inquiry such as those that have been conducted in the United States. Up to now, the results of government investigations in this line—except for the wartime spy probe — have been largely kept secret.

On Dominion-Provincial relations, the proposed resolution criticized Federal "encroachment" on the provinces and demanded an immediate new conference to obtain agreements that would:

Respect Rights

1. Respect provincial rights.
2. Eliminate duplicate taxation.
3. Give the provinces "recognized and assured" tax sources plus Federal grants based on fiscal need for such things as education, health and welfare.
4. Attain a 'more equitable' distribution of the tax burden between the Dominion, provinces and municipalities.

The proposed tax plank was aimed at relief for the individual and stimulation of enterprise and production.

For the individual, there were the increased exemptions in taxable income, plus lowering of the general rate of income tax and increased exemption for dependent children by $200 a child.

For business, there would be no tax on profits re-invested in small businesses where the owner is actively engaged in the enterprise.

Also, there would be a graduated reduction in the tax rate on profits of other small businesses that are left in the business for development purposes.

Abolish Tax

Another tax proposal was that "nuisance taxes" should be abolished and that there should be substantial reduction of general sales and excise taxes on necessities.

morning by Magistrate A. E. Gee was Bruce McAllister, brother of the dead man.

Brother Called

He told of being summoned to his brother's home that night and finding John stretched on the bed with a bullet-wound in his head. The witness added that he had noticed the absence of a .22 pistol in the kitchen. He said he had seen a pistol hanging in a home-made holster there only a short time before the shooting. It was gone at the time he arrived.

Other witnesses were a photographer and an architect who had made pictures and drawings of the fatality.

The hearing is continuing this afternoon.

Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan of Lindsay is conducting the crown's case. H. E. Richardson, Lindsay barrister, is appearing for the accused.

The courtroom was packed for the hearing of the case which has aroused wide-spread interest and sympathy for the accused.

Wearing a Scotch plaid skirt, her long red hair in braids, Mrs. McAllister listened as Miss McCallum testified. Her mother was not in court as Mrs. McAllister was led in by a police matron carrying an umbrella to shield her from photographers.

Collect Money

GREENOCK, Scotland, Oct. 1—(CP)—Money was still arriving today for a fund which enabled the mother of Mrs. Jean McAllister, charged with the murder of her husband near Lindsay to go to Canada to be with her daughter.

More than £150 ($600) was raised in a fortnight after news was received that Mrs. McAllister, a war bride from Greenock, had been charged with murder. Women and childen made door-to-door canvasses. A children's concert raised £5 and anonymous contributions included one of £10. It is expected the fund will total £250.

The mother, Mrs. Emily McInerney, 47, arrived in Canada several days ago. She then had only $6, but residents of Lindsay have been caring for her since her arrival.

Salvation Army officers in Toronto today had agreed to engage "one of the best lawyers in Canada" to work with Lindsay counsel in defending the war bride.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Funeral of the late Miss B. Phelan will be held on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. at St. Peter's Church to St. Mary's cemetery, Young's Point. At present she is resting at the Anglesey Funeral Home, Simcoe street.

City Cheered Airlift To Continue

West Promise To Keep Berlin Supplied Through This Winter

BERLIN, Oct. 1 — (AP). — Berliners took heart today in a western allied promise they will have adequate stocks of airborne food and coal this winter.

Col. Frank L. Howley, United States commandant in Berlin, said the British-American air lift is defeating the Soviet blockade of the capital and food and fuel surpluses are being increased daily for the 2,300,000 residents of western Berlin.

Howley conceded "I can see a cold winter ahead for Berlin," when he spoke at a press conference Thursday on the 100th day of the blockade.

He added, however, that "the air lift has been more than meeting Berlin's minimum requirements."

He explained that when Britain and the United States began shuttling food and fuel into Berlin from the western zones June 26 there was food on hand for 34 days. Now there is food for 39 days. There now is a 48-day supply of flour, most essential food item, on hand as compared to 25 days at the start.

Coal Being Flown

And the planes have even gained some ground on the coal supply.

An average of 2,300 tons of coal is being flown into Berlin every day, Howley said, while the planned consumption is only about 2,100 tons.

This, admittedly, will not keep Berlin's industries working at full capacity nor even maintain really comfortable warmth in its homes.

Retail Selling Outlined By R. Chisholm

Retail selling was discussed by Robert Chisholm, vice-president and general sales manager of Gordon Mackay and Company, Toronto, speaking at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Business Men's Association held on Thursday evening at the Empress Hotel.

"This is the era of razzle dazzle" he said, "in distribution and merchandising. Razzle dazzle has the illusion of being successful, but in this gilt edged day of nonsense we are getting back to the fundamentals of good marketing, of good retailing."

"There is nothing in the technique of business," he continued, "which is in any way clever. It is a perfectly ordinary show. I have never seen any business retailer who did the ordinary thing and didn't do well."

Mr. Chisholm went on to give some observations on the retail business today. "Distribution policies," he said, "are becoming unequivocal and clear. There is no excuse for the confusion in distribution that there has been."

Secondly, he said, that business needs more theory, not less. "The statement, 'I am a practical man, it may be all right in theory but it won't work,' is the most absurd nonsense."

He said that the large store will probably continue to dominate the scene. "They have done a wonderful job. They have lead the way in merchandising, and most of the things they have done can be done by any ordinary retail merchant."

Mr. Chisholm pointed out that any buying advantage of the department and chain stores is offset by an increased overhead.

He laid particular emphasis on the question of stock control and said that 95 per cent of small retail stores carry too much stock. Retail stocks should be kept low by means of stock control, which is simple and can be done very easily. He warned that retail failures are increasing and are having a bad effect on the retail market.

The small store, he said, had a great advantage as regards staff education. One sales clerk properly trained would show a great increase in business.

Lastly, he said that the retail stores were doing a very fine public relations job.

Mr. Chisholm was introduced by Charles Saunders and thanked by J. G. Lewis. E. C. Braund presided.

Power Cut-Off Still Too Small

COBOURG, Oct. 1. (ENS) — Wednesday morning's power cut-off of one hour and a half, saved about 900 kwh., it was revealed Thursday night by William Woods, Utilities manager.

The daily shut-offs, with the exception of Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday, will be for an hour and a half both morning and afternoon. On the basis of Wednesday, only 1,900 kwh. are being saved. The town was about 4,000 over the quota on Wednesday in spite of the shut-off and the Utilities manager warned domestic consumers will have to do much better. Survey of the town at night shows far too many lights burning in many houses.

Hold Tag Day For Blind In 3 Villages

Annual tag days to raise funds for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind are being held at Havelock, Norwood and Keene this Saturday. The money raised in this way will be used to provide many services for the blind people in this district. Outstanding among the services which the Institute has developed during the past 30 years are home teaching, employment and library service.

When a person first loses his sight he must learn to do the things which were formerly taken for granted. He must learn to read, to write his own letters and to move about by himself. To teach him to do these and other things a CNIB home teacher will call at his home to give him instruction in reading braille, in typing and since she is blind herself will show him by example that he need not be dependent on others for his every move.

To develop his sense of touch and the use of his hands the blind person may be given instruction in handicrafts. If the person in question is otherwise physically capable gainful employment can be secured for him through the CNIB. Today over 1,500 blind persons in Ontario are gainfully employed working at varied types of jobs.

An ever increasing number of blind people are taking advantage of the CNIB's lending library. Through the library books are available in braille and in moon-type, the latter being another form of embossed printing. There are blind people who for some reason are unable to learn either braille or moon-type. They still, however, wish to read. To these people the CNIB provides a service known as Talking Book Service. Talking books are books which have been recorded, the records being played on a specially designed phonograph.

Home teaching, employment and library service are only three of the many services provided to blind persons through the CNIB. To carry out the CNIB's program your financial support is vital.

Singer Visits His Old School

COBOURG, Oct. 1. (ENS)—It was a big day for the pupils and staff of the public school Thursday, and just as big a day for singing star, Tommy Hender of Toronto. Mr. Hender, now making a career in radio and on the concert stage, lived in Cobourg when he was a youngster, where he attended public school.

He was booked for a concert in his home town Thursday night and in the afternoon he visited the public school where he sang a few numbers for the children and teachers. The children were assembled in the hall on the main floor and were an enthusiastic audience.

Charles Gummow, retired and his former principal, was absent in Toronto. However, some of his former teachers are still on the staff, including Miss Rosa Tinney who has taught there since 1921.

As Tommy left, Miss Tinney expressed her pride in his ability as a singer. "I always knew you would be a great singer, Tommy. You were so full of music when you used to go to school here. I'm proud of you," she declared.

"That is about the nicest thing that has ever been said to me," Mr. Hender confided to his accompanist as they left.

'Negligible' Allied Aid To Russia

Who won the war? The Russians say they did, of course. Now Deputy Premier Nikolai A. Voznesensky, a member of the Politburo which is the governing body of the Soviet Union, gives the economic proof in a book published in English translation on September 23rd by the Public Affairs Press, Washington. Allied economic aid was "negligible"; American lend-lease is referred to only as "foreign trade deliveries," which he asserts comprised only four per cent. of the domestic production. Here are two quotations from the book:

"Imported supplies also played some role in the balance of the national economy of the U.S.S.R. provides additional stocks to the economy, allowing the Soviet state to increase the rates of production"....

"The striking power of the Soviet Army was displayed in all of its might in the clashing battle for Berlin in April, 1945. In this final battle were participating on the side of the Soviet army 41,000 artillery pieces and mortars, 8,400 aircraft, supplementing from the air the blows of the artillery, and over 6,300 modern attack tanks.

"All of these weapons of victory were created with the hands of the Soviet people, with its brains and its labour. The defeat of Hitlerite Germany by the Soviet Army was carried out by domestically produced Soviet weapons and domestically manufactured war equipment".

* * *

Deputy Premier Voznesensky's figures may not lie but they do not tell the truth. The American Economic Review has published an analysis of his statistics and accuses the writer of understating and overstating by careful selection and of using figures that are "fully meaningless". American lend-lease to Russia totalled $11,260,000,000. American exports to Russia included 14,700 planes, 7,000 tanks, 52,000 jeeps, 375,000 trucks, 415,000 field telephones, enough telephone wire to go fifty times around the globe, hundreds of thousands of tons of armour plate, T.N.T., chemicals and other raw materials, entire factories in cargo lots, and $500,000,000 of machine tools. Britain, hard pressed as she was, sent $1,272,000,000 in goods. Canadian guns, trucks, food and clothing were shipped in vast quantities—for instance, our exports to Russia in 1944 totalled $103,264,000. And what of the British, American and Canadian ships and men delivering the goods and patrolling the dangerous and costly route to Murmansk, the chief Russian receiving port?

* * *

This is not "negligible" aid. And does the author who writes so glowingly of the Soviet battle for Berlin not know that the armies of the western allies would have got to Berlin ahead of the Soviet army, except that a political agreement accorded the honour to the Russians? Perhaps the Deputy Premier felt that Russian citizens who lived for four years on American and Canadian food, were clothed in British and American garments and who rode to war on western allied wheels and tracks, need some reassurance that Russia can produce the goods.

Rural Electrification Continues—Regardless

In the light of his statements about the present shortage of hydro-electric power and the necessity for saving it, a speech which the Hydro chairman, Robert Saunders, made in Ottawa recently, is strange reading. Dealing with complaints about the slowness with which rural electrification was proceeding, Mr. Saunders is quoted by the Ottawa Journal as saying: "From early this Spring until Friday last we have built 3,000 miles of new lines to serve rural Ontario, and this Summer we have taken on 22,300 new consumers, the great majority of them farmers. If people of areas not now served by Hydro, get in their applications we'll deal with them as speedily as possible".

This is puzzling news for those of us who are being threatened with cut-offs by Mr. Saunders. What business has Hydro to take on new consumers when it cannot supply its present consumers? And what disappointments are in store for those who have at last received hydro installations, but who will not be able to have the power they want?

It looks as though Hydro believed in not letting its right hand know what its left hand is doing. But as Hydro stands in a very bright light of publicity it is easy enough for the people of Ontario to study its contortions, and to form the conclusion that Hydro is not playing straight with its subscribers — who are also, incidentally, its owners. There is something unpleasantly disingenuous about a corporation which, knowing that a power shortage is imminent, takes on 22,300 new consumers.

Should The Lord's Day Act Be Changed?

The Attorney-General of Ontario has ordered forty-five prosecutions on charges of violating the Lord's Day Act. In taking this action Mr. Blackwell is simply doing his duty; so long as the Lord's Day Act remains on the statute books it must be enforced, and to overlook breaches of it is to make a mockery of the law. But how long will it be before this Act is altered? The Lord's Day Act is a federal act, the enforcement of which is in the hands of the provinces. We feel that it is time that the Act was reconsidered.

Whenever reconsideration of the Lord's Day Act is advocated there are people who hold up their hands in horror at the prospect of what they call "a wide-open Sunday". We do not think that there are many people who want a wide-open Sunday in Canada, but we are quite sure that there are many people who would like to have a little innocent enjoyment on Sunday. Frankly, we cannot see anything grossly pagan or insulting to organized religion in Sunday games, or in Sunday rides on a merry-go-round. A majority of people, we think, will always prefer to stay at home on Sundays and amuse themselves quietly. We do not see why they should dictate to a minority in this matter.

It must be remembered that the great upholders of the quiet Sunday are middle-aged or elderly people who have homes and gardens and the comforts and amusements that they like. But there are hundreds of thousands of young people who have only a boarding-house room to sit in, and who are condemned by our present laws to roaming the streets drearily, perhaps in gangs, Sunday for such people is the most miserable day of the week.

We feel that a less puritanical attitude toward Sunday observance is overdue in Canada. People who are having noisy fun in large crowds hurt no one, and those who want a quiet Sunday are always free to do as they please. The Lord's Day Act once prevented the exploitation of labour; other laws now bear that burden, and the Lord's Day Act is obsolete in its present form.

Man As A Beast Of Prey

We have been impressed by the sportsmanship and tenderness toward the game which have been shown by hunters at the beginning of the duck season. Seasoned hunters express their disgust at the behaviour of novices who shoot at single birds; shotguns, we read, must be plugged so that fewer birds will be killed, and so that the birds may have a sporting chance.

This shows a fine spirit and we admire it. But we have often wondered why mankind, which makes such elaborate rules to govern the killing of animals and birds, is so careless about killing its own members, and tends to break down, rather than to preserve and extend, the rules which govern civilized warfare. There are no plugged guns in war, and nobody protests on behalf of unsportsmanlike killing of women, children and combatants who have no sporting chance to preserve themselves. That is to say, nobody protests effectively.

William James, in one of his admirable essays, wrote: "Man, biologically considered, is the most formidable of all beasts of prey, and, indeed, the only one that preys systematically on its own species". And can anyone deny this? We live in an age which has seen the greatest wars in history, and they have likewise been the wars in which the least chivalry, the least consideration for the weak, the least common decency and delicacy of feeling, have been shown.

Yet man is not entirely bad. He shows great consideration for the animals he kills, and he values sportsmanship so long as it is shown in some field other than the field of war. What is wrong with man? Why can he not treat his fellow-man at least as well as he treats a duck?

A medical columnist says that women who diet too strictly are likely to become melancholy. We have known cases in which they reduced themselves to tears.

Questions are solicited for this column, particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

MRS. Charlotte Jane Nicholls gets all the Peterborough glory. What about the husband who made the dough?

ANSWER: Robert Nicholls, husband of Charlotte Jane, has no Robert Street as his wife has Charlotte Street, but Nicholls Hospital was, by direction of Mrs. Nicholls, named in memory of the husband. The City Fathers of the time allowed the public to assume that it was named for Mrs. Nicholls, for Robert Nicholls was not only an American but he was not "public spirited". He attended to the business of making money.

The Examiner of 1887, writing about the life and death of Robert Nicholls says "If he contributed a dollar to charitable purposes, it was known only to himself". He was born the third of eight children in 1812 in Brooklyn. His father, a cooper by trade, emigrated from Belfast to the United States in 1790. Robert Nicholls came to Scott's Plains (now Peterborough) at the age of twenty, engaged in a variety of activities centred on a general store at the corner of Simcoe and Water Streets in which "Little Willie Hall" became a partner. There is some indication that he over-expanded financially at about the time he went back to New York for a year, returning with Charlotte Jane Jackson as his bride. Thereafter business thrived.

The firm of Nicholls and Hall owned 15,000 acres in Peterborough and Victoria counties. Nicholls had a flour mill, a distillery, and was first manager of the Bank of Montreal's Peterborough branch. His property became very valuable. At the time of his death it took $50,000 a year to keep it in repair. He built the first brick house in Peterborough (on Chambers street). At one time there were over 2,500 open accounts on the books of Nicholls and Hall.

Robert Nicholls had a special and remarkable memory; he could recite 1,500 customer's names as fast as he could draw breath. He voted only three times in the fifty years of his residence in Peterborough. He died on the 36th anniversary of his marriage, November 7, 1883, predeceased by two children who died in infancy and survived by his widow who inherited his entire Canadian estate.

QUESTION: My next door neighbour has an apple tree. Many of the branches overhang my property. Can I legally pick the apples from those branches?

ANSWER: You have the right to cut off branches which overhang your property and of course the apples that are clinging to those branches. But according to law you have no right to keep either the branches you cut or the fruit you pluck. Both remain the property of the owner of the tree (Lawyers: V. Mills vs. Brooker (1919) 1 K.B.) The best thing to do is to remain on friendly terms with your neighbour and proffer him an occasional draught of apple-jack. The other recourse is stealth at the dead of night. You can always blame any swiping of apples on somebody else's children.

AT the last meeting of the Marmora Chamber of Commerce a member appealed for volunteers to help remove "nubbins" from the Fair Grounds. Some of the members did not know that "nubbins" means in this district sawn off pieces of wood otherwise called butt ends. I consulted two dictionaries which defined "nubbin" as a United States colloquial term meaning a small imperfect ear of maize. Why does it mean that in the U.S. and something else here?

ANSWER: I am interested in learning that "nubbin" can mean a butt end. "Nubbin" is a good descriptive word though its official meanings are far more limited than regional usage gives it. There is, for instance, the phrase, "Wear one' fingers to nubbins". Both English and American dictionaries define nubbin as an American term for a dwarfed or imperfect ear of maize (corn). Its root is "nub", "knob" or "knub". In 1640 in England there was reference to "silk nubs or husks of silk", a nub in that sense being the innermost wrapping of the chrysalis in a silk cocoon. Probably from this the southern Americans transferred and transformed the word to cobs of corn with their silk-like covering. I cannot discover how "nubbin" has come to mean a butt end, except that "nub" can mean a protuberance or lump, such as a stick of wood would make if partially buried. A good word; keep on using it.

QUESTION: Why did barber shops have "barber poles" and why were they striped?

ANSWER: Barbers used to advertise their craft, or crafts, for they had many. They were both cutters of hair, shavers of beards, and medical men. By an act of Parliament in the reign of Henry VIII their activities were somewhat restricted, for though they were united with surgeons by this Act, the barbers had to confine their medical practice to minor operations like blood-letting and drawing teeth. On the other hand, the surgeons were prohibited from "barbery or shaving". The barber's sign (all trades had signs in those days before people had reading forced upon them) consisted of a striped pole from which was suspended a basin. These were symbols. The white stripe around the red pole indicated the bandage for binding the arm after the blood-letting operation. The basin was the vessel to receive the blood. Barbering has now fallen on low days. A barber is not allowed even to treat a pimple on a patron's neck. And their own unions forbid them to advertise by modern methods in newspapers or magazines. Even the barber's pole has diminished in size, changed its shape, and all but disappeared from our streets.

FOR THE RECORD: Christmas Day falls this year on a Saturday. So, for the usual reason, does New Year's Day. It will soon be time for the clergymen of the city to decide when they are going to have their Christmas Sunday services. Six days before, in the midst of shopping orgies, or the day after when the parishioners are bored if not biffed and whiffed?

GHOST STORY

Letters To The Editor

THE CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

Sir: All persons are interested in the selection of a leader for the Conservative party on Saturday next.

My recollection is that the Leader of the Opposition receives the same salary as a Cabinet Minister by statute so he is an officer of Parliament. He is given an office and his secretary and office staff are paid by vote of public funds for the purpose of making him independent of any influence of political character or by moneyed interest.

The Honourable John Bracken has a long record of public service and his pronouncements in Parliament have been carefully considered and accepted with respect.

I think it can be said that all Canadians are looking with interest to the selection in the democratic way of a leader who will be able to serve his country as well as Mr. Bracken has, or that very eminent debater and parliamentarian, the Right Honourable Arthur Meighen. All the candidates named have had parliamentary experience and have many qualities of leadership.

In talking to my friends and neighbours about this convention, I find there is a splendid spirit of good will and good wishes among all.

Yours faithfully,
G. N. GORDON.

FEARS COMMUNIST SLAVERY

Sir: Parliamentary Government was established in Canada in 1791 by the Constitution Act passed by the British Parliament. Before that, a government was carried on here by town meetings held in different localities without parliamentary authority in a purely democratic way. All the people came together, usually in the spring and passed such provisions and regulations as were thought necessary. This appears to be the origin of "Party Conventions".

In 1793 one of the early Acts of this new system of parliamentary government was to abolish slavery; about sixty years before it was abolished in the United States.

Slavery, or Communism, is again raising its ugly form in this country. It might be well for all Party Conventions to drive Communism out of this country or bury it so deep that it will never rise again.

1. Prohibit Communists from coming into or being in Canada or owning real or personal estate or any interest therein in Canada.

2. Disqualify Communists from voting at any public election or holding any public office.

Formerly, some one big question interested the people such as:

1. Confederation.
2. Free Trade.
3. Protection.
4. Commercial Union.
5. Reciprocity.
6. Hydro Electric.
7. Survey of lots in the north-west for settlers and provinces.

More recently the tendency has been towards a large number of glittering generalities and plausible platitudes, not easily remembered or understood.

The next five years may determine whether Canadians are to become Russian slaves.

W. C. MIKEL,
Police Magistrate.

Overhaul Of Lord's Day Act

The intent of the Lord's Day Act is laudable. It seeks to prevent gross commercialization of the Sabbath and to obviate the necessity of work on that day, except where necessity demands it. But it was drafted in a day when there were few forms of recreation for the mass of the people, and few services available to the public. It still has a useful purpose to serve. But it should, most certainly, be revised in the light of present conditions.—Calgary Herald.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And a certain woman, which had an issue of blood twelve years, and had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse, when she had heard of Jesus, came in the press behind, and touched his garment. For she said, If I may touch but his clothes, I shall be whole. And straightway the fountain of her blood was dried up; and she felt in her body that she was healed of that plague.

And Jesus, immediately knowing in himself that virtue had gone out of him, turned him about in the press, and said, Who touched my clothes? And his disciples said unto him, Thou seest the multitude thronging thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me? And he looked round about to see her that had done this thing.

But the woman fearing and trembling, knowing what was done in her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth. And he said unto her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace, and be whole of thy plague. (Mark 5: 25-34.)

Home-Made Soap

Nearly every kitchen in Eire has become a miniature soap factory because of the recent drastic reduction in the soap ration which followed the strike of soap-workers in Dublin. The smells emanating from kitchens have driven some husbands to despair, but the women are proud of their efforts.

To get enough soap for scrubbing and cleaning they save scraps of dripping, bacon rinds and animal fats of any kind. When they have about two lb. of this messy collection they add three ounces of caustic soda and a few drops of olive or almond oil. Then the boiling begins and the husbands go out to their gardens for a smoke.

No man knows what happens after the boling, but it is safe to assume that when the nauseating mess looks horrible it is poured into containers and the women gloat over their success. They claim that it is good enough for rough cleaning work.

But some fastidious women have found that if they use very fine fats and treat the ugly substance gently and add some drops of perfume they can produce a passable toilet soap.

If the women stopped there, perhaps the husbands would become accustomed to the smell of soap-making and would stop complaining. But now housewives have discovered that shaving soap produces a wonderful lather and possesses a pleasing perfume.

Many Dublin chemists have been compelled to put shaving sticks under the counter, and frantic women now trek from store to store as though they were searching for bacon.

For women who are anxious to preserve their beauty during this crisis there is a useful tip to be picked up in country districts of Northern Ireland. All that is necessary is a handful of oatmeal wrapped up in a muslin bag. Soaked in water it becomes spongy and is as good as any toilet soap.—Pictorial Times (Dublin).

Cleveland Given 2-To-1 To Win World Series

CLEVELAND, Oct. 1.—(AP).—Although the American League race can't possibly be decided before Saturday, the betting gentry have established Cleveland Indians as a 2-1 world-series favorite over Boston Braves, who have clinched the National League pennant.

"Too much pitching and too much punch," is the way they size up the Indians against the National League champions.

"Bob Feller will be at least a 7-5 favorite no matter whom he pitches against," one local bookmaker pointed out. "The way he's pitching now he ain't never going to lose."

While his grammar was a bit off, and his words came tumbling out of the side of his mouth, the sure-thing gent, nevertheless, made himself clear.

Heath Off Will Show

"With the big guy Heath (Outfielder Jeff Heath) out of there with a broken ankle, the Braves will be minus their left-handed power hitter and run producer. That leaves Bob Elliott, a right-handed batter, as Boston's lone long-distance hitter. I hate to tell you what such right-handers as Feller and Bob Lemon will do to him."

Even with Heath, Fort William native who broke his left ankle in a game against Brooklyn Wednesday, the Braves would have rated as underdogs in the series.

"The Indians will win in five," the self-appointed seer predicted

Joltin' Johnny Greco of Montreal, Canadian welterweight champion, Thursday night scored a technical knockout over fellow townsman Gus (Pell) Mell in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round non-title, overweight match that drew 9,000 fans to the Montreal Forum. Greco weighed 150, Mell 149½.

The end came at 1.54 of the fifth as Mell went down for the third time in the round and the referee called a halt after the count had reached three. A bone-crushing right under the heart was the finisher, but by that time Mell was nearly out on his feet and unable to cope with Greco's bull-like rushes.

Gus hit the deck first just after the fifth round started from a stinging right uppercut, took the count of eight, and got up—only to run into a series of Greco left jabs that snapped his head back. He sank back to the canvas for another eight count. From then on it was strictly no contest.

Will Harridge, American baseball league president, said Thursday in Chicago that the pennant battle must be settled by next Sunday, regardless of whether any contender has a postponed game left unplayed. Harridge said the league constitution provides that any postponements which cannot be played before the regular season ends must be written off.

A prominent London, Eng., doctor said Thursday in London that some continental European athletes during the summer Olympic games were stimulated by drugs—much like race horses. Dr. Christopher Woodward, director of the athletics' clinic at London's Middlesex hospital, exonerated all British and North American athletes. When asked what specific events he referred to, the doctor said to "sports in general and to cycling in particular."

London, Ont., RCASC Falcons defeated Wallaceburg Reds 11-0 in the opening game of the senior "B" ORFU league at Wallaceburg Thursday night. Falcons started the ball rolling in the opening quarter scoring five single points.

Columbus Red Birds squared their American Association post-season series by beating St. Paul 3-2 Thursday before a crowd of 6,352 at Columbus. The victory gave each team two wins in the best-of-seven series.

The Birds bunched two doubles, two walks, a force out and an error by the usually-reliable St. Paul catcher, Ferrell Anderson, to score their three runs in the sixth inning.

Judge George M. Morrison today dismissed with costs action taken by Hugh MacNeil, former coach of North Sydney Victorias hockey team, for "alleged wrongful dismissal."

MacNeil sought $4,800 in salary and $2,000 special damages. The claim was made against Ed Swyers president of Victorias.

Two Montreal Royals veterans, catcher Cliff Dapper and utility infielder Oscar Grimes, left Montreal Thursday night for Columbus and will scout the remaining games of the St. Paul-Columbus American Association final playoffs.

The Royals, International league pennant winners and Governors' cup champions, will meet the winner of the St. Paul-Columbus' series now tied 2-2, in the Little World series.

Champion Ben Hogan, rising star Fred Haas, Jr., and dark-horse Gene Webb gave par a five-stroke beating at Portland, Ore., Thursday to share a first round tie in the 72-hole Portland open golf tournament. They posted 67s against the par 35-37—72 requirements of the Portland Golf Club course.

Mrs. T. J. Agar of Toronto York Downs Thursday successfully defended her Canadian women's senior golf championship at Toronto, adding a 93 to her first round score for a total of 187. She won the title at the Seigniory Club, Que., last year. Thursday she finished four strokes in front of the runner-up, Mrs. B. S. MacFarlane, also of York Downs.

Bill Veeck, president of Cleveland Indians, Thursday denied a report that he would sell out to Hank Greenberg, former home run king and currently vice-president and second largest stockholder of the Tribe. The report, which brought to a head rumors which originated back in April, also stated that Veeck would eventually purchase Chicago White Sox.

Arrangements are complete for the final intermediate OBA "A" championship series between Chatham Hadleys and Napanee intermediates, it was announced Thursday at Chatham. First game will be played in Chatham next Thursday with the second contest in the best-of-three series scheduled for Napanee Oct. 9. A third game, if necessary, will be played in Chatham Oct. 11.

Rudagar, owned by K. D. Owen, Houston, Tex., upset favored Lorraine in the second heat of the Reynolds Stake at the Lexington, Ky., Grand Circuit Thursday to win the $3,000 purse. Winning time was 2:02 2-5.

Hockey Happenings Review

By The Canadian Press

Only two more weeks of practice clipping were left today before the National Hockey League's opening night, Oct. 13. But already the world champion Maple Leafs, counting bruises, found their bashing defencemen had knocked out three players obtained from New York.

Rugged Cal Gardner, manager Conny Smythe's leading candidate for the centre position vacated by Syl Apps when he retired, was the worst casualty — but it took some time for him to realize it.

The 27-year-old native of Transcona, Wash., fired two goals and two assists in a Leafs' practice session at St. Catharines, Thursday and then discovered he had a fractured cheek bone and a broken nose.

He is expected to be lost to the Leafs for at least two weeks.

The other two ex-Rangers sidelined by injuries are Bill Juzda, defenceman, with a bone bruise of the knee, and Rene Trudell, with torn knee ligments.

A former pro bobbed up in the news at Montreal and Regina, where Dave (Sweeney) Schriner was reported working out with Regina Capitals of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League. Officials there said Schriner had not been selected for the teams. At Montreal president Clarence Campbell of the N.H.L. said no request for reinstatement as amateurs had been received for Schriner or Murray Armstrong, who previous reports had linked with Capitals. "Schriner retired from the Leafs in 1946 and Murray, former Americans and Detroit centre, with Dallas Texans. Campbell said he thought a pro should try to return to pro company if finances forced him out of retirement.

At Lake Placid, N.Y., Manager Frank Boucher of the Rangers said all but a few team members have been signed to 1948-49 contracts. He announced six players had been transferred to Tacoma and four to St. Paul teams. The six headed for the west coast are Doug Stevenson, Bill Giokas, Frank Cote, Fern Perrault, Hub Anslow and Angus McKay. The four for St. Paul are Bill Jukes, Angus Cameron, Ian Mackintosh and Harry Bell.

Dave O'Meara, 18-year-old gialie seeking a berth with Windsor Spitfires of the Junior A Ontario Hockey Association, a Detroit Red Wing affiliate, was banged over the eye by a stick yesterday at Detroit. He's the son of Montreal sport scribe Baz O'Meara. Players from the Wings' western training camp at Brandon were delayed through train connections but are expected at Detroit today.

An exhibition game at North Bay Saturday night between Chicago Black Hawks and their farm team Kansas City Pla-Mors of the United States Hockey League may decide whether Emile (The Cat) Francis will retain his goal-tending job with the Hawks. A battle for the job has developed between Francis and Al Rollins, last year with the Allan Cup-winning Edmonton Flyers.

Ab Box Returns To Argo Lineup As Copeland May Be Off Season

By The Canadian Press

Football can take its place on the sports calendar today without fear of further jibes about rushing the season because everything now is officially in full swing — the feuding has started and the first veteran has been flushed from retirement.

To lend the stamp of authority, none other than the Dominion champion Argonauts are smack in the middle of both these traditional earmarks of mid-season madness.

The feud is with Montreal Alouettes, although Argo officials decline to dignify it with that term. Hustling Lew Hayman laid the basis for a Hatfield-McCoy renewal with some of the things he is quoted as saying in Montreal about his old club trying to squeeze him out of football.

Ab Box Returns

Argo officials expressed more concern about their own news than Hayman's remarks, however. The champions picked one of the greatest figures in Canadian football's yesteryears to pluck from retirement.

Ab Box, rated among Canada's greatest punters, will line up with the champions, team manager Earl Selkirk announced last night.

The 37-year-old triple-threat backfield, in retirement since 1939, played on his first Canadian title team in 1930 with the old Toronto Balmy Beach. He switched over to Argos and did it again in 1933, kicking them to the Dominion crown by outpunting the great Bummer Stirling on a frozen Sarnia field although playing with a mask protecting a broken jaw.

Copeland May Lose Season

The Argos, pushed back into second place in the Big Four by two successive losses to Ottawa Rough Riders, were influenced by Royal Copeland's ankle injury to approach Box, Selkirk indicated. The blonde halfback will definitely be out for the next game —perhaps for the season.

Selkirk said that Box who returned to Beaches after playing with Argos in 1933, has worked himself into playing shape—a trim 170 pounds — but will not start against Alouettes at Montreal Saturday. He will make his first appearance a week later against Hamilton Wildcats at Toronto.

The Montreal game should be interesting enough, even without Box. Hayman made sure of that when he was quoted as saying in Montreal that certain Argo executives "have boasted that they'd break me" and that the Argos tried to squeeze him out by talking other Montreal interests into starting a rival team.

The Alouettes' part-owner and coach, who came from Syracuse University in the early 1930's to lead Argos to three Dominion titles, added a charge that Argonauts are trying to do him out of Sunday games in Montreal.

T. H. C. Alison, Argo president, said it was well known that Argos won't play Sunday football and that Hamilton Wildcats feel the same way, without benefit of any influencing by the Argos.

"No Interest"

Alison said Arogs had 'no interest" in Hayman. "He coached some of our teams and when he left, our interest in him ceased."

From the football standpoint, the Alouettes-Argonauts game is important to the playoff hopes of both teams. An Alouette victory would tie them with Argos for second place. In the other Big Four game Ottawa Rough Riders play the last-place Wildcats at Hamilton.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, the league-leading Hamilton Tigers play the last-place Rockets at Windsor Saturday and at Toronto the Beaches Indians will be trying to hold second-place from Sarnia when they meet the Imperials.

In the Western Canada Union, the unbeaten Calgary Stampeders make a two game road trip. They can increase their victory string to eight by defeating third-place Saskatchewan Roughiders ato Regina Friday night and the Blue Bombers at Winnipeg Monday night.

Don Hiney Real Power In Field To Blue Bombers

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1 (CP) — Quarterback Don Hiney rates as something of a Jekyll and Hyde.

Off the field, Hiney is quiet-spoken and unassuming. But there is quite a transformation when the low-slung Hiney digs his cleats into the football field. He's a fighter every inch of the way.

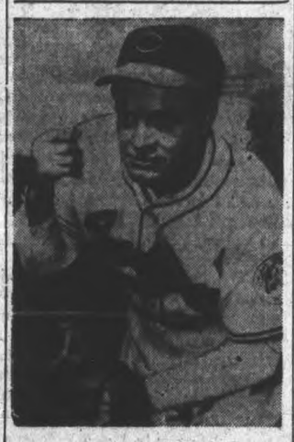
Many football followers feel the agile Winnipeg Blue Bombers' quarterback is the most underrated player in the Western Canada Football League.

The 27-year-old import from East Grand Forks, Minn., now playing his third year with Bombers, does more things right than the average player. But he lacks color that makes the headlines.

Last year, he really came into his own, especially in the western playoffs. However, when the 1947 all-star squad was named, Hiney was left off in favor of more-colorful Stan Stasica of Saskatchewan Roughriders.

This year, although he is a important factor in Bombers drive for their 11th straight western championship, Hiney's performances have been over-shadowed by game-winning passes by Calgary's quarterback, Keith Spaith, former professional with the Hawaiian Warriors.

Only 160 pounds, Hiney plunges through a front wall like a full back, scrapping for every inch. He's a fair passer, especially on pro-passes or forwards on the run, but he excels on placement kicks.



BOB HOPE is part owner of the Cleveland Indians and the current American League pennant fight is doing nothing to soothe his frazzled nerves. The Indians, two games ahead of the Yankees and the Red Sox, seem to have the whole thing sewn up.

Yanks and Sox Still In There, Tigers Real Threat To Indians

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Detroit's Tigers once again stand in the way of Cleveland's bid for its first American League championship since 1920.

The Indians, who lead the runner-up Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees by 1½ games, clash with the Tigers in the opener of a three-game series with Cleveland today.

A Cleveland victory will assure the Indians of at least a tie for the league crown. Two Cleveland triumphs or one victory coupled with one loss by New York and Boston will enable the Indians to clinch the pennant.

Must Win Them All

The only way the Yankees or Red Sox can beat the Indians out is to win their two remaining games while the Indians lose all of their three. The Yankees and Red Sox, idle today, clash in Boston tomorrow in the opener of a two-game series.

In order for the race to end in a three-way tie the Red Sox and Yankees will have to divide their two games while Cleveland drops all of its three.

Eight years ago the Tigers not only blocked a Cleveland flag drive but went on to grab the pennant themselves.

The Yankees beat Philadelphia Athletics, 9-7 and the Red Sox knocked off Washington Senators, 7-3 Thursday to keep their faint flag hopes alive. The Indians had the day off.

Raschi Pitches Good Game

Nifty relief pitching on the part of Vic Raschi saved the day for the Yankees. The Yankee right-hander entered the game in the ninth inning with Elmer Valo at bat with a 3-1 count, the bases loaded and one out.

Raschi threw a fourth ball to Valo to force in the Athletics seventh run but he then fanned slugger Sam Chapman and got Buddy Rosar to fly out to end the game.

Joe Coleman was pounded out in the second inning when the Yankees scored four runs after tallying two in the first.

The Red Sox, led by Dom DiMaggio and Johnny Pesky socked three Washington pitchers for 15 hits. Pesky and DiMaggio collected three safeties apiece and drove in five runs between them.

Parnell Wins 15th

Lefty Mel Parnell started for the Red Sox and gained his 15th victory and fifth of the season over the Nats. Parnell allowed two runs in the sixth on a walk and Ed Stewart's homer. The rookie bowed out in favor of Earl Johnson in the seventh after yielding Washington's final run on three singles.

The Tigers turned back St. Louis Browns, 7-2 in the other American League game. Young Ted Gray scattered seven hits in hanging up his sixth victory in eight decisions.

In the National League St. Louis Cardinals took both ends of a day-night doubleheader from Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-1 and 4-1 to tie Brooklyn Dodgers for second place. Stan Musial's 39th homer with two on and Ron Northey's 11th with none on in the first inning featured the Cards' day game victory.

Harry (the Cat) Brecheen posted his 20th victory against seven losses while stopping the Pirates on seven safeties in the night game.

Chicago Cubs tied Cincinnati Reds for seventh place as young Cliff Chambers shaded veteran Ken Raffensberger of the Reds, 1-0.

The Dodgers scheduled game with Boston was postponed because of rain. New York and Philadelphia were idle.

Bosox And Yanks In Hot Spot, Tribe Nemesis

BOSTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees today are in the same hot spot as a man in the electric chair, waiting for the warden to say the word.

Only a reprieve in the form of an unexpected collapse by Cleveland Indians would save either one. All the Tribe needs is one more victory to be sure of a tie for the American-league flag. Two victories in their final three-game set with Detroit would pull the switch.

Now Boston and New York, idle this afternoon, face the disagreeable task of dismembering one another for the edification of the Indians. Both probably will lose for they are tied for second, 1½ games back. Somebody is sure to be a goner unless Cleveland, winner of all 11 of its last 12, blows three straight.

In this final Fenway Park struggle, the Red Sox have an overwhelming "paper" edge. They have been able to tame the Yanks 12 out of 20 this year. More important they have beaten them seven of nine at Fenway. In fact, New York has won only one game in this park since April 30.

No wonder, Manager Joe McCarthy still refuses to give up. After a long, secret clubhouse meeting Wednesday night, during which the series or second-or third-place swag probably was divided, Marse Joe was still hoping."

Ostranders Hit 3814 Total In City League

Ostranders and Charlotte Credit Jewellers put on a real display of bowling in the men's city five pin loop Thursday night with the former team taking two games, high total pinnage with 3814 and high single game of 1366. The Hanes squad were close with 1348 for single game and 3602 for pinnage. Shockeys took McCannan Electric for six points with a very steady three games.

Two real upsets were registered the first when King George applied the whitewash brush to the top Fashion Craft squad; the second when Clappers took the strong Riley entry for two games.

Alley Cats blanked Spartons while two game victories were taken by Cavanaghs from Bond Clothes, Russelles from Empress Old Timers and De Laval from Sunocos.

High three total was taken by George Walton with 871 after a close battle with Jack Barnes, who rolled 870 and Tom Martin 861. ELEANOR MARY, employee of the Cleveland Indians' front office, is all smiles as she lugs a bale of world series tickets all ready for the mails. There is only one drawback about the happy picture. The Indians haven't quite won the American League pennant yet. The New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox are still on their heels though both teams are two games behing the leaders.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC PERDUE, Sports Editor

"You guys can't do any fooling with that club — you've got to fight every minute or they'll take this series!" That's what Coach Red Creighton told the Petes' lacrossers the other night at their practice and he wasn't kidding. If Huntsville should happen to pull out a win here tonight in Miller Bowl, the Petes will be backed right up against the wall. As the Hawks are mighty tough to take on their own small floor. The way they've improved, since adding young blood, it is no wonder they knocked Oshawa out of the semi-finals. And they're determined to do likewise to the locals. Bucko McDonald has his speedsters moving in checker-board fashion. But the Petes are also hard to lick in Miller Bowl, so it shapes up as a swell struggle tonight before a full house.

Couple of hockey meetings coming up, showing that winter isn't so terribly far away. A few months, though, we hope. Civic League will organize at 7.30 tonight in the YMCA and everyone interested is invited. They operated a successful softball circuit the past summer and should do okay in hockey, playing in the Civic Arena. Work is going ahead on this natural-ice rink but more money is required to pay it off. On Monday night at 8.30 in Legion Hall, the OHA senior "B" Legionnaires have their annual open meeting to elect officers, etc. Those interested are asked to be on deck.

Grid Squads On Road

Three of our grid squads are in action tomorrow but not in town. Panthers have an ORFU intermediate fixture in Oshawa, while PCVS seniors play a four-point game in Belleville, and the junior PCI-ers are off to Lindsay. Both these latter contests are scheduled jousts and Collegiate victories would start 'em off nicely for the season. Panthers have a real test against Oshawa as it may be that they'll be fighting it out shortly for that second-place playoff berth, back of Orillia.

Big league baseball hogs the sport spotlight with the world series coming up. Saw an item recently in Collier's headed "Worryin' Guys Don't Win". Diz Dean was talking of a game he was throwing in the '34 series, coasting on an 11-0 lead when Greenberg came up in the ninth, having fanned twice. "I looked at Hank and then at the Detroit bench and yelled: 'What, no pinch hitter?' You shoulda seen Greenberg. He was purple. I hadda laugh. All of a sudden, Frisch came chargin' in from second. 'Cut the foolin', we gotta lot at stake,' he yelped. Durocher came in from short and said, 'Aw, let the guy have his fun, Frank.' But Frisch told me: 'You lose Greenberg and you're through!' 'Leven to nuthin' and he was gonna pull me. That's what worryin' does to guys in the world series."

Comes The Letdown

Yet it's true that many stars slip in the world series. Tired and worried after a 154-game season, many slump in the big sawoff. Such famous aces of other days as Honus Wagner, Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby were mediocre world series performers, this article goes on to point out. Our opinion is that the younger players are more likely to crack up in a pinch during world series play than the veterans. The oldtimers have learned how to relax better and a loose player is far ahead of a tensed-up type. Just for fun, let's see how this pans out in the big series opening next Wednesday—see if the vets generally don't shine and the youngsters slip.

Surprising news this morn with the announcement that Ab Box had come out of retirement and will finish the season in Argos' backfield. This fine passer and hoofer hung up his cleats eight years ago. He played against Peterborough Orfuns for the Beaches shortly before the war and it was in a Saturday afternoon grid game in Toronto's stadium that Box hit Mike Loucks so hard that the locals' ace backfielder was practically ruined for football right there. Injured his knee and never played good rugby again. But Ab is 37 years old and he's sort of inviting injury in that company, we think.

Not Too Promising

Quinte columnist is worrying about the senior "B" puck situation there. Says he: "It doesn't bode well for the seniors and right now, according to the little tongue wagging heard, there is little chance of Belleville operating a senior-calibre squad this year unless an overnight sugar daddy comes along—or a miracle happens. And if a senior club is not operated it means there will be no intermediate 'A' squad in a city of 10,000 population or over." The senior hockey outlook is decidedly dark, as far as we can ascertain. The Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans, who have operated the senior 'B' franchise for the past two years, want no part of it this year, after the financial shellacking they took last season." Hmmm.

Slap Down Hawks

MIDLAND, Oct. 1 — (CP). — St. Louis Flyers slapped down a last-minute Chicago attack Wednesday night to defeat the Black Hawks 6-4 in a pre-season exhibition hockey game. Trailing 5-1 with less than five minutes remaining, Hawks came close on goals by Doug Bentley and Bill Gadsby, only to have Bill McComb score on a breakaway for the American Hockey League club. Bill Mosienko added another for the Hawks with less than two minutes left. Metro Prystal was the other Chicago scorer, with Norm Trustin, Paul Gladu, Hec Pozzo, Ernie Trigg, and Red Doran getting the other St. Louis goals.

Curlers Asked to Send In Application

By HERB MARTIN

This column about curling today is for one purpose only, and that is to impress upon those curlers, who have not sent in their applications already, how important it is for them to do so at once.

Some time ago all of last season's curlers received, by mail, an application form. The idea was, if you intended to curl, to fill out this form as per instructions and return it to the secretary by Monday, Oct. 4. Some may say, what's all the rush? It's not a matter of "rush" at all, it's a matter of organization. If many of the curlers leave off signing their application until the big meeting of Monday, Oct. 18, we ask one question, 'what can the committee do?' We don't know just how many have already joined up, but from past experiences we would say that there is, at this date, more who have not than those who have.

The committee must have a membership before they can draw up the rinks, prepare the schedule and have the book printed and ready for distribution when curling begins. It all takes time and lots of it.

Now, once again, make out your application form and send it to Ira Moore or Herb Bradburn. You will be playing fair with yourself, the committee and the club.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

As was announced last evening, it is to be men's doubles this evening. Choose your own partner and be out to the greens by 7.30 o'clock.

The lady bowlers are holding their annual banquet and meeting on Wednesday, October 6, at 6.30 p.m.

Up in Lindsay the other evening, playing in a twilight doubles tournament, V. Hill and B. Jeffries with R. Konx and H. Coleman were tied for first honors.

The winning skips in our own mixed tournament Wednesday night were R. Brown, C. Lawrence and E. Wall.

And now for the 'family hour' mixed rink tournament on Saturday evening. This will be the closing tournament of the season, so come on out and have a good ttime—7.30 p.m.

Of course, these Friday and Saturday tournaments, all depend on the weather.

THIS COSY SCENE was photographed outside the ball park of the Boston Braves in the home of the bean and the cod when some 1,000 fans formed lines for world series bleacher tickets. They came prepared to spend an all-night vigil. Most brought chairs. Some, like Jim Malick (top), brought beds. The group is killing time with a card game. The question of an opponent for the Braves in the series is still in the lap of the baseball gods, with the Cleveland Indians high on the totem pole and the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees still challenging.

Youths Given Stern Warning

Two youths, William Ireland of Buckhorn and Elwood Gillespie of Young's Point, were told by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., in police court Thursday that they were fortunate not to receive a penitentiary sentence when they pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering.

They each received a year's suspended sentence and a sharp lecture from the Magistrate.

"You have no idea how near you came to a penitentiary offence," he said. "Usually it is at least one year in Guelph.... You can consider yourselves very fortunate."

Provincial Constable Keith O'Shaughnessy said that on Wednesday night the two of them had broken the door on the Blythe Construction Co. storeroom situated about three miles south of Buckhorn on the Buckhorn Rd. He said they were frightened away by two young boys who heard them trying to enter the storeroom and they left without taking anything.

P.C. O'Shaughnessy said they admitted to him they wanted to take some gasoline which was stored inside. They said their car had been stalled nearby on the road as it had run out of gasoline.

Both of the youths who are at present employed in the Cobourg region had no previous records. In view of this fact Crown Attorney C. J. McElderry, KC, said he would not press for a jail term and suggested suspended sentence.

Bracken Still Prefers 'P-C'

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 — (CP). — John Bracken thinks the Progressive Conservative party should stay just that.

In his farewell speech, the retiring leader advised the national convention today not to change the party label.

Mr. Bracken, generally credited with having insisted on the change to "Progressive Conservative" when he took over, said today that "changing the name again won't help the party."

Here is why he wanted the designation to stay:

"It means what it says: 'Conservative'—the conservation of all that is worth conserving from the experience of the past, and 'Progressive'—the acceptance of only what is best from the new light of modern days."

Before the Winnipeg convention in 1942, the party was the "Liberal-Conservative" party officially, though the full title was seldom applied.

Occupation Cost Said Too High

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 1 — (AP). — Western German officials launched a drive to-day against Allied occupation costs. In a letter to the British and American military governors in Germany, Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Sir Brian Robertson, the Finance Ministers of the combined British-American zone requested the lowering of occupation costs to enable them to balance their state budgets.

Dr. Hermann Puender, bi-zonal German executive director, listed expenditures for occupation purposes in the two zones during the current financial year at 46 per cent of all tax revenues, which are expected to total 10,000,000,000 Deutsche marks ($3,300,000,000).

STEWART HALL, Oct. 1 (ENS) —A call to forget race prejudices and help foreigners coming to Canada was sounded Wednesday by Miss M. Gollan, of the Church of All Nations, Toronto, speaking to a WMS rally held in Stewart Hall.

"With prayer and closeness to Christ we can give strangers a warmth and friendship that is necessary to build a united Canada," she said.

Miss Gollan cited the example of small children who she said played together without thought of racial differences, and also 'teen-agers who do not thing of themselves as foreigners but as Canadians.

"It would warm one's heart with hope for the future," she said, "to see the women of various central European nations working together at Red Cross.

Miss Gollan told of the good results from the post office at the church which allows Canadians of foreign birth to keep in touch with their friends in the country of their origin. "During the war years and since, it has been the scene of bitter disappointment, heartaches and also joy," she said.

She stated that those who received the bales of garments contributed by the auxiliaries are warmed "in both body and heart by the kindness of the donors."

Ordinary quality milkers and springers sold at $120-$170 each. Export of cattle to the United States was around 1,400 head.

Calves were 2,661 head and steady at $27-$29 for good to choice with plain to medium grades rather slow at $16-$26. Grass calves sold for slaughter at $13-$15.

Hogs totalled 1,800 head. Prices were unchanged at $33.25 for the Grade A and $32.85 for Grade B1. Sows were $27 dressed.

BRACKEN STEPS DOWN—John Bracken, leader of the Progressive Conservative party for six years, formally announces his retirement to the party's National Convention, which will choose a new leader Saturday. Behind him, Dick Bell, the party's national organizer, leads the delegates in three rousing cheers for the retiring chief.

Enrolment At Universities Will Be Doubled By 1960

By GEORGE FRANKS

UTRECHT, Holland, Oct. 1 (Reuters).—Some 10,000,000 university students will be following courses of higher education in more than 4,000 universities throughout the world by 1960.

That is the conclusion reached by some 300 professors from 33 countries who met here in August at the preparatory conference of representatives of universities to discuss post-war problems of higher education.

The professors studied reports of progress, students, problems and plans from universities throughout the world. From the balance sheet of these reports, it was found that there are at present some 5,000,000 university students enrolled at the universities of the world—and that by 1960 that figure will almost certainly be doubled.

The professors themselves agreed that what one described as "this world phenomenon which may turn out a riddle" was already dangerously overtaxing university facilities and staff.

In addition to long-term planning, the conference discussed some of the more immediate plans to meet shortages of textbooks, classrooms and teachers. In some countries, like Holland, there will have to be curtailment of the traditional free entry to universities.

It was on this point that the main cleavage of the conference occurred.

Representatives of the United States and the British Dominions were generally in favor of an open door and education for the largest number, whereas the majority of the British and Continental delegates expressed a preference for maintaining university standards by limitation and rigid selection of students.

No Discrimination

There was, however, unanimity on the necessity for non-discrimination on grounds of religion, politics, sex or race.

In the most abstract fields of discussion, the professors drafted a number of plans to meet the general international education situation.

They unanimously agreed upon the establishment of a bureau to act, as a clearing house for information about the universities of the world, and to include a large reference library, a statistical survey of facts dealing with university and higher education, facilities for the interchange of students and professors, and a sort of employment agency based on available foreign posts.

The bureau will be established in Paris in association with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). Details are to be decided by a 10-man interim committee.

They also agreed to set up "in the fairly near future," a permanent international organization to provide an international co-operation centre, to promote international understanding through higher education, and to arrange for an even wider world conference in 1950.

Mexico Develops Shrimp Industry Worth Millions

By REGINALD L. WOOD

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 1 — (AP). —This is a story of how a little shrimp goes to market.

It all started about 20 years ago when a group of Florida fishermen visiting the west coast of Mexico discovered extensive beds of big, fat, sweet shrimp in the blue waters of the Gulf of California.

During those 20 years the shrimp business on the west coast alone has grown into a $14,000,000 a-year business.

As word spread on the size of the shrimp beds, Japanese fishermen moved in, obtained concessions, and agreed to show Mexicans how to catch shrimp. Fishermen said, however, all they got was a promise.

For 10 years the Japanese monopolized the shrimp beds and operated a shuttle service with shrimp for Japan. Then in 1940 former president Abelardo L. Rodriguez told President Manuel Avila Camacho the Japanese fishing colonies on the west coast were fronts for military camps.

President Avila Camacho, convinced, cancelled concessions and Rodriguez chased the Japanese out, after agreeing to buy 20 boats and start a Mexican shrimp business.

The shrimp industries thrive from Guaymas to Mazatlan on the east coast of the Gulf of California.

"Green Shrimps"

The newly developed "green shrimp (uncooked)" industry has boosted the market. The current season which started last September and ends late in June is expected to produce more than 15,000,000 pounds of shrimp, most of which goes to the United States market.

Rodriguez formed the company —"Companio Productos Marinos de Guaymas"—capitalized at 2,500,000 pesos ($500,000). Later he turned the shrimp industry over to a group of co-operatives which operate all along the coast.

The Compania Productos Marinos continues to exist but other quick freezing plants have sprung up. Among the most important is Productors Congelados at Guaymas and Pesquera de Topolobampo on the Bay of San Carlos several hundred miles south.

Hundreds of refrigerated railroad cars now carry the frozen shrimp to San Diego, Calif., the main distribution centre.

The headless, veined shrimp, frozen in five-pound block and packed in waxed cartons are shipped in a 50-pound containers.

Besides 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 pounds of frozen shrimp, about 1,500,000 pounds of fresh shrimp packed in crushed ice cross the border into the United States.

More than 30,000 tons of ice are used each season by the shrimp boats, plants and railroad cars.

The shrimp industry alone represents an investment in excess of 20,000,000 pesos ($4,000,000).

Billion Surplus

LONDON, Oct. 1 — (Reuters). — Britain completed the first half of the current financial year Thursday night with £261,245,520 ($1,044,982,080) surplus. Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has budgetted for a year-end surplus of £700,000,000 ($2,800,000,000). However, recent rearmament plans may modify these calculations.

D.P.'s Are Eager To Learn English

TORONTO, Oct. 1 — (CP). — They come from almost every country on the face of the earth — manufacturers, housewives, mothers, domestics, laborers, merchants, teachers — all shapes and sizes and all intent on learning to speak English.

It was registration night recently at Toronto's Harbord Collegiate where this year hundreds of immigrants will be given the opportunity of learning English. Of those in line the first night, at least 90 per cent had arrived in Canada within the last six months, yet all of them already speak enough English to make themselves understood by the instructor.

The majority of those in the queue were high school or college graduates and most of them spoke two or three languages.

Among the most eager for knowledge was Swetlana Mezis, 22, of Latvia. Although Swetlana already speaks English quite well —she was a secretary-interpreter for UNRRA in Germany — she says it is her duty to perfect the language of her newly adopted country.

Swetlana's story is similar to that of many other D.P.'s. Her father was an aeronautical engineer at Riga when the Germans marched in. She was sent to Germany as slave labor and when armistice was declared, she was sent to a D.P. camp.

Swetlana became pretty fed up with life in a D.P. camp and jumped at the chance of signing as a domestic, along with 400 other young girls, to come to Canada.

She is not too interested in domestic work but does not dislike her job as a ward aid at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto.

Headmistress Says Girls Lie Too Much

BRIDGEWATER, Somerset, England, Oct. 1 — (CP). — School girls lie too much, says Miss Grace Nicholls, headmistress of Bridgewater Grammar School for Girls.

In her final report before resigning she said it was "sad" to find need for extra police duties by staff and prefects. It had almost become a "matter-of-course first reaction" to cover petty transgressions by lying.

Such transgressions, she concluded, were a symptom of the period in which the black market has become an acknowledged part of Britain's economic life.

Visitor Finds Lots Of Food In Britain

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 1—(CP.)—George Gibb, Turner Valley, Alta., restaurant-proprietor, doesn't think much of stories about lack of food in Britain.

"If people say anything to me about lack of food I'll just ask them to take a look at myself. I'm the answer to that.

"When I landed here I weighed 196 pounds. Now I tip the scales at 212 pounds. Speaks for itself, doesn't it?"

He has been visiting his boyhood haunts in northeast Scotland after being in Canada 36 years. He was a farmer more than 20 years before operating the oil-town restaurant.

Still Works At 85 Credits It To Milk

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1—(CP.) — K. J. Johnston, high-wheel bicycle champion of Manitoba since 1884, usher and official of Knox Church for 60 years and still the busy secrtary of the local Fruit Wholesalers' Association, is 89 years old.

On Labor Day he won four games of his favorite sport, lawn bowling. He's spry, jaunty and "in the pink." His doctor says his heart is as sound as a bell.

Asked how to reach your 90th year in such fine fettle, Mr. Johnston replies succinctly: "Milk."

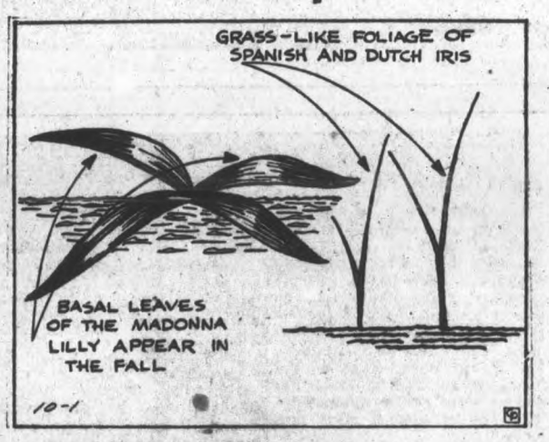
He rises at 7 a.m., retires at 11 p.m., eats three square meals at regular hours and has no diet fads or fancies—except that he never omits his milk. He drinks a cup of coffee—and milk—at breakfast; water and milk for his mid-day meal; tea and milk for his evening meal, which he calls supper.

Liquor and tobacco have troubled him not at all. But he attaches no importance to teetotalism as an aid to longevity. All he has done is to reverse the saying that wine is the milk of old age.

He came to Winnipeg from St. Catharines, Ont., when he was 24. "If there is still a spring in my step," he says, "it is the result of early training in cycling, foot racing and lacrosse."

YOUR GARDEN . . .

October Clean-up Time



By DEAN HALLIDAY

With most of the planting chores done, the garden can now be cleaned up for the winter and put to bed, so to speak.

Don't neglect the garden just because winter is approaching. Failure to pull a few weeds at this time of year means many more next spring. A little time put in now getting rid of late clumps of grass plants and weeds means a saving of hours of work next season.

As the garden is cleaned up make sure that the old tops of plants are removed and any diseased foliage burned. The foliage which is clean can be added to the compost pile.

When working in the perennial border take care not to injure the new foliage of certain plants which may not be recognized at this time. For example, the Madonna Lily sends up its basal leaves in the fall, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden - Graph. If you have these lilies in your garden watch for the foliage at this time and do not remove it during your cleanup.

If you have Spanish or Dutch iris in the garden remember that the foliage appears in the fall and lives through the winter and spring. It is grass-like in appearance, as illustrated, and is apt to be pulled out during a cleanup period.

Fall cleanup should include control measures for plants that have such ambitious roots that they gradually enroach on nearby plantings. Unless these are harnessed they soon take possession of the entire perennial border.

The so-called "hardy" ageratum has roots which spread in all directions. Unless checked they become obnoxious "weeds" in the garden.

Leather Clothing Featured In U.K.

LONDON, Oct. 1 — (CP). — Exciting new designs in leather clothing are invading the British fashion field.

Suede dresses now provide something different for socktail occasions. In, perhaps, pin-striped antelope grey, the suede is softly flared at the skirt, and three-quarter length sleeves and classical high neckline add grace to the soft material.

For holiday wear there are "pedal pushers" with matching waistcoat or brief suede shorts in many new shades with loader jackets to match.

Then there are overcoats for travel or town wear. In rose pink suede, there are tailored coats with attractive patch pockets for town, and there is a white grain coat and matching helmet hat specially designed for air travel.

Dublin Visitors Get Rooms By Radio-Auto

DUBLIN, Oct. 1 — (CP.) — A new rooms-by-radio service is being operated in crowded Dublin.

When visitors arrive without reservations, the Hotel Advisory Staff radios a call to a roving automobile. It checks at various addresses until it finds a room, then radios back.

It takes only a few minutes. The car, which has a 20-mile radio range, tours city and suburbs to find accommodation for some of the 5,000 daily visitors.

More than 450 private householders, some without telephones, are on the car's calling list, for most hotels are packed.

Communists Drive In

PEIPING, Oct. 1 — (AP). — Chinese Communists have fought into the suburbs of Chinhsien, vital terminus of the air lift to Mukden pro-government press dispatches said Thursday. The accounts said the Communists also had reached a point only six miles east of Chinhsien, which is in southern Manchuria 125 miles from isolated Mukden.

Negro Nurses Pass

HALIFAX, Oct. 1 — (CP). — Ruth Bailey of Toronto and Gwennyth Barton of Halifax, first two negro nurses to graduate from a school of nursing in Canada, received diplomas Thursday night at graduation exercises of children's hospital here. Miss Bailey is reported to have been unable to obtain admission to a Ontario training school, won a special prize for general proficiency.

THE OCCASION of Palmiro Togliatti's return to leadership of the Communist party (after recovering from the bullets of a would-be assassin) was hailed in Rome by a turnout of a half-million Communists and supporters. Here Togliatti, still weak, is partially supported by Gerolamo Li Causi, Communist leader of Sicily as he affixes his signature to a Sicilian Communist flag.

Says Merchant Holding Gun That Killed Him

TORONTO, Oct. 1 — (CP). — Fred Aldred, 23, staked his life today on his story that storekeeper William Cowan was fatally shot with his own revolver Aug. 1 when it discharged accidentally in the merchant's hands while Cowan struggled with Aldred in a darkened store.

Aldred, on trial for murder, said in a statement admitted Wednesday the weapon was dicharged twice while he fought to escape from Cowan who had caught him breaking into his store at Malvern in the Oshawa area.

Aldred said Cowan surprised him in the store and that he told Cowan he had broken in to look for something to eat for himself and his girl friend, May Hill, 17.

Defence Counsel Harry Rose said there was no evidence Aldred had any weapon when he entered the Cowan store. The revolver was in Cowan's hands and in some manner it went off during the struggle.

He said the most severe conclusion that could be reached on the evidence was that it was a case of involuntary manslaughter.

Crown Counsel W. O. Gibson said it would be practically impossible for a shot to pierce Cowan's breast in the way the fatal shot did if the revolver were in Cowan's own hands.

In view of the fact that Mrs. Cowan (wife of the slain storekeeper) was hit over the head with something harder than a fist and also that the revolver was found on the accused when he was arrested, can you come to any other conclusion that the revolver was in the hands of the accused when the second shot was fired."

"SEE YOU TOMORROW, FRED" calls father of Frederick J. Aldred from left background as youth (right) is led from Assize Court Thursday afternoon by a sheriff's officer after being found guilty of manslaughter. Verdict concluded four-day trial on a charge of murdering William Cowan, 57-year-old Malvern storekeeper, Aug. 1. Aldred will be sentenced later.

Pioneer 'Crates' Recalled By Show of New Aircraft

By JAMESC McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

FARNBOROUGH, Hampshire, Oct. 1— (CP). — The Canadian bush pilot who conquered the sub-Arctic with a single-motor, fabric-covered wings and hay-wire for emergency repairs would feel like a primitive man at the British aircraft industry show here.

Twenty years ago Canada marvelled at the achievements of the Pathfinder HS2Ls, Fairchilds, Bellancas, Ryans, Fokkers, and Moths. But here at Farnborough they seem even more remote than that. For instance:

A glittering de Havilland Dove airliner snorted onto a runway, stopped in 50 yards, then scooted backwards into a parking position under pressure of reversible propellers. (Don McLaren, Wop May, Punch Dickens, Al Cheeseman, and Herbert Hollick-Kenyon could have used one of these with floats when the flying north was young.)

A Lincoln bomber with two whistling jet engines and two standard motors flicked off a runway like a bit of down, moving its tons as if they were flecks of cloud. (Remember the long run, the laborious climb, the thundering engine of the Canadian airways pioneer?)

A Saunders-Roe flying boat (a "giant" plane 20 years ago) circled, looped, dived and twisted like a sliver of silvered paper within the airfield space. (Remember the northern seaplanes, looking for a ripple to give them a "step" in getting off and the clumsy, battered pontoons?)

Some Cargo.

A Bristol freighter zoomed about with one of its two propelliers "feathered" and a motor stilled. It landed. The fat nose opened. Out came a truck and a flock of passengers. (Remember the little tractors taken apart to be flown bit by bit into the British Columbia goldfields? And the pilots' dislike of stout passengers?)

Bands of fighters slipped across the sky at about 600 miles an hour, screaming like banshees. (Remember the solemn thump of the Prairie night air mail, racing the storm at 90 miles an hour?)

The silvery Canadian-built Chipmunk monoplane trainer showed its paces among the big ones, twisting off the runway into a fast turn that would have greyed the hair of aero club instructors from coast to coast. (Remember the early training planes, all bi-planes, with fabric easily holed, and handled with reverent car?)

There were helicopters looking as much like airplanes as the grain bin on the west quarter-section but still flew. And a flying wing without a tail but with a big jet outlet, as black as a trapper's stovepipe. And sail-planes with no motor at all that swooped and turned in eerie silence.

"No other country in the world can show so wide a range of ultra-modern flying machines," Sir Roy Dobson, president of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors, said at Farnborough.

Union Changed

TORONTO, Oct. 1 — (CP). — The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A.F.L.) has replaced the United Electrical Workers of America (C.I.O.) as bargaining representative for workers at the suburban Leaside plant of the Rogers-Majestic Company, it was learned Thursday. The change was the result of a ruling by the Ontario Labor Relations Board, which conducted a secret ballot among plant employees.

U.S. And Britain Agree On Threadings

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)— Britain and the United States are about agreed on how to make nuts and bolts.

A formal pact on standardized threadings probably will be signed about the middle of October, it was learned today. This will mark an end to decades of talk and, later, formal negotiations between the two great industrial countries.

Canada is reported to have had a part in the negotiations. This led to the impression that any standardization will apply to the entire British Commonwealth. Such an agreement will be of tremendous value to industry.

Manufacturers and scientists began talking of the need for a standardization of threads back in the early 1900s. Since the war, the effort has materialized into specific discussions by representatives of Britain and the United States. These now are near an end after a series of compromises on both sides.

Death Takes A Holiday At R.R. Crossing
Train Crashes Gas Truck Carrying 600 Gals.

Victor Craft, of Maria St., narrowly escaped death or serious injury on Wednesday afternoon when the tank truck carrying 600 gallons of gasoline which he was driving was in collision with a train at the Townsend St. CNR crossing.

Craft was driving the truck west on Townsend St. shortly before 3 p.m. when he noticed a train approaching. He pulled to a stop and waited for it to pass. As the last car went slowly by he alleges that the switchman who had been guarding the crossing which has no wig-wag erected, swung aboard.

He began to edge his truck forward across the tracks and did not see a shunt engine approach from the north. The engine struck the heavy vehicle and knocked it crosswise, parallel to the tracks.

Damage to the truck was to the right front fender only and was assessed at about $15. There was no damage to the engine which was in charge of Engineer W. Strickland of Gilmour St.

Mr. Craft said that there was no switchman at the rail crossing to warm motor traffic of the approaching shunt engine.

An address of welcome was read by Mrs. Ray Jackman, president of the club and a cup and saucer presented to Mrs. Brown by Mrs. S. E. Richardson.

Mrs. W. W. Leonard, president of the Lakefield Red Cross, also spoke, expressing the organization's regret at losing Mrs. Brown and presented her with another cup and saucer on behalf of the Red Cross.

Two short humorous skits were enacted, the first by Mrs. S. E. Richardson and Mrs. S. A. Grylls and the second by Mrs. E. Foster, Mrs. W. Fife and Mrs. R. McCracken. Contests were also enjoyed under the direction of Mrs. G. Tanner and Mrs. L. Bailey.

Assisting the hostess serving refreshments were Mrs. D. Davis, Mrs. F. L. Erskine and Mrs. W. Whetung.

Cost Accountants Hear Fine Address

Peterborough Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario held its first fall meeting at the Empress Hotel. Mr. W. W. Henderson, a director of Hamilton Chapter, was present to give his address on "Standard Costs" but, unfortunately, was taken ill prior to the meting. S. Adamson substituted for Mr. Henderson and read the address.

The advantages of standard cost methods as an aid to the management control were stressed. Comparisons of standards of materials and labor with actual performance in order to determine variances were explained, and the responsibility of the staff for different types of variances were considered. Methods of reflecting standard cost data within the accounts were examined. Use of a flexible budget as an adjunct to standard rates in overhead was advocated.

Mr. Gordon Langhorne voiced the appreciation of the members and guests of whom there were about 30 present, for the excellent paper.

Mr. R. C. Bastable, Chapter chairman, presided at the meeting. Mr. Langhorne presented a report on membership increase while Mr. J. Blake Bell outlined the program for the coming months.

Rishor Objects To Setback On New Store

"I wouldn't mind a setback of five feet or so, like they are talking about for Charlotte St., but 20 feet...."

That's about as far as Noel Rishor got with his expression of protest to the town planning committee last night. He owns the property at the southwest corner of George and London Streets on which some grocery company is thinking of expending $100,000 or more on a retail store building.

Mr. Rishor said the proposed building would be 90 to 100 feet frontage on George St. with a depth of 100 to 120 feet on the London St. flank. It might be of two storeys.

Mr. Rishor said he was exploring the conditions which would be encountered if the store people were willing to proceed with construction. He said emphatically that the set-back of 20 feet from the street line was more that he had reckoned with.

Some of the buildings and stores north or south of London St. were built 100 years ago and might remain in their present positions for another century, while the corner store building was thrust back 20 feet—now.

Discussion with the committee appeared to indicate the probability of modifying that 20-foot recession. In that block now are Johnston's furniture store at the McDonnel St. corner, Kay's feneral home, two apartment buildings, grocery, Chinese laundry, beauty parlor and some other realty details. And there are three stores in the block north of London St., on the same west side of George St.

Too Much Difference

"We are willing to do anything reasonable," Mr. Rishor said "but 20 feet is far too much when you are asking for a setback of only three feet on George St. south of King St."

Dr. E. G. Faludi's plan for the future Peterborough purposed halting commercial development beyond the municipal centre building, to come, but neighborhood commercial areas would be permissable, it was said.

"There won't be any other setbacks all the way to Park Hill Road," Mr. Rishor said. "It could be a hundred years before any of their frontages would be changed, and our people would be back from the street line 20 feet all that time."

Hubert Sills remarked that this request pertained to a location that was not a section designated as a commercial area. Its classification was fourth residential. A motion by James Hamilton, seconded by James Craig, is intended to amend the bylaw, changing the London St. section to a neighborhood commercial area.

This new designation applies presumably to both sides of George St., 150 feet north and south of London, and also 150 feet east and west of George on London.

Mr. Rishor explained that the depth of his property is 220 feet from George St., providing ample off-street parking space for the neighborhood grocery store now contemplated. The grocery would be at the corner, with about 30 feet frontage remaining for an additional store in that building.

Firm To Oppose Street Widening

F. W. Woolworth Co., owners of the property at the northwest corner of George and Charlotte Sts., bought for a new store, will oppose the city's street widening plan that is being submitted to the Ontario Municipal Board here Friday, Oct. 8 at 11 o'clock in the city council chamber.

This is the second time the big store people have expressed objection to the proposed widening of Charlotte St., with consequent effect on the size of the new Woolworth building and its adjustment to decreased lot dimensions.

City Clerk Outram informed town planning committee Thursday that a number of property owners have been intimating to him their intentions of contesting the council's bylaw. As recently reported it provides for a setback of five feet on each side of Charlotte St. from Water to Park St. and three feet on George St. from King St. south to Lansdowne. Its restriction would apply to new construction and substantial alterations.

CRUSHES FINGERS

In an accident on Thursday, when operating a warming mill, Lyle Black, of R.R. 10, Peterborough, caught his left hand in the machine, crushing two fingers and removing the skin from the other two. His thumb was not injured. Mr. Black pulled the safety catch on the machine and thereby saved himself from more serious injuries. He was treated at the Clinic and St. Joseph's Hospital.

TB Association Names Officers

Formation of a county Tuberculosis Association to direct the drive for funds for the fight against that disease was started Thursday night at a meeting of interested citizens. George A. Macdonald was elected president. It was pointed out that the officers appointed at the meeting would form the nucleus and executive members would be added at a meeting next Monday.

Other officers of the provincial committee elected were: 1st vice-president, Dennis H. Fitzgerald; 2nd vice-president, L. H. Ingram; secretary, Mrs. Ralph Honey; treasurer, Richard Ward.

Dr. R. A. Kelly, city MOH, was chairman of the meeting. Outlining the basic characteristics of tuberculosis, he said it was a communicable disease, not hereditary. It is curable if caught in the early stages, he said, and under present financial arrangements, much of the cost of treatment is borne by the province. Isolating cases is important, the doctor said, as this cuts down the possibility of its spread.

The main problem is financial, Dr. Kelly said. X-ray is used to diagnose T.B. The objective in Peterborough is a mass survey of the whole county in 1949, which will be conducted by the provincial health authorities at minimum rates. The hope was expressed that X-ray camera equipment for the diagnosis of the disease could be purchased ultimately and used in local hospitals for study of suspects and contacts.

At the Monday night meeting, it is planned to complete the slate of officers and add interested representatives of industry and business in the city to assist in the fund-raising effort through Christmas Seals.

POWER CUTS

To start next Tuesday and continuing Monday through Friday, power interruptions in Belleville will be 6.30-7.30 a.m. and 5.30-6 p.m., it was announced today. For rural areas the cut-offs will be 8-9 a.m. and 2.30-4.30 p.m.

Night Classes To Start Tuesday Oct. 12

Four new subjects—Art, Upper School Subjects (academic), Qualitative Chemical Analysis and Psychology—wil be added to the night school curriculum it was decided at a meeting on Wednesday night of the Advisory Vocational Committee of the Board of Education.

The committee met to discuss plans for the 1948-49 program which is scheduled to begin Tuesday, October 12. Classes will be held at PCVS. Those wishing to register should do so at the Collegiate on October 4 and 6 between 7-9 p.m.

A request from the Director of Recreation, Jack Dane, that the Committee take over the Craft Classes—pottery, weaving, art metal work and leathercraft—was turned down, chiefly on financial grounds. K. S. Wightman, Superintendent of Schools, said that if the same enrolment was reached this year as last, the additional cost for tuition would be approximately $800.

Of the $10,000 appropriation for night school salaries granted by the Board he said that $5,651 had already been spent leaving "an amount hardly sufficient to carry the usual classes."

Moreover Mr. Wightman and several of the committee members expressed the opinion that these subjects were nearer to the hobby classification than the educational.

This year non-resident students will pay a higher fee than resident students. A non-refundable sum of $5 was decided upon as covering the cost of tuition for the non-resident applicants. Mr. Wightman pointed out that the county pays no share of night-school costs and that it was not logical that non-residents should be provided with tuition at the cost of the city taxpayer. While last year out of a total enrolment of 1088 only 91 were outsiders, and consequently the financial burden was not heavy, he felt that the priciple of the matter was important.

F. H. Jobbitt, added a rider that non-resident applications be accepted on the understanding that Peterborough residents would get priority in receiving tuition. This was added to the motion regarding fees and it passed unanimously.

"As a gesture of good will" there will be no fee charged to those students entering the classes for "new Canadians." B. W. Switzer said that this particular class would receive instruction on basic English and Civics, similar to other classes already operating. It was also decided to send a letter of thanks to the YWCA for providing facilities for one of these summer classes while the Collegiate was closed.

A request from the night-school teachers that they receive an increase of a dollar an hour was turned down. Mr. Wightman said that it was the policy of the Board to consider the matter of salaries at the beginning of the year only, when the new estimates were being prepared.

Resident students will be required to pay a registration fee of $3 a subject, and those who have attended 80 per cent of the classes at the completion of the night school will be refunded $2. Non residents will pay $5, not refundable.

Cost of the four new subjects will be $6 for all students with no refund.

Pollution Gone From Two Lakes

TORONTO, Oct. 1.—(CP). — Pollution in the waters of Sturgeon lake and Pigeon lake in Victoria county—responsible for the deaths of a number of cattle recently—has disappeared, it was announced today.

Dr. A. E. Berry of the Ontario Health Department said the toxic condition of the two Kawartha lakes arose from an accumulation of seaweed which had blown into the bays where the cattle drank.

"The condition was quite temporary and it has all cleared up now."

Perfect Crib Hand

Mrs. Arthur Guppy, 203 Simcoe St., has been playing cribbage for more years than she wants to admit, but never until this week has she held a perfect crib hand. She held three fives and the jack of diamonds, and the five of diamonds turned up to complete her hand.

Her husband and Mrs. Henry Joslyn were playing with her when this unusual incident took place.

Senator Fallis Proves Popular Speaker

By TOM ALLEN
Examiner Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Oct. 1. — Senator Iva Fallis was the first woman speaker to address the Progressive Conservative convention in Ottawa and for that reason as well as for her own qualities she was given a warm introduction by J. W. MacDonnell, KC, MP, the joint chairman of the convention, and received a cordial welcome from the audience as she stepped to the speaker's rostrum. She spoke on Thursday afternoon. Her green frock and hat and her light, quiet voice were a pleasant change from the drab costumes and heavier tones of the men who had been before th microphones and flood lights all day.

She spoke about the place of women in Canadian political life and specifically of the work that Conservative women could do in the party of which she is a member. She told her audience that the battle for Canadian women's rights had been won in theory at least and that the task now was to ensure the practical application of the theory. "And so the next step forward, as I see it, is more intelligent work on the part of women themselves by educating first themselves and then the general public to break away from the old traditions and accept the 'new look' for women in public life."

Deliberately Ignored.

Mrs. Fallis declared that the Liberal administration has "deliberately ignored the women of Canada during their long term of office." Pleading for the right of women to posts in the government service like the diplomatic service or in Cabinets, she said: 'Throughout the last war and in the days immediately following, Canadian women were lauded to the skies, and rightly so, for the efficient way in which they had discharged new and heavy responsibilities in hitherto unknown fields of service. But with the end of the war it was a case of 'Well, thanks, and good-bye—we'll see you when there is another war.' The great majority of women would gladly exchange some of those verbal bouquets for something a little more tangible in the way of rceognition. Surely by the sacrifices made, by their work during the two World Wars, the women of Canada have earned the right to a voice in the counsels of peace."

The last part of her address was mainly a criticism of the Liberal policies and a plea for the Conservative women to work with "intelligent enthusiasm" and unity for the party, under the new leader to be chosen. "Successful leadership deepnds to a marked degree upon willingness of people to be led and to be led in unity towards an established goal."

MORE MUSKIES HOOKED

During these last few days of the muskie season fishermen have been making every possible excuse to get away to the lakes before the deadline arrives. On Wednesday Charles Carson, George St. pulled in an 18 pounder while casting from a boat at Indian River. And according to Charles, a couple of bigger ones got away. Today an unidentified angler hooked a 25 pounder at Young's Point.

Industrial Heads Warned Switches Will Be Pulled; Stores May Close Mondays

Working Saturdays instead of Mondays was proposed as a solution of the local electric power shortage problem by Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, to a largely attended meeting of representatives of Peterborough's industries in the council chamber on Thursday afternoon.

This recommendation was submitted because Saturday is not included in the weekly power quota period fixed by the Hydro-Electric Commission. Peterborough's maximum allowance is 240,000 kilowatt hours daily from Monday to Friday, inclusive.

Industries reporting to Utilities Commission this morning immediate switch to Saturday employment, instead of working Mondays in the power shortage period were: Peterborough-Brinton Carpet Co., Ventilating Shades, J. J. Turner & Sons, Dominion Woollens, Ltd., Peterborough Canoe, Monaghan Road and Outboard Marine Mfg. Co.

Four other companies which had made the same change a week or more ago are: Ontario Marble Co., Dewart-Milling, Peterborough Lock Co., and Martin-Hewitt Co.

While industrialists were planning ways of avoiding the Hydro axe Tuesday, October 5, the local consumption of power Thursday was 268,000 kwh. and the Hydro quota is 240,000.

Ernest C. Braund, president of the Business Men's Association, said its members wished to co-operate in the concerted effort to save power, and might decide to close their stores on Mondays.

Mr. Matthews said Peterborough's housewives were doing a good job as indicated by a decrease of more than 20 per cent in the domestic power chart.

No Night Work

Alfred Barber, president of the Allied Labor Council, announced that the members of labor unions were willing to work any day the manufacturers might set.

"Labor is willing to do anything we can to help," Mr. Barber said, "but we are not in favor of working nights, and the companies should not be asked to pay night wage rates in a situation that has largely resulted from Hydro being too often a political football."

"If the decision is to work on Saturdays something should be done to have the bus companies bring in on that day of the week, employees who live outside of Peterborough," Mr. Barber suggested. "In most of the factories they have Saturdays off now, but if we are to switch to Mondays off, the bus companies should be asked to change."

"I think that is a good point," Mr. Matthews said. "The Utilities Commission is not asking industry to work nights."

Ross L. Dobbin, Utilities manager, remarked: "We'd have to light the shops to work at night."

"We are not asking anybody to work on Sundays," Mr. Matthews said. "We have been brought up that way, and we don't want to change it. The Commission does not want any of the employees to lose a single hour. The Commission feels that the workmen like to have the two days of rest at the end of the week. We can keep those days coming together by being off on Sundays and Mondays while the shortage lasts."

Mr. Matthews read the Hydro ultimatum at the opening of the meeting. It demands compliance with the daily power quota. The alternative is interruption of the supply by the Hydro. Their warning was that they would be forced to cut Peterborough off, 15 minutes every hour, on the hour, from dawn until dark. "That is what we wish to avoid," Mr. Matthews said. "We succeeded last year, and we are anxious to do it again now."

The Hydro letter was: "Your week-day (Mon. to Fri.) consumption of kilowatt-hours has been consistently in excess of the quota allotted your municipality, and the Commission is, therefore, reluctantly obliged to inform you that unless your week-day consumption of kilowatt-hours is reduced to the quota (240,000 kwh daily) which has been alloted you, it will be obliged commencing Oct. 5 to request you to open feeders at regular intervals throughout the day until the required reduction is assured.

We shall be glad to co-operate with you in arranging the time and duration of these interruptions most suited to your requirements. Failure to comply with any such request, which will be transmitted to you through our operators, will make it necessary for the Commission to interrupt your power supply ever hour on the hour throughout the day from dawn to dark for periods of time ranging up to 15 minutes duration."

Advance notice of this action is being given so that you may have an opportunity to notify all your consumers of what to expect in the event the required reduction in their week-day consumption of kilowatt-hours is not forthcoming, and also so that you will have an opportunity of taking steps to safeguard all vital services during power cut-offs, should these become necessary."

Three Have Plan

At least three of the larger companies adopted on their own initiative mean to save power by expedients of transferring use. CGE reported 15,000 kwh, but Hydro credited them with only 6,000. Nashua Paper Co. saved 3,000. DeLaval Co. was another in that group, as mentioned by George A. Macdonald, Utilities Commissioner.

With that accomplishment and aid in mind, George Clarke of Nashua Paper asked Mr. Matthews whether any consideration would be given to his firm. The reply was a mild negative. The Hydro ultimatum demanded further re-

Diefenbaker Be Best Leader But Premier Drew Will Win

Premier George Drew of Ontario has the leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party "in the bag" in the opinion of the men who write the political news from the nation's capital.

A poll of 31 members of the parliamentary press gallery showed this response to the question "Who do you think will win?"

Premier Drew	27
John Diefenbaker	4
Others	0

Best Leader

But on the question: "Who do you think would be the best leader for the party?" there was a completely different answer. Here was the response to the second question:

Diefenbaker	18
Drew	9
Donald Fleming	2
Uncertain	1

The newsmen who were polled represented 16 daily newpapers, five news services and one national weekly publication. They were selected at random in the press gallery where they follow day-to-day trends and political news for their publications and services in all parts of the country.

Talk To Delegates

Their views were formed after talking to delegates who flooded into Ottawa for the start of the big Conservative national convention in the Coliseum here and to that extent mirror the feeling of a representative share of the men and women who are going to pick the successor to retiring leader John Bracken.

A similar poll before the start of the recent Liberal convention disclosed that practically the entire press gallery believed Louis St. Laurent would be picked.

Macdonnell, Methot Named JointChairmen

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—(CP).— J. M. Macdonnell, Member of Parliament for Muskoka - Ontario, and Leon Methot of Three Rivers, Que., were named permanent joint chairmen Thursday by the Progressive Conservative convention.

Miss Hilda Hesson of Winnipeg was appointed vice-chairman. Mrs. H. C. Smiley of Saskatoon, Sask., and Herve Baribeau, of Levis, Que., were elected joint secretaries.

Mr. Macdonnell told the delegates the party would be on the way to victory if they took back home the inspiration that was in the convention atmosphere. He felt the country was ripe for a change of government.

Canadian Textiles Said Best In World

MONTREAL, Oct. 1 (CP). — Canadian textiles are the best in the world, says Emile Collette, president of the Silk and Rayon Manufacturers' Association.

At a press conference, he said that Montreal is becoming a world fashion centre due to the growing independence of Canada's textile mills in fabric design and production.

The textile executive attributes this to the fact that 12 of Canada's 14 rayon mills are in the province of Quebec. From the creative point of view, French-Canadian textile workers have inherited a tradition of old habitant handicraft which goes into their work.

This, he said, makes the distinctive Canadian design which, in return, leads to distinctive Canadian fashions.

Most Canadian mills now have their own designing and research department. The industry is also growing color-conscious with the mills turning out 30 to 40 shades, compared with five to 10 shades only a decade ago.

Mr. Collette emphasized that Canadian textiles were also lower than those of other countries.

Clothing Exchange A Boon To Mothers

HALIFAX, Oct. 1 (CP). — A Halifax woman has come up with a new twist in beating the high cost of living.

Mrs. V. A. Newcomb is proving of great assistance to Halifax mothers trying to stretch the family budget around new clothing for their children.

Mrs. Newcomb—a mother herself—has set up a clothing exchange, where for a small fee, she will exchange clothing one child has outgrown for larger sizes.

Since the business was opened in May, more than 1,000 children have been provided with clothing, dry-cleaned and in good condition.

Mrs. Newcomb may have to change the name of her establishment—Treasure Hunt. Several persons have phoned for assistance in locating priates' treasure.

Truman View Of CommunistScare Winning Support Of U.S. Public

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (CP)— President Truman seems to have a slight edge over his Republican opponents in the strange conflict of opinion in the United States over the business of apprehending and punishing subversive elements.

His most telling counter-attack was his charge that the Republican Party is the unwitting ally of American and foreign Communists.

These forces, he claims, are supporting Henry Wallace and his Progressive Party to ensure a Republican victory in November. He says Communists are depending on a Republican administration to bring economic chaos.

Much Loose Talk

There has been so much loose talk, so many scare headlines and sensational announcements that failed to materialize, so many indictments that are never prosecuted to a finish, that it would seem the people at large are getting a little indiffirent.

Since the early days of the Roosevelt regime there has been a House of Representatives Committee on Un-AmericanActivities digging into the personal records of people suspected of being subversive.

It has been a sensational committee ever since it was started under the chairmanship of Martin Dies, Texas Democratic Congressman, and even more so now under Republican Congressman J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey.

Most Testimony Useless

It has spent millions and has provided a career for a number of staff investigators, some of them recruited from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Now the committee is working harder than ever in an effort to make the public believe the Truman administration is blocking its efforts, refusing it access to information gathered by the FBI and closing administration files on employees suspected of disloyalty.

Little Red Herring

Truman played into its hands a little recently when he described as a "red herring" latest disclosures which obviously indicated a measure of widespread disloyalty and Communistic affiliation omang former government employees who were well thought of by the administration.

It is a matter of sworn evidence from such important people as Gen. Leslie Groves, who was the head of the atomic project, that Communist espionage efforts to get atomic secrets existed here as early as 1943.

FBI Ahead

The fact is the FBI has been abreast of or away ahead of the committee in most cases. A Grand Jury has heard and examined numerous of the suspects in secret sessions lasting more than a year and indicted only a dozen known Communists who now are out on bail and whose cases probably will drag on for years.

The committee's report dramatically called for Justice Department trials on espionage charges for four persons. The Department looked over the evidence and recommendations submitted and curtly rejected it all.

The decision was that the committee's charges were too flimsy and nebulous to warrant any action.

Drew Gaining Supporters For Leadership

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 (CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario was reported today to be pickingup fresh support for Saturday's contest for the Progressive Conservative leadership.

Though this first day of the party's national convention passed with few new developments in the leadership race, delegates said they believed the 54-year-old Ontario premier was pulling far ahead of the three candidates who thus far have announced they will go to the balloting post with him.

The three, in the order of their chances in the pre-balloting betting, are John Diefenbaker, 53, member of parliament for the Saskatchewan riding of Lake Centre, Donald Fleming, 43, member for Toronto Eglinton, and Garfield Case, 49, member for the Ontario constituency of Grey North.

E. D. Fulton, member for Kamlops, B.C., president of the Young Progressive Conservatives, withdrew himself from the leadership speculation with an announcement that he had decided against entering the contest. He had been mentioned as a possible candidate.

Campaigning Buttons

As the three-day convention swung open in Ottawa's Lansdowne Park, delegates found the entrance to the convention halls placarded with huge posters proclaiming the merits of the various candidates.

Premier Drew's supporters began issuing "George Drew" lapel buttons and took over the adjoining horticultural building as a "Drew information" centre. Tea, biscuits and soft drinks were served to visiting delegates on one of the upper floors.

Backers of the second and third-place candidates—Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fleming—issued pamphlets detailing the careers of their nominees while the genial fourth runner, Mr. Case, button-holed delegates in the convention lobby.

There was little mention of the leadership race on the convention floor, aside from a non-commital reference by retiring leader John Bracken in his farewell speech, but there was considerable jockeying for support and favored positions behind the convention scenes.

Nominations for the leadership close at 6 p.m. today.

As was done during the Liberal convention here two months ago, if no one is elected by the fourth ballot, last-place candidates would automatically be dropped from each succeeding ballot. The winning candidate must have a clear majority of votes over all other candidates.

The candidates are expected to outline their views on policy matters in their nomination speeches tonight. Each candidate will be allowed to speak for 20 minutes while his mover gets 10 minutes and the seconder five.

Central School Holds Tabloid Sports

Team competition and co-operation were the keynote of a tabloid sports meeting held by Central School on Thursday afternoon at the school grounds. Two hundred and fifty boys and girls divided into 16 teams took part in four basic groups each of four teams: junior girls, junior boys, senior girls and senior boys.

Seven stations were so arranged that the teams rotated from event to event with each team competing in each event and all events running simultaneously. The meet was under the direction of R. K. McKee, vice-president, and H. V. Cunningham was chief scorer.

The double standard method of scoring points was used. Two standards of performance were set —A, the higher and B, the lower standard. Any competitor who attained the B standard was credited with 1 point for his team. If unsuccessful he lost 1 point. The successful B players tried the credited with 2 points for his A standard and if successful was team.

The meet was climaxed by a shuttle relay race which proved to be an exciting contest. Six runners were picked from each of the 16 teams. Prize ribbons were given to each member of the winning teams placed first, second or third in their respective divisions.

Home-Grown Players Share Honors With Imports

By The Canadian Press

Home-grown football players share honors with United States imports in the success of the teams which lead the Dominion's three major senior football u-logs.

Ottawa Rough Riders, who head the Big Four in the east and have twice beaten the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts, look on Windsor-born Tony Golab, football's golden boy, and Howie (Touchdown) Turner, second-year import from North Carolina as two of the main cogs in their powerful machine.

Much of the strength of Hamilton Tigers, unbeaten leaders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, comes from the forward-passing skill of Frankie Filchock, formerly one of the ace passers in the U.S. pro game, and Gerry Walsh from Halifax, a former English rugger player.

Calgary Stampeders, who top the Western Interprovincial Union with six straight victories, owe much to veteran Paul Rowe, formerly of Victoria, and triple-threat Keith Spaith, who played last season with Honolulu Warriors.

Mixes Attack

The 30-year-old Rowe who came to Calgary in the late 1930's is the team's leading scorer with three touchdowns. Quarter-back Spaith, a shrewd signal caller, mixed the Calgary attack to perfection. He kicks well and is a consistent grounder-gainer. His passing skill gives the Stampeders the west's most potent aerial attack.

Golab, now 32, is smashing the line as in pre-war days—before he went overseas and suffered severe wounds while serving as a fighter pilot with the RCAF. Still with the air force, he is Ottawa's leading scorer with 21 points —four touchdowns and a convert —in four games.

The 25-year-old Turner is tricky in a broken field, and also handles most of the team's passing and kicking duties. In five games he has tallied nine points but he has contributed to many other touchdown plays. He has settled in Ottawa and plays basketball in winter because "it's good for the hands."

Filchock's field generalship and superb passing skill have enabled the Tigers to down each of their three rival teams in the Ontario Union by one-sided scores.

Walsh, 198-pound battering-ram half who was born at Halifax 28 years ago, has scored five touchdowns for 25 points in three games.

Gin-and-Faith Treatment For Arthritis Attacked

VANCOUVER, Oct. 1.—(CP).—Medical science has found no "magic drops" to cure arthritis, but Lou Green, 57-year-old layman, maintains he has the "secret."

For the first time since a British Columbia government-ap-"cure," Green Thursday broke his pointed committee repudiated his silence.

He disclosed he has plans for building a clinic if necessary, and hopes to gain approval of the Federal government for sale of his medicine under the Pure Food and Drug Act.

From his home at Port Alberni on Vancouver Island, Green hit back at the committee which found he had used a preparation of watered gin, and a form of faith healing, depending to a degree on hynosis.

"If I can cure arthritis by hypnotism and gin and water, then I consider I am a very good man."

Self-styled mineralogist — a graduate of a correspondence school in 1918—he said:

"I use 12 elements, and I have taken steps to comply with Federal government regulations . . . in order that I may continue to relieve arthritis."

Treated 200

He has treated 200 patients many of whom claim he aided them. The committee examined 21, but found only two had shown improvement under Green's care.

"His theories of disease, diagnosis and treatment were unsound," said the committee report. "Patients reported to him by letter every three weeks . . rarely was a patient ever seen a second time."

He claimed analysis of his medicine, as reported by the committee, was incorrect.

Several of his patients maintain faith in his treatment, and have spurned the report.

'I am greatly improved," said Mrs. T. Stella of Blairmore, Alta., who journeyed to Vancouver Island for treatment.

Others denied the use of hypnotism.

Penicillin Dust Cures Colds

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 — (AP). — Penicillin dust, inhaled directly into the nose, throat and lungs has cured symptoms of the common cold in one to three days, three physicians reported today.

Their study, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, showed:

That a group of 169 common-cold patients treated, 42 per cent were considered cured and 38 per cent showed marked improvement.

"These phenomena cannot be fully explained on the basis of the known properties of penicillin and need further ivestigation," the doctors said, adding:

"In many instances the penicillin dust seemed to exert a vasocon-strictor (shrinking) action of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

"Also, on occasion, the pain of an acutely sore throat was ameliorated in one-half hour to one hour after treatment."

Pending further study, the researchers are assuming that the penicillin dust attacks not the virus that causes the cold, but the bacteria that prolongs it.

PATRICK BURKE, 18, Newcastle seaman, who left his ship, the Regent Panther, in port, in Montreal, because he wanted to become a Canadian, posed a problem for immigration officials. Until the British tanker on which he served for five months was out of Canadian waters, Patrick, by marine laws, couldn't be classed as a deserter. Immigration men, tried to get Patrick back on the ship. They attempted to book passage by air or bus, but failed. He was later booked as a deserter. Patrick wasn't exactly glum when he was told that under the law he was going to be detained at immigration headquarters. He believed it heightened his chances of becoming a Canadian. He wanted to find a job here that would aid him to bring his mother and 14-year-old sister to Canada. "I'm the luckiest man in the world," he whispered as he was led away. Immigration officials hope he is

Red Skelton Conducts One-Man Poll

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1 (AP)—After conducting the one-man Skelton poll throughout the country this summer, Dr. Red Skelton concludes the radio public is underestimated.

Red should know better than most comics. On doctor's orders, he took a vacation last summer and spent it going from town to town in the West, South and Midwest.

They preferred singing to blasting commercials.

The studio audience made too much noise; clapping irritated the listeners.

The music was good, but the tune should be played straight before a complicated arrangement is begun—"so we can whistle the melody."

Red added that there are no regional differences in taste — "People are people everywhere."

Standardization Of Threading Important Step

OTTAWA, Oct. 1.—(CP).—The International Standards Organization, with its principal aim of standardizing British and American industrial and military equipment, today appeared to have achieved its first measure of success.

Although the item may seem unimportant — an agreement on how Britain and the United States may manufacture nuts and bolts—an Ottawa official said it had great ramifications. It was an important item in the production of defence equipment.

Defence Department officials were particularly glad of a Washington report Thursday that a formal pact between Britain and U.S. on standardized threadings probably will be signed about the middle of October.

The agreement—a compromise—will lay down specifications for the adoption of a "unified" thread screw which in time will be used by all manufacturers in Britain, Canada and the United States, as well as other commonwealth countries.

In Ottawa it was learned that the move may cost industry in the three countries about $300,000,000 to scrap old dies and taps and adopt the new threadings.

Some Best Scores of Year Spark Kawartha Closing Day

Conversation on the Kawartha Golf course during closing field day competitions Thursday was punctuated with comment on ——— ———'s score. Best scores of the year were turned in by quite a number of ladies, and scores in general have never been so good on a closing day in more than a dozen years.

Five players reduced their handicap during the morning play, an unusual feat for so many in one day. They were Mrs. J. P. Watts, Mrs. V. Selkirk, Mrs. J. Raine, Mrs. R. Dinsdale and Mrs. C. A. Putnam of Hastings.

The weatherman, to, was in a good mood. Not in many years have the girls been able to wear shorts and cotton dresses on closing day. Usually their strokes have been hampered by the heavy clothing that protected from cold, rain and snow, and the bad scores chalked up in previous years were blamed on shivering hands that couldn't control the clubs.

Eighteen and nine-hole players completed their games before luncheon in the club house, and a short business meeting with Mrs. Adam Sands presiding. In the afteroon they competed for best driving and approaching and putting scores. Social members joined the circle for afternoon tea and presentation of prizes.

Large zinnias in gold and yellow were combined with white petunias in the tea table bouquet arranged by Mrs. John McMillan. Flanking silver candlebra held triplet tall white tapers. The tea was poured by Mrs. N. Hamley and Mrs. F. Buckland and served by Mes. K. McCannan, Mrs. H. McLean, Mrs. J. Condon and Mrs. McMillan.

Mrs. Sands expressed appreciation to the captains, assistants and executive members for cooperation in making the season pleasing to all. Club employees were remembered with praise of their services and a gift from the ladies' section, presented by Treasurer Mrs. J. Raine.

Lovely gifts were presented to the 18-hole prizewinners by Captain Mrs. Ed. Riley, assisted by Vice-Captain Mrs. D. Anderson, and to nine-hole winers by Captain Mrs. D. Meredith, with Vice-Captain Mrs. J. Condon assisting.

Prizes for the year were won as follows:

Woodcox; greatest reduction in handicap, silver division, Mrs. D. Anderson; bronze division, Mrs. D. Dinsdale and Mrs. Jack Raine, tied; yearly point prize, silver division, Mrs. Al. Clark; bronze division, Mrs. Don Dinsdale.

Closing field day prizes: first low gross, Mrs. Al. Clark; second low gross, Mrs. J. P. Watts; first low net, Mrs. D. Dinsdale; second low net, Mrs. C. A. Putnam of Hastings; first appriaching and putting, Mrs. H. Woodcox; second approaching and putting, Mrs. A. Sands; first putting, Mrs. V. Selkirk; second putting, Mrs. E. Riley; hidden holes, Mrs. Lionel Browne; least number of putts, Mrs. D. Anderson; longest drive, Mrs. D. Miller; best aggregate score on three drives, Mrs. R. Brindle; second aggregate driving, Mrs. H. R. Scott.

Point prize for the day went to Mrs. V. Selkirk; low gross for player not winning spoons during the year, Mrs. A. Sands.

The lucky draw was made by Mrs. F. M. Somerville and Mrs. J. Raine was winner.

Mrs. Al. Clark was winner of the club championship with Mrs. D. Anderson runner-up and consolation went to Mrs. D. Dinsdale. Winner of the handicap trophy was Mrs. D. Miller with runner-up, Mrs. J. Raine, and consolation, Mrs. C. Shaw. Winner of the Spring Trophy was Mrs. H. Woodcox.

DRAMATIC DINNER HAT—This season the dinner hat stays within a well defined category, created to top beautiful dinner clothes, rather than afternoon-into-evening things, as is sometimes the case. This creation denotes drama in the form of a delightful dinner hat, a dramatic swirl of black feathers on a lovely little black coq cap, the feathers brightly iridescent. A black feather stole completes an elegant ensemble.

Seven Presbyterial Circles Hold Fall Annual Banquet

A splendid rally of Mission Circle members and their friends gathered in St. Andrew's United Church Wednesday night to take stock of the past year's activities.

The delegates from the seven Presbyterial circles met at 6.30 for their annual banquet, when grace was offered by Rev. M. J. Aiken, pastor of the church. Following the supper the girls were led in community singing by Gladys Langton, and later were formally welcomed by Miss Jessie Martin, Presbyterial Mission Circle secretary. Greetings were brought by Rev. Mr. Aiken on behalf of the church board, while Mrs. Harold Rehill, the president, expressed the good wishes of the WMS Presbyterial, and Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, president, Bay of Quinte conference branch, extended felicitations of her seven Presbyterials.

The theme of the evening's worship service, "The Way of Love is the Way of Service," was led by Miss Jean Hammond of the Jean Wagar Mission Circle of St. James' Church, assisted by Misses Mabel Dulmage, Lottie Leggett, Gladys Langton and Mrs. J. E. Huggins.

Pembroke Speaker

The guest speakers were Mrs. W. L. Smyth of Pembroke, dean of the WMS School for Leaders, and Miss M. Gollan of the Church of All Nations, Toronto, who were introduced by Miss Constance Wagar and Mrs. Rehill.

Mrs. Smyth told the story of "The Shadow of Jesus" and how, during the last week of His earthly life, it had touched the lives of others, banishing sin and evil and bringing new hope to the blind beggar who followed Him.

Miss Gollan gave an interesting resume of the activities and purpose of the Church of All Nations, bringing many intimate little anecdotes to illustrate her work.

In answer to the roll call, representatives from the seven Mission Circles responded and three new circles were especially welcomed. It was decided unanimously to continue the sending of a delegate to the Whitby School for Leaders.

The results of the efficiency contest conducted each year by the circles were presented by Miss Jean Hammond, who announced that Millbrook circle were again the winner of the coveted efficiency banner. Mrs. W. H. Morton presented this trophy to the Circle and it was received by their president, Mrs. Hobbs, on their behalf. Mrs. Hobbs announced that one of their members, Miss Margaret Smith had entered the training school as a candidate for missionary service.

Introduces Book

Mrs. E. Johnston, Presbyterial Literature secretary, introduced the new Circle study book, "Straight Furrow" and also presented the Bookshelf to the best-read Circle of the Presbyterial. These were received by the president, Miss Gladys Langton, on behalf of the Jean Wagar Circle.

In an enthusiastic report, Mrs. Lunn of Millbrook, last year's delegate to the School for Leaders, told of the inspiration and practical help received during this week of study worship and recreation. She also thanked the girls for the privilege of being their representative.

Mrs. Pammett, of Trinity Circle expressed the appreciation of all the delegates to the speakers and to all contributing to the success of the evening's program.

Members of the Knox Circle acted as registrars for the occasion and the attractive place cards were designed by the girls of George St. Circle.

DOROTHY DIX

Vandal Grandchildren Resented by Aging Couple

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: We are a couple 54 years old. All of our married life we have worked hard to send our children to the best schools and give them every advantage that we could. Now they all are married and my wife and I thought we would indulge ourselves in some of the things we always have wanted; so we did over the the house and made everything very pretty and comfortable.

Dorothy Dix

But all of our efforts have fallen flat, for our grandchildren simply wreck our home. Our new walls are all marked up with crayons and pencils. The floors are scuffed. The chairs battered to pieces. And when we try to protect our home and things, the parents get angry. We can't even enjoy reading a book in quiet, or turning the radio on to hear an interesting program, because they make so much noise it is bedlam. And on Sunday nights they all come for supper and we have to take the money we would like to use on ourselves to buy snacks for them.

Then they have the nerve to say: "Mamma, you look so tired and you are getting thin." But they never even offer to wipe a dish. What shall we do?

TIRED GRANDPARENTS

Protection Needed

ANSWER: Unless you can hire a police squad to stand guard over your premises, I can see no way in which you can protect yourself against your grandchildren. They are vandals whose sole pleasure in life is destroying the cherished belongings of other people. To them your fresh paint and lovely new wallpaper and beautifully upholstered chairs are just an irrsistible lure to see how destructive they can be.

And don't expect any aid from these little hoodlum's parents. You won't get it. If it were their own walls that were being disfigured, they might make a faint protest against Johhnny drawing pictures on them, or they might say "don't" to Tommy if he was making a springboard of the new chairs, but as long as it is somebody else's property that is being wrecked Papa and Mama are not going to interfere with the innocent pleasure of the little vandals.

You have my sympathy, for I, too, have suffered at the hands of these boisterous youngsters, but there is nothing you can do about it. They say children will be children, but why their parents should let them be destructive pests, nobody knows. Maybe it is because the parents are so worn out with them they haven't enough strength to voice a protest.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My father has spent his life roaming from place to place, never trying to get a job and never contributing to the support of the family. He is practically a stranger to us and we haven't laid eyes on him for years and years.

But the other day, out of a clear sky, he comes home, saying he is getting old and sickly and wants to settle down with his wife and daughters. He doesn't seem to consider how hard we have had to struggle to get along without any help from him through the years. Do you think we are in duty to take care of him?

A DAUGHTER

ANSWER: You certainly are not. If he had been a good father to you, it would be your duty to support him in his old age, but since he ignored his responsibility to you and spent his time in idle dissipation there is no reason why you should work to support him.

He failed completely in his obligation to you. Now let him reap what he sowed.

PRINCE OF WALES SCHOOL

Graduation exercises were held at Prince of Wales school Tuesday evening when a large audience gathered to wish the young people success in future undertakings. Valedictory addresses were given by Phyllis Peryer of Mr. P. D. Windrim's class and Robert Pogue of Mr. Rutherford's class. Members of the graduating class who entertained were Helen Hubbell, piano soloist, Ethel Roberts, amusing monologue, and Robert Ross, violinist.

Speaking to the graduates Mr. P. D. Windrim said he was proud of their standing during the year and particularly pleased when 98.2 per cent had graduated. He assured them he would be interested in following their activities through High school and cautioned against snap judgments and care in regard to their attitude toward life. He was assisted in presenting the diplomas by Miss M. King and Mr. J. C. Rutherford.

The graduates are: John Amos, Kenneth Butcher, Harry Carleton, Joan Coombes, Donald Crossley, Elizabeth Davidson, Mayme Frost, Shirley Frost, Pauline Godfrey, Bill Goodson, Robert Hendren, Barry Hollingsworth, Helen Hubbell, Jack King, Ronald Leggett, Anne Maudsley, Margaret Patterson, Elizabeth Tearton, Shirley Peryer, Phyllis Peryer, Cherilyn Playford, Ethel Roberts, Ivy Robers, Barbara Roy, Eddie Selby, Shirley Smith, Roy Tully, Marilyn Windrim, all of Mr. Windrim's room.

After the presentations graduates were entertained with a program arranged by Miss King and Mrs. Foster and later refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Kearns and members of the executive.

Regular meeting was conducted by Mrs. F. Gray, president, who stressed the forthcoming regional conference in St. James United church on Friday, October 22. Mrs. H. J. Parnell led in prayer and Mrs. C. Gilders was at the piano. Mrs. E. Baggs gave an interesting report on the Dental Health banquet she attended this week.

Guest speaker Dr. R. C. Honey, talked on dental health, stressing care of the teeth from pre-school age onward, particularly with regard to proper nutrition and treatment. He praised the school and staff for splendid work and to the graduates he said, "the main object of your lives should be to learn to live peaceably with others."

Mr. L. Hollingsworth expressed a sincere vote of thanks.

Refreshments were served to the parents and friends by Mrs. A. Smith, Mrs. J. James and assistants.

Senator Urges 'New Look' In Public Life

OTTAWA, Oct. 1 —(CP)—A "new look" for women in public life was urged today when Senator Iva Fallis of Peterborough, called on women everywhere to educate the public "to break away from the old traditions."

In an address to delegates at ative convention, the party's only woman member of the senate noted that there was no legal or legislative obstacle in Canada to prevent women from occupying cabinet positions or positions in the diplomatic service.

"It would appear that custom rather than discriminatory legislation is responsible for the exclusion of women from certain branches of government service," she said.

"And so the next step forward —as I see it— is more intelligent work on the part of women themselves by educating first themselves and then the general public to break away fom the old traditions and accept the 'new look' for women in public life."

Has One Grievance

Senator Fallis said one grievance she had against the present government was "the way in which they have deliberately ignored the women of Canada during their long term of office." Canadian women had been lauded to the skies for the efficient way in which they had discharged their responsibilities during the Second World War.

Senator Fallis said the majority of women would gladly exchange some of those "verbal bouquets" for something a little more tangible in the way of recognition.

"Surely by the sacrifices made —by their work during two world wars, the women of Canada have earned the right to a voice in the counsels of peace."

"That women have an interest which is second to none in the issue of war and peace. . .is conceded by all yet the Liberal Government consistently excludes women from Canadian delegations to international gatherings."

WOOL AND RAYON FLANNEL WEAVE — Flannel woven of both wool and rayon is a great find for anyone, but especially grateful to those whose tender skin abhors very woolly fabrics. The fabric is warm but not heavy, moreover, ideal choice for indoor wear. It all adds up to good schoolgirl material, and here are two little pupils wearing it, one primly collared and cuffed with white pique, the other worn jumper style over a cotton blouse. Colors are cheery red, green, and navy blue.

We shall meet her some bright morning,
In the upper garden there.

Industrial Heads

duction, Mr. Matthews said, and to effect the reduction required there would have to be more united power saving. Mr. Matthews did not offer any encouragement for Sam Whitehouse of Sealright Company who, he said, were opening several new departments that were broadening production with new business and to that extent needed additional power.

"We are asking all industries that can possibly do so," said Mr. Matthews "not to take any power on Mondays. We'd hit the Sunday figure on Monday, 170,000 kwh., and averaging that with the four other days we believe we could get down to the 240,000 quota. CGE and Quaker Oats develop considerable power of their own, and if we could get a lot of rain that would be a big help to them."

G. A. Macdonald said everybody present was concerned about helping in the common effort. "We always have received the co-operation of the manufacturers and the public, and I think we'll get it again and we'll be able to come through without any harm to anybody."

Mr. Braund's comment on the probable action of the merchants was: "I think we should be open on the days the factories are closed."

Mr. Dobbin said the clear import of the Hydro letter was that remedial action must come at once. "The Hydro means business, and will start cutting Monday. We have had two weeks to think about it."

One of the suggestions in co-operative effort was the daily reporting of the big power users to the Utilities office of their meter readings as a means of ascertaining what was being generally accomplished in power saving.

CAPETOWN — Prime Minister Daniel Malan said that existing legislation in South Africa for the representation of Indians is "dangerous." It would lead, he said, to the representation of Indians by Indians in parliament and gradually there would be complete inequality between European and non-European.

TORONTO — Anglican mothers were urged by most Rev. G. F. Kingston, Anglican Archbishop of Nova Scotia, to encourage their sons to enter holy orders. The Primate of all Canada also suggested that daughters should be encouraged to make church work their full-time vocation.

Find Gandhi Writings

LONDON — The earliest published writings of the late Mohandas Gandhi have been discovered in a London office and will be presented to Kirshna Menon, high commissioner for India. Published in 1891 in the Vegetarian, magazine of the London Vegetarian Society, the writings were discovered by Roy Walker, author of a biography of Gandhi. Gandhi was only 21 and just about to be called to the bar when the series of nine articles with an interview and a photograph were published.

TOKYO — The first "Newspaper Week" in Japan's history opened with premier Hitoshi Ashida declaring that "we must have the determination to fight boldly against disturbers of the peace." The premier linked this theme with the subject of "Newspaper Week" by saying "we must cooperate greatly against enemies of a free press at home and abroad."

CAPETOWN — The South African parliament passed the third reading of the Asiatic laws amendment bill to end Indian representation in the Union assembly. Premier Malan recently described the purpose of the bill as to repeal part of the 1946 act which gave Indians a place in the assembly senate and Natal provincial council. He said it was part of the government's policy of separation of races.

THE HAGUE — The Roman Catholic newspaper De Tijd called Thursday night for renewal of lend-lease from the United States as the only way of financing a common defence system for the five Western-Union countries. This, the paper added, "will undoubtedly make heavy demands on the United States but will in the long run certainly be cheaper for them than a war to liberate Western Europe again."

SELECT HIM WITH CARE

GETTING the right partner is a goodly part of the battle in any case. It is especially important if you are the type of player who tries any monkeyshines in the bidding. Unless you have selected your partner with care, you are likely to find him either confused generally or else completely misled by some of your queer bids and more prone to believe them than the actual facts which should be indicated to him by your didoes.

Some large percentage of pretty good players would have gone haywire after hearing this bizarre series of bids by South, who was known to all of the others as a trickster with a liking for fantastic bidding. The particular person sitting in the North in this rubber game did the best possible thing, however.

After West doubled the 4-Spades, North considered a variety of moves. First was the shift to No Trumps because of holding something in every suit except the one last bid by her partner. Second she thought of shifting to diamonds, since they were bid before the spades and there was a three-card fit for them. Third, she thought of an additional rebid of the hearts, though they had already been bid three times, indicating six-card length when only five were actually held.

The fourth, and commanding, consideration was the fact that any guess might be wrong if it be made by anybody except South, the only player in position to know what was really going on. With the spade bid doubled by West, South would get another chance himself. So the astute lady in the North passed, and South of course left it in.

It was lucky for North and South. The club K to the A was followed by hearts for two club discards, so that no tricks were lost except one in diamond and

Two Bandits Captured In Alberta

Sought In Montreal For Police Slaying; Caught In Break-In

LETHBRIDGE, Oct. 2 (CP) — The possession of a few extra dollars might have meant the difference between prison and freedom for two Montreal men—Donald Perreault 28, and Douglas Perreault 25—who have admitted they are wanted for the murder of two policemen during a bank robbery there last week.

A chain of circumstances forged by the inability of the two to buy gasoline for the luxurious car in which they fled 2,000 miles from Montreal betrayed them on Friday to RCMP, whose suspicions were aroused on hearing that the men drove a black 1941 Cadillac sedan.

A similar car was used by the holdup men in Montreal.

The Perreaults, for whom the police had conducted a country-wide search, have been sought since the officers Constables Nelson Paquin and Paul Emile Duranleau, fell before a hail of bullets during the holdup September 23 of the East-end branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale.

Minor Charges

Charges of theft of gasoline and property damage—comparatively minor in view of later developments — were laid against the Perreaults after an RCMP constable at Taber, Alta., 32 miles west of here, had arrested them.

The two were spotted while breaking into a service station at Medicine Hat, Alta. They were convicted there Friday and sentenced to fines totalling $104, or 30 days.

On hearing of the type of car they drove, RCMP headquarters here ordered the men brought in for questionnig. Officers said they clung to the fictitious names they had given on conviction until the photographs and detailed descriptions of the wanted criminals were thrust before them.

Then, RCMP said, the two men —dirty and unshaven—confessed.

De Gaulle Hints New Resistance

PARIS, Oct. 2. (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle told a press conference today the French people must have a chance to elect him back to power or he will take other means to "save France."

He said the present regime was "sterile," attacked the five-power Western European alliance as "not worth much", and said the Western powers were handling the crisis with Russia over Berlin in deplorable fashion.

The alliance, which France has joined with Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, he declared, is centred in London and "it is wrong to centre in London the defense of Europe."

He said he did not want the Western powers to evacuate Berlin. "Above all I do not want them to surrender Paris," he said, adding that the first interest of England would be defense of itself.

U.N. Will Spread Its Appointments

PARIS, Oct. 2.—(CP). — The budgetary committee of the United Nations General Assembly today approved a proposal to improve geographical distribution of appointments to the U.N. secretariat.

The resolution, drafted by a working group which included Canada, was passed 42 to 0 with China abstaining. Secretary-General Trygve Lie will be asked to improve the distribution of appointments with due regard to the United Nations charter.

The Latin-American bloc contends the majority of appointments tend to benefit such countries as Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom.

No More Pound Loans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2. (AP) — Sir Stafford Cripps Friday notified the World Bank that Britain cannot permit the global lending institution to lend British pounds for reconstruction purposes.

Boats Collide, Nine Men Said Drowned

NEW YORK, Oct. 2(AP)—Nine men were believed drowned in the Hudson river early today when a tugboat collided with a 12,000-ton freighter, police reported.

Six men, were rescued from the 115-foot tugboat Anne Marie Tracy, which sank following a collision with the United States freighter Eliza J. Nicholson off the Manhattan waterfront.

After the collision with the tug, the freighter veered into two barges the smaller vessel had in tow, police reported.

Cause of the collision was not determined.

Lifeboats from the Nicholson and other vessels in the vicinity picked up the survivors.

Authorities said they believed the sunken tug had a crew of 13 and that one man was aboard each of the 1,000-ton barges.

A fireboat crew took to small boats to search under piers for the other missing men. Coast guard vessels also were dispatched to aid the search.

The tugboat was owned by the Tracy Towing Company of New York City. The Albany-bound freighter was listed as owned by the Mermuth Lembcke Steamship Company, also of New York.

Police said one of the two barges being hauled by the tugboat was recovered.

Police listed the following nine crew members as missing from the tug Anne Marie Tracy:

Russell Kimmel, Lawrence Gillian, Severinno Perria, Auralio Montoro, Joseph Soares, Christopher Vicksnes, Frank Gryzick, Henrick Gustavson and a man identified only as Serriera.

Demonstrate In Lobbies For 3 Leader Candidates

OTTAWA, Oct. 2—(CP).—Supporters of the three candidates in the running for the Progressive Conservative Party leadership made the ornate lobby of the Chateau Laurier fairly rock early today as they staged rival demonstrations. It is not quite clear how the demonstrations started, but suddenly thousands of leaflets showered into the lobby from the galleries. The leaflets proclaimed that Donald Fleming, member of the Commons for Toronto Eglinton, is the man who should be chosen leader.

Not to be outdone, supporters of Premier Drew of Ontario and John Diefenbaker, member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, swung into action. They formed rival, but friendly snake lines.

Mr. Drew's fans changed "Drew, Drew, we're all for you." Mr. Diefenbaker's fans used the old football cry, 'One-two-three-four, who-are-we-for?—Diefenbaker."

Pictures Everywhere

Pictures of Mr. Drew and Mr. Diefenbaker were hoisted everywhere in the lobby. A 'we want Drew" placard was place on the antlers of a giant moose head hanging in the lobby.

The melee dispersed almost as quickly as it formed. As delegates moved away they left a picture of Mr. Drew resting on the plaster chest of a bust of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, former Liberal prime minister.

Ballot books issued today by those who will vote for a new leader at the national Progressive Conservative convention contain 12 separate ballots, each a different color.

"If we have to use them all, we will be here until Tuesday," saaid C. V. Charters, the party's director of public relations. One of the candidates must win a majority to gain the leadership.

The surname of the candidates will be written on the ballot by the 1,311 voting delegates.

Escapes Jail Caught In Yard

TORONTO, Oct. 2. (CP)—William Martin, who escaped from jail Friday night at nearby Newmarket, was recaptured today in the backyard of a home at Willowdale, north of the city.

Provincial and suburban police closed in on the area after a tip that Martin was in the yard. Constable Bert Trotter made the actual capture with a football flying tackle.

Martin was taken to Newmarket to testify in a case there. He is under sentence of three years in penitentiary for breaking and entering a church.

Wets Lose Recount In Tweed By 2 Votes

TWEED, Oct. 2.—Decision on the recount of votes balloted at the recent voting on the beverage room question here has been announced by Judge J. C. Anderson, of Belleville. Judge Anderson allowed one vote which the deputy returning officer had disallowed as a "yes" which the deputy returning officer had allowed. The net result is that the "Wets" were defeated by exactly the same amount—two votes.

The "Wets" polled 494 votes and the "Drys" scored 333 votes. The affirmative side, however, on such issues, must have a three-fifths majority or, in this case 496 votes. The "Wets" had 494.

In rendering his decision, Judge Anderson commented on the closeness of the voting and said: "This is certainly a case where a re-count could properly be asked for." In the light of this he did not impose costs on either party and refunded the deposit of the applicants.

Appearing on behalf of the "Wets" was Malcolm Robb, Belleville, while C. H. Cowan, Tweed, appeared for the "Drys". The voting was held August 25.

Food Short In Poland

LONDON, Oct. 2. (Reuters) — The diplomatic correspondent of the News Chronicle says that reports he has received of a "developing crisis in Poland" show there are "grave food shortages in the towns," a vigorous campaign against the so-called Kulak peasants and large-scale arrests of Roman Catholic priests.

Weapon Seized By Police Puzzles Court— A Jack-Knife, But It Shoots A Bullet Too

TORONTO, Oct. 2.—A jack-knife that shoots one .22-calibre bullet caused considerable scratching of heads in Magistrate Martin's county court Friday. The magistrate had no trouble dismissing an attempted suicide charge laid against the owner of the combination and giving suspended sentence for possession of an unregistered revolver. What really puzzled the court was whether the weapon was a gun or not.

"I'm wondering if that can be called a pistol," the magistrate observed, after examining it.

"Well, it fires a bullet, so that means we call it a pistol," said the crown attorney. "It's worse than a pistol, because it doesn't look like a pistol. It's like a sword cane," he added.

"If I were a police officer and someone came to register a weapon like this," concluded the magistrate, "I wouldn't register it; I'd have it confiscated."

That was what happened to the gun, or knife, after the accused testified he had had it only two weeks, though it fired only blanks, and hence shot himself in the chin while examining it.

War Bride Committed For Trial

Quote Accused Saying She Shot Husband After Quarrelling

LINDSAY, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Jean McAllister, 25, must stand trial for murder in the gunshot death Sept. 5 of her husband, John.

Magistrate E. A. Gee Friday committed the red-haired Scottish war bride for trial after hearing Crown witness describe the events leading up to the Hamilton war veteran's death in the couple's log cabin farmhouse near Kirkfield. Other British war brides and Victoria county farmers packed the courtroom.

Outside the courthouse but pledged to help Mrs. McAllister were her mother, Mrs. Emily McInerny, 47, and the parents of the slain man. Mrs. McInerny flew across the ocean from Greenock, Scotland, near Glasgow, after neighbors raised funds for her passage. Donations still poured in from Greenock residents Friday.

Another witness heard this morning by Magistrate A. E. Gee was Bruce McAllister, brother of the dead man.

Doctor Wouldn't Come

A friend, Alex Lang, had called a "Dr. Anderson," at Kirkfield, witness testified.

"But Dr. Anderson told us he wouldn't come," McAllister related. "I then went to him and practically pleaded with him but he still wouldn't come. I told him my brother was dying. He said John's doctor was in Brechin and I'd have to get him. Brechin was about 15 miles away. It was about two hours before we got medical attention. I finally phoned the provincial police who got a doctor from Coboconk.

"In other words, he laid there nearly two hours before receiving medical attention?" asked Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan. "In your opinion, could anything have been done for him if he had been treated sooner?"

Might Have Had Chance

"I don't know. He might have had a chance. I think something could have been done."

McAllister said he saw his sister-in-law for the first time after the shooting at about 8 a.m. next day. "She was wearing slacks and a plaid shirt, no shoes. She was west of the house walking toward it with a man I think was the coroner. She was awfully upset and was crying."

"Would it be fair to say her eyes were dilated and staring?" asked the defense.

"I don't know, I would say her eyes were puffed She seemed slightly hysterical."

Dr. Robert Jamieson of Coboconk said he was called at 11.55 p.m. and reached the log cabin at 12.20 a.m. McAllister was unconscious, bleeding from the nose

6 Dead In Crash Of Norse Plane

OSLO, Oct. 2 (AP)—A Norwegian Airlines flying boat capsized near Trondheim today, killing six and injuring a number of others. The British philosopher, Bertrand Russell, was among the passengers.

One United States citizen, Mrs. Lisbeth Stroem, was reported to be among the victims. Her husband, Sverre Stroem, and 31 other passengers survived, first reports said.

Trondheim dispatches said the plane, a Sandringham flying boat, lost a pontoon coming in for a landing. This caused it to tip over later 700 yards offshore while it was headed north in the Trondheim Fjord off the village of Hommervik. It sank within two minutes.

Unconfirmed reports said all those dead, except Mrs. Stroem, were Norwegians. The stewardess, a Miss Samuelsen, was reported killed aboard the plane and the pilot was said to have been among the injured.

Most of the passengers scrambled out of the craft and started to swim toward shore. Rescue boats put out from the shore to pick them up.

Diefenbaker Bid Not Enough For Leadership

By TOM ALLEN
Examiner Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — John Diefenbaker made his great bid for leadership of the Conservatives last night. It was strenuous, it was sinewy, it was appealing, but it was not victorious. That is the forecast of the majority of journalists here in the press room beneath the assembly hall of the convention as they wait for the official verdict of the ballot counters. If Mr. Diefenbaker ever had victory within his grasp it was last night. He received as loud and frequent applause as Colonel Drew. For he is personally popular with delegates from all provinces. His supporters had a real enthusiasm which was contagious and throughout this convention it has been the ardour of the vote-for-Diefenbaker faction which has done much to make the convention lively and the question of leadership vital. Diefenbaker is thought by many Conservatives here to be the champion of basic human rights and the protector of the ordinary people's interests. The folk who live on Main street across Canada, not Bay street, Toronto. The Conservatives want to win the next general election. There are more main street voters than there are Bay streeters. Therefore Diefenbaker supporters argue he is the leader most likely to succeed. They argue too that Diefenbaker has done nothing to alarm Quebec. Colonel Drew, on the other hand, once called the French-Canadians "the defeated race."

The French-Canadian delegates have been enthusiastic about Mr. Fleming's candidature. Mr. Fleming has taken the trouble to learn to speak French fluently. John Diefenbaker preached for his call last night with an elocutionist's fervour, with deep-toned sincerity. But the call is not for him.

Successful Leader

Colonel Drew has proven to be what all Conservatives want — successful. He has won votes and influenced people even if he has not made friends to the same degree. He is a big man physically and administratively. The nabobs of the party believe that he can be successful in a Canada-wide election. This convention has no outward signs of being rigged. The discussion from the floor of the hall has been lively.

The ordinary delegates have been able to have five minutes each if they felt moved to talk about resolutions on policy. Nevertheless, it was Mr. Sabourin, the leader of the minute Quebec Provincial Conservative party who seconded Colonel Drew's nominations.

Soviet Changes Policy, Proposes Two Moves Put In Force Same Time

Vishinsky Makes Concession To West, Formerly Demanded Ban Before Body Formed, Wants AEC, Security Council Draft Terms

PARIS, Oct. 2—(AP).—Russia today formally proposed a simultaneous ban on the atom bomb and formation of an organization for international atomic energy control. In a concession to the Western Powers, Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky proposed that the UN Atomic Energy Commission and the Security Council draft two conventions prohibiting atomic weapons and setting up control over atomic energy, to be signed and put into force at the same time.

The Russians previously had demanded that the atomic bomb be banned before the control body was formed.

Gen A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's permanent UN delegate, told reporters the Russian proposal was a surrender to the obvious logic of the situation. He said he would continue to back his own resolution, calling on the Assembly to back the majority plan.

Warren R. Austin, United States delegate, told reporters the Russian resolution was an "Oriental manoeuvre of the type with which we are familiar." He said he doubted the sincerity of the Soviet move.

He said the United States wants to know what is wrong with the plan of the majority of the commission—which calls for international control of the atom first and then prohibition of atomic weapons.

Vishinsky presented the Soviet proposal during a speech of rebuttal in the U.N. political committee in which he charged the Western powers with misrepresenting Soviet objectives and proposals.

Today's Soviet move represented a major change in Soviet policy toward the atomic bomb.

Only Friday Vishinsky had argued strenuously that the bomb must be banned before control machinery could go to work.

The Western policy has been that the control machinery should be put to work first and the bomb banned after world production of atomic energy has been inspected and put under U.N. guardianship.

In an address prepared for delivery to the political committee of the U.N. General Assembly, Defence Minister Paul Ramadier of France, former Socialist premier, declared that prohibition of atomic weapons without adequate controls simply could not work.

The United States proposals for atomic controls already have been approved by a majority of the delegates on the U.N. atomic energy commission. The political committee is currently discussing atomic energy in connection with the commission's report, blocked by Russian veto. The question was transferred to the General Assembly from the Security Council after a stalemate resulting from the veto.

Ramadier contended there should be complete control of atomic energy development or no control at all. French experts had told him production of fissionable material for peaceful purposes is identical with production for war, and atomic energy could be transferred from peaceful to warlike uses in a short period.

PC's On Record Favoring Margarine Sale

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP). — The Progressive Conservative National Convention went on record today as favoring the "production and sale" of margarine in Canada.

An overwhelming majority of delegates on the convention floor voted by a show of hands for a surprise motion calling on the party to make this declaration:

"We advocate that the production and sale of all foods beneficial to health be permitted in Canada."

The mover, L. S. Eckhardt of Powell River, B.C., said specifically that the motion was aimed at removing the bars against the production and sale of margarine.

He appended it to a platform resolution which said the party would attack the high cost of living by, among other things, "encouraging and freezing production" because maximum production is the "surest way" of reducing the cost of goods.

Thus, advocacy of margarine becomes one of the planks of the party platform now in the making.

City To Pray To End Strike

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Mayor W. J. Macdonald today asked city ministers to observe Sunday as a day of prayer for a "just and equitable settlement" of the 12-weeks-old strike at McKinnon Industries, Ltd.

It was announced today the suggestion will be acted upon by ministers of all city churches.

The strike was called to back up the employees' demands for a 26-cents-an-hour wage boost.

Mayor Macdonald said the strike was a "community calamity, measured not only by a cold monetary standard but by loss of food, clothing and homes, as well as human suffering."

He asked clergymen to pray for "the guidance of almighty God in arriving at a just and equitable settlement."

Convict Fritz Thyssen As 'Minor Nazi'

KOENIGSTEIN, Germany, Oct. 2 — (AP). — Fritz Thyssen, former Ruhr steel magnate, was convicted today as a "minor Nazi" by a German denazification court.

The defendent, 73, was ordered to turn 15 per cent of his "available property in Germany" into a restitution fund for victims of Nazi persecution.

Thyssen was accused of having supported Hitler as far back as 1923, allegedly having made substantial contributions to Nazi party funds.

UN Palestine Mediator Asks More Help As Both Jews, Arabs Disregard Authority

PARIS, Oct. 2—(CP). — The United Nations Security Council is considering a request from the acting Palestine mediator for additional support to cope with "disregard for the authority of the United Nations" by both Jews and Arabs.

The Council Friday received a cable from the acting mediator, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, asking for action to halt Jews to withhold co-operation from the truce supervision organization and to place obstacles in the way of its effective co-operation."

(A dispatch from Jerusalem said the UN Consular Truce Commission also had cabled the Security Council accusing Palestine Jews of deliberately trying to discredit the commission and other UN agencies. The cable, signed by the United States Consul-General, John J. Macdonald, as commission chairman, asserted there is a "deliberate Jewish campaign led by the (Jerusalem) military governor, Dr. Bernard Joseph, to discredit the Truce Commission and the acting mediator, Dr. Bunche.")

Fight Over $2 Bill, One Dead, Other Held

TORONTO, Oct. 2. (CP)—Aloysius Kelly died today of injuries police said he received in a fight over a $2 bill. He suffered a fractured skull and cerebral haemorrhage in the fight Thursday night. Police said that Michael Chambers, originally charged with assault, has been charged with manslaughter in the case.

Anderson Wins 2 Ribbons At Black and White Day

Bertram Hoskin of Hamilton township won the male senior and grand championship ribbons of the Northumberland Black and White Day at Warkworth Fair Friday. His entry was "Springfarm Topper."

Eleven of the Holstein breeders of the county competed, with a slight decline in number of animals, but with improvement in quality. Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative, remarked that the farmers are becoming steadily better judges themselves. They are doing closer screening of their own herds.

Some of the members, however, added the information that sales during the year have taken some of the good show animals, and they are missed when Black and White Day comes.

"But," Mr. Banbury said, "the Holstein breeders of Northumberland have not sold the "goose that lays the golden eggs". They still have strong herds, although there has been considerable selling these last twelve months."

Reserve senior champion male was from the herd of Roy Oliver & Sons of Campbellford. "Otonabee Triune Grand" a senior bull calf owned by D. C. Hoskin, won the junior championship and was also reserve grand.

E. L. Anderson of Campbellford, took the female senior and grand ribbons with "Glenkindie Opal Posch".

Junior female title went to Thomas J. Convey on "Queen Calamity Johan", and the reserve junior to E. L. Anderson on "Glenkindie R. A. Sara".

The Holstein exhibitors were E. L. Anderson, T. J. Convey, J. M. Goodfellow, Bertram Hoskin, Douglas C. Hoskin, J. S. Macklin & Son, A. L. Merrill & Sons, Eric L. Merrill, Roy Oliver & Sons, J. W. Rannie and W. A. Atkinson & Son.

Big Cheese Show

The cheese show with 27 entries was substantially expanded by the plans of the directors to give more attention to this branch of the Northumberland dairy industry. The judge was J. M. Baine, London, chief dairy instructor for Central and Western Ontario.

August winners were: 1, Harold Elliott, of Trent Bridge Factory; 2, Ivan Sine, Stirling; 3, James Grey, Campbellford.

In the September cheese class the winners were: 1, Sam Hobbs, of Brighton; 2, Ivan Sin; 3, Murray Heath of Rylston.

New exhibition class was won by Harold Elliott of Trent Bridge followed by Ivan Sine and Harold Sexsmith of Burnley.

For the best finished cheese the winners were: Ivan Sine; Douglas Rowe of Warworth; and Murray Heath.

In the cheese section of the show the Warkworth directors showed an enterprise which brought forth immediate results, and the same energy applied to most of the other classes would prove a stimulant.

Baby Show Results

Winners of the baby show were decided by Dr. D. Bell-Smith of Hastings.

Under nine months: Gerald Richardson Langford, son of Mrs. D. Langford, Warkworth; 2, Eddie Allen Dingman, son of Mrs. Harvey Dingman, Morganston; 3, John Kenneth McDonald, son of Mrs. Jack McDonald, Warkworth; 4, Rostin Russell, daughter of Mrs. H. Russell, Norham.

Dennis Russell, son of Mrs. Chas. Russell, Warkworth, was the winner in the class of boys, 9 to 16 months; Bertram Hoskin of Cobourg, son of Douglas Hoskin, president of the fair this year, was awarded second prize; third was James McCready, son of Mrs. Jack McCready, Campbellford.

Diane Smoker, daughter of Mrs. J. Smoker, took first in class for girls 9 to 16 months; Nancy Tarsey, daughter of Mrs. R. J. Tarsey, Campbellford, was second.

Winning twins were Bruce and Barbara Sine, of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Sine, Stirling.

Charge Motorist Clipped Fender

Fred Pavey, of 217½ Charlotte Street, has been charged with reckless driving after he allegedly sideswiped the car of William Mantell, 584 Douglas Avenue, shortly before midnight on Friday.

According to police Pavey attempted to pass Mantell's car while they were both driving west on Charlotte Street. As Pavey's car pulled in front, it is claimed that his right rear fender was in collision with the left front fender of the Mantell vehicle.

Mantell claimed that Pavey did not stop at Margaret Avenue, where the accident occurred, but continued on to Albertus Street. Mantell, who was following, then called the police.

PC's Leo Murphy and V. J. O'Donoghue investigated and claimed that Pavey had been drinking. He was taken to the station and charged with careless driving.

Resort Owner Faces Two Liquor Charges

COBOURG, Oct. 2.—(ENS). — Evidence was taken yesterday in two liquor charges against Joe Kelley, Roseneath tourist establishment proprietor, the hearing taking all afternoon, adjournment being made to Tuesday to hear argument of counsel. Magistrate R. B. Baxter presided. Harry Deyman acted for the Crown and H. R. S. Ryan for the defendant.

Kelley was charged with keeping for sale on August 15, this year, and with having liquor in an illegal place. Police raided the place on the afternoon of August 15 and seized about ten cases of beer.

Provincial Constable Don Nicol testified that he, Provincial Constable A. Kellough and Constables H. Pearse and H. Seale of Cobourg went to Kelley's in a sedan with a New York license. In driving past the canteen building they could see people inside, sitting around tables with bottles and glasses. An amber liquid was in the glasses, the constable said. They parked the car and went in. All the constables were in civilian clothes. They went on through to a room in the rear where four men sat at one table and a woman alone at another. The men were Arthur Covert, Frank Mouncey of Roseneath; George Cleminger, Wallace Spears and a man who gave his name as John Flannigan of Port Hope, and Mrs. W. Bateman of Port Hope, the constable said.

Beer In Refrigerator

Two bottles were on one table, one at another and three at the third table. One table had a salt shaker on it. Covert took a bottle from the top of the table and put it underneath, when the police arrived. Beer was taken out of a refrigerator and put into some empty cartons. There were cases of beer in another room and in a cabinet were some shot-glasses. A box, smaller than a beer carton, was half full of beer caps. In the cash register was the sum of $30 and on shelves were some tobacco and chocolate bars. Kelley said the money was from the rental of boats, the constable testified.

"Kelley said to me, 'I was only giving the beer to these people'," the constable recalled.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Ryan, witness said that he didn't know whether it was a county road or not that ran past the building in question. It was correct that there were several boats for hire. There was no concealment of anything about the place.

Provincial Constable A. Kellough gave corroborative evidence. He told of taking about 73 pints of beer out of the refrigerator and taking it out to the car. Provincial Constable H. Pearse said there was a partly-filled bottle of rye found, with about two or three ounces of liquor in it.

Emmerson Barnes, manager of the brewery warehouse in Cobourg, identified three purchase slips covering the sale of 26 cases of beer from July 19 to July 29 to Joe Kelley. Eddie Cowin, manager of the liquor store, identified purchase slips which showed that on July 2 six bottles of rye were sold to Joe Kelley; on July 10, six more bottles, and on July 19, twelve bottles of rye. They were sold to Joe Kelley Jr. on the authority of Joe Kelley Sr.

At the outset of his evidence, Mr. Kelley denied emphatically that he kept liquor for sale. He denied telling the constable he gave any to the men. He had 35 guests registered on August 15, kept 25 boats and 15 were rented on that date. The liquor belonged to him, he said, used for his own use and treating friends. Some of the beer was his but a quantity of beer, about five cases, was put in the canteen by a Mr. Hoffman of Rochester who was a guest with 16 in his party. Mr. Hoffman planned a fish fry that night and had put the beer in for his party. Two cases belonged to a man named Gessener and the rest was Kelley's. He didn't give Flannigan or Cleminger any beer and was not in the building when it was taken to the table. The defendant said he was in and out of the place, fixing an outboard motor down in the cellar and also looking after the boat rentals. He said he didn't sell the woman any beer, nor Mouncey or Covert.

"Covert called to see about buying a shotgun. I talked it over with him but was called away before we finished the deal. I also was to see him about some lambs. He is a drover. Mouncey was with him. Mr. Speares had been fishing and came in to pay for the boat," testified Kelley.

Bought 26 Cases

Speaking of the beer, the defendant admitted that 26 cases were bought in July but pointed out that Cobourg was some 20 miles away and that he didn't get into town very often. To Mr. Deyman he said he permitted Hoffman to store some beer in the refrigerator because there was no other place to keep it cool. Earlier in the case, the Crown had filed as an exhibit, a sign "guests only," which had been found nailed the door leading into where the tables were located. Mr. Kelley said that if the door were swung open the sign would not be visible.

Mr. Deyman produced beer warehouse slips made out to Joe Kelley, Jr., covering the purchase of 79 cases of beer from June 6 to August 10 of which 59 were purchased from July 2 to August 10.

"I don't know anything about that. He may have got it for some of the guests when he was in town," replied Kelley. Defence counsel refused to consent to the slips being filed as exhibits.

Albert Hoffman of Holcomb, N.Y., said that he came to Joe Kelley's on August 8 with a party of 17. He had four or five cases of his own beer and the others had some. They kept it in the canteen, some in the refrigerator and some in another room. A man from Dayton, Ohio, also had some and kept it in the canteen. He recalled that Speares had fixed his reel for him and gave him two June Bugs. He wouldn't accept money so he took him and his two companions to the canteen and gave them a bottle each of beer. He then left them and went out on the lake again.

Wallace Speare corroborated his evidence. He and Cleminger and a man named Chelop, not Flannigan, came down for an afternoon's fishing and with them came their landlady, Mrs. Bateman with her children. She stayed on shore while they went fishing. Hoffman treated the three men to some beer. Mrs. Bateman later came in looking for some soft drinks for the children. Two other men she didn't know, and said that he didn't see them have any beer.

Arthur Covert testified that he had called to see about a gun and the lambs. He sat down inside to wait and noticed two empty bottles of beer on table. He testified he didn't know where they came from. When the police arrived he got a bit nervous and shoved one bottle under the table. Mouncey corroborated. Mrs. Bateman said that she never drannk beer and that the bottle on the table didn't belong to her. She had come in to get some soft drinks for the children.

Considerable reference was made in the Crown evidence to a bunk in the canteen building which had no blankets or other bedding except a mattress which was crosswise on the bunk. The defendant contended that he slept in the canteen on account of fishing tackle and outboard motors stored there and he testified that there were blankets and a pillow on the bunk.

PC Convention In Home Stretch To Name Leader

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 —(CP)—The Progressive Conservative national convention is in the home stretch. By nightfall the party will have a new leader and a new platform.

The three-way leadership contest this afternoon will hold the final spotlight at the three-day gathering. But, before the wind-up, the 1,311 delegates will complete the all-important task of drafting the program on which the party will base its next bid for election.

Twelve of 30 proposed platform planks were hammered home Friday. One put the Progressive Conservatives on record as favoring a ban on "Communist activities" in Canada. Another advocated "no appeasement" of aggression and "friendly firmness" toward Russia.

Address Convention

The leadership candidates addressed the convention Friday night in this order: Premier Drew of Ontario; Donald Fleming, Member of Parliament for Toronto Eglinton; John Diefenbaker, member for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan. All pledged themselves to continued development of national unity and preservation of Canadian democracy.

Garfield Case, member of the Commons for the Ontario constituency of Grey North, withdrew from the leadership race shortly before nominations closed. He said his decision was based on the advice of friends.

and mouth, and had a round wound on the left side of the skull over the ear. Deciding that hospital treatment was a necessity, he gave orders to have him moved. The wounded man had been taken only as far as the next room when he died. Witness said he believed he had died from internal bleeding probably caused by the head wound.

"Would the fact McAllister was unattended for over an hour and three-quarters have anything to do with his reaction to treatment later on?" asked Mr. Richardson.

No Help Would Save

"I think not. My opinion is that no help could have saved him," testified Dr. Jamieson.

Dr. C. Waite, provincial pathologist, said death was due to hemhorrage and shock There was no indication of powder burns around the small wound. The .22 calibre pellet was found embedded in the base of the skull after apparently entering from a high angle.

Thomas Wilson, Hamilton laboratory technician, visiting near the McAllister cabin on Sept. 5 was first to enter the cabin following the shooting.

"When I went in, I heard Jack whimpering like a dog or a baby. I talked to him, but he didn't answer. There was no reaction when I flashed my light in his eyes."

Found Pistol

Prov. Const. Lloyd Lyle said he had found the .22 Stevens pistol, a single-shot weapon, in the grass alongside the road, 70 feet from the McAllister lane. In the barrel was one fired shell.

He said Jean McAllister appeared across a field west of the house after daybreak Sept. 6. Asked what she had said, he testified she had said something about "walking and walking."

"What about her facial expression?" defense counsel asked.

"I don't understand you. I observed she was weeping."

"Were her eyes staring?" "No. She had been rubbing them with her hands."

Under cross-examination, Const. Lyle admitted a statement had been taken from accused in the Lindsay police office. Inspector Wilfred Franks was the only other person present. Contents of the statement were not revealed.

Defense counsel moved for dismissal on grounds that the Crown had failed to show evidence on each of the elements making up the crime of murder.

Not Shown Malice

"The Crown has not shown that it was a voluntary act, nor done with any malice. It has not even been shown to my satisfaction that the actual death of this man occurred, since no death certificate has been produced. There is nothing in the evidence not equally consistent with an accident, or with a manslaughter charge."

Magistrate E. A. Gee ruled that a prima facie case had been made out, with "a strong presumption that the accused committed the offense."

When the court asked her to rise, the accused woman said in a low voice: "No. I don't want to say anything."

After the committal, before she was led from the court, Salvation Army officials and spectators crowded near to clasp her hand and utter words of encouragement.

Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan of Lindsay is conducting the crown's case. H. E. Richardson, Lindsay barrister, is appearing for the accused.

The courtroom was packed for the hearing of the case which has aroused wide-spread interest and sympathy for the accused.

Wearing a Scotch plaid skirt, her long red hair in braids, Mrs. McAllister listened as Miss McCallum testified. Her mother was not in court as Mrs. McAllister was led in by a police matron carrying an umbrella to shield her from photographers.

Collect Money

GREENOCK, Scotland, Oct. 1—(CP)—Money was still arriving today for a fund which enabled the mother of Mrs. Jean McAllister, charged with the murder of her husband near Lindsay to go to Canada to be with her daughter.

More than £150 ($600) was raised in a fortnight after news was received that Mrs. McAllister, a war bride from Greenock, had been charged with murder. Women and childen made door-to-door canvasses. A children's concert raised £5 and anonymous contributions included one of £10. It is expected the fund will total £250.

The mother, Mrs. Emily McInerney, 47, arrived in Canada several days ago. She then had only £5, but residents of Lindsay have been caring for her since her arrival.

Salvation Army officers in Toronto today had agreed to engage "one of the best lawyers in Canada" to work with Lindsay counsel in defending the war bride.

The Rejected Gospels

BY E. R. JAMES

Forasmuch As Many Have Taken In Hand To Set Forth A Declaration Of Those Things Which Are Most Surely Believed. St. Luke 1; 1.

Have you ever wished to know what those other Gospels contained and why rejected. These extracts will help you to understand.

"When Jesus was returning home with Joseph in the evening He met a boy, who ran and thrust Him so violently, that He fell down. And Jesus being vexed said to him:—"As thou hast thrown Me so shalt thou fall and not rise". And the same hour the boy fell down and died. And some who saw what was done said: "Whence was this boy born, for every word of his becomes at once a deed." And the parents of him that was dead came to Joseph and made complaint:—"Thou who hast such a child canst not dwell with us in the village. Teach Him to bless and not to curse, for He killeth our children."

"On another day Jesus went into the street and seeing some boys met to play He followed them. But the boys hid themselves from him. Therefore when the Lord Jesus had come to the door of a certain house, and saw the woman who stood there he asked her where the boys had gone. But she told him there was nobody there, the Lord Jesus said again: —Whom are these you see in the vault". She answered that they were kids of three years old. And the Lord Jesus cried aloud and said:—"Come out, O kids, to your shepherd" And the boys came out having the form of kids."

"The teachers knew Jesus to be of excellent understanding and received Him gladly. When he had written for Him the first lesson, which is A and B., but Jesus was silent and answered the teacher nothing. Then the teacher was filled with wrath and smote Him on the head. Jesus being angry, cursed him and the teacher fell down and died."

"Probable sayings of the Christ

"On the same day, having seen one working on the Sabbath, He said to him; "O man, if indeed thou knowest what thou doest, thou art blessed; but if thou knowest not; thou art cursed and art a transgressor of the Law"

And Jesus says: "For those that are sick I was sick; and for those that suffered hunger, I suffered hunger; and for those that thirst, I suffered thirst"

"He that wonders shall reign, and he that reigns shall rest."

Will you read the following, one of the most moving passages from St. John, and thank God that He has guided His Church to retain the true Gospels:—

"Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into Hand, and that He was come from God and went to God; He riseth from supper, and laid aside His garments; and took a towel and girded Himself. And after that He poureth water into a basin and began to wash the disciples feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith He was girded. Ye call Me Master and Lord, and ye say well; for so I am. If I then, your Lord and Master have washed your feet, ye ought also to wash one another's feet."

St. John 13; 3.

What do you think of the Gospels? Does it appeal to your heart and soul?

I DID EAT THE BOOK AND IT WAS IN MY MOUTH AS HONEY FOR SWEETNESS.

Mr. Sabourin has a great deal to do with selecting the Quebec delegates to the convention. It is a large delegation. There are 322 listed, as against 465 from Ontario. Together these two blocs account for more than half the 1313 authorized delegates. At a caucus of the Quebec delegation on Friday, it was decided to have a free vote on the leadership. If however, Mr. Fleming came out third of the first ballot, the Quebec vote for Fleming would be transferred to Col. Drew.

Friday night was really the high spot of the convention. During the morning and afternoon and again today until the balloting ended the delegates were hard at work at the outwardly dull job of passing on resolutions and party policy. Friday night at 8.00 the assembly hall was crowded to the steel girders. It was the biggest assembly of the convention. In the first row of the platform sat the three candidates, their wives as intermediaries. The canopy of blue and white above them glistened in the flood lights of the movie cameras, the shields bearing the coats of arms of the provinces and of the Dominion blazed behind. The contest for leadership has been so active that dramatic platform—not the platform draw up by the party—did not outshine the drama of the leadership contest.

Colonel Drew spoke adroitly, smiling in an unassuming way, which might have counteracted any impression that he is cold and aloof. The best phrase of the evening was his, when he referred to the Liberals, the CCF and the Communists as "Centralists, Socialists and Communists."

Mr. Fleming's fresh vigor and rather apparent moral uprightness made less popular appeal than his ability to address the convention for five of his twenty minutes in French. Mr. Diefenbaker spoke as a man with a mission. His speech was a strenuous twenty minutes for the listeners.

Now the large convention and the large day ends. The Conservatives have put on a great show of vitality. The job the delegates have set themselves is to attempt to carry that vitality into the constituencies.

Only people whom the Examiner's representative knows who were disappointed with convention were two guards at the National Art Gallery. The guards mourned that there have been few visitors to the gallery compared with the number who visited it when the Liberal convention took place in Ottawa two months ago.

CSU Director Gets 2 Years, Abets Boarding

THOROLD, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Michael Jackson of Toronto, Canadian Seamen's Union director, today was one of four men sentenced to two years in penitentiary on charges of counselling and abetting the armed boarding of the freighter Glenelg, a Canada Steamship Lines vessel.

The boarding took place last April in the Welland ship canal, during the dispute between the CSU and four steamship companies. The union claimed the companies had failed to honor union agreements, the owners said they would not deal with what they termed a Communist-led group.

Three Others Jailed

The three others jailed were: Raymond Fourgere, 21, Truro, N.S.; Louis Schmaltz, 30, Thorold, and Basil Dawson, 32, Owen Sound.

A counselling and abetting charge against 19-year-old William Kuzman of Orillia was dismissed. James Burke, 20, of Inverness, N.S., who pleaded guilty to a boarding charge, was sentenced to seven months in reformatory.

ONE MINUTE NEWS ABOUT JOHNS-MANVILLE

Prompt Action Avoids Trouble

If you noticed a board loose on your front steps you'd have it fixed right away, before it caused trouble. Yet many people know their roof leaks and often do nothing about it. Even though they know when rain seeps through a worn spot it causes the roofing boards to rot and decay — adds up to expensive trouble!

The best way to prevent destructive leaks is to have an expert like your Johns-Manville dealer carefully check your roof for worn spots. If he advises a new roof, ask him about J-M Asphalt Shingles. They're colourful, attractive and long-lasting. For extra protection against fire, choose J-M Flexstone Asphalt Shingles made on a base of heavy fireproof asbestos felt.

Oleo Battle Renewed Before Court

By DOUGLAS HOW.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP) — With some notable absences in the ranks of its warriors, the battle of margarine will rage anew Tuesday before the Supreme Court of Canada.

The question is whether the 62-year-old Federal ban against the butter substitute is constitutionally valid. The request for the court test originally came from the Senate, at the prodding of Senator W. D. Euler (L-Ontario), foremost champion of repeal.

The National Dairy Council, major voice of the dairy industry, also declined to enter the field. A spokesman said it had never expressed itself either for or against margarine and would not enter a case that would be decided entirely on legal points.

Those who will be represented are the Federal Government, whose Dep. Justice Minister F. P. Varcoe will take the traditional stand the legislation is valid; Senator Euler who will be represented by Senator Salter Hayden (L-Ontario), one of his backers in the Senate's perennial battles over the issue; the Attorney-General of Quebec and possibly L'Association Canadienne des Electrices of Montreal.

A Judge of the Court will hear today (Friday) a motion to allow the association to be heard. It was not one of those groups invited by the Court to appear. However, it was left open for any individual or group to make application to be heard.

The others who were invited to appear and decided against it are the Canadian Association of Consumers and the Canadian Manufacturers Association.

It is customary for the full bench of seven Judges to sit on tests of constitutional questions. The margarine case was placed at the head of the docket list because of its importance.

Pardon Dancer In Cuban Killing

HAVANA, Cuba Oct. 2—(AP)—Patricia (Satira) Schmidt, exotic dancer who shot and killed her married lover on a yacht in Havana harbor, was pardoned Thursday night by President Grau San Martin.

Patricia, 23, of Toledo, O., who used "Satira" as a professional name, admitted she shot John Lester Mee of Chicago after a violent battle aboard his yacht April 8 1947.

She pleaded self-defence, saying he beat her and threatened to kill her during an argument which started when she discovered he was married.

Satira has been serving a 15-year sentence. She has been in prison since April 13, 1947, the day Mee had been shot in the neck with a .22-calibre bullet.

The pardon must be signed by the prime minister and the minister of justice and the decree must be published in the Official Gazette before the sultry dancer is released, but these formalities are expected to be completed today.

Two New Plays Prove Flop On Broadway

By PAT USSHER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 — (CP)— Two light-weight comedies with the accent on froth gave Manhattan theatregoers something to laugh about this week but failed to steam up any real exuberance.

Two other plays opened, were shrivelled by critical blasts and closed.

The mildly-amusing newcomers, handicapped mainly by weak plots, were "Town House" and "Time for Elizabeth." The flops were "A Story for Strangers" and "Grandma's Diary."

Near the Top.

"Town House," a comedy based on the friction generated by three young couples sharing one New York house, keeps approaching a top-notch level, but never quite makes it.

Director George S. Kaufman puts the characters through a relentless and sometimes involved pace. Donald Oenslager devised the handsome double-decker set, consisting of a drawing-room at stage level and two smaller bedrooms upstairs.

Mary Wickes, the acting star of "Town House," gives a fine, pugnacious performance. Hiram Sherman is happily cast as her research scientist husband and June Duprez is easy to look at as the socially-prominent Lucille Tremaine.

Contrived Plot

Norman Krasna and Groucho Marx combined to write "Time for Elizabeth," the story of a business executive who retires and then regrets it. The two experts provide plenty of amusing lines but the plot is woefully contrived.

No Miracle Here.

"A Story for Strangers" is by Marc Connelly, a playwright who should have known better. Connelly, now dramatics professor at Yale, dedicated "story" to the proposition that it takes a miracle to improve human beings in general. The miracle, in this case, was a small-town horse who talked and thereby reformed the grasping banker, the town's bad girl, and sundry other stereotypes.

Unhappy Memory

"Grandma's Diary" lasted four days and five performances. No one complained at its short stay.

The first production of the American Theatre group flopped dismally. Author Albert Wineman Barker called it a comedy. It wasn't.

7,000 Miles Away, Didn't Forget Inn

BALDOCK, Herts., England, Oct. 2 (CP) — Bluff Sydney Gray, for 14 years owner of the George and Dragon Inn, was 7,000 miles away in Capetown when he died last March.

But his love was still for the hotel, which he has sold to his manageress, Miss Beatrice McLaren, before sailing for South Africa.

His will left most of his £20,000 ($80,000) estate to her, the staff, "my friends in the bar."

His ashes were brought back to Baldock and scattered in the churchyard. Then his old customers returned to the pub and drank to his memory.

Only $239.

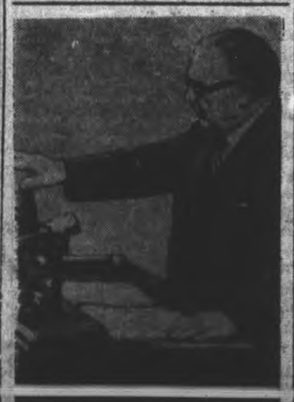
Anglican Primate At Kingston Banquet

KINGSTON, Oct 2 —(CP)— Nearly 500 clergy and lay members of Ontario diocese of the Church of England in Canada Thursday night attended a banquet honoring Most Rev. George F. Kingston, Anglican primate of all Canada.

Speaking in the city where he was ordained as a deacon in 1916, the primate referred to the recent world council of churches assembly at Amsterdam as "a striking example of what unity there can be."

Difficulties between denominations had not been glossed over, he said. He commended Rt. Rev. John Lyons of Kingston, bishop of the diocese, for his wisdom, graciousness and strength of character in dealing with "the crucial problem of church reunion."



BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY Ernest Bevin as he addressed the general assembly of the United Nations in Paris. Mr. Bevin denounced the Soviet disarmament proposals as a trap and warned that Russia alone will be responsible if the world is plunged into the "black fury" of atomic war.

Good News For Everybody

At the end of a week when so much of the news has been gloomy, we are glad to be able to comment on a matter which is good news for everybody. The Hon. Douglas Abbott, our Finance Minister, announced this week that Canada's dollar position was much improved, and that in consequence restrictions would be removed from the import of tomatoes, lettuce and cabbage from the U.S.A. For about a year these vegetables have been on a forbidden list, because importing them cost Canada more American money than we could afford. Now we shall have our fresh vegetables for winter eating once again.

* * *

It will be recalled that when the restrictions on these items of food were introduced there was some silly talk about "austerity"—as though the absence of luxury foods from our tables were a serious blow. (If anyone thinks that green vegetables out of season are not luxuries we must remind him that our parents and grandparents never heard of such things.) But Canadian housewives found that they could manage very well without the restricted items; sometimes they yearned for salad and could not have it, but nobody suffered anything that could reasonably be called hardship.

* * *

Quite apart from the fact that we can now pamper our palates with out-of-season vegetables we may be glad that the system of mild restriction has improved our financial position with regard to the U.S.A. And the fact that some of the restrictions have been removed at the first opportunity is an assurance that the remainder of the restrictions will be lifted as early as possible.

The High Cost Of Higher Education

University students and their education have become increasingly important national concerns in Canada, if only because of the number of universities and students. There are today in this country twenty degree-granting universities. There are nearly 80,000 full-time students, more than in the whole of Great Britain. The financial aspects of college education are certainly not the most important but they are a heavy concern in these years.

* * *

The undergraduate or his parents are concerned with the fees which have recently risen and the cost of subsistence—the latter being particularly worrisome to the 40,000 ex-servicemen who are students. The universities are having to meet rising costs of buildings, of staff, of equipment, and also a great increase in the numbers of students. It is not generally realized that each student is a financial liability to a university. In general the fees he pays account for less than a third of the annual cost of ministering to him.

* * *

Universities are expensive institutions to equip and maintain, a college education expensive to obtain. How are the expenses to be met? Fees alone will not do it. If colleges were to assess the full costs against the students, there would be almost no students. Endowments alone will not suffice. Interest rates are low and income taxes high, so that our and British and American universities can no longer depend on private donations and bequests as they did before the invention of the income tax. (In this regard we note the generous public response to recent fund-raising campaigns of McGill, the University of Montreal, Bishop's University and the University of Toronto; the campaigns which have ended have achieved their large financial aims.)

* * *

Before the war universities in Britain, Australia, and Canada were generally able to resolve their financial problems in this way: one-third of the costs were met by fees, one-third by endowments, one-third by government grants. Now the state must take more of the burden. In 1938-39, 20,000 of the 50,000 students in Britain were "assisted"; now 50,000 of the 76,000 are receiving assistance from public funds. In 1920-21 the annual British Government grant to universities, according to Margery Fry writing in the May issue of the Universities Quarterly, was under 800,000 pounds. Today it is nine million, and will rise by 1951-52 to twelve million pounds (fifty million dollars.)

* * *

What are Canadian governments doing for Canada's greater university population? The Federal Government is in a curious position. By the B.N.A. Act of 1867, education is a provincial matter. The Government of Ontario, whose head is also the Minister of Education, has a generous concern for higher education. Other provincial governments are likewise going to the financial assistance of their universities. Nevertheless, the Federal Government's resources are necessary. Ottawa is loath to step into this provincial field, though its grants to the forty thousand veterans at college have not been protested as infringements of provincial rights. University officials are anxious to have some continuation of federal aid such as has been given through the veterans' educational grants. In a recent address in Peterborough, Chancellor Gilmour of McMaster spoke favourably of the British "University Grants Committee". This committee allocates on a quinquennial basis the monies granted by the Government. There is no unseemly public scramble by separate universities for gobs of grants, nor any partisan political lobbying. It is a system which should commend itself to Ottawa.

Clergymen And Income Tax

At a meeting of the United Church General Council in Vancouver this week complaint was made that Protestant clergymen who are provided with houses by their congregations are unfairly taxed in comparison with Roman Catholic priests; indeed, there were some rather wild suggestions that the Church of Rome was favoured in this matter because some officials of the Department of Internal Revenue were of that faith. But the root of the matter lies in certain technicalities which we think that the Protestant churches would do well to investigate.

Under present laws, anyone who receives food or lodging as part of his pay must include the value of that food or lodging in his statement of earnings for Income Tax purposes. Many clergymen who receive free houses as part of their payment come under this ruling. On the contrary, any professional man who gets his income in the form of fees, pays tax on his net income—that is to say, on all that he earns after deducting expenses incurred in earning his fees. The Roman clergy come in this class, because they receive not salaries, but fees for specific services. The fact that dwellings are provided for them by the Church (not, be it observed, by their congregations) is considered a private arrangement of their own.

It is clear, also, that if clergymen who received free houses as part of their remuneration were not taxed on that addition to their income, it would be unfair toward the many Protestant clergy who have to provide their own houses.

The Income Tax status of clergymen is plain enough: if they live by fees they are taxed on that basis, and if they are paid a salary they are taxed as salaried men.

It is not surprising that Protestant clergymen, who are almost invariably married and who have children to provide for, should feel some envy of Catholic clergymen, who appear to enjoy a better standard of living. But we feel that they should take up this matter with their own congregations, rather than with the Income Tax authorities. Though we believe that the situation is improving, it is true that there are still many congregations who would rather give their pastor a house to live in than the equivalent value in money. This scheme provides him with a dignified, but not always a convenient or modern house, and it gains him no advantage in taxation. Perhaps the day has passed when such an arrangement is desirable.

Diary Of An Organ Pumper

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Called on an acquaintance and found him deep in a chess problem. Chess is a game which I admire deeply, but I like to think about it better than I like to play it. I am a sensual chess player; I enjoy the jolly appearance of the board, and the pleasant shapes of the chessmen; if the set is an ivory one it is my delight to fondle the queens and wanton with the bishops, rejoicing in my sense of touch. But as soon as I begin to play my pleasure vanishes, for in course of a move or two I am subjected to some ingnominious trick called Fool's Mate, or Moron's Mate, or something of the sort. In deed, a keen chessman whom I once knew invented a completely new manoeuvre, which he christened Mongoloid Idiot's Mate, by means of which he beat me in a single move. People of grimly mathematical mind play chess to win; as an aesthetic chess player I prefer to push the pieces around the board, creating pleasant patterns.

MONDAY: My garage was moved today, by means of an ingenious system of rollers, and set on a new foundation. I was left gasping by the apparent simplicity of this operation. I had fully expected that a big crane would arrive which would pick up my garage and swing it, like the House of Loretto, to its new place; I imagined the garage flying through the air with lawn-mowers, decayed sofas, bicycles, superannuated awnings and other junk dripping through the floorboards. But instead two men stood calmly on the grass, saying "Easy does it", and "Ah, ah, there" while a smiling young man pushed the whole building into its new place.... Went to my office, still marvelling, and found it very cold. But did I turn on my electric heater—the only course of warmth which my workroom possesses? No, I did not. "The Hydro relies on me to get it out of the mess it has got itself into", said I, as I shoved newspapers under my coat like a tramp, "and nobody shall say that Marchbanks let the Hydro down. If the great moguls of the Hydro are boobs, nobody shall learn it from these quivering blue lips". This virtuous resolve sustained me through a remarkably chilly afternoon.

* * *

TUESDAY: Heard a discontented fellow complaining about the conduct of the Hydro Commission this morning; he said that they were being arbitrary. "Yah! Red agitator!" I screamed; "why'n'cha take a one-way ticket to Moscow? The idea! As if civil servants in a great democracy like this could be arbitrary, even if they wanted to! They wouldn't know how! You'd better stop that kind of un-Canadian talk right away!" I am a fearless fighter for Hydro, and I have hopes that when the present power crisis is over (about 1960) the Chairman of the Commission will decorate me with Hydro's most coveted honour—the Order of the Dim Bulb.... Saw two portraits today, representing King George V and Queen Mary. They were very painstakingly wrought, and the crowns were made of gold foil glued to the canvas, in which genuine imitation jewels had been stuck. They were ikons rather than pictures. But why, I wondered, did the artist stop there? Why not real hair in the King's beard? Why not glass eye glued to the faces Why not cunning chest-heavers behind the canvas to simulate breathing?.... Have I discovered a new art form?

* * *

WEDNESDAY: I see that a great conference of dentists has declared that most toothbrushes are useless. Certainly this is true of mine. I can never remember to buy a new toothbrush, and the raffish object which now hangs beside the laundry tubs at the Towers does no credit to me or to mankind in general. I brush my teeth not because I think they need it, but from sheer superstition; years ago my school nurse, Miss Toxaemia Dogsbody, beat the notion into my head that if I did not go through the rite of the toothbrush three times a day my teeth would all turn black and fall out—probably in a public place. Now that I have come to years of discretion I know that I smoke too much to lose my teeth; they are all cemented into my gums with nicotine. I also know that the corporeal part of Miss Dogsbody, in spite of all her health rules, came to a very sticky end. But the spirit of dear old Toxaemia lives on—hovers, in fact, in my bathroom right over my debauched and useless toothbrush—and makes me use the thing despite the protestations of my reason. "Give us a child until he is five, and he is ours for life", say the Jesuits; Miss Dogsbody knew that, too.

* * *

THURSDAY: The good old custom of putting the big fruit on top of a basket and the small fruit underneath is called deaconizing, and is a recognized art-form in the fruit trade. But this morning I bought a basket of peaches which had been not merely deaconized but archbishopized; under the top layer was the worst clutch of misshapen culls I have ever seen. I shall invent the Marchbanks Transparent Fruit Punnet and wipe out this infamy.

FRIDAY: Read a newspaper article by a handwriting expert; it contained a verse from Gray's "Elegy" in the writing of Thomas A. Edison, and the expert declared ecstatically that it revealed "a keen, critical, alert intelligence....painstaking thoroughness, accuracy and patience for details". What she did not say was that in an extremely well-known verse containing thirty words (it was the one which begins, "The boast of heraldry, the pomp of pow'r") Edison had misquoted seven of them, so that his accuracy-score in this instance was a mere 66.6 per cent. Like many another man, the late T.A.E. appears to have been a ready quoter but a sloppy rememberer.

* * *

SATURDAY: Met a man today whose job is selling cars, but whose hobby is playing the organ—not the reed-organ, or the electric organ, or the Mighty Frankfurter, but the one, true and apostolic pipe-organ. I am continually being amazed by unlikely men who prove to be performers upon this difficult and somewhat inaccessible instrument. One of the strangest was an American whom I met in England; it was his delusion, when the wassail bowl had circulated a few times, that any ordinary piano was an organ, and he would play Bach most movingly on the keyboard, trampling the empty air with his feet in the meanwhile, executing magnificent pedal-passages on pedals which were not there. I thought that this was a mere vapour of his brain until one day I steered him into a church, and pumped the bellows while he played with admirable taste and technique. In England there are still many organs which require to be pumped by manpower, and in my time I have supplied the wind for some remarkable displays. As one pumps an organ one enjoys a delicious emotion of humility, being for the time a truly selfless servant of the Muse.

Murder In The Temple

(WASHINGTON POST)

ALL the evil in the world is epitomized in the way that death has come to Count Bernadotte and the French member of his mission, Colonel Serot. Both were ambushed and killed by members of the Stern gang in the Jewish quarter of Jerusalem. That messengers of peace, symbols of the world's conscience, should be slaughtered in the City of Peace has about it a Satanic touch. It is almost as if Mephistopheles had sought by one stroke to crush man's faith in his own redemption, and had picked upon this devilish deed. It is, indeed, murder most foul. All the good and noble things in man were enshrined in the mission upon which Count Bernadotte was embarked. The Sternists have snuffed out two lives, but, in doing so, they have shot at a target which is nothing less than the values of our common society.

The sorrowing world has need to see that this wretched assassination misses the greater object that the murders were aimed at—that Faust does not play up to Mephistopheles. Dark forces are abroad in the world, and they must be resisted, or the Evil One will triumph. The Sternists, reported by O.S. officials as the presumed killer, seem to be his agents. They are a secret fraternity of assassins, mainly of very young men, who have sworn to take vengeance and exact retribution for persecution. They sprang out of the disturbances 10 years ago with the Arabs in Palestine; dissidents from those official Zionists who did not approve of retaliation against the Arabs. The Zionists formed quasi-military groups for the purposes of self-defence, but the believers in direct action started Irgun Zvai Leumi, or National Military Organization, which, unfortunately, gained considerable support in the United States. The Sternists, founded by the Polish Abraham Stern, in turn seceded from the Irgun, and bound themselves to individual and sacrificial acts of murder. Four years ago the Sternist toughs horrified such friends of the Zionist cause as Mr. Churchill by slaying his great and good friend, Lord Moyne, British Resident minister in the Middle East.

It was then plain, as we said at the time, that these youngsters had become fanatics in the Santayana sense—that they had forgotten their aims while redoubling their efforts. Violence has a way of becoming a thing-in-itself. It finds nourishment, moreover, when states are struggling to be born, as, for instance, in the early days of postwar Ireland. It did not last long in Ireland. How long in Israel? The Zionists failed to root out the terrorists in their midst, but the responsibility is inescapable on the new state of Israel, as the world's newest organized society. It is not enough to disown them, to say, as is often said, they are communists working to promote disruption in the interests of Soviet Russia. They are enemies of the Zionist state as well as civilization.

A Bible Message

And he said, A certain man had two sons: and the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living.

And not many days after the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living. And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want....

And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish with hunger! I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

And he arose, and came to his father. But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him. And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet ....For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. (Luke 15: 11-14, 17-22, 24.)

Fiat Justitia

We await eagerly the outcome of an action taken in New Zealand. The whole future of the labour movement may hang on it. It has to do with unfair labour practices and represents the ultimate of something or other. If judgment is given for the trade union it is going to be necessary for unions to enrol very small midgets in their membership to take care of similar situations in the future.

An employer, finding it necessary to run a line through a very small pipe and not having a workman small enough to crawl through, hit on the idea of using a ferret. The line was attached to the ferret, the smell of a rabbit, which ferrets go for on the slightest provocation, was introduced at the other end of the pipe, and the ferret's instinct did the rest. he, or it, made for the smell at the far end of the pipe, taking the line along with him.

This, it seems to us, was an ingenious piece of engineering. Not so to the trade union in the shop. This, for the union, was an unfair labour practice and with deadly seriousness it has lain a charge against the employer for using an unregistered workman.

Was there a workman small enough (perhaps one of the walking delegates) to crawl through the pipe? If there wasn't, it seems obvious that the employer was entitled to put the ferret on the payroll, leaving it to the union to take it into the membership within the delays prescribed by the closed shop. And what is the status of the smell? It doesn't appear to have come from a real rabbit. It was just a smell. But can a smell be made a member of a union?—Montreal Star.

Citizens' Band of 43 Members Planning Ambitious Program During Winter

By HARRY THEOBALD

The Peterborough Civic Band is down to its knitting of practices through the fall and winter in its quarters in he Ashburnham town hall at the corner of Hunter and Mark Sts.

A municipal band in a municipal building is a combination of citizen interest and ownership that has been taking root only since last spring. Briefly it may be recalled that the regimental band was being turned out of house and home, after long and harmonious occupation. Military authorities were setting up a new order of things, and bands were being dismissed. Now, according to recent intimations music may be restored to the military estate.

In the meantime, the bandsmen wished to continue to be a band. They like making music and the association and atmosphere of the rehearsal room. It was then that Ald. Hurrell Dodds took up their cause, found the city council responsive, and eventually the band was adopted by the municipality. The idea of a city of 35,000 people being without a band of their own impressed the council as so benighted that it was agreed the city should make some little investment on the cultural side. And at that stage the Recreation Commission was a willing and understanding agent.

Citizens Band has 43 members, with an average attendance of 33-35 at practices which are held every Tuesday night. Capt. W. H. Peryer, director, is planning sectional work in the near future, to accelerate the detail of polishing performance, bringing more fluency into expression, and developing more of the spirit of condifence that leaves no evidence of occasional fumbling for precise pitch of reed or valve.

The work one night recently was concentrated on several numbers. One of them was the melodious little Venetian suite by Ethelbert Nevin. It was smoothly done; no flaws there. Ballet music from Faust got a fairly thorough going over. The director was manifestly putting several passages in his mind for more painstaking at the next session. Some of the passages causing incidental trouble here and there were gone over four or five times, and patiently, too. There is nothing of the prima donna about Mr. W. H. Peryer. He appears to be equipped with a great deal of good nature and a kindly way of holding up the works when some one has inadvertently "tootled."

The overture Sans Souci sounded well in hand, but some of the bars had to be repeated three and four times before there was satisfaction around the instrumental circle. The last part of the two hours' work was spent on selections called "Echoes of Metropolitan Opera," a medley of such favorites as, "thou divine sweet evening star" from Tannhauser, closing with the finale of the No. 2 Hungarian rhapsody.

If the day ever comes when a Peterborough Civic band of about 60 instruments can do that Liszt jive more or less with the abandon and furioso Creatore used to fling into it, or preferably as Stokowski used to do it as a concession to the Philistines who had wandered into a Fricker audience—any way, that will be the day, meanwhile an ambition and ideal. The band did that noisy excerpt in lively style, but there was here and there a note or two that needed some attention.

The brass section of the Civic Band seems already to be more than adequate in numbers and of promising tone.

W. H. Peryer is making no claims at this stage of preparation. "The Examiner was too kind to us last spring," the director said. "Something was said about us going to have the best band in Canada. I sincerely wish we had, but that is too big an order, just yet awhile. We have enthusiasm among our members. Those who were absent tonight had all good excuses. After all, we are just working people, and if some of them get switched to a night shift in one of the plants then they can't come out with us that night."

"We get along together. The band has its committees. I leave all that detail to them. When the uniforms were to be ordered, a committee was formed and they made the choice of colors and materials. By the way, those uniforms were quite a lift to the spirit of the band.

"We are comforable in this hall. It will be heated through the winter, and I am certain we are going to get a lot of solid work done before spring."

The band has been promised a set of tympani. Probably it was Mayor Ovens who made that suggestion after seeing the equipment of the Belleville municipal band in their concert here. The Examiner does not wish to intrude on band affairs, but merely as an observation, and without knowing who would get the big kettles, it would be almost an excitement to see Hugh Davidson working on them.

What the band really needs is ten more reeds. That would double their present clarinet section. The instrumentation is heavily brass, so that something should be done to strengthen the wood winds.

If some of the members of the Chamber of Commerce or foremen of factories would give an occasional preference to an applicant who would fit into the band . . .

Mr. Peryer recalled with regret a French horn player who came here; was an expert in some kind of carpentry; made the rounds of Peterborough industries; and got a job in Lindsay, who also have a band. Not so long ago they had one of the best boys' bands in eastern Ontario.

If there are any bandsmen among the newcomers to Peterborough who would be interested in joining the Peryer organization they will be heartily welcomed at the Town Hall any Tuesday night.

The director intends gradually to approach the stage where some time can be devoted to juniors. At present, the director's concern is about a reportory and its satisfactory state.

The band is planning a number of concerts throughout the winter. The first will be on the Sunday nearest Remembrance Day, and it will be appropriate to the memorial spirit of that occasion.

As an after thought, there was a euphonium part in that Evening Star number that sang the theme in beautiful tone. It was the only solo part in the evening's practice.

CLARK BENDER, genial American visitor from Columbus, Ohio, says Buckhorn Lake is an angler's paradise. He caught this 25-pound maskinonge and the ten-pounder while vacationing at Scotsman's Point Lodge. The resort owner, F. Matthews, says Bender fishes from morning till night. J. J. Brooks, Pittsburgh, another guest, got an 18-pounder in the same lake this week.

GUNS BOOMED along the lower Otonabee and Rice lake this morning as the duck season opened south of No. 7 highway. There was a good shoot north of the highway too, a little better than a week ago when hunters outnumbered the ducks. Gunners are surprised at the number of mallards and blue-winged teal in the district. Normally blacks and marsh bluebills predominate. If the duck hunters could get a law passed, it would be aimed at keeping hunting groups from being too close together in a marsh. Even if they were 25 feet apart it would make some hunters happy, but the inexperienced, stubborn marksmen, seem to forget that there is such a thing as good manners in the outdoors. I always understood that the effective range for shot shells was a little better than 50 yards, but some person should tell that fact to the hunters who frequent Pigeon lake. These nitwits blazed away at everything within a hundred yards.

OPEN SEASON for maskinonge ended last night Oct. 1, and the anglers may fish for bass and pickerel until Oct. 15. There is no restriction on trolling or casting. On Thursday afternoon Wib Franks, who operates a furniture store when he isn't fishing, tied into a 16½ pound muskie near his cottage off Long Point, Lake Chemong. It was his second big one of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Freeman, and Mr. Herb Lewis, Cleveland, had splendid luck at Pigeon lake this week. They were guests at Camp Cleveland and bagged 12 pickerel and two muskies in one afternoon. Stan Bogue, city druggist, knocked off a 5¼ lb. green bass at Rice lake on Thursday. He was still fishing with a live minnow. Any lake trout anglers still have five days to troll with the copper lines, or cast inshore before the season ends for the year in this county.

PERFECT AUTUMN WEATHER greeted the Peterborough Nature Club members for their first fall hike last Saturday. Cars took the members to Haultain where the Botany group lead by Miss Margaret Eastwood and V. R. Henry proceeded up Eel's creek. The group interested in birds lead by L. McKeever and John Hooper followed the road to Big Cedar lake. Later a picnic supper was held at the new highways department park at depot bridge on highway 28. Supper arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Chas. Pilon, and following the meal, a short discussion was conducted by the president, M. V. Powell. It was also decided to hold a discussion meeting each month.

REPORTS THAT A WHITE CRANE had been seen in the district have been checked, and the bird that was seen is a white egret, better known as the white heron. It stands between two and three feet high, and is also known as the Little White Egret and the White Crane. The crane name is a bit off the beam because there are no cranes in this area, but the blue heron often gets that sticker. The White Egrets are protected and have been seen in this part of Ontario for the past eight years. They used to come in great numbers to the Ashbridge bay section of Toronto, but this bay was filled in, and now is a thriving industrial area. Dr. Stan Stacey and Alf Pink saw this odd-looking bird on several occasions. Keen interest was taken because at first it was hoped it might be one of the few whooping cranes left in the world. These beautiful birds along with their cousins, the Sandhill Cranes, are both white, and about the same size.

WHERE TO GO—Virginia creepers are flaunting their brilliant reds along the split rail fences, these balmy autumn days, and the sumacs are flaming scarlet patches on the hillsides. Most of the other vegetation with the exception of a few sugar maples looks withered and brown, lacking the gay dress so desired in the fall. Because of this seasonal beauty, many families will head into the rural scene on the week-end. Here are a few suggestions: Highway 28 to Burleigh, 36 to Buckhorn, then on to Bobcaygeon, north to Kinmount and Minden then back on the paved road to Lindsay and Peterborough. You can have dinner at Minden, or at any of the lodges close by. It's lovely going north on highway 28 to Bancroft, then you can swing south to Madoc and in 7 to Peterborough. Archie Cummings place at Belmont lake is still serving Sunday dinners, if you care to swing north a few miles on the way home. Another nice drive for those who do not want to go too far, is the McCracken's Landing road to the Nepheline Mines and back. Why not pack a basket and get away if the skies are clear, the winter is long. Irwin's Inn and Burnham Lodge are both operating.

MANY DISGRUNTLED ANGLERS will be happy to know that in the States a fish is measured from the tip of the snout to the extremity of the tail. In Ontario the measurement is to the V or fork in the tail. This can mean two inches on a large maskinonge, and it wouldn't help the temper of a man who had a fish half an inch under the 30 inch limit. However, unless the law is amended there is little use grousing. Hon. Harold R. Scott beyond a doubt would welcome opinions on this subject. Ray Bergman, angling editor of the magazine "Outdoors" and Jack Van Coevering of the Detroit Free Press, both noted the difference in the methods of measuring, and passed along news on how it was done south of the border.

Conservative Opposition To Naval Bill Summed Up In 'The Jagship of the Trent'

By RALPH GREENHILL

In the Dominion elections of September 21, 1911, the Laurier government fell and James Robert Stratton, Liberal member for Peterborough West, lost his seat in the general landslide. The two main issues of the election were the reciprocity agreement with the United States and the Naval Service Act of 1910, both of which were hotly opposed by the Conservatives.

Local Tory opposition to the Naval Bill is summed up in the verses: "The Jagship of the Trent."

Hurrah for the Bessie Butler,
Hurrah for her gallant crew,
As spick and span a little craft
As ever the Grit flag flew.

Whenever the "boys" got thirsty,
And all their money spent,
They boarded the Bessie Butler,
The Jagship of the Trent.

The cargo they took was precious,
And they stowed it all below,
Rum and whiskey and lager,
Right down in the hold would go;
And never was crew so handy,
With never a thought of care,
And the tools they carried were corkscrews,
And each man had a pair.

There was gin for the gallant Captain,
And beer for the Bo'sun bold;
They spliced the main brace every hour
When the weather was hot or cold;
They sang and played the piano
From eve until break of day,
And the theme of the song was Stratton,
And the chorus was Laurier.

Hurrah for the Bessie Butler,
The boat so smart and trim,
Loaded with beer and vittals,
She did great work for "Jim";
She did her duty nobly,
Wherever she was sent,
The good old Bessie Butler,
The Jagship of the Trent.

The Naval Service Act of 1910 set up for the first time a Canadian navy as apart from a mere coastal patrol. The naval dockyards at Halifax and Esquimalt were taken over by the Canadian government, and two British cruisers, the Niobe and the Rainbow, were bought to form a two-ship fleet. In 1911 a naval college was opened at Halifax.

The Conservatives criticized Laurier's "tin pot navy" as being a ridiculous way to defend Canada from naval attacks, and in the general flag-waving of the election suggested that the formation of a Canadian navy would be a step in the break-up of the British Empire. In Quebec, however, the Nationalists depicted the prime minister as the tool of British imperialists and munitions manufacturers. The emotional appeal to prejudices and patriotism won the Conservatives the election. When the new Government was formed, all the French Canadians who held portfolios came from the Nationalist group.

James R. Stratton, who lost his seat, was born at Millbrook, May 3, 1857 and educated at Peterborough Collegiate Institute. He succeeded his father, James Stratton, as editor and publisher of The Examiner. From 1886 to 1905, he represented Peterborough West in the Legislative Assembly of Ontario. In 1900 he became provincial secretary in the Ross government and charges of political corruption against him had much to do with its defeat in 1905. From 1908 until 1911, he represented Peterborough West in the House of Commons. He died at Hot Springs, Virginia, April 19, 1916.

The Bessie Butler is still working every day of the year on maintenance of the Trent Canal. Built about 1907, the "Jagship" has a length of 78 feet and beam of 17 feet, and has been a general work boat and inspection boat since that time. Its official description is "service steamer."

Land In Townplot Valued at $1.00 An Acre In Early Days of Peterborough's Settling

BY GLENN HANCOCK

At a dinner party in his tent, which stood somewhere among the bushes covering the site now called the city of Peterborough, Col. Peter Robinson discussed with notable pioneers of the district an appropriate name for the settlement. This year was 1825.

That year was important in the history of Peterborough because Col. Robinson had selected it as the site (then known as Scott's Landing) upon which he would settle about 415 families. Under instructions from Earl Bathurst, Robinson had directed these some 2,000 immigrants from the south of Ireland to the townships of the Indian plains then known as Northumberland, now Peterborough county.

Actually, Adam Scott had built a mill on the bank of the Ontonabee river some years before, but although the town had been surveyed and laid out in parks and lots the Robinson emigrants were the first indications of the city which one day would stand there. The land in the town plot was valued at $1 per acre.

Peter Robinson has been given much of the credit for settling the Peterborough area, and in spite of the fact that many of the townships had been previously surveyed and settled through the efforts of Capt. Charles Rubidge, of the Royal Navy, Robinson, who gave his christian name to the city, did have the foresight to choose Peterborough as the most ideal location in all the district for a town.

Peter Robinson was the son of Christopher Robinson of Virginia. The elder, who was to give Canada two of her notable sons, had moved to Canada following the Revolutionary War, and Governor Simcoe made him deputy surveyor of Crown Lands. From this he retired on half pay, with 2,000 acres of land. His son Peter served General Sheaffe in the War of 1812, and in 1827 was made commissioner of Crown Lands. He was a friend of Sir John Franklin and Sir John Ross, and he entertained them before they left on their last expedition to the Arctic regions.

Peter's brother was the brilliant Sir John Beverly Robinson, who was born in Quebec in 1791, the year the Constitutional Act was signed. John was a pupil of Dr. Strachan, Bishop of Toronto. He fought under General Brock in 1812 and qualified for the Ontario Bar in 1814. He became Solicitor General of Upper Canada in 1815, and Attorney General in 1818. He was leader of the Tory party and a prominent member of the Family Compact. He became a baronet in 1855, and died in Toronto in 1863.

It was fortunate for Peter Robinson that he had such an influential brother because in later years the director of Peterborough's settlement was involved in an incriminating lawsuit which the Attorney General managed to settle satisfactorily.

Peter Robinson was one of the colonels into whose hands the British Government placed the responsibility of establishing immigrants on suitable lands in Upper Canada. In the western part of the province there were Colonels Talbot, Baby, VanEgmond and Burwell, while this section of Upper Canada was colonized after the Simcoe period by Colonels Strickland and Robinson.

The method of granting lands involved the searching out of an ideal site, generally on the bank of a river in a valley or on the lake shore, and the issuing of 100 acres to each eligible settler. The grants were valid only as long as certain obligation were performed. It was required that a certain portion of the land should be cleared during the first four years. This usually amounted to 10 acres, after which a deed for the land could be taken out. During the second four years an annual rent of one shilling an acre was paid by the grantee. There were often penalties imposed against delinquents, but generally the land agents were lenient with those settlers who were conscientiously interested in making a living in the new land.

The Peterborough district was fortunate in the character of its settlers. They were of an exceptionally high type of British stock. Most of them were not escaping anything. They were just adventurous enough to risk the hardships of a new colony, retain their traditions and customs, and take what honest profit there was to be made. What they wanted most was a way of life.

The first township to be surveyed in Peterborough county "Smith". That was in 1818. Some people from Cumberland in England came to Smith via Rice Lake and the Otonabee river, in lieu of a road from Port Hope. They built shanties, and although unaccustomed to the severe weather they endured the hardships and stayed.

In 1818 and 1819 the townships of North and South Monahan were settled. After Otonabee township was surveyed in 1819, a few settlers came out with Capt. Spilsbury, followed in 1820 by a number of discharged army officers and soldiers. Some of them took up grants and left them uncleared, and some abandoned the effort after the first year. Others stayed.

In 1820, Asphodel township was surveyed, but not much, settling was accomplished until 1825. Alex Stewart and Robert Reid settled Douro in 1822. Their generous grant consisted of 3,000 acres, which they were given the privilege to hold for five years so that their friends and relatives in Ireland might accept grants. However, in 1825 Col. Robinson came out and the landholders were glad to receive the Irish emigrants.

In 1823 Dummer township was surveyed and was settled in the following years by Capt. Rubidge. Ennismore was surveyed in 1825.

Around 1831 a number of patriotic emigration societies were organized in England and groups of Britishers inspired by these societies came to the Peter Robinson territory and, with the sons of the first pioneers, settled the other townships in Peterborough county. It was 50 years, however, before the land was fully developed.

It has been 130 years since the sound of the first axe echoed through the beautiful forest lands of Peterborough. The descendants of many of those first families are still here. Little of their courage and the industry of their stout hearts has been lost with the passing years.

Petes Trounce The Hawks To Go One Up In OLA Finals

Beating Huntsville Hawks 12-4 here last night, the Petes took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven OLA senior "B" finals, the next one being in Huntsville on Tuesday. About 1,600 fans at Miller Bowl saw a fair tussle with the locals racking up a 5-1 lead in the first quarter. It was tighter after that as the Petes only had a 1-0 margin in the second, and a 4-1 edge in the third. The fourth was a 2-2 affair as the speedy youngsters from up north drove hard. But the experienced homesters earned the win in a game quite clean but for a couple of minor fights in the second heat.

The Vitarelli brothers sparked the winners' attack, Dootch scoring four and Lou being in on three goals. Curly Warren, Jack Foote and Mick Magee were in on a pair each, as the whole squad worked hard. Their passing was off but the losers' shooting was poor in this fray. MacDonald of Huntsville was hurt to start the third chukker and did not return. Scriver, Watt, R. Gordon and Goalie Tunney went best for them.

The teams:

Huntsville—Goal, Tunney; defence, Gordon and Snowden; centre, Millest; wings, Scriver and Kaye; rover, Jennings; alternates, Watt, Krapek, C. Higgs, V. Higgs, MacDonald and Payne.

Petes — Goal, Hill; defence, Chute and Magee; centre, E. Creighton; wings, Foote and R. Breakspear; rover, J. Breakspear; alternates, Horton, Warren, L. Vitarelli, D. Vitarelli, Gordon, Smith and Connelly.

Draw Playoffs In Ontario For Softball

HAMILTON, Oct. 2.—(CP). — Ontario Softball Association playoff draws were announced Friday night by Frank Feaver, O.S.A. secretary-treasurer.

The winners of the Hamilton Bowsers-Windsor series will meet Toronto Peoples in the Senior "A" bracket. Hamilton won the first game last week-end. The winner of the Oshawa-St. Catharines clashes goes to Sudbury in the Senior "B" class, while in Intermediate "A" the survivors of the Hamilton Pee-Gees Oshawa series will entertain Sault Ste. Marie.

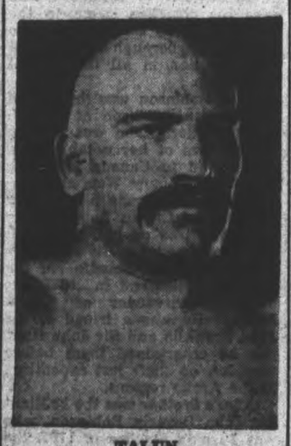
In Intermediate "A" Hamilton, Niagara and Oshawa wind up their series next Saturday, the winner to meet Sault Ste. Marie. Toronto and Preston will meet in Intermediate "B" and Sault Ste. Marie will take on the winner.

Meaford and Amherstburg are playing off in the Intermediate "C" with the survivors scheduled to play Ajax for the title. Toronto Checker Cab, one game up on Oshawa in Junior "A" will travel to Sault Ste. Marie if they win.

Thorold already has won the Junior "B" class, but in Juvenile "A" Guelph and Oshawa play for the right to meet Kirkland Lake.

PUCK ACE — Jake Wade, shown here in a ball uniform, will be playing pro hockey for Portland, Oregon, in the Pacific Coast League this winter. He is a former junior "B" puckist here.

Talun To Meet The Marvel In A Re-Match



TALUN

Wladyslaw "Blockbuster" Talun will meet the Masked Marvel in a re-match in the MBrock Arena on Wednesday night. The bout is expected to be a thriller with the extra excitement stemming from the disqualification of the Polish Giant here, in this week's bout. Talun accepted the return go only after announcing in his guttural Slavic tones, "I take match but if any Bunnies in ring I won't wrestle." Talun's reference was to Bunny Dunlop who restricted the 300-pounder severely in the first match here.

Manager Jim Laidlaw will ask the Ontario Athletic Commission to accede to the Blockbuster's request for a different official for Wednesday's crucial collision.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Some guys think that women are the most rabid fans at sports events. A suggestion we don't subscribe to entirely, though it is admitted that some of the fair sex get pretty hot at a game. It is a fact that some of the wives and girl friends of the Petes' and Legion puckists last winter got much hotter under their lace collars than did the rival players themselves. Likewise, at a sizzling lacrosse match or playoff ball game, some of the femme fans ride the refs and rival players mighty hard. But so do some of the men. No, as a general rule, we can't spot much difference.

* * * * * *

Just happened to think of this when we ran across an article by Trent Frayne in Chatelaine, called: "What Makes Women So Bloodthirsty?" A Professor J. D. Ketchum of the Department of Psychology at U. of T. thinks it is frustration on the part of the ladies. He says people curb their emotions in most of their relations with others, because convention demands it. But when they get an excuse to give out with them legitimately, such as at sports events, they do so. The professor is undisurbed by the fact that some women stick pins into wrestlers. "They are less likely to nag their husbands afterward," he smiles. "And, besides, they can't stick pins into their spouses."

* * * * * *

Likes To Let Loose

Phil Lawson, wrestling impressario, is also quoted. He believes ladies give vent to a lot of pentup domestic frustrations at sports shows. He thinks the villain in a mat bout represents all the local irritations. The vociferous feminine fan is probably a sort of female Casper Milquetoast, maybe a Catharine Milquetoast. And she likes to let loose in a crowd at a game or ring match. Yet, Lawson claims, women have an innate sense of justice—which is not always the case with your male fan. Trent Frayne remarks that many psychiatrists and anthropologists bear this theory out.

* * * * * *

Well, one supposes this frustration angle applies equally to men, though more women than men are kept closer to home on their domestic jobs. Naturally, they like to get out—and to do something about it when they do. More and more have taken to sports either as participants or spectators. At no game today does one see a crowd vastly dominated by men. No, any lacrosse or grid match, any ball or hockey game, any boxing or wrestling show, will find a hefty percentage of the crowd of the feminine gender. That is all to the good—it is good for the girls and it certainly doesn't make the sports promoters peeved. Let them shout all they like, just so long as they come.

Going To Be Okay

Dropped around to the Civic Arena yesterday and was surprised to see how quickly construction is going ahead. One wall done and the other more than half finished. Still the ends to do and the steel roof to put over the completed framework. Ice surface will be a bit bigger than the old Brock, and there'll be four rows of seats down each side, with a standing-room runway behind each, and a gallery at either end, over ticket offices and canteens. Pack in some 2,300 fans—which is more than the Brock could do for hockey. Four dressing rooms, two in the basement — and the four can be opened into two large ones. Eight doors to let the crowds out easily, big parking space and traffic arrangements. It's going to be okay. Campaign drive for funds opens Oct. 18.

* * * * * *

That was a nice win for the Petes' lacrossers last eve at Miller Bowl when they beat Huntsville Hawks 12-4 before 1,600 fans. The Creighton crew had a 5-1 margin in the first quarter and a 4-1 edge in the third—and that spelled the difference. It was tight enough in spots and Huntsville drove hard in the fourth but couldn't get better than a 2-2 count. They're a good speedy young squad—five of 'em are of juvenile age—and they hustle all the time. But you can't write off the training and experience of the Petes (who have some fairly young players, too) by any means. And they know their own box thoroughly.

* * * * * *

Brothers In Scrap

No bloodshed to speak of in this tilt — though fans got a bang when the Gordons fought it out. They just teed off on each other after a hard check before realizing it was brother against brother! Dootch Vitarelli continues to star on the attack and Lou was clicking well this time, too. Curly Warren, Jack Foote and Mick Magee (a valuable veteran, also) caught the eye. As Watt, Scriver and Tunney stood out for Huntsville. Our passing wasn't the best the first half but the Petes still had enough push to win handily, while Huntsville hurried all the way but needed a spotlight to find the goal. They're in Huntsville on Tuesday and back here next Friday.

Red Sox, Yanks Fight Away For Crack At Cleveland

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—(AP).—Talk of an all-Boston world series is heard again after a week of silence as Joe McCarthy leads today with his Red Sox ace, Jack Kramer, against New York's Tommy Byrne in the opener of a dog-eat-dog final series for the American League pennant.

Tied for second place, one game behind Cleveland Indians who admitted they were "in" last Monday but lost a chance to clinch a tie yesterday, the Red Sox and Yanks still have hopes.

Both the Sox and Yanks figure, with fingers crossed, that the Tigers will stop the Indians in one of their week-end games.

They laughed when McCarthy said earlier in the week: "It might go down to Sunday or even Monday." Joe knew what he was talking about. It can't be clinched mathematically until Sunday.

Arrangements have been made for all sorts of tie playoffs Monday or even Monday and Tuesday. A sure way to go mad is to figure out all the angles — [illegible] dizzy setup.

Kramer Big Threat

McCarthy has solid reason for using Kramer in this "big" game, for handsome Jack has silenced the Yanks with a 4-0 record this season. He is the top regular starter in the league and he completely bamboozled the Yanks just a week ago. In that last start, his 17th victory, New York was able to hit only three balls to the outfield all day.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Yanks has to gamble again with Byrne, a wild left-hander who came through in fine style to beat the Sox last Sunday.

He has won six in a row, two on relief, and owns a 1-0 record against the Red Sox. His season mark is 8-4.

King Wins Lightweight Empire Title

MANCHESTER, England, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Li'l Arthur King, Canadian lightweight boxing champion, was applauded today for a "grand fight" in bringing the vacant British Empire lightweight title to Canada.

The plucky Toronto negro won the bout last night by scoring a technical knockout over Billy Thompson in the seventh round of a scheduled 15-round tilt.

Thompson, British and European champion, was forced to retire at the end of the seventh round after King opened a deep cut on the Briton's right eye.

London's morning newspapers splashed the Canadian's victory over sports pages with praise for his quality of fighting.

Clifford Webb in the Daily Herald observed that King had a longer reach and "showed himself smart in leading and countering."

He added that "there was no doubt in my mind that however long the fight progressed King, a tough, fast and hard-punching fighter, would have got the verdict."

"It was never a dull fight," said Eric Thompson in the Daily Mail. "Thompson certainly improved from a moderate start but King was strong, had a vicious hook and made good use of his slight advantage of height."

King told The Canadian Press after the fight: "I hurt my left hand in the fifth round and I was a bit worried. It was injured in my last bout in Canada and I had a bit of trouble with it while training this week. But everything's okay now."

Marmora Victorious In First Grid Game

MARMORA, Oct. 2.—(ENS).—North Hastings school rugby season for 1948 opened on Friday with Madoc going to Stirling and Marmora taking on Tweed as visitors. In the latter game at Deloro, Marmora were victorious, the game ending 20-10. In the first quarter the home team got two touchdowns, Chuck Loveless scoring both, one through a brilliant fake plunge.

In the second quarter, Marmora got a further touchdown. E. Trumble was the scorer on a brilliant end run. In the third quarter, Tweed reduced the lead with one of their players registering on a forward pass. In the final quarter, Sir Brooks, with a fine plunge, got Marmora's concluding touchdown. In the last minute of play Tweed on a quarter-back sneak plunged over for the final score.

The game was unique in that no touchdowns were converted. Marmora plays Madoc on the latter's grounds next Friday.

Indians' Race Lead Cut, Now Possibility of Tie

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the third time in five years the American league pennant race won't be decided until the last day. For the first time in history it may end in a three-way tie come Sunday.

Cleveland holds the upper hand at the moment, leading New York and Boston by one full game. Each of the three teams has two games left — Cleveland against Detroit in Cleveland and the Yankees and Red Sox against each other in Boston.

These are the possibilities, providing rain doesn't interfere:

1. Cleveland can win the pennant by whipping the Tigers twice, regardless of what happens in Boston.

2. Cleveland can win by splitting with the Tigers, providing Boston and New York split.

3. Boston or New York can win the pennant if one team sweeps the Boston series while Cleveland loses twice to Detroit.

4. Boston or New York can tie Cleveland if one team sweeps the Boston series while the Indians split with Detroit.

5. All three teams can finish in a tie. This could happen only if Boston and New York split and Cleveland loses twice.

Since all regular-season games must be completed by tomorrow night or go unplayed, rain could have a big hand in determining the winner.

If Cleveland is unable to play any further games, it will win the pennant regardless of the Boston series. And if Cleveland loses two while the Boston series is entirely washed out, New York and Boston will tie for the pennant with the Indians one percentage point behind.

Make Every Effort

With so much at stake, however, they will make every possible effort to play every game.

The race last went to the limit in 1945 when Detroit won the flag on the final day by whipping St. Louis in the rain on a field almost ankle-deep in mud.

The chances of a three-way deadlock became stronger yesterday when Detroit whipped Cleveland 5-3. Boston and New York weren't scheduled.

The Tigers struck for three runs in the ninth inning to gain the verdict. Bob Lemon, trying for the fourth time to win his 21st game, set up his own downfall.

Lemon fielded Eddie Mayo's slow roller and hit Mayo in the back with his throw. Mayo reached second base. Lemon then struck out Johnny Bero and got two strikes on Johnny Groth, but walked him. He also walked Joe Ginsberg on five pitches.

Russ Christopher then took over from Lemon. He tried to keep the ball low to Johnny Lipon but Lipon drew a walk, forcing in the tying run. Neil Berry bounced out but a double play failed.

With the count two balls and one strike Jimmy Outlaw singled into centrefield, bringing home the winning runs.

MEDICAL AUTHORITIES are attempting to determine cause of death of Stan Mauldin, Chicago Cardinals tackle, who collapsed after a game in Chicago with the Philadelphia Eagles. Although Mauldin received head bruises during the game, doctors discount them as sufficient to cause death. The 220-pound, 6-ft., 2-in. Mauldin was all-American at Texas university.

Tigers Beat Indians, 5-3 Cleveland Gives Bad Show

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2 — (AP). —Are Cleveland Indians finally cracking? Are they getting jittery?

Will history repeat, with Detroit Tigers frustrating another Cleveland pennant dream, a la 1940?

Veteran baseball observers asked these questions to-day as the Indians approached the final two games of the regular campaign.

Certainly, events which led to Cleveland's 5-3 setback by the Tigers gave them cause to wonder. The Indians definitely did not look like the same ball club which blazed through September, burning up everything in sight.

For the first time in a month the Indians did not look like a flag winner. The deepest impression was that their performance was jumpy. Larry Doby misjudged a fly; Bob Lemon was guilty of a bad throw on a play he should not have attempted; Jim Hegan's low throw to first was dropped by Walt Judnich, at the cost of a rally-killing double play. All these combined to beat Cleveland.

Poor Pitching

Then there was the futile relief performance by Russ Christopher. The lanky-side-armer served four straight balls to the first batter he faced in the ninth, forcing home the tying run.

Manager Lou Boudreau, whose own flawless fielding and timely hitting—he figured in all the Indians' scoring—were wasted, insisted after the game his charges were not jittery.

"We are still not badly off," he averred. "Christopher has been my man in such predicaments throughout the season, and I am certain it was not jitters that affected his control. He just did not have it.

"So far as suffering jitters is concerned, my answer is that we played under terrific pressure all season without cracking, so why should anyone think we will fold now. We won't."

Their first-place margin sliced to a single game, the Indians will send Southpaw Jean Bearden to the mound to-day against the Tigers in an effort to clinch a tie for the pennant.

Hockey Happenings Review

(By The Canadian Press)

Although they both graduated from the Western Canada senior league, Al Rollins and Emile (The Cat) Francis never locked horns in the prairie circuit.

But they're making up for lost time right now in Chicago Black Hawks fall training camp where they're battling it out for a full time job as Bill Tobin's man between the pipes. Pro-Francis fans explained the Cat's none-too-brilliant professional showing by saying that no goaltender would look good in the nets of a ceiler club.

Pucks and Politics

Manager Conn Smythe flew in from Ottawa last night to watch Max Bentley score two goals as his Maple Leafs beat Pittsburgh Pirates 4-1 in an exhibition tilt at St. Catharines. Smythe had been attending the National Progressive Conservative convention in Ottawa.

Howie Meeker and Harry Watson got the other goals for the Leafs while former St. Mike's man Tod Sloan tallied for the Pirates.

Everybody's Doing It

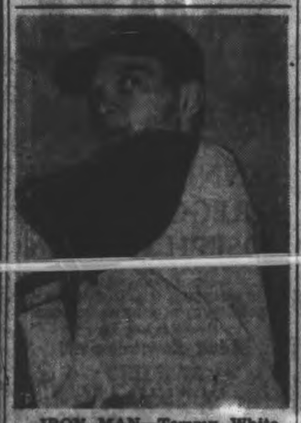
Clint Albright, Winnipeg amateur, is the latest student to succumb to an NHL contract. With one year to go of a University of a year to go of a university engineering course, Albright last night signed with New York Rangers.

It is expected that Manager Frank Boucher will use Albright, who starred last year with Winnipeg Reos, to fill a vacancy alongside Buddy O'Connor.

Westward Ho

Walter (Babe) Pratt, veteran defenceman, will show up soon in hockey's newest professional circuit—the Pacific Coast League. Pratt, who body-checked for Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins and New York Rangers in years gone by, will play for New Westminster Royals who bought his contract from Hershey Bears of the American League.

The top-scorer in Ontario junior ranks last year, George Armstrong, left the Maple Leafs last night after playing for them in an exhibition game. He wants to play junior for Stratford again this year.



IRON MAN—Tommy White, ace of the London Ontario Majors hurling staff, was one of the big reasons why his team captured the Sandlot Baseball World Series in London this week. He pitched three of London's four victories over Fort Wayne, Indiana, US, champs. It was his 15th successive win this season. He is a native of Windsor, Ont.

Hold Field Day Competition On Group Basis

Prince of Wales School held its field day on Friday on a group competition basis with each competitor making his own contribution to his team. The youngest member of the team therefore felt just as important to his team's success as the best athlete. The meet was organized by R. W. Rutherford, Miss C. Bailey, Miss M. King and Miss A. Hunter.

Under the direction of Principal P. D. Windrim, all members of the staff, and J. E. Morrison and G. Whatman, the schedule of events was completed as planned. The events included broad jump, high jump, softball accuracy throw, soccer kick, basketball throw, volleyball serve, clothespin relay, dodge ball, bean bag toss, shuttle relay, softball catch, ball on book race, bean bag criss-cross catch and over and under ball toss.

The final event consisted of a shuttle relay in which 140 pupils took part. The race was won by Bob Boyce's team. Prize ribbons were given to each member of the winning teams placed first and second in both the senior and junior events.

Here And There In Sports . . .

BY CANADIAN PRESS

Everyone said that 50,000,000 Frenchmen couldn't be wrong when Marcel Cerdan lifted the world's middleweight title from Tony Zale. Paris Friday looked like 50,000,000 Frenchmen turned out to greet the new champ when he arrived home. There probably weren't that many, but they lined the streets all the 31 miles from Orly airport to the city hall where Cerdan got an official welcome.

He also got a kiss on the cheek from three former world champions—Emile Pladner, 1929 flyweight champ, Marcel Thil; middleweight titlist in 1932; and Andre Routis, king of the featherweights in 1928.

Speedy Irish, owned by George McCullagh of Toronto, became the top money-winning Canadian-bred horse of the year Friday when he won Woodbine Park's Coronation Stakes. Speedy Irish picked up $7,625 to boost his year's winnings to $12,020.

A Chicago coroner's jury ruled Friday that the ring death of Kid Dinamata, 22-year-old Santo Domingo welterweight was accidental. He died after a fight with Bobby McQuiler of Port Huron, Mich., Wednesday night. His purse was $217.

Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association senior league Friday night defeated Washington Lions of the American Hockey League 2-1 in an exhibition game at Waterloo. Dutchmen won with a third-period goal set up by former Boston Bruin star Bobby Bauer.

Three runs in the sixth inning gave Listowell Midgets an 8-5 victory over Palmerston in the second game of a two-out-of-three series for the Western Ontario counties group championship at Listowel Friday. The series now stands at one game each.

Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, a native of Woodbridge, Ont., who now owns Maine Chance Farm, Friday night bought Busher, the leading three-year-old mare of her year, for $115,000. Busher is a daughter of War Admiral out of Baby League.

Dizzy Dean said Friday night his summons to the office of Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler was the result of a letter the commissioner received complaining the former St. Louis Cardinals pitcher was betting on ball games.

"I've bet on golf and horses and cards but never on a ball game," said Dean. "I have called bookmakers to ask for odds on ball games, but I never bet on a ball game."

Dean now broadcasts baseball play-by-play for St. Louis Browns.

BILLY SOUTHWORTH, manager of the Boston Braves, who recently clinched title to the National League pennant, arranges four of his champs to indicate this important year in Boston history. It is 34 years since Boston won a league flag. The numbers are: 1—Holmes; 9—Torgeson; 4—Heath, and 8—Ryan. While the American League is fighting it out to find a champion, and it looks like the Cleveland Indians in that race, the Braves can relax until Oct. 6, when the World Series opens in Boston.

Poor Swing-Bridge Service, Complaint

WALLACEBURG, Oct. 2 — (CP).—Capt. J. Bell, master of the freighter SS Superior, said on Thursday he would complain to the Department of Transport about poor bridge swinging service here. Capt. Bell said he was delayed more than 45 minutes early Thursday when he was moving the Superior to the government dock here. He said he blew his whistle repeatedly before the bridge caretaker appeared. He said he will also complain to County Engineer W. D. Colby at Chatham, since the Wallaceburg bridges are operated by the Kent county roads department.

Devaluation Of Dollar Urged By PC's

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 —(CP). — Devalution of the Canadian dollar and the establishment of a free market for gold were urged Friday in resolutions submitted to the National Progressive Conservative Convention.

One of the resolutions said that since the Canadian dollar was boosted to parity with the United States dollar in 1946 "we have lost over $1,000,000,000 of American exchange."

"At the same time there has been an almost complete cessation of much needed American investment in Canada."

The resolution added:

"We could not, consistent with our obligations under the international monetary fund, abolish all forms of exchange control, but within the limits permitted by the Bretton Woods agreements we favor a policy which aims to find the true value of the Canadian dollar having regard to all relevant factors.

Should Withdraw

If notifications of the Bretton Woods agreements could not be obtained within a reasonable period, Canada should exercise her right to withdraw from them and allow the Canadian dollar to find its level on a free market.

The establishment of a free market for gold was urged in a second resolution which stressed the part the gold mining industry has played in the development of the country.

Establishment of the free market was essential to revitalize any industry which was "rapidly approaching extinction."

The resolution said that pending the establishment of a free market, the gold mined in Canada should be purchased by the Canadian Government "at a price comparable to the increased price which has occurred in respect of other commodities."

Retire Happy

CROOK, Durham, England — (CP). — Three months' wages as a parting bonus were given to 24 retiring miners at Roddymoor Pit here. Twenty had 50 years' service. Jonathan Hall, 59, said: "I enjoyed every minute of it. I'd work another 50 if I had the chance."

Commonwealth Premiers To Discuss Mutual Defence

LONDON, Oct. 2 — (CP) — There will be no uniforms about the conference table when Commonwealth Prime Ministers meet on October 11, but defence and strategy will be among their leading concerns.

They have seen important developments since their last face-to-face discussions in London in 1946, when the post-war defence structure was examined in detail.

The Dominions' Prime Ministers then made clear they did not want a central defence council with over-all responsibility for Commonwealth protection and devised to dovetail Dominions' defence arrangements with those of the United Kingdom and the colonies.

Instead, they agreed to the exchange of services' liaison officers with the United Kingdom and to study further deevlopment of systems of regional defence.

Regional Arrangements

British authorities feel Commonwealth security is enhanced by regional defence arrangements worked out by Canada in association with the United States, and by Australia and New Zealand working together in the Pacific.

These are points likely to be raised at the October meeting:

1—Should dispersal of British munitions plants be further encouraged with greater production in the Dominions?

2—Australia and New Zealand feel they have increased defence responsibilities in the Asiatic area following the changed status of India, now divided into the free Dominions of India and Pakistan.

3—Beyond purely Commonwealth defence policies the Prime Ministers are interested in the development of Western union and far-reaching collaboration between United Kingdom, Belgium, France, Netherlands, and Luxembourg on defence and other matters.

4—Canada, through speeches of Louis St. Laurent, when he was Minister for External Affairs, has given leadership in advocating collective regional defence.

5—United Kingdom authorities will be able to give the conference information on the over-all defence picture, changed since 1946 by developments such as the withdrawal of British troops from Palestine which lies close to the vital Suez Canal Empire trade route.

Veteran Lawyer, Now 81 Shows Cabinet Few Things

By JOHN LEBLANC.

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Mr. Freight Rates himself, who is as old as Confederation, came to Ottawa this week to show the young fellows a trick or two. He did it.

August members of the Federal Cabinet, some of whom were still in diapers when Isaac B. Pitblado of Winnipeg started building his reputation as a freight-rates expert, got an eyeful and earful as this spry oldster laid down the law to them.

The 81-year-old "Mr. Pit" still rates the Dominion's top legal expert on freight rates, headed the battery of lawyer talent representing railways in the province's appeal to Cabinet against last spring's 21 per cent rate increase. He was really boss man, too.

Rejoinder.

After listening to a 15,000-word argument by the provinces, "Mr. Pit" spent his lunchtime doping out a reply. Then he got up before the government and rattled off a two-hour rejoinder, much of it off the cuff and delivered at machine-gun pace.

It had been 26 years since he argued his last case before Cabinet. A young fellow named William Lyon Mackenzie King was just getting started on a record-breaking career in power. That was a freight-rates case, too, and incidentaly Mr. Pitblado won it.

Small-Town Lawyer.

After his latest job, this reporter watched Mr. Pitblado hustling around his hotel room throwing together a batch of new ammunition with boundless energy. He asked what kept him going at an age when most people are content to sit in the sunset and think over the good old days.

"Gosh," said "Mr. Pit," as though the idea were a brand new one, "I've got to make a living. I'm just a small-town lawyer, you know, and we don't get as many big cases out West as you do in the big Eastern cities."

"Besides," he added, "I get a big kick out of this sort of stuff."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Psalm 119:97-105; Luke 1:1-4; John 20:30, 31; II Timothy 3:14-17

St. Luke went about gathering all the evidence he could obtain on Jesus' life, and then wrote his gospel.

Further King David wrote, the word of God "is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."

King David, author of the Psalms, wrote, "O how I love Thy law! It is my meditation all the day."

In Paul's last days, he wrote to Timothy, reminding him of his childhood scripture reading.

Bible Given Top Rating As Childhood Influence

Scripture— Pasim 119: 97-105; Luke 1: 1-4: John 20: 30-31; II Timothy 3: 14-17.

What book read in childhood influenced you more than any other? Think back to when you were small, and recall the books you read or were read to you. Remember the stories you were told? All had some effect upon childhood minds.

Thousands of persons would answer that the Bible, read and quoted at home, the stories told and retold; heard at Sunday School and church, was the strongest remembered influence in your childhood.

The Bible is a whole set of books in one. There is the story of creation and what followed. Then through the tales of the Hebrew fathers—Moses, Joshua, Abraham, Jacob, and so on and so forth, each with a lesson to be learned from his life.

Don't think for a moment, you older people, that children don't get the moral of these stories along with the adventures—and without parents and teachers pointing it out, too.

Sentences from what books come to mind first when one is in trouble? From the Bible—"The Lord is my strength and my redeemer. Whom then, shall I fear?" and countless others.

When the bombs were falling on the doomed cities of Europe, many thousands of people were repeating to themselves as they prayed, "Yea, though I walk through the Valley of the Shadow of Death, I will fear no evil: for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff comfort me."

The Bible is the best selling book of all time. The language of this great Book is so beautiful that passages from it come to mind not only in times of stress and grief but in many, many emotional times of life, to one who has made a habit of reading it.

David, whom the Lord raised from a humble shepherd boy to be one of the greatest of Hebrew kings, author of the Pasims, acknowledges his Maker in the beautiful words allotted to our lesson today, and acknowledge his indebtedness in guiding him all his days:

"O how I love Thy law! It is my meditation all the day. Thou through Thy commandments hast made me wiser than mine enemies; for they are ever with us.

"I have refrained my feet from every evil way, that I might keep Thy word. I have not departed from Thy judgments: for Thou hast taught me.

"How sweet are Thy words unto my taste! yea, sweeter than honey to my mouth!

Through Thy precepts I get understanding; therefore I hate every false way.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."

David was not a perfect man: he did evil, but repented and was forgiven. He never thought of himself as a "self-made" man. The Lord brought him the honors and riches which come to him, and David poured out his gratitude and praise for his maker.

Now we turn to the New Testament—to the book of Luke—which he wrote, after talking with those who had known Jesus when He was on earth, and probably persuing documents written by others who had witnessed the Lord's work.

Carefully St. Luke had collected all the evidence of Jesus' life and acts until "it seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee in order, most excellent Theophilus, that thou mightest know the certainty of those things, wherein thou hast been instructed."

Luke, the physician, was Paul's companion on many missionary journeys and beloved by Paul. He was also the author of the Acts of the Apostles, you remember.

John, the beloved disciple, wrote that "many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of His disciples, which are not written in this book." But these are written that ye might believe that Jesus is Christ, the Son of God, and believe."

In a recent lesson we studied about Timothy—beloved of Paul—who was brought up to read and study the Scriptures. In his last letters before he was executed, Paul wrote to remind Timothy of Timothy's upbringing by his Christian mother and grandmother, and urges him to "continue thou in the things which thou hast learned . . that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

18 Industries Closed Monday To Save Power

The Western Clock Co. announced today that in order to save power during the first four days of the week it will not be working on Monday. The Western Clock is 18th company in Peterborough to make the change over on Monday the others being Peterborough-Brinton Carpet Co., Ventilating Shades, J. J. Turner and Sons, Dominion Woollens Ltd., Peterborough Canoe (Monaghan Road plant), Outboard Marine Mfg. Co. and Colonial Weaving.

Four other companies made the same change a week ago are the Ontario Marble Co., Dewart Milling, Peterborough Lock Co. and Martin-Hewitt Co.

Also closing Monday are Card and Paper Co., Canadian Sealright Co., Nashua Paper Co., Ontario Marble Co., Co-Op Services, Raybestos Co.

Peterborough Lumber Co. is shutting down its sawmill on the off day and C.G.E. with so many big departments is working on an idea.

The fact that C.G.E. cut their power Friday was expected to bring the total consumption lower, but the figure for the day was 250,000 kwh. This morning the sun was overcast, sure sign of higher demand on the production of power, and meanwhile the rainless days continue excepting the light splash Friday.

Officials Worried

"We've got to be prepared to pull switches ourselves, not leave it to the Hydro," said G. S. Matthews, chairman, at a meeting of the Utilities Commission Friday afternoon.

Midday reports that R. H. Saunders, Toronto, Hydro chairman, was intimating that electric power cut-offs speared to be inevitable tended to depress the spirit of the Commission. On the other hand, they were proceeding with their own plans of power conservation as outlined Thursday, in the hope that by keeping within the Peterborough quota of 240,000kwh. they would succeed in escaping the further intrusion of Hydro.

R. L. Dobbin, manager, has been outlining local districts within the city in anticipation of a sudden order from Hydro to pull switches. This move is part of the detail planning for quick action if it becomes necessary. The desire of the Utilities Commission isto reduce power use here to the quota. If that is accomplished it is not expected that any general cut-off order from Hydro will also be imposed here.

Local sentiment is that the Hydro problem is not getting necessary relief from Toronto consumers.

Mr. Matthews suggested some slight help could be obtained by local suspending of air conditioning equipment. Canada Packers have cut out their air conditioning.

Jewish New Year Starts Sunday

At sundown on Sunday, the Jewish new year begins. It will be the year 5709 in the Jewish lunar calendar, which is based on revolutions of the moon around the earth. Rosh Hashanah, the beginning of the new year, will be observed at the Beth Israel Synagogue as well as at hundreds of other temples and synagogues throughout Canada.

The new year opens with a ten-day period of repentence which ends on the Day of Atonement or Yom Kippur. Fasting begins on the eve of Yom Kippur and services are begun which last through the following day and the final purging from sin is complete.

COACH PLOWMEN MONDAY

Peterborough plowmen who are planning to compete for the prizes in the big match at Lindsay will be interested in the coaching class at Henry Batten's farm, North Monaghan, beginning at 10 a.m. Monday. Winn Timbers of Stouffville will take charge of this demonstration of big league plowing. Juniors are especially invited. The coaching has been arranged by the plowmen's association of the county.

LION OFFICIAL SPEAKS

Emmons Crawford of Bowmanville, past district governor, will address the Lions Club on "District Governor's Duties" on Monday night at the Kawartha Club. James McCulloch has arranged a quiz show and Douglas Anderson will be master of ceremonies.

Would Use Meter Revenue To Buy Parking Areas

Hubert Sills suggested to the town planning committee on Thursday that the revenue from parking meters be used for the purchase of off-street parking areas. It was inspired by the report of meter tolls for the period from May of last year to the end of August. His brother, visiting from Miami Beach, had told him the meter revenues there were used to acquire parking areas, and that it was a general policy in American cities.

"It is a worth-while thought," Mayor Ovens commented. Mr. Sills was asked to draft a resolution for the next meeting for reference to the City Council.

James Dutton, chairman, and James Hamilton were asked to arrange a series of eight neighborhood meetings in the city this month as a means of explaining to the citizens the scope and purpose of the proposed zoning bylaw. And when that is done, Town Planners are still confronted with a requirement of providing every ratepayer with a copy of the zoning bylaw, which has not yet been passed. They raised the question whether they would have to go through with that laborious and somewhat expensive method of diseminating information after the meetings are held. At present there is no answer to that question.

Members at the meeting were Mr. Dutton, Mayor Ovens, Mr. Hamilton, Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mr. Sills, James Craig and City Engineer Chalmers.

The committee recently asked Mr. Dutton to propose an advisory group to assist in the work. As recommended, the following are being asked to accept appointment: C. B. Neal, R. L. Dobbin, Roy H. Parsons, Mrs. Jacob Low, O. J. Meagher, A. L. Killaly, Dr. J. A. Madill, B. I. Burgess, David Leether, Robert Hanscom.

Mrs. Morton and Mr. Hamilton were appointed to represent the board at a town planning conference in Toronto Oct. 14-16.

Truck Skids Upsets In Ditch

A wet highway is believed to have caused the dump truck driven by Don Leach, of Keene, to skid and overturn in the ditch, a mile north of Bewdley on Friday afternoon. Leach, who drives for Fred Nelson of Keene, was uninjured.

Leach told Provincial Constable H. Cooke that while making a turn on the wet surface of Highway 28, about a mile north of Bewdley, the back end of the dump truck began to skid. Before he could regain control the vehicle plunged into the ditch and overturned.

Damage was set at approximately $20.

FOG WAS BAD

Transport drivers report the fog along the Queen Elizabeth Way, and also between Bewdley and Peterborough was the worst so far this year. It was evident about nine in the evening and at two o'clock Friday morning was so dense drivers couldn't see ten feet beyond the front of their trucks.

Indian River Well Touched By Magic Wand Yields Pure Gasoline When Water Is Scarce

A well that yields not pure water but pure gasoline—that's what William Dewart, Indian River grain merchant, found today.

Like so many other rural residents during this present dry spell, Mr. Dewart has been anxiously looking for an additional water supply. So he went to an old stone well on his property, located across the road from Gerald Walsh's general store. He tore away the boards that had been laid over the hole since it fell into disuse a year ago, and hopefully lowered a bucket into the 12-foot depth.

He noticed a peculiar smell in the well but hauled up the bucket and examined its contents. It seemed almost like a bucket of gasoline he thought; so he emptied it onto the ground, and stepping back from the fluid, tossed a lighted match to it.

A roaring flame immediately gave him his answer—it was gasoline.

A momentary vision of riches flashed through his mind, but then came the prick to that bubble—it would have to be a magic well to refine petroleum into gasoline. And Mr. Dewart is no great believer in magic.

Then it all came to him. Slightly more than 50 yards away across the road was the 500-gallon tank at the Walsh general store. In some manner, he believes the gasoline must escape from the tank buried in the ground and seep into his well.

His calculations were somewhat upset however when the oil company that services the roadside pump pooh-poohed the idea that gasoline could seep all that distance. But as far as he is concerned, he knows he has gasoline in his well and oil company or no oil company, he still doesn't believe in magic.

And the unkindest cut of all—not only has his dream of a quick fortune vanished, but he is still looking for water

Dry Cleaning Plant Permit Refused

Town Planning Committee transferred Hunter St. in Ashburnham, easterly to Rogers St., from a neighborhood shopping district to a central commercial area at their meeting Thursday night.

That change in category, however, did not provide permission for E. F. Ferguson of Ferguson Cleaners to open a shop in the north side of Hunter St. at the CNR siding. The committee's motion instructed City Clerk Outram to inform Mr. Ferguson that "our zoning regulations do not permit him to operate a dry-cleaning or processing business in that area".

Dry cleaning plants are relegated by the zoning bylaw to C-2 areas for petty trade and warehousing, it was said.

Central commercial, the new status of Hunter St. east, is the same designation as the commercial centre of the city, including George St.

Mr. Ralph Standish accompanied Mr. Ferguson in the renewal of their application for use of the Hunter St. location.

"When Mr. Ferguson bought the property from Mr. Metcalfe the council at first granted permission for a dry cleaning establishment," Mr. Standish recalled, "but some neighborhood opposition developed and the council asked for the advice of this board."

Mr. Standish said, the south side of the street had long been a business section, including a coal yard and gasoline service station. "Mr. Ferguson would put the cleaning plant at the rear. The cleaning material would be underground in tanks, and there could be no hazard to nearby property. It would be of neat appearance, and we cannot see how it could be objectionable in the neighborhood where businesses are already established. The lot has a frontage of 73 feet. You couldn't put two houses there because the minimum frontage is 40 feet for a house. There would be a waste of considerable space if only one house was built."

Mr. Ferguson said he had told Mr. Metcalfe his plan of use of the property when he bought it. The vacant lot on the east side of the CNR siding appeared to be unwanted by any one else.

Mr. Standish explained that Mr. Ferguson could now get building materials and was renewing his application to build there.

The later decision of the committee was simply that the zoning regulations excluded a dry cleaning plant from that area.

World Conditions Speaker's Topic

"The same mass effort put forth by individuals during World War II should be put in force today to ensure world peace," said the Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, in his speech at the YMCA Friday Night Supper Club. His speech was entitled "World Conditions Today."

There was a good turnout of members and Allan Tucker provided entertainment with piano and acordion selections. It was the first Fall meeting of the Club with Robert Cutmore, president, in the chair. He urged that the membership should be enlarged and commented that he was pleased to see so many newcomers, member material, in the audience.

Dry September

Although it feels a bit chillier than usual this morning, the temperature was actually six degrees warmer by 10 a.m. than it was an hour earlier at 52; this remained constant all through Friday night.

Statistics for the month of September are interesting, if not alarming, in that the total precipitation was only one-quarter of an inch, most of this falling on the 18th; there were very light showers on the 3rd, 8th and 29th.

Highest temperature for the month was 88, the same as last year and the minimum was 39; in September 1947 it went as low as 28. Rainfall last September, in comparison with this year, was 1.99 inches.

46 SEPT. WEDDINGS

Vital statistics for September as recorded at the city hall were: 139 births, 25 deaths and 48 marriages, as compared with Sept. last year: 138 births, 34 deaths and 44 marriages.

MRS. CECIL L. BROWN of Hamilton, provincial president of the IODE, who will be in Peterborough next week to preside at the semi-annual meeting of IODE Chapters of Ontario being held in the Empress Hotel, October 6 and 7.

CAR OVERTURNS

Ed Rogers of Douro township was uninjured when his car went into a ditch and overturned early today about a mile north of Nassau. Cause of the mishap is not known. Provincial Constable Emmett Crough investigated.

LESS WHISTLING

CGE plant steam whistle will sound less frequently starting on Monday. There will be no blast at 6.50 a.m., 12.50 p.m., nor any at all on Saturday. Four signals only will sound at 7 a.m., 12 p.m., one p.m., and five p.m.

CUSTOM RECEIPTS

Custom and excise receipts for September, 1948, were aproximately $20,000 less than the receipts for September, 1947. Last month's figures were $356,489.38 in comparison with the September, 1947, total of $376,219.35.

WEDNESDAY CLOSING

Peterborough Business Men's Association is to circularize all retail stores in the city to notify them of the decision made at the association's annual meeting on Thursday to close stores all day Wednesday during the present Hydro power shortage.

NO RESTRICTIONS

Because of the fact that maskinonge fishing ended Oct. 1, and bass and pickerel fishing is still open until Oct. 15, fishermen are asking if there are restrictions on angling. Some think casting and trolling from boats is illegal the same as in the spring, but this is not so. There are no restrictions to angling until Oct. 15. A fisherman can troll or cast from a boat using natural or artificial bait, but if a maskinonge is hooked, it must be returned unharmed to the water.

SHACK BURNS

The fire department received a call at 12:57 a.m., today to put out a reported grass fire on Lisburn St., but the pumper found on arrival at the spot that it was actually a vacant shack that was on fire. Fire Chief George Smith thinks that the shack was possibly used by children as a playhouse and that they had a fire going in an old stove that either ignited the stovepipes or collapsed while the fire was in it. There was no value set on the structure.

City's Population 35,065 Increasing 641 In Year, Assessment $40,730,318

Peterborough's population is 35,065 as shown in the 1949 assessment roll which was returned Friday to City Clerk Outram by Assessment Commissioner Bert Graham. The 1948 roll listed the names of 33,897 persons in the city which was increased by 498 in the Erskine-Western Ave. annexation of North Monaghan and by 29 in the block of Smith township which was annexed to the city with the Brookdale subdivision, west of Chemong Road.

The actual total last year was 34,424 because the latest bounds of annexation were then in effect. And, on that basis the present increase in population, as Peterborough passes the 35,000 mark, is 641.

Accepted Monaghan Figures

Citizens may recall that from the date of the latest annexation of parts of the two townships, the city's assessment department did not have time to extend their work to those two areas. Consequently, the North Monaghan figures, chiefly assessment, were accepted for the purposes of city taxation this year in those newly acquired sections.

Mr. Graham said today that the population figures were not quoted as being exact. They were obtained and listed by the assessors in their round of the city, and some persons may have been omitted.

Total assessment for 1949 is $40,730,318, an increase of $2,227,584 over the total valuation, including business assessment, prepared in 1947 for the 1948 roll.

Total assessment of lands and buildings is $35,983,363, as compared with $34,010,929, an increase of $1,972,234.

Business assessment is $4,746,955—up $253,525 from the figure of $4,493,430 last year.

The total taxable real property is obtained by adding together the assessment of valuation of land and buildings, and subtracting from that sum the assessment that is exempt from taxation.

Details of the present assessment roll, prepared this year for the 1949 taxation purposes, are:

No. of taxable persons, 15,162.
No. of acres, 3,973.65.
Value of land, $8,413,223.
Value of buildings, $25,413,223.
Value of buildings, $25,570,140.
Total actual value of property, $35,983,363.
Total exemptions, $4,880,000.
Total taxable real property, $31,103,363.
Business assessment, $4,746,955.
Total assessment, $40,730,318.

This amount is made up of land, buildings and business, without exemptions.

Number of children: Ages 5, 6, 7, 1,649; ages 8-13, 2,633; ages 14 and 15, 798; ages 16-17, 801.
Total population, 35,065.

Car Catches Fire Owner Douses It

Some quick action at a private garage, 194 Hunter St., E. on Friday evening prevented an expensive fire when a new car motor that was being tuned up by J. Titus and Ernest Coon, backfired and caught fire.

With the assistance of Mr. Titus' two sons, Leonard and Tony, the car was back out of the garage and the fire, which had ignited some oil on the floor, was smothered with a blanket. The damage was estimated by the owners to be about $25 to the car's wiring.

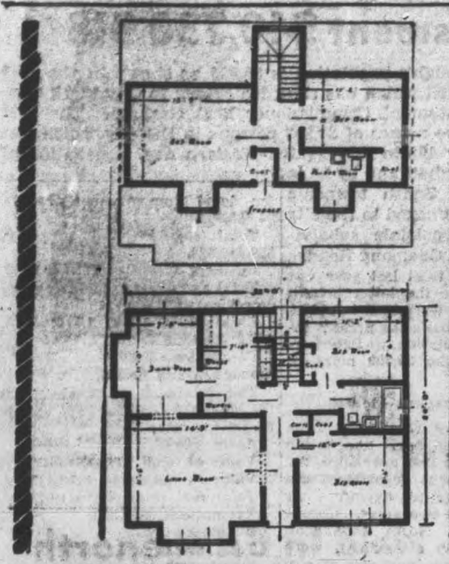
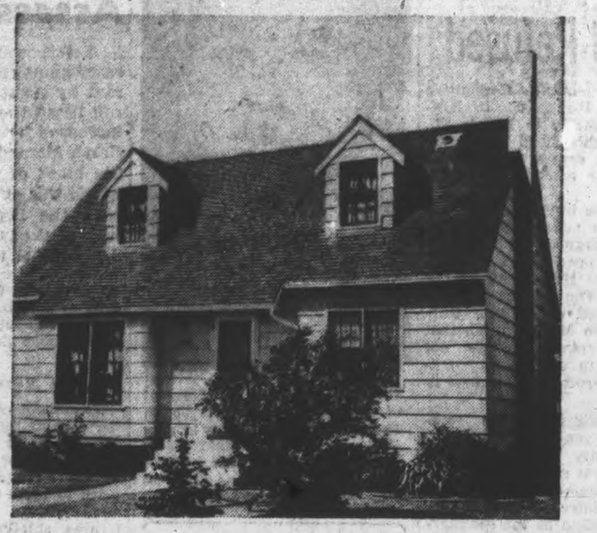
PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT





HOUSE NO. 145—What a lot of house is condensed in an area 32' x 24': There are five rooms on the first floor and two on the second. An examination of the floor plan will reveal how well adapted this design is to completing the ground floor alone, then, when necessity demands, the two bedrooms and washroom upstairs can be finished. This is just what the owners are doing and they have found the scheme very successful. They plan on turning the smallest first floor bedroom into a den at some later date.

Exterior walls are white, with the roof bright green. Both surfaces are of British Columbia cedar shingles. The deep shadow lines caused by thick butt shingles have given the facade much of its appealing character. For further information write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Poor Stairway Design Cause Of Many Accidents In Home

Treacherous treads have no place in the modern home. Follow these minimum safety dimensions required under the National Housing.

A stairway may be pleasing to the eye. . .but how does it rate for safety? More than 25 per cent of all accidents in the home occur on the stairs. . .attributable in large measure to poor stairway design. Here are some recommended minimums for stairway construction as required for home building under the National housing Act.

The use of a single riser on stairways is not recommended because of the accident hazard.

Treads shall be not less than 9" wide measured from face of riser to face of riser, and the width of the tread, including the nosing, shall not be less than 10¼". The maximum rise permitted is 8". Stringers shall have solid bearing at top and bottom and the minimum effective depth of wooden stair stringers shall be 3½".

The main staircase shall be of neat construction designed in keeping with the general character of the house. Treads shall be of hardwood or edge grain Douglas Fir having a minimum finished thickness of 1⅛". Hand rails shall be of hardwood.

Solid Bearing

The maximum riser permitted is 9". Stair stringers shall be not less than 2" x8". Stairs shall be substantially built and shall have a solid bearing top and bottom.

At least 6' 4" clear headroom shall be provided on all stairs measured vertically from the nosing of the tread. Clearance between handrails on main stairs shall be not less than 2' 10" Clearance between enclosing partitions around main stairs shall be not less than 3' 0". The clear width of stairs to attic storage space and basement shall be not less than 2' 6".

Handrails shall be provided on basement stairs and around the stairwells of attic spaces.

Winders are undesirable and are not recommended on any stairway because of the accident hazard. However, where winders cannot be avoided, their use will be permitted on condition that two-angled risers with three winding treads are used for one 90 degree turn.

Stairway Definitions

BALUSTERS — vertical posts running between ends of steps and rail.

BULINOSE STEP—(1) step with one or both ends rounded in a half or quarter of a circle and ending at the newel or (2) a step with semi-circular ends with the newel at the centre.

NEWELS—posts at the turn in a stair.

NEWELS POSTS—posts set at the top and bottom of a stair and supporting the stair rail.

NOSING—projection of tread beyond face of riser.

RISE — vertical distance between treads.

RISER—vertical face of a step.

RUN—horizontal distance between riser, is equal to the width of the tread not including the nosing.

STRINGER—inclined board to which ends of the treads and risers are fastened.

WINDER—a tread which is narrower at one end than the other.

VICTIM OF LOVE—This lovelorn moose was a victim of love and civilization this week. Wandering out of the woods near Barrie, he fell in love with a red cow in a farmer's pasture. Ontario game officials feared he might become violent during the mating season and took the protesting animal to a provincial park. He died the next day. Veterinaries said it was inflammation of the lungs but it might have been a broken heart.

Who Booed Drew? Was He? Conflicting Reports Fly

By GEORGE RONALD

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.— (CP). — Question: Was George Drew really booed out of the Quebec meeting yesterday or wasn't he?

The answer? Friend, there just isn't one. With 1,311 delegates at the Progressive Conservative national convention—and thousands of other persons, who also claim they have the "real" story—the whole business is bogging down.

Here are some of the versions of what happened when the Ontario premier and Mrs. Drew walked into the Quebeckers' confab in an Ottawa school room. Make up your own mind what happened—only let's be ultra-impartial, eh?

First of all, remember it was a closed meeting. No newspaper man was there. And if you think the papers can report one event several ways, rest assured they're running a poor second to the Progressive Conservative party at this point.

Backers Say No Boos

George Drew's backers— his "sure votes" when it comes to electing a new party leader today—say in effect: 'Don't be silly, chum—nobody booed our man." And they certainly seem to mean it, too.

But buttonhole John Diefenbaker's workers—the fellows who think the Saskatchewan Member of Parliament should take over the party reins from Jock Bracken—and it's a totally different story.

"Listen," they whisper, "don't go for that stuff. You're darned right he was "booed." What's more—now here's an angle—they say their version is based on the report of a non-Quebec observer they smuggled into the caucus.

Well, to go on from there . . .

Fleming Men Say Yes

Donald Fleming, the third leadership candidate, isn't talking for the record, of course. But his men say this: Yup, they booed all right, but only because a candidate—any candidate—entered the meeting hall unaccompanied by another candidate; they weren't really booing the premier himself.

A pro-Drew version: Mr. and Mrs. Drew went to the school under the impression that a reception, not a caucus, was being held there.

"A simple, absolute mistake," says one man, "thought I must confess that his supporters were delighted with the reception he got. The delegates rose up and applauded quite loudly."

But then a Fleming man, who says he was there, even has a description:

"Boo-o-o-o-o — non-non-non—boo-o-o-o-o," he says quite seriously.

And . . . Well, this could go on forever.

One thing, though — when George Drew got up on the convention platform last night, he sure didn't look as if he was worrying about any nasty ol' booing.

And yet, like the Diefenbaker man say . . .

Huh?

Diefenbaker, Drew Tie For Applause

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP). — When you look at it on a hand-clapping basis, John Diefenbaker and George Drew are running a pretty close race for the Progressive Conservative party leadership.

Observers Friday checked the elapsed time of applause when the two candidates finished their nomination acceptance speeches at the party's national convention and found the Ontario premier ahead by a few seconds.

The unofficial reading showed 40 seconds of applause for Mr. Diefenbaker and 45 seconds for Mr. Drew.

Radio engineers reported that their volume recorders show it to be a "close" race between Mr. Drew and Mr. Diefenbaker.

Film Must Make Nine Million

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 2 (AP).— Walter Wanger has to sell $9,000,000 worth of tickets to a single movie—"Joan of Arc."

This chore doesn't seem to worry the producer. In fact, he seemed more concerned about one of his actors who sprained an ankle at tennis before the last day of filming on a current Wanger picture. About his high-cost film he said blandly:

"If it makes as much as 'Jolson Story' or 'Best Years' we will show a profit. That should not be too hard. Look at the success of 'King of Kings,' 'The Ten Commandments,' 'Song of Bernadette,' 'Sign of the Cross.'"

Like the last-named films, Wanger's is a story of faith. Ingrid Bergman, who did "Joan" on the stage two seasons back, plays the title role. No quickie is it.

The shooting ran up a bill of around $4,000,000—maybe a little more and perhaps a little less — which is a whopping sum in these shaky days.

Advertising and the cost of prints will swell the total by another million. What with distribution costs, the cut for the theatres, etc, "Joan" will have to pull nine mill (that's the way Hollywood expresses it) at the box office before it shows a profit.

Wanger, who has long hewn the independent production path likes point out that it took an independent to make such a large-scale (and chancy) film.

"We have the largest bank loan ever made for a picture—$3,500,000." (Interest alone is $20,000 monthly. Another reason the film has to show a profit—and soon.)"

Strike Gusher

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. — Drillers searching for gas on the Niagara river parkway found what they were looking for. In fact they had a gusher on their hands as a pocket of gas, water and sulphur spouted 30 feet into the air and later exploded to start a three-hour fire. The fire was finally put under control, but latest reports say the well is still blowing.

Power Cutoffs Coming Closer

TORONTO, Oct. 2—(CP)—The lights still were going out in Ontario today as cities of its pulsating industrial belt edged closer to compulsory power cutoffs.

Despite voluntary rationing by householders and industries, it appeared almost certain that most communities would have to introduce cutoffs sometime next week.

Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders, speaking to the RCAF Association of the Canadian Legion, said in Toronto Friday night that the power scarcity was caused by a "wonderful era of prosperity" and said no relief could be expected until 1950 unless a depression struck.

The power demand of southern Ontario was 25 per cent higher in 1947 than in 1944, he said. Since the start of 1948, consumption had increased by 136,000 horsepower compared with the corresponding period last year.

Another 53,000 horsepower will be available after about Oct. 15. The new Aguasabon generating plant near Terrace Bay, 140 miles east of Fort William, will go into operation.

Dope Shipment Seized

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Approximately $200,000 worth of heroin Friday was removed from the Italian liner Vulcania by customs men. Later Harry M. Durning, collector of customs, told a press conference be believed Charles (Lucky) Luciano, deported vice racketeer, is involved. Luciano was deported to Italy several years ago.

WATCH IT, SON!—Construction workers at a lumber camp near Chapleau, 180 miles northwest of Sudbury, caught this bear cub this spring. They took it into camp then, fearing it would become too fond of camp life and trouble would result, returned it to the bush. Three weeks later the bruin returned fed up with life in the wilds. It was tied up and now has become so tame it will take cake from the mouth of Richard Lalonde as it is doing here.

Decide Names For Princess' Elizabeth's Baby

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Oct. 2 (CP). — If Princess Elizabeth's baby is a boy, he will have four names, including George (after the King), Philip (after his father), Louis (after his uncle, Earl Mountbatten), and probably Andrews as a compliment to Scotland.

If a girl the baby will probably be named Elizabeth, Mary, and Alice, the latter after Philip's mother.

Earl Mountbatten is expected to be godfather. Other godparents are likely to be the Duke of Gloucester, Princess Margaret and the Princess Royal. Three of the baby's aunts—Phillip's three sisters—are German by marriage and so far have not been mentioned as godparents.

Because the private chapel at Buckingham Palace still is bomb-wrecked, the christening will take place in the private chapel at Windsor Castle, a small, semi-circular apartment where Princess Elizabeth was confirmed. It will be a private ceremony, conducted by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

Like most grandmothers-to-be, the Queen is taking a keen interest in all preparations for the coming event and has knitted some baby garments herself. At Buckingham Palace she is personally supervising conversion of Elizabeth's bedroom on the second floor into a maternity ward.

While in Scotland, Princess Elizabeth chose two nurses for the royal baby from some 40 or 50 applicants. One is the daughter of a tenant on the King's estate. An older woman, known to the princess since her childhood, is to be appointed head nurse.

Mishap On Tractors

TILSTON, Man. — (CP). — Pat Cairns was wounded in the hand when a .22 rifle he was carrying on his tractor slipped to the ground and accidentally discharged. The impact of the rifle striking the ground fired it as Cairns reached for it, and the bullet passed through his hand.

"MY OWN GRANDPA"—First a grandmother, then a mother. Confusing but true in this case where Mrs. Russell Pare, 38, right, of Windsor, Ont., gave birth to a baby girl two days after another daughter, Mrs. Dennis Ouelette, 19, right, gave birth to a son. The grandmother, mothers, daughters, son and grandson all occupy the same room but it really isn't so crowded after all.

Owned By Sir John A., Stamp Box Given Drew

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP). — An heirloom from the wife of Sir John A. Macdonald has come to the man who by tonight may well be his political successor.

When Ontario Premier Drew got back to his hotel Friday night after accepting nomination for the Progressive Conservative party leadership, he found a parcel waiting him from a woman in Montreal.

It contained a gold stamp box she wanted Mr. Drew to have. It had been presented in 1872 to Lady Macdonald—whose husband then was Conservative prime minister and Canada's first—by the International Working Men's Union.

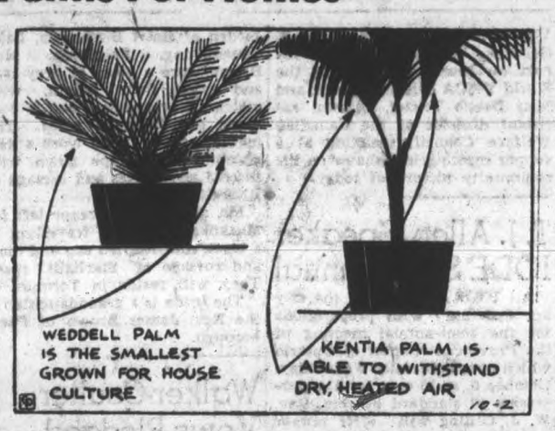
Palms For Homes



WEDDELL PALM IS THE SMALLEST GROWN FOR HOUSE CULTURE

KENTIA PALM IS ABLE TO WITHSTAND DRY, HEATED AIR

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Although they grow slowly, most palms are too big as they approach maturity to be suitable plants for the small house or apartment.

There are a few palms which should be included in the indoor garden because they are beautiful, fairly small and useful in setting off to advantage flowering plants which may be arranged with them.

The Weddel palm, illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, is the smallest of all palms grown for home culture. It is also considered the most delicate and graceful. It should be placed in a north window. It grows easily if given both moisture and good drainage. It is sometimes grown in fern dishes for table decoration.

Two other standard palms for house use are—Kentia belmoriana and Kentia forsteriana. They are popularly known as the erect kentia and the spreading kentia. The former, illustrated, is especially able to withstand dry, heated atmosphere.

The stems of both kentia varieties are short and from them arise graceful, slender, arching leaves. Fortunately these palms can do without much direct sunlight and may even be placed in dark corners for several days at a time without injury. However, they will do much better if they are kept in a place where there is plenty of light at all times.

The Roedelini also is a fine house palm. It is slow growing and tractable. It also is of the feathery type, with the leaf stems all springing from near the base so that it forms a graceful "fountain of green." This palm is extremely hardy.

Palms always do best in small pots. This is a point many home gardeners never seem to understand, as they nearly always over-pot palms and rubber plants.

Sentenced Man, Then Gets Gift

QUEBEC, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Criminals don't hold a grudge against the men who put 'em behind bars—well, you can take the word of Judge Achille Pettigrew he knows at least one such fellow.

It was a new experience in the distinguished jurist's career on the bench this week when a man he sentenced early in 1946 to three years in penitentiary not only paid with a friendly call — but brought him a gift, too.

Judge Pettigrew disclosed Friday his surprising — but welcome — visitor brought him a cigarette case made from various types of wood. It represented the labor of a penitentiary mate over a period of three long months.

The judge and his visitor chatted 30 minutes. What about? Life in the penitentiary and the rehabilitation of convicts, and at parting the judge's visitor said he'd call again sometime soon to talk some more on the later subject.

Haliburton Wants Color Film Made

HALIBURTON, Oct. 2. — A meeting of the Haliburton Tourist Association Executive was held and it was decided that with the help of the Government office of Travel and Publicity, the next weekend would be widely advertised as Maple Lake week.

Every means available is to be used to entice visitors to make the trip to the district to view the beautiful colouring that is to be seen over the entire Highlands.

The meeting also passed a motion to the effect that the Provincial Government through the Travel and Publicity Dept. be asked to make a color moving picture film of the entire Highlands and that this picture would be sent to the U.S.A. to encourage visitors to spend their holidays here.

Will Protect Federal System, Drew Pledges

OTTAWA, Oct. 2.—(CP).—Premier Drew said Friday night that, if elected leader of the Progressive Conservative party, he will do everything he can to maintain Canada's "constitutional federal democracy" and to assure personal freedom and individual opportunity.

"Canada today offers possibilities of expansion and prosperity far beyond anything he ever dreamed of in the past," he said, accepting a nomination as a leadership candidate.

Mr. Drew was nominated by Arthur Ross, Member of Parliament for Souris in Manitoba, and seconded by Ivan Sabourin, the party leader in Quebec.

Mr. Ross, moving Mr. Drew's nomination, said the Ontario premier is "one of the greatest Conservatives of the day," recognized by many persons as "a North American Churchill."

"Canada now requires greater leadership," said Mr. Ross. "This man, with a national and international reputation, has proven his administrative and leadership ability. Canada must have Drew as leader."

Quebec Stressed

Mr. Drew, addressing 1,311 voting delegates to the party's national convention, emphasized the importance of happy relations between Quebec and the other provinces.

He made a promise about a Trans-Canada highway.

"I assure you," he said, "that if I were charged with the responsibility, the construction of such a highway would be undertaken without delay, so that this country might be knit together by the most modern kind of highway system, just as we are by rail and air."

In a brief resume of "those principles which give direction and pattern to our political activities," he said:

Warns of State Control

"All over this troubled world today we see the dangers which arise from confused thinking, administrative weakness and, worst of all, political action based upon expediency. In their desperate attempts to build order out of the wreckage of dictatorships, we see nation after nation turning to forms of state control which, in themselves, are only the beginning of new forms of the very tyranny they fought to destroy.

"Our external, as well as our domestic, strength depends upon the kind of nation that we build. (The) constitution is threatened, and deliberately threatened, by those who believe in centralized power."

Progressive Conservatives believed in "a real federal partnership under which all our governments can work together in close functional co-operation."

Boy 5 Dies Inquest Held

LINDSAY, Oct. 2 — A coroner's jury investigating the death of 5-year-old John Dunnett of Cannington has found no negligence on the part of anyone. The boy died while undergoing a tonsillectomy in hospital here recently.

The jury found, according to Crown Attorney L. Jordan, that death was due to an enlarged thymus. The crown explains that medical evidence submitted at the inquest was to the effect that where an anaesthetic is administered to any person with an enlarged thymus gland, death is almost certain to result. He points out that there is no known way of telling whether or not such a condition exists in the body of a patient prior to operative treatment.

Evidence brought out at the inquest showed that the anaesthetic containers were sealed immediately after the boy's death and sent away for analysis. A report was given on the samples by authorities saying it was "of good and proper grade."

THIS IMMENSE PILE of rubble from Berlin buildings shattered by Allied bombs during the war is now serving a useful purpose. Rubble is collected from scattered locations and brought here as a source of raw material for the building of new airstrips. Trucks haul the stuff to Gatow or Tegel airports where it is used as the foundation for landing strips for airlift planes that are keeping Berliners from starving.

Sectional WMS Rally Held In Bridgenorth

The sectional WMS rally of the United Churches of Lakefield, Warsaw and district was held in Bridgenorth on Thursday.

The opening devotions were taken by Lakefield WMS when Mrs. G. M. Kelly and Mrs. Roy Brown took part.

Mrs. Jas. Johnston, president of this section, presided at both sessions. Mrs. Roy Brown of Lakefield was appointed secretary for the day.

Courtesy committee appointed consisted of Mrs. Carl Orr of Lakefield and Mrs. Taylor of Warsaw.

Mrs. J. Johnston, Peterborough, literature secretary for the Peterborough Presbyterial, gave an interesting talk on the literature display present and urged the ladies to look over the display and secure books and other literature needed.

Mrs. J. M. Beatty, Peterborough explained the first chapter of the Study Book and to help illustrate her address she had various maps and pictures. Mrs. Wallace Nicholls, Miss Lillie Udy and Mrs. Marcus Fowler assisted Mrs. Beatty.

Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Presbyterial president, brought greetings.

Reports Encouraging

The various reports given were most encouraging, from Lakefield, Warsaw, Bethel, Zion, Wesley, Bridgenorth, Fairview and Selwyn.

The Bridgenorth ladies served a delicious dinner in the basement of the church.

In the afternoon Mrs. L. Mills sang a lovely solo. An address on Stewardship was given by Mrs. Percy Darling, Lakefield. She said: "Life is like a great ship loaded with cargo to be delivered to many persons in many lands and God is the captain of that ship. One test of true Democracy is in tolerance working through communities of the world. In making the highways of life today's highway will not accommodate the traffic of tomorrow. Funds, literature, liquor traffic, etc., form great forces against the battle for a clean and healthy world."

Mrs. G. F. Kelly introduced the speaker, Miss Maimie Gollan, of the Church of All Nations in Toronto.

The report of the courtesy committee was given by Mrs. C. Orr.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn gave a fine report on the Ontario Temperance Federation convention held in Toronto.

An invitation was extended from the Warsaw WMS to meet there next year.

Founders Week Is Observed By Women's Service Club

Soroptimists in Peterborough and throughout North and South America, Great Britain and Europe are this week celebrating the 27th anniversary of the founding of the first Soroptimist Club at Oakland, California, in 1921. It was there that a Rotarian talked about his organization to a California business woman who thereupon decided that business and professional women might band together for service in the way Rotary clubs function. From that beginning the Soroptimist organization has grown until the American Federation is more than 350 clubs strong.

Peterborough Soroptimist Club is proud of the work it has been doing in the past year in the interest of older women through the Golden Mile Club which meets every Wednesday at the YWCA.

The position a woman holds in public life determines her eligibility for membership in a Soroptimist Club. She must be engaged independently in a profession, or be a proprietor, partner, corporate officer or department executive. The service her business or profession renders to the community determines her classification as a Soroptimist. Only one woman is invited to membership in any one classification. Thus a Soroptimist Club is a representative cross section of business and professional women, and each woman brings the best thinking of her particular field to the service.

Honorary president of Peterborough Soroptimist Club, the Hon. Iva Campbell Fallis, delivered the keynote address of the tenth biennial convention of the American Federation which includes Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, United States and South America, held in Toronto in July.

There is also a Soroptimist International Organization, largest women's service and classification group in the world, embodying the American and European Federation and the Federation of Great Britain and Ireland. The first International convention since 1938 was held in August and attended by Miss Myrtle Sargent, charter president of the Peterborough Club, at Harrowgate, England. Her glowing account of the meetings attended by 1,472 Soroptimists from 15 different countries is an inspiration to put forth greater effort to promote the high ideals for which every Soroptimist Club stands.

Boy Braves Storm-Tossed Lake, Rescues 7 Persons

WINS DOW AWARD

JOHN LOWE OF MONTREAL

rescues two men, five boys from over-turned craft in Brome Lake

At first, no one in the little group of vacationers paid any attention to the shouts coming from the lake. Such sounds were to be expected in summer resorts. But in a few moments it became obvious that the voices were not raised in laughter — they were desperate cries for help!

LAUNCHES SMALL BOAT

14-year-old John Lowe was the first one to act. Although the water was extremely rough and a high wind was blowing, he launched a small motorboat and headed for the end of the island. Soon he saw the reason for the shouting. Guiding his little craft through the white-caps, he came upon an over-turned flat-bottomed boat. Seven persons were clinging to it, almost exhausted. One by one John helped them over the side into his boat. Some were so weak they could hardly hang on, but he got them all in his boat. A few moments later they were safely ashore.

For his courage, coolness and great presence of mind, we are proud to pay tribute to John Lowe, of Montreal, through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Several of the older people tried to prevent John from venturing out on the stormy lake . . . but he was determined . . . and in a few moments was off to the rescue in a small motorboat.

The gallant youngster did not rest until he had the seven victims safely on the island. His brave deed won for him the praise of the entire Knowlton community.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian newspapers.

PERPETUAL FLAME

The candles burned at funeral services are descendants of the earthen lamps found in the Christian catacombs at Syracuse. These lamps were kept constantly burning. As symbols of immortality, they were designed to ward off evil from deceased persons. The Syracuse lamps, in their turn, were born of an ancient world-wide tradition that maintained perpetual fires in veneration of the warmth and light of the hearthfire, the sun and the moon.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Moulding of Personality Big Problem for Parents

One of the chief problems that confronts parents, and the one that they muddle oftenest is in dealing with their children's egos. Admittedly it takes a lot of gumption on the fathers' and mothers' part to enable them to hold the scale steady and keep from giving Johnny the big head by flattering him too much, or killing all of Sammy's initiative by continually belittleing him.

Dorothy Dix

This gives us the little human gas bags who are braggarts even in the cradle, and the poor deflated nonentities who have been lambasted so much that they have given up trying to be anything. The tragic part of all this is that so many parents who love their children, and make the sacrifices to give them advantages they never had themselves, fail to realize their attitude towards their youngsters settles heir fate.

You can't begin, for instance, to make a babe in rompers the he-who-must-be-obeyed of a family and run the whole house to please him, without turning him into a selfish, overbearing, grinding tyrant. You can't brag about how smart little Tommy is and quote his infantile bons mots without his growing up into being one of the egotistical bores whom everyone loathes. When the question is asked: What has become of all the child prodigies? The answer is: Mother smothered them with flattery.

Inferiority Complex

And if parents so often wreck their children's lives by overpraising them, they just as frequently ruin their children's lives by fault-finding. For we can do only what we think we can do, and when children have an inferiority complex bred into their very bones, they have been given a handicap they cannot surmount. Calling a child a fool has made one of many a child.

Many a boy fails in life because his father puts out the fire upon his altar by wet-blanketing his every ambition and criticizing everything he does. Father calls him stupid, dull, shiftless, and prophesies he will never amount to anything and the boy believes that Father knows and gives up without trying.

And many a girl who has it in her to be a beauty and a belle and make a good marriage is keeping books, or answering the telephone, or being an old maid auntie because her mother was forever telling her how homely she was and how awkward and dumb, until she made the girl so humble that she didn't even think it worth while to comb her hair a becoming way. Many a woman is beautiful just because she thinks she is beautiful.

How, then, shall parents teach their children to be self-confident, yet not egotistical? To believe in themselves, yet not think too well of themselves? A self-made man, who literally rose from rags to riches, once gave me his mother's recipe for it. He said: "When I was a little boy growing up my mother was always lavish in her praise and appreciation of me, but she would always add a little sticker to it. She would say: 'Son, your school report is fine and I am very proud of you, but you can do a little better.'

"And those are the fighting words that have been my slogan through life. I always have been trying to do a little better."

NEW JOB—With his wife along to attend to any back seat driving, John Bracken, retiring Progressive Conservative leader, gets the keys to a shiny new car from Gordon Graydon, member for Peel. It will be a new driver's seat for the party's former chief. The party presented the car in the midst of a jammed hall at the national convention in Ottawa.

For Sunday, October 3

Sunday's horoscope favors the orthodox affairs of the day, with matters of interest in the church, professional, home and heart under excellent auspices for expansion, pleasure and celebrations in connection with these. However, there are hints of the best returns coming from a method of discrimination, tact and finese with reason rather than craft effective.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may enjoy a more than ordinary era of success, expansion and gratification, with important issues coming to a head. But watch out for hidden factors or some rather tempting and alluring proposals—likely to mislead if not carefully scrutinized before definite decisions be made. Take time to investigate any dubious or complex situations or leads.

A child born this day is ambitious, aspiring, talented, with social graces and business acumen, but could be easily mislead, duped.

For Monday, October 4

Monday's astrological forecast is an exceptionally propitious one, with a sudden event probably causing a complete and very welcome change of plans and ambitions. Around this abrupt and soul-stirring development, if sanely and reasonably submitted to reason and common sense, there could be delightful denouement affecting the entire life and its aspirations.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may prepare for an abrupt development of unusual proportions, which may prove revolutionary on the domestic, romantic, and social, aspects of life. But hard work, practical and constructive tactics, with common-sense and logic in last analysis will be the deciding factor for exceptional crises. The mental outlook may be a bit confused, with certain complications to be wisely considered, for lasting returns.

A child born on this day seems to be a "child of destiny," with unusual talents, unique or novel ideas, to be backed by good sense and clear thinking. Romance and adventure are assured, with probable public recognition.

Model House Takes Fancy At Trinity Thanksgiving Tea

A model house, completely furnished, and with a car on the paved driveway before the front porch, was the most eye-catching feature of Trinity Missionary Auxiliary tea Friday afternoon. The property of Janet Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Elliott, and a sample of her father's handiwork, it symbolized the spirit of Thanksgiving when citizens express thanks for the abundant resources and favors they enjoy, and especially gratitude for good homes.

The products of field and garden made a colorful display, backed by stalks of corn, turned golden brown with frost. A garden picket fence twined with flowers and shrubs, made the picture complete.

In the tea room a delightful atmosphere of friendliness prevailed. Conversation inevitably focused on the four candle holders—halved pepper squash with notched edges and tapers of the same color as the centres. Between them a bowl of fruit and vegetables, and at each end silver tea services, all on an Italian cut-work cloth. Orange pumpkins were like spot lights in the greenery on the mantel, and coals were a glowing red in the fireplace.

Mrs. J. Perry arranged the tea table and decorations, assisted by Mrs. A. B. Gates. Mrs. H. Rehill was convener of refreshments with Mrs. G. Tollington and Mrs. G. Hill assisting.

A big display of home cooking was looked after by Mrs. H. Corner, Mrs. N. Andrew, Mrs. C. Gonnet and Mrs. T. Stanley.

While Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy and Mrs. D. Bruce Gordon received, pleasing musical selections were played by Mrs. Ed. Ritchy and Miss M. Clarry. The tickets were being taken meanwhile by Mrs. Agnes Smith.

Miss T. Mather and Mrs. J. E. Middleton were hostesses in the tea room. Serving refreshments were Mrs. N. E. Elliott, Mrs. W. R. Philp, Mrs. H. Martin, Mrs. A. Noftall, Mrs. W. Donaldson, Miss H. Hodgen, Mrs. D. E. Bell, Mrs. W. A. Davern, Mrs. A. Wade, Mrs. W. E. Foley and Mrs. A. Malby. The tea was poured by Mrs. J. W. Pierce, Mrs. G. N. Moncrief, Mrs. A. Legon and Mrs. H. T. Rehill.

Urge PC Women To Shelve Petty Jealousies

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP). — Women of the Progressive Conservative party Friday were urged to shelve "petty jealousies" if they wanted to get anywhere politically.

This advice came from women delegates themselves at a lively meeting during a convention intermission.

Chairman of the session, Evelyn McDonald, of Toronto, opened the discussion when she told the group that the time had come for women to take an interest in "matters other than those in our own field."

She said it was up to them to campaign among their neighbors for women who might be good Conservative material.

She hoped in the next Federal election to see two women candidates running in each province.

Mrs. R. D. Harvey of Victoria said it was time for women to put their "petty jealousies" aside if they wanted to get anywhere politically. She noted that it was the men who "put me up" to come to Ottawa as a delegate.

Mrs. H. R. Bray of Vancouver, said "one great trouble is that we haven't developed a sex loyalty as men have. . ."

Mrs. H. A. Steen of Vancouver urged the delegates to remember that when it came to working for the Conservative party they weren't working as men and women but as party members.

FOND FAREWELL—Mrs. George Black (left), grand old lady of the Progressive Conservative party, exchanges a womanly kiss with Mrs. John Bracken, wife of the retiring leader, at the party's national convention. Mrs. Black, wife of the member of parliament for the Yukon and a former member herself, has just presented Mrs. Bracken with a diamond-studded wrist watch and a string of pearls, a gift of the party.

McLaughlin, Mrs. Ross Pollock, Mrs. Earl Greenly and Mrs. Eric Little of Trent River attended the surprise party and presentation at the home of Mrs. Harry Pollock, Havelock, in honor of Mrs. Charlie Taylor who is leaving to reside in Toronto.

Miss A. Hutchison of Toronto is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. M. Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Greenalgh and family are moving to Peterborough for the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Lean and family were recent guests with the latter's mother, Mrs. Richards, Cobourg.

ARCHBISHOP GYULA FEHERVARY, 34, of the Mariavit church, of Hungary, is shown with his bride, Irdiko, 18, after they told newsmen they were "the happiest couple in Budapest." The handsome archbishop is momentarily without a church; for his church was dissolved by state decree on January 1, 1948, when all foreign relief funds were cut off. The archbishop was born in Hungary, but brought up in Poland. He returned to Hungary 10 years ago to organize his own branch of the Roman Catholic Church. His sect uses the Catholic ritual, but does not accept

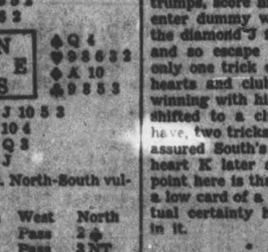
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NOT LIKE A NO TRUMP

EVERYBODY knows that as a general rule it is well to return your partner's suit, of which he orginally led a low card, when the contract you are attacking is in No Trumps. But just the reverse is true when you are against a suit contract. Then you can be pretty sure that your partner has nothing high in the suit he led, and is therefore opening a worthless suit in order to avoid jeopardizing some guarded honor or honors in other suits. He wants those led to him. So if you win a trick fairly early in the play, please in most situations shift to one of those other suits on your return.



(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

	East	South	West	North
1.	Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
	Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT
2.	Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
	Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 ♠
	Pass	4 ♠

Playing against the 3-No Trumps contract, East remembered properly the old rule to "return your partner's suit." West had led the club 4 to J, so when East got in later with the diamond A he sent back another club, giving West three tricks in the suit and holding South to exactly his game, whereas any other return would have handed South an extra trick. Don't, please, raise the point of what would have happened if West had led the diamond 4, as that is not the question at issue. It is merely that at No Trump a player may underlead tenace honors, whereas at a suit he seldom will.

Where the contract was 4-Spades, West led his diamond 4. When East won with the A, he returned his diamond 10. South there was able to win, take out trumps, score his diamond honor, enter dummy with a trump, use the diamond J for a club discard and so escape with the loss of only one trick each in diamonds, hearts and clubs. If East, upon winning with his diamond K, had shifted to a club, as he should have, two tricks there would have assured South's defeat when the heart K later scored. The main point here is that, when West led a low card of a suit, it was a virtual certainty he had no honors in it.

COUNTY FARM NOTES

The Grassland Competition In Which "Everyone Wins," A Big Project in New England . . Touring Western Ontario Juniors To Be Entertained Here . . District Fairs Ending Next Week

A competition in which everyone wins is an interesting ascription of the New England Green Pastures Contest in which six of the eastern States south of the U.S. border are competing this year.

The promise is obviously true because as R. H. Boothby, past president of the Maine Livestock Breeders' Association, remarked: "The best thing farmers will get out of this contest will be the improved pastures they will produce. That is one of the best prizes that any of us can win."

It should be of interest to a few Peterborough farmers who have been suggesting for this locality the Grassland competition similar to that near Woodstock this summer. Daily and farm press reports described it as a most helpful demonstration in pasture practice and results, together with displays of new machinery as an added attraction. The local proposal was to the effect that plans should be considered in the near future for a similar day in this area, and preferably in Peterborough County.

An element of publicity and instruction about the Grassland enterprise which broadens and at the same time focuses rural attention on the importance of grass and legume crops can be of great accumulative value to the whole community.

For instance, more than 600 Vermont farmers have entered the New England competition; 536 Massachusetts farmers; New Hampshire is represented by 227, Maine 225, Connecticut 205 and Rhode Island 86. These dairy farmers will be visited by county pasture judges who will rate their pasture programs on seasonal grazing, management and pasture for young stock. Three winners will be chosen from each of the six States. These men will compete for sectional prizes amounting to $2,000.

Obviously, the least value in the whole affair will be the cash awards to the ultimate winners. The chairman of the New Hampshire committee said: "Our dairymen who raise better green pastures for their dairy cattle could increase their income by more than $6,000,000 in one year. Multiply that figure by six and you can realize the potential power of this contest on the New England dairy industry."

If Peterborough farmers are seriously interested in a grassland project for 1949, they will find themselves in top drawer company. The western Ontario competition this year demonstrated that it was well worth while.

Ford Prince, agronomist at the University of New Hampshire, affirmed that the 1947 contest in that State showed that the men with excellent pastures were top-dressing their haylands and pastures with fertilizer every year. That was one big reason why such pastures rated high on the score card.

Competitions in which everyone wins are not specially new, although the title places a new emphasis on an element of breadth and comprehensiveness that is too often overlooked.

The Holstein breeders fortunately decided to eliminate the graded prizes. All prizes were made equal. The man whose animal placed 10th received as much as the first prize winner. But, the ranking and eating was still there. The Black and White Days of the last ten years or more have ultimately paid off many a mortgage or bought a lot of labor saving machinery on Ontario farms.

They were designed for the long view, not for a few immediate paltry dollars' difference between the first and fifth prizes, for instance.

Red and White Days were a development, and Jersey parish shows. The salient feature about them all is something of the idea of the competition in which everybody wins. Farmers took hold of these cattle "Days" with a spirit of earnestness that soon produced results. They weren't interested so much in the prizes, because they were all the same, as they were in a desire to improve their herds. If they had been content with things as they were, they would have passed up the shows. Dairy farmers, or most of them, laugh at the idea of a two dollar prize, or even five. If that were all the returns from their cattle Days they would soon have lost interest and abandoned it. They have all been winning in the market for their livestock, and the Grassland contest suggests the same snowballing of reward.

A. B. MANN JUDGING

Allan B. Mann had two judging engagements this week, Ancaster Fair Wednesday and Caledonia Friday. He also judged the roadster and carriage classes at Galt Fair, the last three days of the previous week. Meanwhile, his son, Burritt, took the Mann horses to Picton Wednesday, and brought home seven first prizes won in the roadster and hackney classes.

ACHIEVEMENT DAYS

Achievement days for the boys and girls of Peterborough and Norwood district are on Sat. Oct. 9 and Mon. Oct. 11 respectively.

The youngsters of the local calf and grain clubs have been fully informed of the program which Frank [illegible] has drafted for them at Norrow Park. It is also expected that the adult members of the 50 bushel winter wheat club will bring in their samples.

The 17 juniors who competed in the Quinte Seed Fair of farmers' week are reminded of their opportunity to try for the good prizes that are open to them. First is $25. They received a bushel of Beaver oats and 50 lbs. of fertilizer. They were required to sow their wheat on half an acre. Award of the first three prizes is conditioned on showing wheat equal in grade to registered No. 1.

All the young people of the club are urged to turn out for Achievement Day. Their program will be held in the drill hall building.

There are 23 members of the Norwood calf club showing at Norwood Fair on Thanksgiving Day. They were coached this summer by Murray McRea who has now returned to O. A. C.

THE FINAL FAIRS

Ontario's 250 fall fairs as listed by John A. Carroll, superintendent with the Department of Agriculture, have come to the final week. In the Peterborough district, Madoc and Bobcaygeon are on Wed. Oct. 6; Roseneath Fri-Oct. 8; Norwood on Oct. 11, Thanksgiving Day, Alviston, last on the provincial list, is Oct. 13.

A motor trip to Bobcaygeon is worth while from the beauty of water setting of this scenic village. Madoc and Roseneath are two of the best fairs in the province. No. 7 highway is paved practically all the way to Madoc. If you look in on the Fred Slade fair at Roseneath you can motor home by Bewdley.

Provincial plowing match at Lindsay Oct. 12-15.

LADINO CLOVER

Ladino clover is highly palatable and suitable for classes of livestock. it is a perennial that has been gaining in popularity Central Experimental Farm. Ottawa, says it gives good yields of highly nutritious forage, and provides excellent pasture for dairy cattle and poultry. Because its high moisture content makes it difficult to cure it does not make good hay, but it is a valuable legume in hay mixtures for areas where alfalfa and red clover kill out. Top dressing of phosphate and potash fertilizer is generally necessary to maintain good growth.

VISITING JUNIORS

Peterborough junior farmers are planning entertainment for a touring group from western Ontario who are arriving here Friday Oct. 8 on their way back from Montreal. They are staying here over night at Winona Camp. The local program includes a social evening at Normal School beginning at 8.30.

✦ ✦ ✦

USE OF ORGANIC MATTER

Most soil organic matter used in farming consists of decomposing vegetable material which originally came from living plant. Sods, green manure crops, residues and mulching materials are sources of organic matter which are decomposed by soil organisms. In decomposing, organic materials release nutrients which the plants draw from the soil.

Heavy soils require coarse, fibrous material which will separate the soil particles. These soils also require cover or sod crops with a deep, coarse root system to penetrate below plow depth in order to increase aeration and water penetration. Sandy soil require fine rooted and fine textured crops which tend to bind the light, sandy soil together. Hay mulch is adaptable to both heavy and light soils.

Fresh green organic materials from immature plants are of more value in a sandy soil than in a heavy one. Nitrogen content of soils can be raised only by raising the organic content because nitrogen is not contained in soil minerals. Of the total nitrogen in the soil 98 to 99 per cent, is in organic form, according to an article on organic materials in the Farmers Digest.

On some dairy farms, the quantity of soil organic matter is often adequate, due to most of the land being in sod and to the return of animal manure to the land. Conserving of stable manure becomes important as soil fertility is raised. With more productive soils, the level of nitrogen and minerals in the roughage is rinsed. The manure from the herd contains more plant food, much of it in the liquid part.

On new hayland or pasture seedings, apply five tons manure to form a mulch, thereby reducing erosion, causing less drying and crusting of the surface, and providing some plant nutrients to the new seedings. There is also some protection against winter injury and heaving.

The manure spreader can be a fertilizer spreader for sod crops particularly. For hay fields which contain mostly grasses, add to fresh stable manure high in straw or litter at least ten pounds of ammonimum nitrate per load, and 30 pounds of 20% superphosphate to balance the fertilizer more nearly to a 1-1-1 ratio, and to provide enough nitrogen for decomposition of organic materials.

For clover fields where a light top dressing of manure can be used for winter protection, additional potash (10 pounds per ton) should be used with phosphated manure, or 30 pounds of 0-20-20 a load in superphosphate has not been used in the gutter. Potash phosphate and borax seem to be more effective when applied with manure.

DON'T DROWN CEMENT

Because cement is much used on farms, the federal department of agriculture warns against using too much water in the mixture. A recommended ratio is: four imperial gallons of water to one sack of cement, 2¼ cu. ft. of sand and three cu. ft. gravel. Change the proportion of sand or gravel if the mix is not workable as required, but don't change the water and cement proportion.

The mix should be tamped in to avoid air pockets in the final structure. If there is too much water it will tend to gather and form a pocket. When the forms are removed, the water evaporates and a pocket is left, weakening the concrete.

To keep the heavier gravel from pushing to the outside slide a shovel down between the wet cement and the form, and work the heftier gravel back to the centre. The fact is that severe frost can spring the larger pieces of gravel right out of the wall, if they are exposed, and leave unsightly holes. You can tell whether a mix is good if a shovel will stand up in it by itself.

CHICKEN DINNER

Here's a recipe for "poulet mignon" recommended in the weekly bulletin of the federal Department of Agriculture. It is a culinary invention of chefs of Quebec's Chateau Frontenac "and in a few months has become established as a distinctive French Canadian delicacy for the epicurean elite".

Take a partly boned broiler, removing the breast bone and upper leg bones, leaving only the thigh bones intact. Wrap the breast meat partly about the thigh bones. Cook in deep chicken fat to retain and intensify the chicken flavor. Brown to a turn and serve hot with garnishes.

Do that, the department advises and you have a ball of chicken meat that rolls on the tongue—fit for a king. It is passed on to Peterborough farm housewives as a variation of the chicken dinner that appears in the rotation of viands in rural programming of meals.

CORN COBS FOR STEERS

Disposal of corn cobs used to be a problem in Iowa. Now they are being ground up and fed to steers. John Dos Passos in Life of Aug. 23 quotes Bob Garst, a hybrid corn man at Coon Rapids:

"When I tell people we're feeding steers corncobs their eyes just about pop out of their heads... Corn cobs put through a grinder with a little high protein feed added, and a little bright hay to give them the vitamin A they've got to have... Every year in the fall we process our seed corn at the plant we've been looking at that mountain of cobs and wondering how to get rid of them. We gave them to anybody who was willing to haul them away. And it never occurred to me or anybody else that they might have food value... Once we got the notion we began to look into it, and found that the Ohio experiment station has been mixing extra cobs with shelled corn fairly successfully.

So, winter before last we tried different combinations out with 30 steers in six separate pens, and last winter we were horribly successful feeding 550 steers on corncobs and high protein meal. They put on weight at a cost of about one-half of what it costs right now to fatten cattle on corn, and they gained about three-quarters of the weight they would have gained if they had been fed all the shelled corn they would eat. This experiment is important because if you can feed cattle on cobs which are mostly cellulose you can probably use straw on other types of cellulose. Of course it applies only to ruminants, and they must have high protein with cobs and some hay, but it opens up possibilities for cheaply increasing the meat supply. This summer I'm just keeping on 19 steers as a kind of exhibit. I like to have something to keep the boys interested."

One of the illustrations showed white faced cattle eating ground corn cobs mixed with molasses and urea.

RURAL GIRLS' CLUB

"The Club Girl Entertains" suggests titularly the purpose and scope of the project which is being undertaken by the rural girls of Peterborough who engage in the club work sponsored by the Women's Institute branch and home economics service of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

"Homemaking clubs" is a further suggestion of their aims in the rural communities of Ontario. The only new feature about them has been the recent departmental announcement of changes in the instructors. Mrs. Alan Conn has been appointed to the area comprising Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Northumberland counties.

Mrs. Conn met some of the Peterborough leaders last week and arranged for a two-day training school Nov. 4 and 5, and with the hope that many of the daughters of Peterborough farm homes will engage in the project that has been chosen.

The two-day course is particularly for those girls who have been active in their home localities, promoting club work and assuming leadership in it. From this training they will carry the project of "The Club Girl Entertains" into their own sections.

Peterborough girls know that the home economics service extends into such other studies as nutrition, the making of clothing, household furnishing, gardening and so on. Miss Jean M. Scott who directed girls' club work here for some years has been assigned to the district of Bruce, Huron, Perth counties.

The local project for the coming year is intended to develop the social graces which rural girls acquire in their own homes. Interests of the young people of the farms have expanded broadly in this generation. Their social activities and range have increased, and as girls are the chief influence in setting social standards they are provided with more of the means and opportunities of social experience than their mothers received.

Association with other girls in this phase of club work is bound to be a help in lessening the diffidence that remains with some girls when they leave the home circle and its assurance. Mrs. Conn's course will provide variety of experience in the entertaining that becomes part of home life, wherever it may be. Social poise is an acquisition that adds to personality, and is altogether an acquisition which the Women's Institute and the home service branch of the department manifestly desires to encourage.

Local leaders will be advised about Mrs. Conn's two-day course and it's hoped that in turn their local classes will attract larger membership than ever.

SOCIALITE FRANCIS HITCHCOCK and his bride, the former Stephany Saja, daughter of a coal miner, are a happy pair as they ascend the steps of the swimming pool, at the hotel Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

SENTENCED to serve 14 years in Illinois state prison for the brutal slaying of nine-year-old Nancy Schuler, daughter of the family's next door neighbor, 14-year-old Roy Adams waves good-by as he starts out from Chicago to serve his term. On right is County Jail Warden Frank Sain.

Girl's Father Offers Large Reward

Search For Co-Ed Vain After 72 Hours; Fear June Baker Dead

TORONTO, Oct. 4—(CP). — A $1,000 reward was offered today by Paul Baker, father of 21-year-old June Baker, for information leading to the discovery of his daughter who vanished last Thursday in downtown Toronto, Chief Constable John Chisholm announced today.

The distraught father made a week-end radio appeal following a fruitless 72-hour search of the city and its environs.

Students Aid Search

TORONTO, Oct. 4 (CP)—Attractive 21-year-old June Baker, who vanished last Thursday from downtown Toronto, today was feared dead or held against her will.

"I appeal to all mothers and fathers," Baker pleaded into a microphone, his voice choking with emotion. "Anyone who knows the whereabouts of our daughter, June, please, please let us know."

He said Sunday he believed the popular University of Toronto medical student had been slain or was a prisoner; police expressed credence in the latter theory.

Seen With Strange Woman

The laughing girl with nut brown hair and a bright green coat was last reported seen in a Bay Street restaurant with a strange woman. Police said it was unlikely that she was kidnapped in daylight on a downtown street but thought the woman might have lured her to some place where she was held prisoner.

Fellow university students joined police Sunday in a yard-by-yard search of the islands across the Toronto harbor mouth following a report that the girl had been seen there. The search of islands, on one of which the Baker family has a summer cottage, was scheduled to be resumed today.

Police said they had received hundreds of telephone calls from citizens who offered suggestions or said they thought they had seen pretty June. Outside To-

Druggist Shot Hold 5 Youths

BRONTE, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Provincial Police announced today five men are held for questioning in connection withe Saturday midnight shooting and attempted robbery of druggist D. A. Allan. The 48-year-old druggist was shot in the stomach by bandits who entered his store and fled without taking the cash they had demanded.

Those held are Joseph Gredski, 17, and Edward McMann, both of Malton; Rick Rebeck, 21, and Fred Jackson, 22, both of Toronto, and Buddy Smith, 18, of Willowdale. They were apprehended in Lindsay on a charge of stealing an automobile in Etobicoke township Sept. 28.

Allan is now resting in a Toronto hospital, suffering from wounds in the abdomen. His condition is deescribed as satisfactory. He told police the men entered his store and demanded "Where's your cash register?" and then fired at point-blank range with a revolver before Allan could answer.

Monoxide Poisoning Kills Three In Car

BARRIE, Oct. 4—(CP).—Police Sunday night identified a 1929 model car, found near here Sunday with the bodies of three men, and tentatively identified two of the men. But the identity of the third man remained a mystery.

Police said a check of licence numbers indicated the men were 21-year-old Earl Bonnell of Toronto and his brother, Gordon, 27. The car belonged to them.

The three were believed to have died of carbon monoxide poisoning although one window was partly open.

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Oct. 4 (AP)—Denny Galehouse, a 36-year-old veteran of countless baseball campaigns, was Manager Joe McCarthy's choice today to pitch for Boston Red Sox against Cleveland Indians in the first tie playoff game in American League history.

Today's winner meets the Boston Braves in the world series starting Wednesday.

Lou Beaudreau, playing pilot of the Indians, who kept his starting pitcher a deep, dark secret until the last possible minute, finally named Southpaw Gene Bearden (19-7) to face the Sox. The rookie from Arkansas, who has won his last six starts, was working with only one full day's rest. He shut

Troops Put Down Revolt, Bloodshed In Lima's Port

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 4—(AP).—Government troops today held full control over the port of Callao after smashing a bloody revolt by sailors and civilians. The insurgents, who seized and used the full fire-power of warships and heavily-armed naval installations at Callao, Lima's port, launched the revolt early Sunday.

By late Sunday night, government infantrymen, supported by tanks and fighter planes, had rooted the rebels out of their fortified strongholds and apparently had captured them all.

There was no official indication of the number of casualties or of how many persons took part in the revolt. All accounts indicated, however, that the number of dead and wounded was large. An army authority said there were so many casualties that trucks probably would be used to augment ambulances in carry them away.

Revolt Directed

The government of President Luis Bustamente Rivero said in a communique it had confirmed that the opposition Aprista Party had "inspired and directed" the revolt. The communique said many armed civilians affiliated with Aprista were arrested.

"Cmdr. Enrique Aguila Pardo, who is well known because of his Aprista leanings, headed the rebellion aboard some warships," the communique said.

The rebels' first strike occurred about 3 a.m., police Col. Fetix Pielago Stagnaro said, when about 40 civilians, well-equipped with navy arms, attacked a Callao police station. A police squad routed them, Pilago said.

The number of casualties aboard the rebel-seized warships was believed to be high because they were strafed throughout the afternoon by army planes. The ships countered with anti-aircraft fire.

The newspaper El Commercio said that as the army overwhelmed the rebels on shore, the cruiser Almirante Grau and the destroyer Villar, two of the vessels seized by the insurgents, sailed into Callao Bay to surrender.

BC Lumbermen's Union Breaks With Parent Body

By RAY TIMSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—(CP).—Labor strife ripped through British Columbia's $200,000,000 forest products industry today as 40,000 loggers learned their executive had severed all ties with the International Woodworkers of America (CIO).

Cited as a "Communist-dominated" group by the president of one of its locals, the executive of the B.C. division of the huge union Sunday night announced its disaffiliation from the parent body. The move may affect the bargain powers of the district council.

To Form New Union

District vice-president Harold Pritchett, who was chief of the International Union from 1937 to 1940, announced the disaffiliation in a radio address, following an executive meeting. He said a new organization, Woodworkers Industrial Union of Canada would be formed.

Pritchett gave as the main reason for the swift and unexpected move, Saturday's announcement that 33 of the B.C. districts representatives had been denied entry to the United States because of alleged Communist party affiliations. He said the International Union did not protest the action.

The representatives, 26 men and seven women, said they were denied permission to attend an international union convention in Portland, Ore., Oct. 11 when they refused to admit to U.S. immigration authorities whether or not they were members of the Labor Progressive Party.

Meanwhile, in various sections of the province, 500 logers staged a work stoppage in protest to a 25-per-cent increase in lumber camp board rates. Union officials said the new rates, plus a boost earlier this spring, killed their recently-awarded 11 per cent wage hike.

Geology Group To Explore Hastings

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 4—(CP)—In motley garb, from checked shirts to old army trousers, bearing kitbags from which light pickaxes and hammers stuck forth at strange angles, 27 students and four professors of the University of Western Ontario Geology Department left today on the first long distance field trip the department has undertaken.

As the wheels of the big red and white bus crunched over University Drive, the group was off on the five-day 700-mile trip to explore one of the richest geological regions in Canada—Hastings county. Centres of the exploration will be Madoc and Bancroft.

In charge of the party is Prof. G. N. Reavely, head of the geology department, with him is Dr. G. G. Suffel, assistant professor of geology and two other staff members.

Only Big 4 Can Discuss War Crisis

Tries To Keep Issue From Security Council As West Presents Case

PARIS, Oct. 4—(CP).—Russia told the United Nations Security Council today it has no right to consider Western charges that the Soviet blockade of Berlin is a menace to world peace.

Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, led off his fight to keep the Berlin issue out of the Council's hands. He declared the Western demand for United Nations consideration of the dispute was "devoid of any ground, as it does not fall within the scope of the Security Council."

The issue, he said, should be sent to the Big-Four Council of Foreign Ministers, as a formal note from Moscow proposed earlier today.

Vishinsky declared the United Nations charter forbids the Council to discuss anything concerning Germany until the four occupying powers have written a peace treaty for the beaten country.

Only Legal Way

Taking the argument to the Foreign Ministers' Council, he said, offers the only legal way to settle the problems of Germany, including Britain, which has been under a Soviet land blockade since last June 23.

He said the Berlin problem is closely linked to the whole German problem. He charged that the currency reform in western Germany last June was an "act of aggression" against the Russian occupation authorities and had forced the Russians to take "defensive measures."

The Council got down to the vital Berlin issue an hour after the meeting opened.

Up until then the delegates of 11 countries had been wrangling over translation procedure.

Amid laughter — because the council is so seldom of one voice —the delegates unanimously accepted a Colombian proposal that the debate be simultaneously translated over the walky-talky radio network.

It decided also that delegates might also ask for consecutive translations in English and French.

Warren R. Austin, United States delegate, called the meeting to order as chairman for October.

Press Changes

The western powers—Britain, France and the United States—pressed the charges before the council in spite of a last-minute Soviet effort to transfer the dispute to the Big Four council of foreign ministers.

Immediately after opening the session, Austin said he did not "deem it in accordance with the proper fulfilment of the task of the presidency" (of the council) for the United States delegate to occupy the chair, since the United States is a party to the dispute.

He said the chair would pass, by customary alphabetical rotation to Argentina. Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia of Argentina was in his country's seat. There have been hints Argentina also would pass the job for the Berlin dispute.

335,000 Miners Strike In France

DOUAI, France, Oct. 4—(AP).—A strike of some 335,000 French coal miners that could paralyze the country's industry if prolonged began quietly today.

The walkout threatened to cripple coal fields in the north of France and in the Pas de Calais area.

The strike was called for an "unlimited duration" by the Communist-led Federation of Miners. The Non-Communist force Ouvriere, claiming 120,000 members, said it would join the strike "effectively but not actively." The Non-Communist French Confederation of Christian Workers agreed to strike for only 48 hours.

Report Airliner Down At Sea With 21 Aboard

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 4 (AP).—An airplane not immediately identified was sighted on beach on Long Island, in the Bahamas, by aircraft searching for a missing charter airliner with 21 persons on board.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 4 — (AP). — A twin-engined charter airliner with 21 persons aboard was "presumed down at sea" today after it sounded distress calls somewhere between Charleston, S.C., and Nassau, Bahamas.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration official listed the plane as owned by the New England Air Express Company of Teterboro, N.Y., and said "an accident is presumed to have occurred."

The plane's gasoline supply was exhausted at 4.45 a.m., EST. It was last heard from, calling the International distress signal "Midway" at 1.44 a.m.

"We can only presume the plane is down somewhere between Charleston and the Bahamas," the C.A.A. said. "Its gasoline is gone and we haven't heard from it for several hours."

The charter airline, a DC-3, was en route from Teterboro to San Juan, Puerto Rico. It departed Teterboro at 7.30 p.m. yesterday.

The first distress signal was picked up by the C.A.A.'s listening post at 12.21 a.m. It was heard on a regular communications frequency.

The pilot was instructed to lock his sending key to cause a continuous signal in hope of making a "fix." The signal was heard in Puerto Rico, Jamaica and Miami but died before a cross-bearing could be obtained.

The last signal was heard at 1.44 a.m.

The C.A.A. said the plane carried 17 passengers and four crew members. Only person identified was the pilot, Richard Roy Ollvere, of Port Chester, N.Y., president and general manager of the airline.

More than a dozen aircraft already were on the search. The coast guard said the area to be searched is dotted with squall and shower areas but visibility is "pretty fair." The ceiling was estimated at about 2,500 feet.

Hint Kennedy New Premier As Drew Becomes Leader Of Dominion PC Party

Gets 827 Of 1,242 Delegation Votes Will Seek Seat Before Next Session; Warns Party Of "Short-Cuts To Power"

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP).—The Progressive Conservative Party chose Premier Drew of Ontario as its new national leader Saturday after pounding new planks into the party's platform. The 54-year-old Toronto lawyer easily won the party's three-day national convention, called primarily to elect a successor to John Bracken, 65, who retired because of age and ill health.

On the first ballot, Mr. Drew won 827 of the 1,242 votes cast. His closest threat was John Diefenbaker, 53, member of the Commons for Lake Centre in Saskatchewan, who polled 311 votes. In third place was Donald Fleming, 43, member of the Commons for Toronto Eglinton with 104 votes.

The runners-up promptly moved that the election be made unanimous and Mr. Drew launched into a 45-minute acceptance speech. He warned the party against seeking short-cuts to power:

"Basic Human Rights"

He said:

"This party stands for those basic human rights and the dignity of the individual which are challenged at every step by centralism, socialism or communism. If the people of this country want these things, they will vote for them. But let us never seek any short-cuts to power by imitating their methods."

At a press conference after his election, Mr. Drew said that he will seek a seat in the Commons before the next session of parliament.

There has been considerable speculation that the tall, colorful, three-time premier of Ontario will run in Haldimand constituency, now represented by Mark Senn. Mr. Senn, now 71 and in ill health, has represented the constituency since 1921.

Kennedy To Succeed

Mr. Drew told newspaper men that the date of his resignation as premier of Ontario will be fixed after he consults his provincial colleagues. When he leaves, it is possible that he will be succeeded by his agriculture minister—T. L. Kennedy—the dean of the Ontario cabinet.

Mr. Drew said that his election to the national leadership of his party would not mean a change in his views on Dominion-provincial relations. He will continue to

Agriculture Minister Seen 'Certain Choice'

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Kennedy said today he has not been asked to assume the premiership of Ontario, to succeed George Drew, newly-chosen leader of the National Progressive Conservative party.

"I have not been asked to take it and there will have to be a caucus of candidates in the last election before any decision can be made," he said. He said the caucus would consist not ony of the present Progressive Conservatie members of the legislature but also defeated candidates.

"Definitely Premier Drew is not resigning immediately," he said.

Expect Cabinet to Meet

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP)—Genial, elderly Tom Kennedy loomed today as Ontario's next Progressive Conservative premier.

The province's 69-year-old agriculture minister appeared to Ontario delegates to the Progressive Conservative national convention which ended Saturday an almost certain choice as successor to George Drew, newly-elected national leader.

Party officials said they believed Mr. Drew's intention's were not quite firm but they thought it probably he would return to Toronto during the week-end and call a cabinet meeting early this week.

Four Victims In Plane Crash

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—(CP).—Disruption of the air traffic pattern was today blamed by airport officials as the cause of an air crash which Sunday took the lives of four people near Cartierville airport, north of Montreal.

Dead are:

Robert Carlson, 22, an RCMP constable, pilot of one of the planes.

Rene Lanthier of Montreal, manager and chief instructor of the Montreal and Laurentide Flying Club, and pilot of the other aircraft.

Miss Yolande Lemire, 20, and Gilles Audet, passenger in Lanthier's plane.

The accident, worst in the history of the airport, occurred when both planes were at 600 feet, coming into the airport for a landing on the same runway.

Police Avert Wreck Flag Train To Stop

TORONTO, Oct. 4 — (CP) — Credited with averting a train wreck and possible loss of life are two York township police officers—Constable John Wilkinson and Patrol Sgt. C. Risebrook.

Railway officials said today that had Sgt. Risebrook not flagged the oncoming Detroit-Toronto passenger train when the two found a broken rail at a level crossing, the train would have crashed, probably causing death and serious injury to many of the passengers and crew.

Sgt. Risebrook ran up the track and flagged the train to a stop by waving his arms.

Stalin-Tito Rift Reacts As Six Leave Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP).— A Baltic rift between Russia and Yugoslavia has started a strange puzzle of diplomatic resignations and disappearances in Ottawa's Yugoslav legation.

Seven Yugoslav officials are reported to have resigned. The Yugoslav minister, Mato A. Jaksic, says they "are gone back to Yugoslavia."

The strange activities began with a signed statement received through the mails Sunday by the Ottawa Citizens and the Ottawa Journal.

In it Pavle Lukin, Yogoslav legation counsellor, said he and six other employees of the legation have resigned. He charged the Yugoslav government with betrayal of the "fundamental interests' of the country, that they have steered away from "the great Soviet Union."

Trend Away From Soviet

"Our country cannot advance to Socialism without close fraternal co-operation with the Soviet Union and the other New Democracies," he said. "But the dominant trend of the government's policy is away from such relationship. This trend has lately found reflection even in our legation in Ottawa."

Reporters tried to find Lukin. Although a governmental spokesmen said Lukin was still Yugoslav counsellor, the Yugoslav minister said: 'Mr. Lukin left Ottawa for New York to board a ship for Yugoslavia 10 days ago."

Mr. Jaksic, the minister, said he did not know of the resignations, but when asked "what about the other six?" he answered: "Oh, they left for Yugoslavia yesterday."

As to the statement of resignation which was dated Thursday, Sept. 30, and postmarked in Ottawa Saturday, Mr. Jaksic said he would like to see it, "but not tonight, I am so tired."

Russia Asks Four Powers Meet and Discuss Berlin

MOSCOW, Oct. 4—(AP).—Russia today proposed that the four-power Council of Foreign Ministers meet to consider the Berlin crisis and the whole German situation. The Russian proposal was included in a note to Britain, the United States and France made public by Tass, official Russian news agency.

The note was a reply to the Western power notes of Sept. 26 breaking off four-power negotiations on the Berlin crisis and announcing the question would be taken to the United Nations Security Council.

Shortly before the start of Security Council debate on the Berlin crisis, scheduled for 3 pm. (9 a.m. EST) today, the Russians insisted the case was not within the jurisdiction of the Security Council.

Deny Threat

They contended it was matter to be settled by the four occupation powers in Germany and denied Western power statements that the Berlin blockade is a threat to international peace and security.

The Russians proposed that the directive to the four military commanders in Germany, drawn up after a long series of four-power talks in the Kremlin, should be used as a basis for settling the Berlin situation.

The note detailed the Russian version of the agreement reached in the Kremlin talks with Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia and included what it said was the text of the directive.

It blamed the three Western powers for failure to reach an agreement to end the Russian blockade of Berlin.

The note asserted the Western powers "are striving in fact to govern in a sense of money and finance also the Soviet occupation zone of Germany in order to deprive the U.S.S.R. of its legal rights also in this part of Germany and in the end to evict the Soviet Union from there."

Car Collision Causes Power Cut

CORNWALL, Oct. 4.—(CP).—A three-car collision was held responsible for a three-hour power blackout in the rural district north of Cornwall Saturday night. Police said one of the cars snapped off a power pole. This brought down wires supplying the area with power. A Cornwall radio station (CKSF) was forced off the air by the power blackout. No one was injured in the collision.

press for a new Dominion-provincial conference.

Mr. Drew said an examination of the record would show that Ontario had at the 1946 conference sought a Dominion-provincial agreement on a basis that would respect Canada's federal system of government. Ontario, he added, had never sought advantage over any other province.

In his acceptance speech, Mr. Drew said the convention had shown through its resolutions that the party is both Progressive and "truly Conservative in adhering to those basic rights and constitutional traditions which are the bedrock of our democracy."

Denounces Government

Lashing out at the present government, he said:

"If this party assumes the responsibility of forming a government, the highest responsibility of government, which is the authority to spend money, will not be exercised over the radio, in some cases without even the other members of the government knowing what is going to be announced."

He made special reference to the nine provinces represented at the convention and then stressed the need for a strong party organization.

"Starting right now, it must be the purpose of everyone who is genuinely concerned with the kind of political activity which we support, to play their part in their own ridings, to create local organizations and to encourage membership in the party of everyone who wants to join."

Appeal To Youth

He appealed to youth and urged that an effort be made to have democratic people exercise their right to vote.

By use of the secret ballot the people of Italy had saved themselves from Communism — the "most desperate form of human slavery that man has yet devised."

Mr. Drew did not refer specifically to any of the resolutions adopted, but he did congratulate the delegates for the work they had done on the new platform.

Report Seen On Friday

TORONTO, Oct. 4.— (CP).— The Varsity, undergraduate daily newspaper of the University of Toronto, today quoted two Toronto waitresses as saying they had seen June Baker, missing 21-year-old medical student, at a downtown restaurant early Friday morning.

The waitresses, Vera Gibbons and Verna Hoag are employed at Little Bit of Denmark restaurant where Miss Baker is reported to had lunch shortly after noon Thursday with an unidentified woman. They told the Varsity they had seen Miss Baker having lunch Thursday and they saw her for the second time at the Colonial restaurant between 12.30 and 1.00 o'clock Friday morning. They said she was accompanied by a man.

The Varsity said a bartender and two waiters confirmed that Miss Baker had visited the restaurant with a man at the time described by the waitresses.

Police said they had investigated the report but it was not particularly helpful.

"She has been seen in most of the restaurants in the city," a detective said. Employees and patrons of the Colonial restaurant had not been able to give an accurate description of the woman they saw but said she resembled newspaper photographs of the missing girl.

Ministers Meet

State Secretary Marshall and Foreign Secretary Bevin conferred this morning with their top advisers on Germany. They planned to meet with foreign minister Robert Schuman of France this afternoon, while the security council is in session.

The Russian move took the United Nations by surprise. Well-informed quarters said it apparently meant the Russians would demand postponement of the security council action on the western complaint until the foreign ministers have another try at agreement.

Russia is expected to argue that the Security Council cannot legally consider the East-West dispute over Germany until a German peace treaty has been signed.

An authoritative British source in Paris said that as far as Britain is concerned, the Russian note on Berlin does not change the situation one bit."

Must Lift Blockade First

The three Western Powers have said in the past they are not willing to discuss the German situation as a whole until the Russians lift their blockade of Berlin.

A usually reliable source said Foreign Secretay Bevin of Britain, State Secretary Marshall of the United States and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman may meet late today or tomorrow to discuss the note.

The source added that the United States, which holds the Security Council presidency in October, will oppose any attempt to postpone debate on the Berlin issue.

Bevin and Marshall, accompanied by their top advisers on Germany, conferred this morning at the United States Embassy here. They were believed to have before them the copies of the latest Russian note.

The British source who said the note did not change things added that the Western Powers "have never been unwilling, and are not unwilling now, to talk with Russia about a German peace treaty."

"But what we have consistently refused to do is to enter talks for a Berlin settlement while Russia maintains her completely unjustified blockade of the city," he said.

'Sister Francis' Of Boer War 98 Years Old

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4 —(CP)— Mrs. S. G. Ball, the toast of the Court of James 80 years ago and "Sister Francis" to troops in the South African War at the turn of the century—celebrated her 98th birthday today in the peace and quiet of a tiny housekeeping room.

"This is my little castle," she said, indicating the walls and tables piled high with treasures and mementos of a long and colorful life. "It has to be, I haven't been outside for three years."

Born in India where her father served with the British army, she was educated and brought up in the regal atmosphere of Queen Victoria's Court in London. Her mother, the Countess De LaRochque, was lady-in-waiting to the Queen.

To Leper Colony

At the age of 23, tired of the glittering social whirl of court life, she dedicated herself to the church and became a medical missionary. She married Dr. S. G. Ball and went with him to establish a leper colony on the Malabar coast, near the southern tip of India.

Today she is a tiny woman whose face retains more than a hint of the beauty which made her, as a girl, the "toast of all Europe." She dresses in the rustling black satin and the white lace of that other age. She bears a striking resemblance to the Queen her mother served.

Her husband was killed in an Indian uprising, her five children all died in the First World War, and Sister Francis cace here and built one of the first houses in the city's west end.

Now she lives alone in relative poverty. Some years ago doctors said she was going to die and she made endowments with almost all her fortune.

Now Acting Premier

The cabinet would almost certainly call an early caucus of Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature—perhaps within a few days—to select a temporary leader, they said.

Mr. Kennedy has acted as premier during Mr. Drew's absences from Toronto and was considered the most likely choice. The caucus' choice would only be temporary, party officials explained. Selection of a permanent leader would be left to an Ontario convention.

There are two main schools of thought on the most suitable date for an Ontario convention, party sources indicated. One would like to see it called as soon as possible. The other—and, it was indicated, the stronger — would prefer to leave the party's affairs in the hands of a temporary leader through the next session of the legislature and call a convention next year.

Still Farms

Mr. Drew, himself, said at a press conference after his election as national leader that he would be able to make an announcement regarding the Ontario leadership when "the necessary consultations have been carried out."

Mr. Kennedy was born in Ontario's Peel county community of Dixie, where he still farms. His first public office was as reeve of Toronto township and he has been active in Ontario public life for 29 years.

He entered provincial politics in 1919, shortly after returning from overseas, where he commanded the Governor-general's Body Guard and the First Cavalry Brigade.

He was re-elected at the provincial general elections of 1923, 1926 and 1929 and was sworn in as Agriculture Minister in 1930. He was again re-elected after assuming office but was defeated in the general election four years later.

With the 1934 defeat of the Henry administration, Mr. Kennedy resigned his portfolio.

Became Minister In 143

He returned as a private member after the 1937 election and won more re-elections in 1943 and 1945. When the conservatives regained power in 1943—under Mr. Drew's leadership—Mr. Kennedy again became Agriculture Minister.

Mr. Kennedy was educated at Dixie and at Parkdale Collegiate Institute, Toronto. He was married in 1904 to the former Minnie Patterson of Toronto. They have four daughters.

Friends say he is a "practical farmer" and that his fruit farm at Dixie is "not for show or political ostentation but for a living."

5 Wanted Men Nabbed In Raid Near Lindsay

LINDSAY, Oct. 4.—Cpl. Ralph Taylor and his entire provincial staff of constables, located a stolen car at the farm of Paul Passmore, Little Britain, a few miles west of Lindsay, early Sunday morning.

Knowing that the five men travelling in the car were armed the police surrounded the house and on entering surprised the gang as they were about to retire at 2 a.m. The men submitted quietly. A gun was found under a mattress.

The men, reported wanted by Etobicoke police, gave their names as—Buddy Smith, Churchill Ave., Willowdale, Fred Jackson, Shirley St., Toronto; Joseph Grebski, Merritt St., Malton; Rio Rebecik, Bloor St. W., Toronto, and Edward McMann of Malton.

Cpl. Taylor reported license plates on the car had been changed several times. Police officers from Oakville picked the men up at Lindsay county jail and took them to Oakville.

Keltner hammered a home run into the screen above the left field wall, about 400 feet away. The blow scored Boudreau and Gordon ahead of him. That was all for Galehouse. It was Keltner's 31st home run of the year and his 117th run batted in. Ellis Kinder, a righthander, relieved Galehouse on the hill. Doby doubled high off the centre field wall, sliding in ahead of Williams' throw. Kennedy sacrificed, Doby going to third, Kindner to Goodman. Hegan sent a high bounder to short and was thrown out, Stephens to Goodman as Doby scored. Spenced loped into right centre to gather in Bearden's fly.

Four runs, four hits, no errors, none left.

RED SOX: Ed Robinson replaced Clark at first base for the Indians. Doerr struck out on a 3 and 2 pitch. Spence also ran up a full count and then walked. Goodman rolled into a double play, Gordon to Boudreau to Robinson. It was Cleveland's 182nd twin killing of the season.

No runs, no hits, none left.

Fifth Inning

Indians — Mitchell lofted the first pitch to Williams in short left. Robinson popped to Stephens back of second base. Boudreau cracked his second home run of the game and 18th of the year into the screen over the left field wall. It was also his third straight hit of the game. Gordon flied to DiMaggio.

One run, one hit, no errors, none left.

Red Sox: Boudreau threw out Tebbetts. Doby went back to gather in Kinder's fly. Keltner raced into the hole and made a fine-gloved hand pickup of DiMaggio's hot smash and threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sixth Inning

INDIANS: Keltner doubled off the left field wall, the ball glancing off the top of Williams' glove as he made a desperate leap to haul it down. Doby popped to Stephens behind second base. Pesky threw out Kennedy, Keltner moving to third. Regan struck out.

PC's Would Allow Farmers Sell Wheat In Open System

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP).—A conflict of opinion over State versus free market trading of wheat fizzled out in the Progressive Conservative convention on Saturday when a contentious amendment to the agricultural platform plank was withdrawn.

The convention went on record as advocating maximum stability of income for the Canadian farmer and a return to the pre-war wheat marketing system under which the Western producer was allowed to sell his grain wherever he wished as against the present system of compulsory delivery to the Canadian Wheat Board.

Specifically, the platform resolution called for a method which would allow the farmer to sell wheat "by any other means."

Wants Exchange Re-opened

John McDowell of Iberville, Man., calling for the re-opening of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, moved that the convention use instead the words "through the open market system," but withdrew the motion when other Prairie delegates argued that too close an identification with the Winnipeg Exchange would be "dangerous" for the party.

Before the war, the Wheat Board set a price at which it would buy wheat and the farmers sold to the board if its rate was higher than that prevailing on the open market at Winnipeg. However, the open-market price was higher, the farmer sold there rather than to the government-operated board.

Now, as a result of war-negotiated wheat contracts, the government obliges wheat farmers to sell to the board only at a fixed price, currently at $2 a bushel. The present open-market price in the United States is around $2.25 a bushel.

M. A MacPherson of Regina, a candidate for the party leadership in 1942, warned that acceptance of the amendment would be "dangerous" for the party in Western Canada because it would indicate too close a connection with the Winnipeg Exchange.

The main resolution called for the maximum of stability of income for the Canadian farmer, enactment of permanent floor price legislation, etsablishment of a board of livestock commissioners and setting up of a Dominion-wide rehabilitation and soil conservation plan.

Gore's Landing Minister At Anniversary

ROSENEATH, Oct. 4 — (ENS) —"The Secret of Power," was the subject of two sermons preachede by Rev. A. Larke of Gore's Landing at anniversary services in Roseneath United Church on Sunday. The morning address was devoted to, "The Secret of Power in Your Life," and the evening address centred on, "Have You Found The Secret, if Not, Why Not?" He said never has there been a time as now when God has lost His compelling power in the lives of men. If man could find himself at home with God, he could find the secret of right living, unification, integrity, a sense of being called to a high purpose in acknowledging God's authority. Jesus on the cross brings home to us the fact that God is love, he declared. All the sins that typify power as known today are the sins that crucified Christ on the Cross.

Song Service

The service of song led by Miss Clarice Atkinson included a trio, "Now Thank We All Our God," sung by Mrs. F. Lewis and Misses Doris Robins, Joan McMillan, Carolyn Atkinson, Marjorie Sandercock and Barbara Adams; a choir number, "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," and a hale quartette, "You Must Open the Door," sung by W. A. Atkinson, Ambrose Atkinson, Douglas Coyle and Fred Lewis.

Mr. Larke in his evening sermon spoke of the sins and adversities which stand in man's way of knowing the secrets of power. He analyzed them as the desire for material, rather than spiritual possessions; immorality or impurity; wrong relationships with fellow men; pre-occupation of the things of the church as an institution; and intellectual evasion. Adversities he classed as mental anguish, physical suffering, bereavement, and said "what adversity does to a man depends largely on what adversity finds in a man." To surrender, to repent and turn back to God, closing the door on the world, was the only hope for mankind.

Choir numbers at the evening service were a mixed quartette, "God So Loved the World," sung by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Coyle, Miss Clarice Atkinson and Ambrose Atkinson; a male quartette, "The Old Rugget Cross," sung by W. A. Atkinson, Ambrose Atkinson, Fred Lewis and Douglas Coyle; a choir number, "We Gather Together," and a solo, "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," sung by Mr Larke. A half hour song service, led by Mr. Larke, was held previous to divine service. Approximately $700 was the thankoffering up to date.

THIS NAMELESS BIT of humanity was left in a paper bag in a hallway of Chicago, Ill. She is a little girl, about five days old, and when found was wrapped in a pink and grey Indian blanket, white kimona and white sox. Quite unperturbed by her plight, and still wrapped in her paper covering, the little lady is shown after her arrival at an orphanage.

WHITBY, Oct. 4 — By brandishing an axe-handle while standing on No. 2 Highway at noon Sunday, Steve Bokula, 62, attracted a large crowd and the police. He was arrested on a charge of creating a disturbance.

Prov. Cons. Gordon Keast was on a routine patrol when he saw Bokula swinging the axe-handle. A woman, later identified as Bokula's wife, was lying on the highway. Cons. Keast notified Whitby police. Mrs. Bokula was uninjured.

Dies To Save Pets

PERU, Ind., Oct. 4—(AP). —Robert Scott, 17, lost his life Saturday night, trying to save his rabbits. He found the rabbit coop on fire and touched an electric wire while groping for the pets. The youth was standing barefooted in a pool of water and died instantly.

Near-by Hunter Wounds Two Brothers

COBOURG, Oct. 4 —(ENS) — Saturday saw the opener of the duck season but so far the duck population has only been decreased slightly. A goodly number of hunters ventured forth, too many, in fact, as the season opened with such a bombardment in all the ducks were safely away with the exception of two or three.

The only casualties in this provincial police district took place at Weller's Bay. James Thompson of Trenton, and his brother, Gordon, received part of the charge from two shells said to have been fired by another hunter a short distance away. Police said that the Thompsons' fired and a duck was only wounded. While it flopped around in the water, Eban James of Trenton took two shots at it but some of the pellets hit the Thompson brothers. They were slightly injured. Provincial Constable Don Nicol of Cobourg investigated.

Sets Fire To Shirt After Being Jailed

COBOURG, Oct. 4 —(ENS) — The fire brigade didn't have far to go Saturday night when an alarm was turned in during their monthly meeting. The fire was in the town hall, only a few feet away and was centred in the town hall cells.

Earlier in the evening, five drunks had been locked up. One of them pulled his shirt off and set fire to it. In the confined space the smoke was quite thick and the drunk's companions announced their desire to get out in very loud voices, attracting the attention of the police, who turned in the fire alarm.

First Drop In Power Scored By Cobourg

COBOURG, Oct. 4—(ENS). — For the first time since the power economy campaign started, Cobourg went under its quota of 32,000 kwh on Friday by 1,300 kwh. Manager William Woods expressed his pleasure in the success of the daily power cut-offs and said that it might be possible to shorten the periods if the good work was kept up.

The total consumption on Wednesday was 4,000 over the quota, a discouraging figure since it marked the start of the daily shut-offs. On Thursday there was a slight decrease to 1,820 over the quota. Friday was an overcast day and why there was such a drop is a mystery.

Boy Improved

EDMONTON, Oct. 4.—(CP). — Hospital officials said 11-year-old Michael Lintner was "much, much better," Sunday after suffering serious injuries last week when a light plane crashed near Fort Nelson, B.C., killing his mother, who was piloting the craft. He suffered a skull fracture, a broken arm and frost-bitten feet and lay pinned in the wreckage of the Stinson monoplane for nearly two days before he was rescued.

Two Men Injured On Lindsay Curve

LINDSAY, Oct. 4 — Two Toronto men, Edward Scott of 681 Pape Ave. and Ray Dulmage, were injured as they were returning from Sturgeon Lake on No. 36 Highway where it enters Queen St., Lindsay, on the eastern boundary.

The driver, Scott, failed to make a very sharp turn and the car proceeded south along the boundary finally rolling over twice into an open ditch. Scott received a bad scalp wound and other injuries, and Dulmage is suffering from shock. Both are in the Ross Memorial Hospital.

ADULT INSURANCE AT BABY RATES

LIFE, WITH ITS FUTURE, IS BEFORE YOUR CHILDREN. DOMINION LIFE, WITH THIS NEW PLAN, WILL STAND BEHIND THEM WITH FINANCIAL PROTECTION . . . AT AMAZINGLY LOW COST.

Insure your son NOW, with this new Plan. When he reaches the age of 21 years the amount of insurance payable becomes 5 times the original amount—yet the baby rate you pay at the start remains the same.

And note this, the increased protection is automatic—no Medical Examination is required for this five-time increase in amount, so that at no time under this plan will your son become uninsurable by reason of unforeseen illness or accident.

Think what this new Plan of insurance means! With this policy you give them a lifetime thrift plan—you establish a substantial emergency fund—you protect your children's future insurability—and you establish for them an economical retirement fund at 55, 60 or 65.

• REMEMBER •
A Policy for $1,000 on this Plan pays $1,000 in cash, in the event of death from 10 years of age up to age 21. (Smaller amounts by Law up to 10 years). At 21 years of age the face of the Policy automatically becomes $5,000, payable in the event of death. Yet, although the face amount of the policy increases, the rate remains the same.

THE SAME YEARLY BABY RATE CARRIES ON TO RETIREMENT AGE—NO INCREASE

This Policy has various options at retirement. At the selected age of 55, 60 or 65 the plan will provide:—
(1) a monthly income for ten years, and as long thereafter as your child lives—OR—
(2) a fully paid-up policy (no more premiums to pay) and a substantial cash payment—OR—
(3) a cash settlement on the surrender of the policy.

Mr. Drew Fills The Breach

With good fortune, the Conservative party may expect that Mr. Drew will lead it for many years. As political leaders go, he is a young man and he can bring to an end the jack-in-the-box succession of leaders which has weakened his party for a quarter of a century. There is everything to be said for continuity and stability of party leadership in these times. The quick changes of the world scene demand quick changes and adaptations of party policy; the voters, therefore, are more interested in stable leadership than in party programs, and "tradition" has come to mean tradition of personality rather than of policy. It is to be hoped then, for his party's sake and for the country's sake, that Mr. Drew has found the job which will command his best energies for the rest of his active political life.

* * *

He brings to his new position great gifts of intelligence, administrative ability and personal attraction. He finds a party much weakened by lean years of opposition and in some degree discredited by the bitterness of a small group of malignants and malcontents in its upper reaches. But as we have said many times in these columns, conservatism is a principle which is needed in Canadian politics, and never was its restraining power more necessary than it is at present. It will be the earnest hope of all who wish Canada well that Mr. Drew will quickly be able to rally his party, re-muster his followers, and lead a determined and vigorous Opposition until such time as he is able to present himself to the people as a possible Prime Minister.

Dixie Seems To Mean It

Rebellion by the Democrats of the Southern United States against the National Democratic Party of that country is not an unprecedented political development. There have been revolts of varying degrees of seriousness in the past, but these invariably subsided before voting day. Recollection of the hard political fact that a party out of power cannot bestow patronage restored solidity to the South on those occasions. This time, however, the South appears to be so thoroughly aroused that all ordinary considerations are being disregarded; President Truman's civil rights program has been fiercely rejected by a region long plagued with the racial problem involving the American Negro.

* * *

The first rebellious gestures of the South were discounted by national Democratic leaders. Even when the Birmingham Convention was called to repudiate the candidates chosen by the Philadelphia Convention, national leaders predicted an early collapse of the so-called Dixiecrat Party. To date, these predictions have been wide of the mark. The candidates chosen by the Birmingham Convention — Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina for President, Governor Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi for Vice-President — have been campaigning vigorously, with Governor Thurmond working a heavy eighteen-hour-a-day schedule. Their efforts seem to be splitting the South so effectively that the Truman-Barkley ticket has little chance of success, and some political observers go so far as to predict Republican victories in several Southern States.

* * *

Certain state regulations help to confuse the issue to some extent. A special session of the Louisiana Legislature was necessary to get the Truman-Barkley candidacy on the state's ballot — but they cannot so appear as candidates of the Democratic Party. In Louisiana, the Democratic candidacy is the Thurmond-Wright ticket. In Texas, the Democratic candidates are Truman and Barkley, but there is insistence that the names of Thurmond and Wright also appear on the state ballot. Texas, incidentally, is one of the states which might go Republican, and Mr. Truman's campaign appearance there is an indication that the Democrats fear precisely that development.

* * *

Democratic candidates for the Presidency seldom make campaign appearances in Texas, yet since 1928, when the state gave Herbert Hoover a majority, the Democrats have received approximately eighty per cent. of the popular vote. This year, however, Dixiecrat sentiment is so strong that Mr. Truman felt it wise to make a personal appearance, and was at least partially successful. A bountiful breakfast with John Nance Garner, ex-Vice-President, let Texas know that Mr Truman was approved by one of the most conservative of all Southerners.

* * *

Despite the support of "Cactus Jack" Garner and other party-line Democrats, it appears that the South's defection will defeat Mr. Truman. The cause of that defection, Mr. Truman's insistence on his civil rights program, has been described both as an example of political ineptness and as an example of political courage. Briefly, the program calls for equal rights for Negroes, and from this distance it appears that Mr. Truman is right in principle, although adherence to that principle may have wrecked his party and ended his political career.

Who Is Properly Dressed?

We are interested in the opinion of a Toronto school trustee who withheld his permission for school children to attend a circus until he was assured that the women in the circus would be properly clothed. We presume that he was anxious that the female acrobats and riders should make no indecent display of their bodies. Yet if he had thought twice he would have realized that it is impossible to perform any feat of strength or agility in the sort of clothing which is considered indecent. Provocative clothing is usually the sort which gives promise that at any moment something will be revealed which should be kept hidden; acrobats have to be too tightly encased to risk anything of the sort.

We wish that the doubting trustee had given some guarantee that the school children would attend the circus properly dressed. Did he see that all the little boys had their shirts tucked in, and that all the little girls had tidy hair? For these are also matters of proper dress. And if the trustee went to the circus himself did he make sure that his shoes were shined, and did he wear his coat? If he failed in these things he was not properly dressed.

We grow tired of the fuss which is made about impropriety of dress when indecency of dress is what is meant. An extraordinary number of people go about the streets improperly dressed, but no one rebukes them. We see boys and girls going to school in garments which might be appropriate for a day in the woods, but which are improper dress in a hall of learning. We live in an age of sloppy dressing.

To be properly dressed is to be dressed appropriately for the matter in hand. Anyone who goes to a circus may be sure that the performers will be properly dressed for their work. But can he be sure that the audience will be properly dressed for a public gathering?

Four Years For Cruelty

We think that many Canadians will wish to congratulate American Senator Raymond E. Baldwin, of Connecticut, who protested because the sentence of life imprisonment which had been passed upon Frau Ilse Hoch was reduced to four years of imprisonment. Frau Hoch is the widow of the former commandant of Buchenwald concentration camp; she committed, or caused to be committed, many cruel acts, and it will be recalled that it was she who decorated her house with lampshades made from tattooed human skin.

Imprisonment will not work any change in Frau Ilse Hoch. There are many cruel people in the world, and when they find themselves in positions of power they give vent to their dreadful lust. But society as a whole can show its detestation of crimes of cruelty by keeping Frau Hoch firmly under lock and key. Four years for outstanding cruelty is not enough.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Collapse Of Russian Currency In Berlin" says a headline. The ruble turned to rubble?

That grunting sound is Indian Summer getting ready to scalp those who have hurried to put on their vests.

The new footwear for women will conceal the big toe, we read. Good news! Greek statues and babies have very nice big toes, but the discoloured and malformed demi-sausage which emerges from most female footwear is a serious blow to romance.

"Of Cabbages And Kings"

By PETER ELIOT

THAT he has had only one pipe in thirty-four years is the proud boast of Sir John Boyd Orr, former head of the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization.

And what a pipe it is, this "Old Faithful" as he calls it. He claims to have smoked it continuously since his wedding day, when he received it as a gift. Since that time, he says, it has never left his mouth, except when eating, speaking or sleeping, and he has smoked it, chewed it and cursed it in every capital of the world from Chungking to Santiago. But there is a catch. Pressed on the point, Sir Jonn unbeetles his brows, opens up his big blue eyes and admits that in those thirty-odd years "Old Faithful" has had more than thirty new steams, and at least 20 new bowls. It is, in fact, a bit like George Washington's axe, which is still shown as the original though it has had three new heads and seven hafts since the upright child cut down the cherry tree with it.

❖ ❖ ❖

OR did he? Well, there is a story behind that famous episode in Gateway To History. Alan Nevins, its author, says on this question: "Consider the delight with which our forefathers read Parson Weem's Life Of George Washington, first issued in 1800 and greatly expanded by anecdotal material in successive editions. Mason Locke Weems was part clergyman, part book-agent, part schoolmaster in northern Virginia, and probably held occasional services in Pohick Church, where Washington had once worshipped. Upon this he based his title of 'formerly rector of Mount Vernon Parish.' In its original form, the Life was a brief, inaccurate, and highly rhetorical record of Washington's military career. Subsequently Weems added many homely stories which, if not true, were at least, 'ben trovato'. Each carried an ostentatious moral. His immortal tale of George, the hatchet, and the cherry tree was introduced as 'too true to be doubted,' though his only authority was an aged lady, who as a distant relative had sometimes visited the Washingtons. Like the book's long dialogues and set speeches, it was obviously invented. According to a grandson of Weems, it was probably suggested by the fact that one of his own children had cut down a 'Pride of China' tree and frankly confessed his misdeed. But multitudes have believed it:

"ONE day in the garden" (so the original story was written), where he often amused himself hacking his mother's pea-sticks, he unluckily tried the edge of the hatchet on the body of a beautiful young English cherry-tree, which he barked so terribly that I don't believe the tree ever got the better of it. The next morning the old gentleman, finding out what had befallen his tree, which by the way was a great favourite, came into the house; and with much warmth asked for the mischievous author, declaring at the same time that he would not have taken five guineas for his tree. Nobody would tell him anything about it. Presently George and his hatchet made their appearance. 'George,' said his father, 'do you know who killed that beautiful little cherry-tree yonder in the garden?' This was a tough question; and George staggered under it for a moment, but quickly recovered himself, and, looking at his father, with the sweet face of youth brightened with the inexpressible charm of all-conquering truth, he bravely cried out: 'I can't tell a lie, pa: you know I can't tell a lie. I did cut it with my hatchet.'"

ONE of the oldest forms of human offence is forgery. Sometimes the motive has been a curious compound of venal and artistic instincts. One of the most impudent forgeries was palmed off on the Atlantic Monthly in 1928 as letters exchanged between Abraham Lincoln and his sweetheart Ann Rutledge. This correspondence purported to be written while the lovers were temporarily parted, chiefly when Lincoln was living in New Salem, Illinois and Ann attending school in Jacksonville. They deceived not only Ellery Sedgwick, perhaps then the ablest of American editors, but even Carl Sandburg and W. L. Barton, experts upon Lincoln's early career. Yet a little shrewd study by historians conversant with the details of Lincoln's life and with the period sufficed to reveal inaccuracies which proved them fraudulent. One letter spoke of Kansas before that name came into use; in another letter Lincoln was made to refer to section 40 of a township, though as a surveyor he knew that townships have only 36 sections. The author of this forgery was motivated in part by a desire for monetary gain—the articles based upon the letters bringing a high price—and in part by a desire for reputation.

ONE Sunday morning in the little church of Stoke Pero—recounts H. J. Marshall, who over fifty years ago was appointed to a curacy in Exmoor: Sporting And Otherwise—the rector gave out the psalms for the seventeenth day of the month. "'Tis the eighteenth day of the month," the churchwarden chipped in. "The psalms for the seventeenth day," repeated the rector firmly. "I tell 'ee then 'tis the eighteenth day. My almanac says so!" With that the rector and churchwarden sojourned to the neighbouring farmhouse to consult the almanac and drink a mug of cider. The point settled, they returned and the service continued with its proper psalm for the day.

But others had strong views besides the churchwardens, Marshall tells us. One of the early recorded mission sermons preached on the moor was hardly to the point:

"I've been axed," said the old rector, "to have a collection in this church for the 'S.P.G. (Society for the Propagation of the Gospel). I don't know exactly what the 'S.P.G. is for, but I fancy 'tis something to do with providing petticoats for the niggers in Africa. If anybody likes to put tuppence or drappence in the plate he can if he be minded to, but I b'ant going to!"

Post-War Motor Cars

(NEW YORK TIMES)

THAT differences of opinion make for progress brings diversity of opinion is well illustrated in objections by some members of the Automobile Club of New York to new-look curves and contours built into post-war cars. Handicapped by lack of materials and adverse economic conditions, the automotive industry is seeking doggedly to keep alive a cherished spirit of beneficial competition despite an estimated backlog of 7,300,000 unfilled orders. The motor masters could sit back, dawdle and yawn while producing vehicles struck from the 1941 patterns, and a car-hungry public would snap up each unit that came off the assembly lines. But such sluggishness has no place in rapid evolution that turns out automotive success.

Cars manufactured today possess improvement and designs far beyond pre-war models. Some of these are praised by motorists, while others are looked at askance. The principal censure is based on cost of maintenance and repairs. Blame for this condition is placed by the executive committee of the American Automobile Association on the designers, who are accused of allowing artistic whims to transcend practical usage. Other criticisms include the graceful fenders, which rueful drivers say interfere with parking; bumpers built to blend with contours, thereby restricting protective functions, and extended overall dimensions of automobiles that exceed capacities of home garages. The most serious complaint deals with low front seats and long hoods that tend to obscure the road ahead.

Despite these drawbacks, analysis shows post-war car engines have reached a new peak of efficiency and economy, as have riding ease and braking power. Passenger and luggage capacities have been enlarged and vehicular endurance increased.

In striking a balance on automotive progress, Charles F. Kettering, research consultant and director of General Motors Corporation, sagely remarked, "Each car introduced in the last thirty-five years has been proclaimed to be the best, yet the next one was better. We know so little about anything that we should be very careful about pronouncing finality on any endeavour." This summarizes the guiding precept of the automotive industry, which so often has turned the experience gained through shortcomings to the benefit of millions relying on motor transport.

The Slave Market Touch

Unfortunately there has hitherto been a touch of the slave market in the methods of selecting refugees; national commissions have chosen the young and strong and unmarried, leaving behind the women and children and infirm who most need help. Only a few countries, such as Argentina, which are anxious to increase their populations, have shown a readiness to take families. Recently Governments have begun to show a more humane approach to the problem, but it will require far greater efforts if the remaining refugees are to be settled quickly. This is a moral problem, and the existence of 800,000 refugees four years after the end of the war is a clear challenge to western civilization.—The Times, of London.

Catching Level-Crossing Maniacs

The scatterbrain who races locomotives to level crossings is as great a menace as the driver who charges through red lights, at least to the lives of those luckless enough to be his passengers. There ought to be plenty of room for prosecution of the level crossing maniac under the reckless driving or other provisions of the Highway Traffic Act. The difficulty probably is one of enforcement. Catching red-handed the train-racing motorist who gets away with it is a matter of sheer chance, unless train crews themselves should get licence numbers and lay charges.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Letter To The Editor

SAYS BOARD OF HEALTH EXCEEDED AUTHORITY

Sir: I hope you will pardon my referring once more to the recent case of Dr. Worton, and the Peterborough Board of Health, whereby the Board of Health decided to enter into an agreement with Dr. Worton, part of which agreement was that the Board gave the Doctor leave of absence for eight months, with $2,000 pay for that period.

I am now able to inform the taxpayers of Peterborough, with your permission, that according to reliable information I have, it would appear that the Board exceeded its authority when the Board decided to enter into this financial agreement with Dr. Worton.

Dr. Worton was not hired by the Board of Health, but was hired by the City Council of Peterborough, on April 15th, 1948, by-law 4686. Dr. Worton is therefore, an employee of, and subject to the jurdisdiction of the City Council, and of no other body.

Now, what a great many taxpayers, including myself would like to know is "From whom did the Board of Health receive authority to enter into any agreement with Dr. Worton"?

And,—as the little boy at the circus said to his mother, when the clowns came out—what are they going to do now?

Thanking you, I am,

Yours truly,
W. TINKER

The constable called at a villa and rang the bell. Inside the house the piano-playing ceased and a rather scared-looking young woman appeared at the door and asked: "Yes? What do you want?"

"Well, miss," said the constable, "we've just had a telephone call to say that there's some fellow called Mozart being murdered in this house."

Favor Sale of Margarine Adopted In Policy Statement

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 (CP)—Margarine emerged today as one of the main planks in a new platform from which the Progressive Conservative party hopes to spring to power in the next election.

Developing from the policy debate on the convention floor Saturday, it placed the party on record as advocating the lifting of barriers against the production and sale of the butter substitute in Canada.

Support Defence Union

These were some of the things the platform advocated:

1. "Strongest support" to the Western Defence Union, a policy of "friendly firmness" towards Russia and closer relations with the British Commonwealth, the United States and France.

2. A free and competitive enterprise operating under proper restraints against monopoly and unfair competition; opposition to the "centralizing and bureaucratic" system of governmental administration.

3. Outlawing of Communistic activities in Canada and vigorous enforcement of existing laws against the Red doctrine; a purging of known Communists from government service.

4. Reduction of personal income taxes, abolition of war-imposed "nuisance" taxes and substantial cuts in general sales and excise taxes on the necessities of life.

5. Expanded international trade and elimination of all abnormal trade barriers imposed by the government's austerity program.

6. Maximum stability of income for the Canadian farmer, return to free trading in wheat, establishment of a board of livestock commissioners and development of a country-wide rehabilitation and soil conservation program.

7. A contributory social security program including retirement pensions at 65 without a means test, accident, sickness and disability benefits and adequate medical and hospital care.

8. Federal funds to provide low-cost housing in collaboration with the provinces and the municipalities.

9. A national labor council to promote better relations between labor and management.

Strengthen Forces

10. Prompt strengthening of Canada's armed forces and immediate participation in the Berlin air lift.

The platform also called for a new deal for the Maritime Provinces, adoption of a "Canadian National Flag" at the earliest possible time, legal and penal reforms, immediate completion of a hard surface Trans-Canada highway and an inquiry into freight rates to remove discriminations.

Touching on radio, the party urged abolition of the current $2.50 licence fee on private radio receiving sets and said private radio stations should be allowed works in competition with the CBC.

For the gold-mining industry, the convention advocated selling gold on the "free" market rather than the present method of government purchase at $35 an ounce.

Long-Term Program

The immigration plank advocated a long-term program calculated to bring in "selected immigrants whose qualifications are such as to effectively permit them to be assimilated into our democratic way of life."

A broad program of conservation and development of Canada's national resources was proposed.

On national defence, the party advocated establishment of an adequate air defence force, recruiting of active and reserve forces and cadet services to full strength and establishment of an emergency civil aid and defence plan for urban centres of population.

The party's taxation policy calls for increasing the personal income tax exemption to at least $2,500 for married persons and at least $1,250 for single persons, lowering the general rate of personal income tax and increasing the exemption for dependent children by $200 a child.

The social security plank provides for the payment of family allowances on a uniform per child regardless of the number of children in a family and the establishment of a national health program in co-operation with the provinces.

Home ownership would be encouraged by extending the present lending provisions of the national housing act to credit-worthy families of small means and by lowering the cost of borrowing. Loans and priorities would be made available to those who want to build their own homes.

NEW PC LEADER GIVEN OVATION. George Drew is congratulated by supporters upon the announcement at the convention in Ottawa Saturday that he had been chosen new federal leader of the Progressive Conservative Party on the first ballot.

Oppose Separation

PARIS, Oct. 4 — (AP). — Israel opposed Sunday any plan for giving up the Negeb in return for western Galilee, saying it would make Trans-Jordan 19 times as large as Israel. The Israeli delegation at the United Nations distributed a memorandum to the 58-power political committee of the general assembly declaring it will oppose any plan for separating the Negeb — the desert area of southern Palestine—from the new state.

Convention Goes Wild As Result Given

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP). — A wild enthusiasm bore George Drew into the leadership of the Progressive Conservative party Saturday and mellowed into scattered tears under the magic of his wife.

The votes of 1,242 delegates gave the big, flushed and fluent premier of Ontario the job by better than 2-1. Their throats gave it to him unanimously after the vote was known.

The coliseum, teeming with people in its every foot, launched the soldier-lawyer-writer-politician on the latest phase of his career with a tumultous acclaim.

Speaks Effectively

Then the heaving emotions that had engulfed the 6,000 delegates and spectators again and again came up against one final impact, and melted completely. Mrs. Drew, "so moved I can hardly speak," spoke so effectively with a cultured and devoted voice that she reduced even some of the calloused inhabitants of the press tables to a dankness of the eye.

Said she: "I know my husband, I know his heart, his thoughts, his wish for our great country and its people.. I believe he will be truly worthy of your faith."

Then she spoke French. The surrender was complete.

Result Announced

The announcement of the vote came after things had subsided into the relative calm of resolutions while the ballots were being counted in the wings. The announcer tried to make it formal. He said simply that the party had chosen a new leader.

The eruption was fairly loud. Then he announced the result of the vote and it was terrific. The platform stood up as one man and proceeded to pump hands. Shouts, rattles, whistles sounded through the place. The band struck up "For he's a jolly good fellow." The Frenchmen sang a song all their own.

Mr. Drew spoke, starting with humility and ripping into condemnation of the Toe.

Mrs. Drew Wins Reporters Answers Questions Easily

OTTAWA, Oct. 4. —(CP). — Somcone handed Mrs. George Drew a "coke" Saturday as she and her husband met the press immediately after his election as Progressive Conservative leader.

"No glass, no straw, just the "coke."

She went on from there, the true political veteran she is. But she never did get around to drinking that "coke." When the hurly-burly of the makeshift press conference was over, it was sitting there on an army-style table in the cement-floored coliseum room.

Charmed Reporters

There'd been too many cameras aimed at her, too many questions, too many neat, smiling answers. The attractive, 37-year-old wife of the Ontario premier did manage to smoke two cigarets—and to charm the 20-odd reporters who kept digging away to learn what she thought about all the excitement.

Her flashing eyes and lovely smile—with just the right word or two—provided most of the answers.

One wide-eyed male reporter asked breathlessly: 'Do you think your personal charm helped get Mr. Drew elected?"

Mrs. Drew raised those black eyebrows, glanced around the close-packed circle of newspaper men and women, stopped to return the gaze of her questioner—and shot back a question of her own:

"You want me to say 'yes' to THAT?"

There was no answer from the reporter.

Perfectly At Ease

Mrs. Drew apparently is perfectly at ease in any situation. When it comes to talking about "George," she's in her element.

Prior to the press conference, as he thanked the party convention which chose him successor to John Bracken, she listened attentively, fanning herself with an unopened congratulatory telegram as she sat under the hot glare of the newsreel spotlights.

Then she was called to the microphone. There was wild applause for this beaming young woman dressed in a grey fitted jacket and "new look" ballerina skirt and pert little black pillbox hat with jaunty red trim.

"Can Hardly Speak"

"A photographer just asked me to wave," she told the happy crowd of 6,000 delegates and party supporters. "I can hardly speak, I am so moved by this demonstration." The applause, she said, was "not for me only but, through me, for George."

"I can only say thank you, thank you with all my heart.. you have placed a great, great honor on him—also a great responsibility. I know my husband. I know his heart and his thoughts and his wish for our great country and its people. And I believe he will be truly worthy of your faith in him.... Thank you, thank you a thousand times."

At her press conference someone asked whether she thought Mr. Drew would be the next Prime Minister.

The happy, confident answer, without any embellishment: "I have very great faith in my husband."

How will traffic problems be solved tomorrow?

BROADER, safer highways — a vital aid to progress today — will be needed even more urgently in the future.

Each year there will be more goods to bring to the nation's markets . . . more materials to haul for expanding industries . . . more people travelling between growing towns and cities . . . and, probably, a larger number of tourists.

To handle this increased traffic, Canada will have more of these modern highways — built with the aid of life insurance dollars. For, on behalf of policyholders, life insurance companies invest large sums in provincial bonds which finance new road construction.

This is just one of the ways in which part of every dollar you pay in life insurance premiums is invested to help develop industries and public works from coast to coast.

Red Raiders Beat Panthers In ORFU Game By 12 to 5

Bearing out that statement "it's the everlastin' fumble that undopes a football game," the Panthers butter-fingered two major counts in Oshawa Saturday to suffer the sour side of a 12-5 ORFU intermediate count. It was their second straight loss away and a serious setback to their drive for a second-place playoff spot. Coach Gord Young's gang go to Oakville on Saturday and have Oshawa Red Raiders here Thanksgiving Day. A large crowd in the Motor City saw a swell ball game.

That first slip robbed the Panthers of an almost-sure touchdown as Russ Scriver was hit hard while plunging the last six yards to the goal-line, and the ball bounced loose for an Oshawa recovery. It was 0-0 for the Raiders in the first quarter as they used [illegible] broke about even on fumbles and drove with runs or bucks by Fairhart, Sackel and Gilbert to set up Dobson for a nine-yard quarterback sneak for a try, March kicking the convert. They also clicked on that drive for a Gilbert-Sackel forward pass, their second of the quarter. Runbacks by Matthews and Garvey, with some solid work were the only Petes' features.

Drove Hard

Panthers drove in the second after Fairhart ran back a long boot by Matthews and Gilbert got yards around end. Ron Hodson took a lateral for Panthers to race 25 to his own 40-yard chalk. A forward failed and a recovered blocked kick cost 25. Plunkett was getting distance on his kicks and once Taylor hid to run one out. Their short kick started another march with Middleton making five, Matthews later skirting end to the 10-yard strip and Scriver getting jolted loose from the ball as he ploughed toward a major. They drove back again at Oshawa and got one pass off on interference but lost another for Petes' interference.

Panthers marched right up after the half to count. Hodson, Plunkett, Matthews and Scriver in turn, ripped through the Raiders' line for sizeable gains from midfield and Plunkett plunged over for a try, an attempted convert forward missing. Play shifted up and down evenly but Oshawa were well into Peterborough territory at the quarter's end. March tried a field goal to open the fourth but missed and it went for a point to make it 7-5. Hodson, Matthews, Scriver, Garvey and Plunkett carried the ball in another drive by Panthers but they finally lost on downs. Later, a long placement attempt by Plunkett went out. Curtin did some bucking and kicking too, and Garvey ran out a hoot. A local fumble handed Oshawa the ball a few yards out (their second costly slip), and Sackel went over for an unconverted try to make it 12-5.

Had Injury

Later it was found that Plunkett who had gone good all through, suffered torn cartileges of the arm, and Matthews was kicked on the head, though it wasn't an unduly rough game. The local line outplayed Oshawa's and the Peterborough punting was better. The first downs were fairly even, but the Panthers' passing was poor and the end runs didn't pay off too often. The winners had a floating line but the backfield got away fast and they cashed in a bit better on opportunities in an even game. It was 7-5 right up to the last few minutes. The teams:

Panthers — Flying wing, Jim Conlin; halves, Plunkett, Hodson, Scriver; quarter, Matthews; snap, Ouimet; insides, Coughlin, Curtin; middles, Beatty, Lech; ends, John Conlin, McGillis; alternates, R. VanAllen, Smith, Trimm, Middleton, Garvey, Delaney, Farr, Fitzgerald, Douglas, Bartley, Burns, Davidson.

Oshawa: Flying wing, Fairhart; halves, Sackel, Taylor, Gilbert; quarter, Dobson; snap, Keneski; insides, Filigrew, March; middles, Lawson, Wilson; ends, Siblock, Brooks; alternates, Walker, Andrenovich, Buckley, O'Brien, Murphy, Zakerow, Paranko, Brodie, Green, Rorabeck, Morey, Blake.

Referee — McBrien; umpire — Beatty; head linesman — MacTavish.

Peewees Lose In Second Of OLA Series

In the peewee lacrosse playoffs held at Mimico New Toronto and Long Branch on Saturday, the Peterborough boys came through with a win and a loss, the loss meaning elimination as each game was sudden death.

The local boys played both their games at New Toronto and they won the first game from Fergus by a score of 12-2. In this game the Petes scored one goal in the first period, six in the second and four in the last period.

Neil Courneya was the sharpshooter in this game scoring five and assisting in two others. "Bud" McDougall with two and two was next highest, then came Danny Sutherland, Gord Hunt and Pete Heffernan with three, two and one points respectively.

Defensively Louis Pearl and Earle McIvor were outstanding, but the whole team checked well. Passing was quite good also.

Right Back

With just 15 minutes rest, the boys had to meet St. Catharines who had beaten St. Vincent's by a decisive score in their first game. St. Kitts took the lead in the first period and were never headed although the game was tied at least five times. At only one stage of the game did St. Catharines have more than a one goal lead and that was with five minutes to go in the last period when they went two up. Neil Courneya then scored to leave Petes just one goal down and in the last two minutes the boys were all around the Saints' goal and two shots at least hit the post.

Courneya, Sutherland, McDougall, Heffernan and Hunt were the point getters in this game with Pete Heffernan being tops with one goal and two assists. Again the whole team played well. Pearl, McIvor, Morris, Peirson and Murphy being strong defensively and all the forwards checking hard and passing well when in possession of the ball. In goal Ferg. O'Connell was outstanding, stopping shot after shot.

Peterborough—Goal, F. O'Connell; defence, Murphy and Pearl; centre, Courneya; rover, Kane; forwards, Lagana, Sutherland; subs, Peirson, Morris, McDougall, Heffernan, McIver, Hunt, Joy, Blodgett, Morgan, Simmons.

Electrics Hand A Reverse To Lindsayites

Lindsay invaded the city on Saturday afternoon to play the CGE in a league soccer tilt with the latter winning 2-0 in a smart exhibition before a good crowd. The visitors' two new men, J. Hiscott and L. Molson, strengthened their eleven.

Right from the kick-off, Lillis, Lindsay rattled the upright with a terrific drive. Eventually Strong broke away fast on the wing to centre the ball into goal where Dobbie accidentally scored on his own goal. Lindsay replied with a steady attack only productive of a succession of flag kicks. Just before the interval, Willis punted up the wing to Taylor who sent a beautiful shot right across the open goal.

On resuming, CGE took the initiative to gain another counter when McPhate centered across the goal mouth where Attard connected with a first-timer to make it 2-0. Lindsay came into the picture with a vengeance to see H. Deetham, Lindsay, repeatedly pass the full backs to test the goalie with all kinds of shots. In an acidental melee in front of the CGE goal, Greenhorn and Molson were injured and had to receive attention. Both goals went under a series of raids without any success.

Lindsay—V. Thomas, goal; L. Francis and V. Barbee, full backs; T. Dobbie, J. Willis and J. Hiscott, half backs; T. Nye, H. Leetham, R. Hammond, L. Molson and H. Taylor, forwards. Subs—R. Cox, V. Snowden.

CGE—A. Greenhorn, goal; E. Cotton and S. McGann, full backs; J. Booth, J. Mackay and R. Wilson, half backs; R. Strong, H. Steel, F. Attard, A. Welland and T. McPhate, forwards.

Referee—Jack Chamberlain.

Slovaks Take Soccer Tilt By 2-0 Count

Toronto Slovaks defeated O'Halloran's 2-0 in a fine soccer exhibition at King Edward Park on Saturday. The snappily-attired visitors turned in a good effort throughout and O'Halloran's also played well to give the fans an interesting show. Dinesen and Downer, full backs, had to be good in the game and Chamberlain was tested with first-timers as the Slovaks introduced the trapping and kicking on the run. Featherstone and Eastbrook found the custodian hard to beat.

Pyle opened up play but the forwards ran into stiff opposition in Lenghemer and Paluska, and their centre forward was elusive. The halftime score, through Rajevsky was 2-0. It remained that way the remainder of the match as both custodians shone to thwart rival forwards. Toronto had a close passing style and O'Halloran's featured a long-swinging style. Pyle suffered an injured shoulder in a fall and had to retire, but O'Halloran's forced play the final five minutes.

Toronto Slovaks—G. Gasparek, goal; F. Langhemer and V. Paluska, full backs; J. Mihalicka, S. Bag (captain) and J. Vag, half backs; S. Rajevsky, A. Kockuta, S. Dzieworj, J. Matraia and J. Bonka, forwards.

O'Hallorans — J. Chamberlain, goal; A. Downer and Eric Denisen, full backs; D. Gray, H. Pyle and C. B. Smart, half backs; E. Boone, W. Cribbis, E. Duffus, A. Fatherstone and J. Eastbrook, forwards. Subs, R. Strong, J. Scott and Art O'Halloran.

Referee, Tom aGrland. Linesmen, J. Hennessy and W. Curtis.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Hadn't at this writing heard the rest of the pro grapple card here Wednesday night at the Brock, but the main bout has "Blockbuster" Talun in against the Masked Marvel in a rematch. They met last week and the Mask got a doubtful win, Referee Bunny Dunlop having an assist, in the deciding fall. Much to the chagrin of the big crowd. They were plenty peeved at Dunlop and the Mask, pulling strongly for the huge Pole. He jars the scales at 315 muscular pounds and towers over the hefty Marvel. This return go, with a different referee, should be a right lively tussle before a full house. Likely two good supporting bouts, also.

Two down and four to go, that's the ORFU group setup for the Panthers now. They came out on the wrong end of a 12-5 count in Oshawa on Saturday, so they've got to make that second playoff spot now the hard way. Blew their chances of a win on a couple of costly fumbles in pay dirt and passed up several chances for single points when the game was tight. Which it was all the way, being 7-5 with but a few minutes remaining in the game. Not being a Monday morning quarterback, we're not attempting to pan the Panthers apart from saying their passing wasn't so good and the end runs not up to expectations. Yet, they've got a good strong squad, a powerful line, a smart backfield and plenty of reserve strength.

Pretty Much A Tossup

The game itself was nice to watch. Just a tossup, but the Red Raiders cashed in on scoring chances a bit better. Plunkett had an edge in hoofing. He and Matthews, both of whom went swell, got banged up late in the game, although it wasn't a real rough joust. Hodson really caught the eye and Scriver and Garvey did well. All the starting line and most of the reserves did okay, too, our line going better than a drifting Oshawa one. Yet they pay off on points and the Raiders got more. They clicked neatly once on the old flicker—lateral flip off a forward—which Harry Marsh did so well here 10 or more years ago. Panthers play in Oakville this Saturday and here against Oshawa on Monday, the holiday.

Bev Goulding's senior PCVS pack racked up a 29-11 four-point COSSA group win in Belleville on Saturday and looked impressive at the job. Back of a good line, Wally Graham, Blair Thomson and Johnny Green carried the mail mainly with Leo LaPlante another effective worker. Up front, Hempstead, Beavis and Lowes showed a lot, and the rest were just about as good. Johnny just tried one of his drop kicks and it missed, and Wally did some potent punting. A nice win as the COSSA senior champs start off on the trail toward another title. Oshawa meets 'em here Saturday.

Things Their Own Way

And Alex Londry's junior PCI-ers had things pretty much their own way over in Lindsay. They took a 30-12 victory with the linemen smashing through repeatedly to hamper the plays of a quarterback playing a bit deep. A good front line for this Collegiate crew, too, and it's the line that makes a team. The scatbacks may be good but they need that work of the muscle men up front to shake them loose. The PCI-ers went in for more passing than did the senior team and clicked well in an open game. Griffin, Young and big Armstrong showed plenty and the rest did okay. You can't mention them all, naturally. They're here Saturday.

Three soccer games at King Edward Park on Saturday, with Legion blanking the Petes 6-0 in the morning to climb into a tie with CGE in the standing. Afternoon jousts were tighter, with Electrics winning a 2-0 tilt from Lindsay, while Toronto Slovaks took a 2-0 exhibition over O'Halloran's. Both clubs turned in a fine dish of soccer in this one and the fans enjoyed it. An executive meeting at 7.30 tonight in the "Y". Senior school soccer resumes Wednesday with Queen Alex at King George, Queen Mary and Prince of Wales at the Oval, and Confederation vs. Central at King Edward. Juniors play on Wednesday, too, Central at Queen Alex. Further frays on Thursday.

Ousted In Tight Tussle

Local peewee lacrossers bowed out of the OLA picture Saturday in New Toronto, but they made an excellent showing first. In the minor playoff tournament, they won their first game 12-2 from Fergus, Neil Courneya sparking the attack and Bud McDougall second highscorer. But elimination came at the hands of St. Kitts 8-7 as the boys were sent right back with little rest. Pete Heffernan led the local snipers in this one, and the whole team played real well. They were blazing away at the St. Kitts' goalie the final few minutes but Lady Luck wasn't looking. And that winds up minor lacrosse here after a most successful season. Senior "B" Petes are off to Huntsville on the morrow and back here Friday in their final series.

PCVS Juniors Gain Win Over Lindsay

Alex Londry's PCVS Juniors won their second football game in a row by defeating Lindsay there Saturday, by a score of 30-12. They broke through their rivals line repeatedly for strong gains and held firm defensively throughout. PCVS also passed brilliantly, having eight completed gains via the aerial route.

Lindsay scored a point in the first following a PCI fumble 20 yards out but Peterboro scored a touch a few seconds later as Frise intercepted a pass and Griffin passed to Evans in the clear, on the next exchange. They failed to convert. PCVS scored a single late in the quarter following another interception and continued the victory march in the second as Griffin ran 30 yards for a touch on a fake pass. A Griffin to Jensen pass again brought PCVS to the rival three and the former took the pigskin over again on first down. Neither score was converted.

Lindsay scored a converted touchdown in the third to match one by PCVS as Griffin passed to Jensen from 15 yards out but did not convert. Young booted a single and Braund scored a touchdown in the fourth on a nice run which Gandy converted. A great basketball pass and two laterals gained 50 yards for Lindsay and DeBois went over on the next down for the last scoring play of the game.

Four-Point Win For PCVS As They Defeat Belleville

By FRED MAYBEE

PCVS senior opened their regular football schedule at Belleville Saturday with a convincing 29-11 victory over their rivals, for a four-point gain. Coach Bev. Goulding was high in his praise of the team as a whole as they took the lead in the first half and were never in trouble.

Thomson and Graham led an early attack in the first quarter from their own 18 yard line climaxed by the latter's sweep around right end for a touchdown. Green failed to convert, on an attempted drop-kick. PCVS dominated play in the second quarter with the aid of the wind as a series of ground plays following a Belleville fumble on their 22 and a boot to midfield culminated in a neat passing play, Green to LaPlante, for a major score. The former made no mistake as he converted from placement.

A Long Run

Carmichael broke through the entire Peterborough team to run the second half kick-off to his rivals 25-yard line. A plunge and a forward pass took the homesters to the PCVS five and from thence Bradden plunged through for a touchdown. An attempted forward pass conversion was grounded. After the kick-off, PCVS took over at their own 48 and plunged to Belleville's 25 where Graham kicked and Lowes moved in fast to recover a rival fumble behind the line, for a soft touch. Green again converted from placement. Belleville came back strong against the PCVS reserves for a nice 80 yard total gain and a converted major score. In the dying moment, PCVS obtained possession on the Belleville 33, drove to the one-yard line and Thomson carried over on a plunge. Green's convert was good.

For PCVS, the entire line excelled with Hempstead, Lowes and Beavis good and Graham, Thomson, Green and LaPlante all played a strong game. Carmichael and Wamsley starred for Belleville.

PCVS—Flying wing, Coon; halves, Thomson, Graham, LaPlante; quarter, Green; snap, Stacey; insides, Buck, Hempstead; middles, Beavis, Lowes; outsides, Swanston, Grainger; alternates, Killingbeck, Wright, Fitzpatrick, Woodcock, Lane, English, Hamblin, Ward, Robinson, Welsh, Payne, Sergeant.

Stan Musial NL Top Batter

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Stan (The Man) Musial, after a year's absence, once again reigns as the batting champion of the National League.

The St. Louis Cardinals mauler won the third batting derby of his major league career Sunday when he finished the 1948 season with an unofficial .376 mark.

In addition to compiling the highest batting average since Arky Vaughan socked .385 for the 1935 Pittsburgh Pirates, Musial finished first in every other batting department except home runs.

Johnny Mize of New York and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh slammed 40 homers each to nose out Musial for the leadership.

The 27-year-old Musial led the league in doubles, 45; triples, 18; runs batted in, 131; runs scored, 135; and hits, 230.

Rip Sewell, 40-year-old right-hander of the Pirates, was the pitching leader. The blooper ball artist won 13 games and lost only three for a .813 mark.

Ted Williams Still Top Batter

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(AP)—Ted Williams enters today's dramatic Boston-Cleveland pennant playoff as the American League's 1948 batting champion.

Through Sunday's games, the Red Sox belter had posted a .370 mark, highest made by an AL batting king since 1941. In that years, Williams won the first of his four hit crowns with a phenomenal .406. He slammed .356 in 1942 and won with .343 last year.

Home run honors went to Joe DiMaggio of New York with a total of 39. The Yankee Clipper also drove in the most runs, 156. Tommy Henrich, his teammate, was tops in runs scored with 140 and tied Washington's Ed Stewart in hammering triples, each with 13.

Dillinger was another double winner in the specialized bracket with the most hits, 207, and 27 base thefts.

Kramer Led Pitchers

Boston's Jack Kramer continued to hold the best pitching percentage with 18-5 for .783.

Ghosts Win 43-0

COBOURG, Oct. 4—(ENS)—Cobourg Galoping Ghosts whitewashed Trenton here on Saturday by the score of 43-0 to open the new ORFU Lakeshore intermediate league. The game was too one-sided to tell how good the Ghosts are this year but the team, under playing-coach Bob Cooper, seemed a smooth-working aggregation. Trenton only had the ball in Cobourg territory a few times during the entire game.

Quigley scored three touchdowns; Jack Jamieson, Hoselton, Currelley and Brandwood, one each. Copper threw three touchdown passes, Jamieson and Brandwood converted two each; Medhurst scored a safety touch and Glenn Connors kicked two singles.

Sox Tie Indians For Lead Flag Taker To Be Decided Today

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Sudden death" confronts Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox today.

The Indians and Red Sox are scheduled to clash in Boston in a one-game, do-or-die play-off for the championship of the American League.

This unprecedented American League event came about Sunday when the Indians and Red Sox finished the regular season in a flat-footed tie for the pennant.

The Indians began the day's activities a game ahead of the Sox but dropped a 7-1 decision to Detroit Tigers while the Red Sox mauled the defending world champion New York Yankees 10-5.

Won's Aces Announced

Both manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland and Joe McCarthy of Boston refused to reveal the identity of their starting pitchers for today's deciding game, scheduled to begin at 1.30 p.m. EST.

Said McCarthy after the Red Sox win: "I had everybody working in the bullpen this afternoon and I haven't the ghost of an idea who I'll start tomorrow."

Best guess is that either Ellis Kinder (10-7), a righthander or lefty Mel Parnell (15-8) will work for the Red Sox with Denny Galehouse (8-7) a darkhorse.

Boudreau said, "My starter will be Bob Feller, Gene Bearden or Bob Lemon. There will be no announcement of my starting pitcher until he steps on the rubber." There's an outside chance that Bob Muncrief may get the nod. Muncrief was pretty tough on the Sox while pitching for St. Louis Browns.

First Playoffs

This is the first time in its history that the American League has had to stage a playoff to decide a pennant.

No matter which team wins today the world series will open in Boston Wednesday with the National League's champion Braves entertaining the American League winner.

Bob Feller was entrusted with the job of nailing down Cleveland's first pennant since 1920 before 74,181 paying customers at Cleveland Sunday, but the big righthander just didn't have it.

Feller, striving for his 20th victory and seventh straight, was pounded from the hill in the third inning when the Tigers scored four runs to sew it up.

The four runs were more than enough for prince Hal Newhouser, Detroit lefthander. Newhouser stopped the Indians on five hits in winning his 21st game of the season. He blanked the Indians until the ninth inning when Joe Gordon singled home Allie Clark from second base with the lone Cleveland run.

Hit Feller Hard

Detroit pounded Feller and five relief pitchers for 15 hits with Johnny Lipon, Vic Wertz and Dick Wakefield leading the attack. Wertz drove in three runs on three doubles, Wakefield knocked in two with a two-bagger and Lipon cracked out three hits, scored twice and batted in a run.

Before 31,304 paid fans at Boston and trailing 2-0 going into the third, the Red Sox exploded for five runs and were never headed. The Sox sealed the verdict with a four-run blast in the sixth.

The Yankees pinched starter Joe Dobson for single runs in each of the first two inning but rookie Bob Porterfield couldn't hold the lead.

The Yankees drove Dobson from the hill with a two-run rally in the fifth to make it a 5-4 game in favor of the Sox. However, Raschi folded in the sixth, yielding four runs on five hits.

Earl Johnson, who relieved Dobson in the fifth, gained credit for the victory, his 10th but Dave Ferriss came on in the seventh to squash a Yankee threat and finished up.

DiMag A Power

If it weren't for Joe DiMaggio the Red Sox would have won in a breeze. DiMag, limping along with a bad charley horse, rapped out four hits, two of them doubles and batted in three runs. When he left for a pinch-runner in the ninth the crowd gave him a tremendous ovation.

In the other American league games Washington Senators downed Philadelphia Athletics, 7-2 and Chicago White Sox beat St. Louis Browns 10-5 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was called at the end of eight innings with the score tied at 2-2 because of darkness.

The Braves tuned up for the World Series by trouncing New York Giants 11-1. Johnny Mize socked his 40th homer for the Giants to tie Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh for the circuit home run leadership for the second straight year. Kiner and Mize whacked 51 homers apiece last year.

Although beaten 4-3 by Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals clinched second place as Brooklyn Dodgers also lost 4-2 to Philadelphia Phillies. The Dodgers, defending National league champions, finished a game behind the Red Birds.

Cincinnati Reds, behind the two-hit pitching of Johnny Vander Meer, shaded Pittsburgh Pirates 1-0. The triumph enabled the Reds to wind up in seventh place, a half game in front of the Cubs.

LIKE SAMSON

The ancients believed man's strength was located in his hair.

JEFF HEATH, slugging outfielder of the Boston Braves, National League pennant winners, looked happy in this picture with son Jeff Jr., at the prospect of playing in his First World Series. That was before he broke his leg sliding into home-plate. Now he'll have to do his playing from the side-lines.

Hamilton Wins First Game Lacrosse Finals

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—(CP).—Backed by the sensational goal-tending of Doug Flavelle, Hamilton Tigers scored an easy 13-4 victory over Cornwall Flyers in the first game of the best-of-three Eastern Canada senior lacrosse finals here Saturday night.

The second game is scheduled for Cornwall Monday night, with the third if necessary also in Cornwall Tuesday night.

The winner of the series will meet the Western Canada champions in the Mann Cup finals.

Sox Confident As Game Looms

BOSTON, Oct. 4.—(AP) —No matter who pitches for Boston's Red Sox in their American League pennant playoff today with Cleveland Indians, he will be one from "the gamest bunch of players" Joe McCarthy ever coached.

That was the firm description by McCarthy of the Sockers after they mauled New York Yankees 10-5 Sunday to tie for first place with Cleveland, beaten 7-1 by Detroit.

"We were counted out early in the spring when we had a bad stretch," reminded McCarthy. "They counted us out again as late as last Wednesday night when we lost to Washington."

'But those fellows never quit. They never gave up. You've got to tip your hats to them for coming from behind the way they did."

McCarthy, like Cleveland manager Lou Boudreau, will not announce his pitcher until game time today.

Thinks Lemon Will Pitch

Most of the Sox players and baseball writers were of the opinion the Indians would send that right-hander Bob Lemon after this really crucial game.

There hasn't been any visible tension among the Sox for the last several days despite their ups and downs.

One of the most relaxed of the Sox was Ted Williams who won the American League batting crown for the fourth time.

His feet stuck up higher than his head on the door of his locker, Williams sprawled back in a chair nursing a soft dring between healthy bites of a sandwich.

"Worried?" for what? Let them (Cleveland Indians) worry. One thing, though, no matter what the situation is before the game (today's playoff) we'll be the favorites. Wait and see."

Ted was more surprised than excited. 'No matter what happens from now on I've learned one thing this season. You never can tell about baseball and that's for sure."

China War Worst Yet

PEIPING, Oct. 4 — (AP). — The government's military situation is worse today than it has ever been since the start of China's civil war. The Communists still have a long way to go to force Nanking's collapse. But it's obvious that unless their present rate of progress is halted, the result well might be fatal for Chiang Kai-Shek's regime.

Research Finds New Atom Secrets

HAMILTON, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Dr. H. G. Thode, scientist at McMaster University here, disclosed Saturday that his research department had found new properties of atoms which may change the field of atomic research. Through tests made with a mess spectometer designed at McMaster it has been learned atomic components of various substances vary with geographic locations where they had been found. Isotopes of the elements boron and sulphur were found to vary in nature depending on geological source.

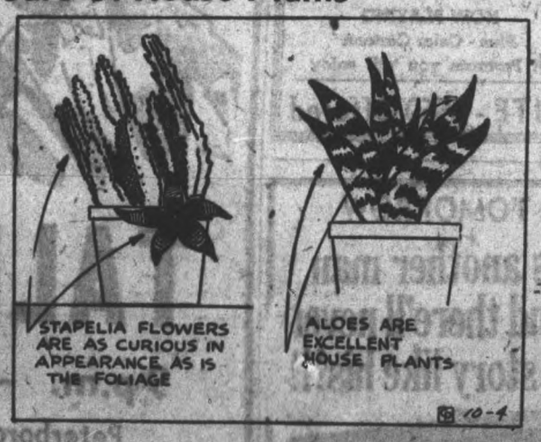
Care Of House Plants



By DEAN HALLIDAY.

Busy housewives who like plants but have little time for their care will be glad to know that there are house plants which practically take care of themselves. These plants, which require only a very little attention, are made up of the thick-stemmed, juicy succulents—cacti, euphorbias, crassulas, haworthias, century-plants and the crown-of-thorns, a milkweed.

Illustrated in the accompanying Garden Graph is a plant called Stapelia, commonly known as carrion flower. It also is a member of the milkweed family, and as a house plant is one that requires little attention. Its flowers are as curious in appearance as is the foliage.

Another interesting plant which will grow happily year after year with almost no attention, if given a sunny windowsill, is the aloe, illustrated. It wants its roots kept almost dry, and it rarely needs repotting. It produces exquisite orange and yellow flowers in early spring. Its variegated foliage also is attractive.

Succulents grow well under the hot and dry conditions which prevail in most houses during the winter. Nature has endowed them with a fleshy structure of stem and leaf capable of storing moisture to tide them over long dry periods.

This group does not need the constant syringing required by a fern. If smooth-leaved tops get dusty, they can be wiped off with a damp cloth.

Fall is a bad time of repot any of the succulent group unless they are sickly and unhappy in the soil in which they are growing. If it is necessary to repot such plants now, put them in a smaller pot for it is better to overcrowd them than to give them too much room.

Abbott Expected To Confer With Cabinet On Dollar Crisis

OTTAWA, Oct. 4 — (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott is expected to confer with fellow-members of the Cabinet this week on Canada's improving dollar position and the future of the now-frozen Canadian loan to the United Kingdom.

The Finance Minister accompanied the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, to Washington last Sunday to attend the annual meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

While he has been in the United States Capital, however, Mr. Abbott has met and talked with US officials. The almost world-wide shortage of dollars, the European recovery program and Canada's position are believed to have occupied a large part of the conversations.

Lumber Probe

When the Prices Commission begins calling witnesses from the lumber industry on October 4 it will begin its last major investigation. At least that is the plan of the Royal Commission under Chairman C. A. Curtis.

The Commission still will have considerable work left when it completes its examination of the lumber prices, but none of them is likely to occupy much time as the three weeks allowed for the next investigation.

It will probably probe women's and children's clothing, but once lumber is out of the way the biggest task will be preparation of the Commission's report to Parliament.

Commies

The two biggest disputes over Communism in Canadian trade union history are expected— so say Ottawa sources — to flare up in the full glare of newspaper publicity during the week of October 10.

Canada's two biggest Trade Union Congresses hold their annual conventions that week starting October 11. The Trades and Labor Congress will meet in Victoria. At the same time, the Canadian Congress of Labor will be ers have little doubt that Com- in session in Toronto. Union leadmunism will be the biggest issue at both conventions. At Victoria the quarrel will hinge on the TC L's support for the allegedly Communist-dominated Canadian Seamen's Union in its strike against four lake shipping companies.

The issue has already led to the suspension of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, and its vice-president, Frank Hall, from the TLC. Mr. Hall, leading chieftain among the Railway Union officials, organized a merger between the rival Canadian Lake Seamen's Union and the international Seafarers' Union, an AFL affiliate.

At Toronto, the Communist issue will reach the convention floor when the suspended Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union seeks readmission to the CCL. The union was suspended as the result of an attack made on two powerful labor leaders—President A. R. Mosher of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America. Communism itself was not a direct issue in the union's suspension but orthodox labor leaders have charged freely in private that the attack hewed too closely to the Communist party line.

Parks Changes Mind Does 2nd Film

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 4 — (AP) —Larry Parks is at it again. The Olathe, Kans., actor once more is stepping into the well-heeled shoes of Al Jolson for a sequel to the mammy-singer's film biography. I found Larry stripped to his shorts after a spirited session of Jolson-mugging.

"People don't realize what hard work this is," he panted. He demonstrated how he works.

After turning on a phonograph, he steps before two huge mirrors affording a front and side view. Jolson's voice booms, and the song "Baby Face" resounds through the small rehearsal room and Larry watches himself mouth the words, grimace, gesture and cavort.

The number of times he listens to a number runs into the hundreds. That is a lot of Jolson when you consider there are 20 to 30 songs in the new picture, "Jolson Sings Again."

Larry said he gets to the studio at 9:10 in the morning and sometimes doesn't get home until 6:30 at night. Not only that, he also does some listening at home.

"I have to play the phonograph quite loud," he said, and it is driving his wife, Betty Garrett somewhat batty. "Luckily it is getting along toward winter so I can keep the windows shut and not bother the neighbors too much."

There is one neighbor he does not worry about, though. That's the 'cellist across the street who practices scales in the morning, and has friends in for late evening chamber music sessions.

Better Story

Remembering Larry's aversion toward repeating the role, I asked him what changed his mind.

"It's a better story," he declared. "I saw the old picture again recently and I realized it really wasn't very good. Except for the last couple of reels, which were good, it tried to cover too much ground."

Of course, there is another reason for his change of heart — a spanking new Columbia contract which has other actors drooling with envy.

Work Under Way On Addition To Hospital

Pigott Construction Company began this morning excavation for the foundation of an addition to St. Joseph's Hospital.

The new wing will extend westerly from the main front door and will be 147 ft. in that direction by 40 feet in width, and will comprise a basement and three storeys, of brick, concrete and steel construction.

Plan of the work laid out for this fall intends to complete the basement and laying of the covering slab which will become the ground floor. Enclosure of the basement will permit its heating during the winter. Construction will be continued early in the spring.

Sister Superior Priscilla said this morning that the exact number of beds which will be provided by the addition could not be exactly determined at present. A new kitchen and administrative quarters will be included in the enlargement with bed accommodation. Resulting changes in the main buildings may also afford other rooms for patients, but extra space is required for the nursery and these will be placed in a new location. These interior alterations will affect the eventual bed units in the completed hospital.

Like Nurses' residence

"The new wing will be of the same type of construction as the nurses' residence," Sister Priscilla said.

The Civic Hospital was planned for 265 beds, the special committee of the council estimated that the total accommodation for the hospital requirements of Peterborough, including St. Joseph's, would be approximately 400 beds. That prospect was considered adequate for the needs of city and district for a considerable number of years.

Runs Into Car Girl 5 Hurt

Audrey Hedges, 5, of 11 Whitlaw St., was slightly injured shortly after 12 noon today when she ran into the side of a moving car driven by Alex Turner, 641 Park St., S., at George and Princess Sts.

She was taken to Dr. G. R. Scott's clinic where it was found she had a bruised left hip, a scraped chin, and was suffering from slight concussion.

Eyewitnesses to the accident said that the little girl was standing on the south-west corner of the intersection apparently on her way home from school. As Turner drove past the corner along George St. she ran out into the road and struck the side of his car.

Police Constable Howard Mesley investigated.

After the result of the vote was announced, Diefenbaker moved that the choice of Drew be made unanimous.

Falling Tree Crushes Clysdale Man

Michael Mahoney of Clysdale, in the northern part of Chandos township, was critically injured by a falling tree Thursday.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien said today that Mr. Mahoney was making satisfactory progress, and it was previously reported at St. Joseph's Hospital that little hope was held out for his recovery when he was admitted, Thursday.

There is no telephone communication into that section of the Clysdale bush country some 12 miles north and east of Apsley. Sketchy information was to the effect that Frank and Albert Trotter were cutting down trees with a power saw, and that Mr. Mahoney was only a spectator, attracted by the machine.

As tree fell a huge limb struck Mr. Mahoney crushing him to the ground. He was removed as quickly as possible to the Red Cross Hospital and later was brought to Peterborough. His injuries were said to be on the left side of his body, fracturing shoulder blade, arm, hip and some ribs. The patient was suffering severe shock, to the extent that first treatment had to be confined to that condition.

Mr. Mahoney was believed to be about 30 years old, son of Mrs. Thomas Mahoney. The family has lived for years in that north-eastern corner of Peterborough county.

GROUND DRY

So dry is the ground at present that workmen digging house foundations in the north-west section of the city have gone down six feet or so before noticing moisture.

Hundreds Take To Roads To See Autumn Foliage

Hundreds of Peterborough people saw the autumn beauty sights on Sunday by road, water and air. Conditions were perfect and colors had turned with a few early frosts north of Young's Point through the complete range of Nature's palette. Settlers forecast last Sunday that due to a drought Fall, colors would not be as brilliant this year but the display went on as usual despite lack of rain. In fact, it was all the more spectacular because by Sunday all stages of the turning process were in full function and made for dazzling contracts.

Cars were on the road from early morning and after dinner the numbers increased north on Highway 28 to a steady stream. Coach lines, gambling on a clear week-end, conducted tours into Algonquin Park. Aircraft based at Lakefield roared in and out of the mouth of the Otonabee River with loads of sightseers, some passengers getting their first glimpse of their district from the air at the finest time of the year.

The lakes and river shorelines that were lined with water maples in bursts of color ranging from vermillions to bright purples made a fine display border to high cliffs and banks lined with golden birch and poplars. Even the sedge grasses and bullrushes lent a richness to the general scheme and sheltered a few ducks that had evaded hunters' guns, so far.

Rio Of Color

Down Eel's Creek from Haultain to the "Lumbermen's Dam" there was a riot of color and the clear cold water was deep enough for small boats providing they were not powered with kickers. The creek bottom has filled with silt and sand to such an extent that poling is necessary in some places.

The Department of Lands and Forests rest park a few miles north of Haultain was visited by many carloads of people, many of them elderly, who could enjoy the beautiful sweep of one of the Creek's rapids without getting out of their cars.

Some private cars went overnight to Algonquin Park but passengers were fully convinced that the beauty of the countryside in Peterborough County was not surpassed anywhere in their travels. They could truthfully repeat the old saying "East, West, home is best."

Cars Collide Head-On, Two Injured

A head-on collision between two cars, Saturday night on Lansdowne St., just east of George St., resulted in one car being almost totally wrecked and about $500 damage to the other. The driver and passenger in the more seriously damaged car were both treated for facial cuts.

According to Constables O'Donoghue and Roderegue who investigated, Frank Stinson of Millbrook was driving east on Lansdowne St. with his wife shortly before 11 p.m. The other car in the collision was owned and driven by J. Condon of RR 10 Douro who was proceeding west at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Stinson were only shaken up, but Condon and his brother Leonard, believed to have been riding with him at the time, both suffered facial cuts and injuries.

When police arrived, eyewitnesses said Condon and his passenger had gone to Dr. R. Scott's office for medical treatment.

Police say they investigated and found that the two men had gone west on Prince St. and then along Park. They could not be located until about 2.30 p.m. when they were taken into custody by PC Leo Murphy. Leonard Condon was later allowed to go home.

In police court today Condon pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving. Magistrate Philp fined him $20 and costs.

Struck By Car

When he stepped onto No. 7 Highway about two miles west of Fowler's Corners on Sunday night to catch a Peterborough to Lindsay bus, Isaac Gainey of Beaverton was hit by a car driven by Stewart Calvert, 19, of 59 Cambridge St., Lindsay. He was removed by ambulance to Civic Hospital where it was discovered he had a compound fracture of the left leg.

Calvert was on his way to Peterborough and apparently was unable to stop in time to avoid colliding with Gainey.

Five Injured In Crash Near Lakefield

Five persons were taken to hospital with what are believed to be minor injuries as the result of a head-on collision Saturday night, between two cars on Highway 28.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Woodcox of Bancroft in the northbound car and three Lakefield youths, David Byers, 28, Reg. Hopkins, 22, and Gerald Pearson, 24, in the car going south. The accident occurred on the highway, about two miles north of Lakefield, shortly after 5 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodcox, together with their sons Donald, 17, and Douglas, 13, were returning to Bancroft, while the car containing the three Lakefield youths and driven by Byers, was returning to Lakefield from Young's Point.

Neither of the two Woodcox boys was hurt and they were allowed to continue home.

Injuries Not Known

Full extent of injuries sustained is not known, but Byers and Hopkins were released from St. Joseph's Hospital today. Of the Lakefield trio, all of whom received facial cuts, only Pearson now required medical attention, and his condition is said to be "much better." They were attended by Dr. H. E. Castle of Lakefield.

Dr. C. M. Scott who is attending Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox said that they were still in Civic Hospital with body and face injuries, but he added progress was satisfactory.

Provincial Constable Gordon Langton who investigated, said that both cars were seriously damaged, each to the extent of about $400. Both windshields were broken and are believed to have caused most of the facial injuries.

Cause of the collision is not known. Provincial Police say that no charges will be laid.

'Plowboy Soldiers' Go Thousands Of Miles To Attend 'Hasty Pees' Regiment Reunion

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 4—(CP)—The "Plowboy Soldiers" got together again Sunday.

More than 400 of them—wartime members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment—met here for a two-day reunion.

Some of them travelled thousands of miles for the reunion they had talked about during the long wartime years the first division infantry battalion spent in Canada, England, Sicily, Italy and Northwest Europe.

Former Company Sergeant Major George (Sockless George) Ponsford came 9,000 miles from Durban, South Africa. But his wartime mustache — which measured 8½ inches—had disappeared.

Dubbed the Plowboy Soldiers" overseas, the Hasty Pees" were raised originally in the two agricultural counties of Hastings and Prince Edward along the north shore of Lake Ontario and Peterborough county.

Veterans, their wives and sweethearts attended a banquet and dance Saturday night. Sunday they marched to the cenotaph to lay a wreath on the graves of their fallen comrades.

Ackerman's Amalgamates With 3 Other Firms, In Operation 77 Years

Last of Peterborough's industries to part with its independence, the firm of B. F. Ackerman, Son and Co., Ltd., entered Sept. 30 into a new association with several other companies in the manufacture of leather goods. Mr. Russell A. Adams of Toronto, president of Adams Brothers Harness Co., heads this amalgamation which has been passing through the process of shareholders' assent in recent weeks. The announcement of the change in the Ackerman Company's industrial position was made at the week-end by Ald. Hugh Waddell, vice-president and general manager.

Entering this leather business pool are Adams Brothers Harness Co., Great West Saddlery Co., W. H. King Co., Toronto, and B. F. Ackerman, Son and Co., Ltd., Peterborough.

No Changes

"There will be no change in the name of our company, nor in its personnel," Ald. Waddell informed the Examiner, at the week-end. "Our plant should have a much increased production from the new business that is expected from this joining with three well-established branches of the leather industry. For the present that is about all that we can say. We shall have to wait and see how it works out, but we have a great deal of confidence for the future. The legal details of the amalgamation were completed Sept. 30."

Most Of Work Done Here

It was reported weeks ago when the proposed pooling of separate interests was first mentioned that a large part of the manufacturing for the new company would be carried on in Peterborough.

The Ackerman industry has been in operation 77 years. It was founded by the late Benjamin F. Ackerman, grandfather of Ald. Waddell, in 1871. Mr. Ackerman obtained his first business experience as a young man at Norwood, transferred his leather shop to Port Perry, gradually enlarged it, and then moved to Peterborough.

First operations here were at the northeast corner of George and Charlotte Sts. Extension of sales activities into western Canada enlarged production, and with increasing business requiring additional space, the company built in 1890 on their present site. That plant has been expanded by several additions to the original building.

The general manager of the company, Ald. Hugh Waddell, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Waddell, is one of the younger business men of the city. In the more public field of service to the community and its citizens as a member of the municipal council, Ald. Waddell has displayed abilities that have been gratefully recognized by his associates. He is one of the most modest members of the council, and also outstanding in his diligence and competence.

His many friends will wish Ald. Waddell a large measure of success in his new responsibility, and also hope with him that the new business, with its more comprehensive sales forces, will bring to Peterborough the larger volume that is expected.

Building Permits On 22 Houses Total 144,300

Twenty-two dwellings, privately built, amount to $114,300 in the building permits issued in September from the office of City Engineer Chalmers.

The total value of new building warrants last month was $462,499 as compared with $130,511 in September last year.

For the nine months' period to the end of September, the 1947 amount was still $1,139,870 more than for the three quarters of this year.

Permits for nine months last year added up to $2,225,737, and for the same period this year $2,085,867.

The permits last month were: 16 garages $5,200; 22 houses $114,300; 75 miscellaneous $342,909. Total for 113 permits was $462,499.

And the permits for Sept., 1947, were: 18 garage $4,077; 11 houses $64,500; 61 miscellaneous $61,934. Total for 90 permits $130,511.

Film Council Has Largest Audience

A statistical report issued at the second annual meeting of the Federation of Film Councils of Eastern Ontario, held in Kingston on Friday and Saturday, showed Peterborough has the largest film council audience in Eastern Ontario.

From September, 1947, to June, 1948, a total of 88,042 people attended 853 showings. In Kingston, 84,076 people attended 11,052 showings; these figures, however, include showings to schools and Queen's University.

A resolution was moved by W. L. Graff, secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Film Council, that the Federation "request the Dominion Government to encourage audio-visual education by recognizing Film Council as educational bodies (for income tax purposes), and by allowing maximum discounts in the importation of equipment and films." The Dominion Government has recently removed education discounts on films and projectors in its newly issued foreign exchange regulations. The resolution was passed and is being forwarded to the Government.

Mr. Graff was appointed a director of the Federation. Ronald Ward, who is regional supervisor of the National Film Board is also on the executive as a permanent member. A. E. Borland, president of the Peterborough Film Council, also attended the meeting.

Indians Sure They'll Win Decisive Game

CLEVELAND, Oct. 4—(AP)—Confident Clevelanders picked up their world series tickets today. Their in-and-out Indians were battling Boston in the American League's first pennant playoff, but no one along the lake front appeared too perturbed about the outcome.

The two teams tied Sunday for the flag. The Indians, bidding for their first since 1920, bowed to Hal Newhouser and Detroit Tigers 7-1. Boston, two games back only three days ago, zoomed into the deadlock with a resounding 10-5 conquest of New York Yankees.

"We're not downhearted over losing," Manager Lou Boudreau said. "We are going over to Boston to beat the Red Sox for the pennant. This play-off just gets us there a day early for the world series."

Ready To Celebrate

President Bill Veeck had a case of champagne on hand Sunday for the sports writers and a flock of fireworks for the fans in case the Indians grabbed the pennant. But not a cork popped or bomb exploded.

The day had been designated as "Bill Veeck Day" by Mayor Thomas J. Burke, but all the sport-shirted, coatless president got out of it was a chill from the cold winds blowing off Lake Erie. The Indians' share of the gate receipts—some $55,000—was turned over to the Cleveland Community Fund.

Veeck didn't appear too upset by the defeat. He lauded Newhouser, who won his 21st game, with: "The way he was pitching today we couldn't have beaten him if we batted against him for two days. He was superb."

Newhouser said: "I had a job to do and I did it. That's all."

Cab driver Harry Kirkle, discussing today's playoff, said:

"If we lose to those Bostons the water along the lake front will rise two feet this afternoon. Enough people will jump off bridges and piers to make it come up that much."

Tigers, Stampeders, Ottawa All Win; Hold Top Spots

(By The Canadian Press)

Nothing, they say, succeeds like success. And that's the way it was in Canadian football Saturday.

The leaders of the country's three major leagues all rolled to victory, building up their respective holds on the top spots.

Two of the leaders—Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Rugby Football League and Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Rugby Union—maintained their undefeated records.

Tigers trounced Windsor Rockets 39-3 and Calgary won 12-11 over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Ottawa Rough Riders, atop the Interprovincial Union, drubbed Hamilton Wildcats 26-6 and moved two full games ahead of the pack.

Montreal Alouettes pinned the third straight loss on the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts to the tune of 17-8, putting the two clubs in a second-place tie in the Big Four.

Another second place tie developed in the ORFU. Sarnia Imperials pulled level with Toronto Beaches Indians by beating the Toronto club 12-5.

In college exhibition games University of Toronto walloped Assumption 37-11; Queen's blanked Ottawa University 17-0 and McGill Redmen trimmed Ontario Agricultural College 24-1.

Quarterback Keith Spaith again was the man of the hour in Stampeders seventh straight win which practically eliminated Saskatchewan from the playoffs. He pitched two touchdown passes—one of them in the final quarter.

Turner Outstanding

It was practically a one-man show for Howie (Touchdown) Turner as Ottawa overpowered the Wildcats. Turner picked up 12 points—10 of them on two touchdown runs totalling 120 yards. Bob Paffrath and Bob Young each added a major score.

Wildcats only touchdown came when Paul Peterson intercepted a pass and raced 90 yards to set up a touchdown buck of one yard for Jim Oldenburg.

Krol, Smylie Hurt

Montreal's victory over Teddy Morris' Scullers left the Argos with three star backs on the injury list. Royal Copeland had already hurt his knee and Saturday's game sent both Joe Krol and Rod Smylie to the bench with knee injuries.

Red Noel, who spent last season with Saskatchewan Roughriders, picked up Alouettes first touchdown by recovering a wild Argo lateral. Bronco Reese, former Chicago Bears fullback, galloped 30 yards for another on an intercepted pass. Steve Nemeth added a placement, two touchdowns and a single. Argos scored their only major in the final period at the end of a sustained 72-yard march when Frank Dunlap passed to Jack Wedley.

Sarnia ripped through Beaches Indians to rack up 12 points in the first half before the Toronto defense tightened. But the best the Combines could do was an unconverted touchdown by Mike King in the final quarter.

Gus Scheiers went over for an unconverted major in the first quarter and Jack Bell added one next quarter. Dutch Davey converted it and also collected a single when his attempted field goal went wide.

Filchock Sparks Play

Fabulous Frankie Filchock was the lead-off man on four of Hamilton's six touchdowns against the hapless Rockets. Three of them were on forwards and the other was a lateral that sent outside wing Jack Harper across. Harper scored three touchdowns for 15 points. Windsor's only score was a second-period field goal by Skeets Harrison.

Varsity and Assumption threw the pigskin around like a basketball. Four of the six Varsity trys and both Assumption majors came on forwards. John Chorestecki scored two touchdowns for Varsity.

Ottawa held Queen's scoreless for one period. Then the Tricolor clicked with touchdown passes in each of the next two periods, with MacIntyre racing 15 yards for a major in the last frame.

Here And There In Sports . . .

BY CANADIAN PRESS

Bob (Scotty) Rankine of Preston, Saturday won the annual around the bay marathon at Hamilton for the seventh time. He covered the 19 miles in 1:52:25, four minutes and 12 seconds faster than the winning time last year.

Rankine beat Bill Steiner of New York, last year's winner, to the finish wire by 20 seconds. Third was Walter Fedorick of Hamilton, one of Canada's representatives in the Olympic marathon.

Wilmer (Whitey) Sheridan of Waterdown, came fourth and Ab Morton of Galt, placed fifth.

Steiner, Fedorick and Sheridan led the pack for the first 16 miles while Rankine trailed. Then Rankine passed the leaders for a strong finish.

Other runners included:

S. Beda, Galt; T. Uwin, St. Catharines; A. E. Mitchell, Guelph; H. Wiltshire, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Willard Abrams, young Toronto jockey, was killed Saturday when pinned under a fallen horse during the steeplechase race on the closing day of the Ontario Jockey Club meet at Woodbine, in Toronto.

Rice Cake went down with Abrams at the first jump and lay in the path of the running horses as they completed their next circuit of the field. A first aid man dragged Abrams from the track. The jockey died soon afterwards.

Prevaricator, equalling Equipoise's world record for the mile, Saturday won the $15,000 added Golden Gate mile at Golden Gate field, Albany, Calif.

Prevaricator, owned by E. O. Slice and Sons, was timed at 1:34 2-5. Equipoise set the standard at Arlington Park June 30, 1932.

The Aga Khan's Migoli, ridden by British jockey Charlie Smirke, Sunday scored a victory for English racing by winning the valuable Prix de L'Arc De Triomphe, over 1½ miles at Longchamps, Paris.

Migoli, by Bois Roussel out of Mah Iran, who was placed in two of the English classics last season, and won the Ascot Gold Cup, had the measure of the field of 14 in his great finishing burst. He beat Nirgal with the French derby winner Bey third.

The race was worth nearly $20,000.

In two hours and 10 minutes Sunday the Boston Red Sox were cleaned out of 23,000 grandstand tickets for today's pennant playoff game.

Crowds began yammering for tickets midway in the ball game Sunday—when the Sox assured themselves of a tie by beating the New York Yankees while Detroit's Tigers were beating Cleveland.

As soon as the scoreboard showed Detroit comfortably ahead of Cleveland and Dom DiMaggio hit a home run to give the Sox a 6-4 lead, fans began leaving their seats to line up at ticket booths.

The club began selling tickets—a limit of four to a customer—at six o'clock. At 8.10 all were gone.

Six midwestern race drivers were suspended for life on charges of fixing a race at Brentlawn, Ky., Aug. 24, at a meeting of the district seven directors of the United States Trotting Association at Lexington, Ky., Sunday night.

The drivers are Herman Strepo, of Corydon, Ind., George Ratienbury of Muncie, Ind.; Harold Snodgrass, Indianapolis; Lou Huber, Jr., of Mt. Healthy, Ohio; Arthur Phillips of Newton, Ill., and Bernard Sheppard of South Beloit, Ill.

Canadian entries placed ninth and 11th in the first of a five-race series of the Bermuda 14-foot dinghy championships of the HRH Princess Elizabeth Gold Cup.

Ian Maclean, representing the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, who was still awaiting the arrival of his own dinghy, sailed ninth in the Bermuda boat Snafu II. He used a Bermuda crew.

Mosquito, another Bermuda boat sailed by Bud Rawlston of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto, with Barty Dalton, commodore of the Kingston Yacht Club as crew, finished 11th.

The race was won by Bermuda skipper Charles Harris.

The Melbourne colt Carbob Copy Saturday won the rich Australian Jockey Club derby at Randwick racecourse at Sydney.

The race carried £10,000 ($32,500) prize money, of which £7,000 pounds went to the winner, which also took an additional £893 in sweepstakes.

Carbob Copy's time for the 1½-mile, 10 yard distance was 2:33.5.

The umpires for the 1948 World Series were announced Saturday at Cincinnati by baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Two National League arbiters and an alternate, and the same number from the American League were named. They are: National—William Stewart and George Barr; Ralph Pinelli, alternate; American—William R. Summers and William T. Grieve; Joseph Paparella, alternate.

The umpires' assignment, announced earlier, calls for Stewart to serve as umpire-in-chief of the first game, with Summers at first base Barr at second and Grieve at third. In each subsequent game the umpires will advance one base, clockwise.

After 25 Years Lyons Quits White Sox

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—(AP). — Ted Lyons has quit the last-place Chicago White Sox.

His resignation as manager ends a 25-year active career with the club, one of the longest in major league history.

Charles Comiskey, 22-year-old heir of the baseball dynasty, Sunday night announced the appointment of Jack Onslow as Lyon's successor. The 59-year-old Onslow moves up from the Sox Memphis farm club after guiding the Chicks to second place in the Southern Association this season.

Tobin Calling Black Hawks To Finish Third

By BRITT JESSUP.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 4 — (CP)— President Bill Tobin calls his Chicago Black Hawks to finish "third or better" in the coming National Hockey League campaign.

As training sessions drew to an end for the team which finished a hopeless last in the six-team race last year, the energtic Tobin proclaimed: "If we can pick up where we left off last season we will give them all a run."

He recalled some of the troubles which plagued the club last year, particularly early in the season. Chief was the broken leg suffered by Billy Mosienko in the NHL's annual all-star game. This cost the Hawks the services of the fleet little right winger for most of the season.

The team wound up as a much more potent aggregation, after signing Roy Conacher, who was late rounding into form after refusing to sign with New York Rangers, and after big Charlie Conacher took over as coach.

If the team has a potential weakness it is in the goaltending. Young Emile (The Cat) Francis has been going all-out to prove he belongs in big time. He is getting a battle for the goal job from Al Rollins, who helped Edmonton Flyers win the Allan Cup last season.

No Choice Yet

Definite choice of a net minder isn't expected until the Hawks open their campaign on Wednesday, October 13, against the Red Wings at Detroit.

For scoring power, the Hawks will rely mainly on the Flying Forts line they acquired in the famous "five-for-two" deal which sent Max Bentley and rookie Cy Thomas to Toronto Maple Leafs. The line is so named because all three— Gus Bodnar, Bud Poile, and Gaye Stewart — come from Fort William. Bodnar and Stewart are former rookie award winners.

There is tremendous scoring power too in the line centred by Doug Bentley with Roy Conacher and Mosienko on the wings. Put together late last season, they bagged 131 scoring points mainly on Bentley's 20 goals and 37 assists. Other forwards include Metro Prystai, Adam Brown, dangerous Alex Kaleta, George Gee, and Red Hamill. The veteran Hamill will serve as the club's chief penalty killer, a role in which his long experience and aggressive play will pay off.

For defence, the Hawks have four hard-hitting performers — Bob Goldham and Ernie Dickens, obtained in the same deal is the Flying Forts, and Ralph Nattrass and Bill Gadsby, youngsters who gained valuable experience last season.

Two likely-looking rookies may get into the club roster, defenceman Joe Conn and forward Don Slater.

Hockey Happenings Review

By The Canadian Press

The Metz brothers were removed from the will-they-or-won't-they-this-year list Sunday night.

Conn Smythe, Toronto Maple Leafs manager, said that Nick, who signed with the Leafs way back in 1934, had definitely decided to retire.

But brother Don would report to the Leafs in November, after the birth of an expected addition to the family. He probably will go to the Leafs' American League farm club, Pittsburgh Hornets.

The Wilcox, Sask., boys were the targets of railbird speculation when neither reported to Leafs for fall training this year.

Smythe also said that George Armstrong — who led Ontario junior ranks in point-getting with Stratford last year — will either play this year "in the Maple Leaf organization this year or not at all."

Armstrong was reported to have left the training camp because he wanted to play with Stratford again this year while Smythe wanted to sign him for the Leafs' farm system, probably Pittsburgh.

Annette Dionne, one of the famous five from Callander, Ont., thinks Alex Kaleta of Chicago Black Hawks is a very rough man.

And she laid down her box of pop-corn long enough to applaud vigorously when Kaleta got dumped on the ice.

It all happened in North Bay Saturday night when the 14-year-old quintuplets took in their first hockey game — an exhibition tilt in which Hawks beat their United States League farmhands, Kansas City Pla-mors, 8-5.

Sister Cecile appeared more interested in a candy apple than the game, Yvonne thought the whole thing was pretty rough but "if we are invited to another game, I'd like to come."

New York Rangers opened a shakedown tour of Quebec cities Sunday at Valleyfield where they beat Valleyfield Braves of the Quebec Senior League 7-4. Fred Shiro and Nick Mickowski got two goals each with Tony Leswick, Buddy O'Connor and Paul Lund scoring the rest.

Charlie Conacher's Hawks built up a 5-0 lead in the second period and weathered a five-goal blitz in the last period to beat Kansas City. Both rookie Al Rollins and Emile Francis, battling it out for Hawks goaltending jobs, fanned on some easy ones. Rollins had 39 saves in the Kansas City nets while Francis handled only 11 shots in the first two periods but left five in in the last one.

A 20-year-old forward from Saskatoon, Gordon Howe, potted two goals Sunday night in Detroit Red Wings' first hometown stand of the year. Detroit beat Indianapolis Capitals, their farm club in the American League, 5-2 with Bep Guidolin, Ted Lindsay and Jimw McFadden getting the other goals.

TCS Nips Oshawa In COSSA Opener

PORT HOPE, Oct. 4.—Trinity School Thirds Saturday defeated Oshawa High School, 26-23, in their first game of COSSA football League play. The home squad had a great advantage in ground gaining and first downs. Oshawa capitalized on TCS errors to keep the score close.

Violent Deaths Claim 24 Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Two manslaughter charges were being pressed today, the result of a week-end in which 24 people met violent deaths in Eastern Canada.

One of them resulted from a fight in Toronto, the other from a hunting accident in Truro, N.S.

Three drownings and five deaths from auto accidents were also reported to the Canadian Press.

Despite a coroner's jury verdict of accidental death, RCMP laid manslaughter charges against Benjamin Weir of Schuylerville, N.Y., following the shooting of 45-year-old Kenneth Derring of Castleton on Hudson, N.Y. Derring was shot near Truro while hunting.

Fight Over $2

Toronto police said they would charge 39-year-old Michael Chambers with manslaughter in connection with the death of Aloysius Kelly. Kelly died in hospital after a fight which police said started over a $2 bill.

The opening of the duck-hunting season in Eastern Ontario was marred by the death of a 17-year-old hunter, David Hutchison of Prescott. He was killed when he stubbed his toe and dropped his shotgun which discharged.

Rene Lanthier, manager of the Laurentide Flying Club, his two passengers—Yolande Lemire and Gilles Audet—and RCMP Constable Richard Carlson were killed in an aircraft collision near Cartierville airport north of Montreal. It was reported the two light planes collided while coming in to land.

A farmer coming home from church near Barrie, found three bodies in a car parked just inside a bush. Police, who said death resulted from carbon monoxide poisoning, tentatively identified two of them as Gordon Bonnell, 27, of Toronto, and his brother, Earl, 21.

The auto victims were: Martha Richardson, 79, Toronto; Henry S. Steel, 35, St. Catharines; Dan MacKinnon, 64, a Nova Scotia Highways Department tractor operator; Mrs. William Borovoy, 28, Salem, Ont., and William Christie, 26, of Mansonville, Que.

Train Hits Cyclist

John Henry Hage, 64, of Hamilton, was killed near Freeman, when he rode his bicycle on to a level crossing and into the path of an oncoming train.

A hunting party near Eganville in Northeastern Ontario resulted in the death of William Schweigert of Eganville. He was found lying in the bush, hit in the stomach by a heavy-calibre bullet.

Willard Abrams, a Toronto jockey, was killed in the closing day of the Woodbnie Park fall racing meet when he was pinned beneath his fallen horse.

Two elderly men died after falls in their homes—Frank Kane, 69, in Montreal and Joseph Gore, 78, in Chatham.

The body of Dr. J. Donat Cretien, 33-year-old quarantine officer, was found in the St. Lawrence river at Quebec where he was drowned in September. Bill Wainica, 70, was drowned in the Lachine canal at Montreal and a 59-year-old transient from Sydney Mines, N.S., was found in the river Lynn near Simcoe.

James Roy, 20, was killed at New Glasgow, N.S., when working on a steel pipe. It came in contact with overhead electric wires.

Drew First To Go In On First Ballot

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The Progressive Conservative party made history Saturday by electing its new leader—Premier Drew of Ontario—on the first ballot.

At the party's three previous conventions, two ballots were necessary each time to settle the leadership contest.

At the 1927 convention, the late Viscount Bennett won on the second ballot. In 1938, the late Hon. R. J. Manion failed to win an over-all majority on the first ballot but managed to do so on the second.

The situation was similar in 1942 when John Bracken, whose retirement led to the convention which elected Mr. Drew, was declared elected on the second vote.

Club Whitesands Holds Open House

Resident officials of Club Whitesands held open house Sunday afternoon to more than 100 guests from Peterborough, who were entertained and taken on a tour of inspection of this resort, which cost more than half a million dollars to build.

Whitesands is located on a sheltered bay on Ketchecum Lake, miles north-west of Peterborough, and is accessible only by water. It is about half a mile from Elliott's Landing on the lake.

Guests were taken in a water taxi from the landing, and were greeted by the owner, Chas. R. Robson, president of the club, who is also an Oshawa leather manufacturer. Donald Bourke, managing director, and Michael McElligott, resident manager, were also on hand, and the club hostess, Mrs. Audrey Orr, gave everyone a friendly welcome.

The resort consists of a main lodge, which is a touch of a modern luxurious New York hotel in the heart of the wilderness. Flanking the shore are 12 bungalows, each with separate bath, and so constructed that all four apartments in each bungalow has a clear view of the lake. They are heated by separate oil burners, insulated, and can be occupied comfortably the year round. The kitchen and dining-room are in the main lodge, which has no sleeping quarters, and the kitchen is a gleaming masterpiece of stainless steel throughout. There are two 2,500-watt diesel motors to provide power. In addition, there is a treasure chest where woollens, sport togs and china are sold, a snack bar, and the fireplace lounge overlooks the lake with windows to the floor.

The club is an all-year-round resort hotel accommodating 60.

POLICE STILL HAVE no clue to the disappearance, Thursday, of 21-year-old June Baker, second-year medical student at the University of Toronto. She was last seen at noon on that day, lunching with an older woman, in a Bay St. restaurant in Toronto. The missing girl is shown here, standing at right, in a university laboratory.

Of Interest to Women

yourselves to each other. Both of you have been living in the pin-up world in which all the girls were beautiful and alluring and all the men gallant and romantic, and when the boys whom you had idealized came home from the war to a world that isn't in the least like they had pictured it, why, there was bound to be a lot of disillusion on both sides.

But you will get used to each other and adjust yourselves to each other, and there will still be marrying and giving in marriage. Also, divorces.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, October 5

It is probable that a recent stretch of excitement, elation, dynamic and highly stimulated emotions, may continue the high pressure, with emotions and impulses still "in the saddle." With the prior obscure and uncertain state of mind, it may be desirable to keep firm leash on the feelings and desires where vital issues are at stake. If major objective or decisions come up for consideration it would be advisable to work on a basis of reason and composure, rather than obstinate determination.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, should resolve to take their affairs in hand on a practical and commonsense basis minus emotions and overweening desires, which may have power to keep up high pressure and tension, with consequent strife, rancour and bad feelings. Revenge, obstinacy, impetuosity, dissipate forces that could be applied to constructive and harmonious plans. Substitute cool thinking and happy emotions for destructive drives and impluses.

A child born on this day, may have wayward and impetuous urges, which, properly disciplined, might be turned to constructive ideas, enterprise and worthwhile attainments.

QUESTION: Would you print a recipe for ways of using apples? I would especially like one for Apple Butter and spiced crabapples and anything else you have. We have 35 apple trees and while we sell some and give plenty away there are too many to be used up that are not fit for storing.

Amateur Farmer's Wife.

ANSWER:

Apple Butter

One peck tart apples, 2 quarts apple cider. Wash the apples well, cut and remove bruises and blemishes and place in large kettle without peeling. Add cider and boil until tender enough to press through sieve readily. Measure the pulp. To every quart of this tart apple pulp add 1 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon ground cloves. Place over low heat and boil for about 1 hour, stirring constantly — the consistency is slightly more liquid when it is hot than it will be when cold—so allow for this when judging consistency. Some apple butter makers cook it several hours in the oven to darken and thicken it and it does not require the constant stirring the top of stove method does. Fill into sterile pint jars while boiling hot, and seal.

Spiced Crabapples

Wash 3 lbs. sound crabapples and steam until almost tender but not cracked. Tie in a cheesecloth bag 2 tablespoons mixed pickling spices OR 1½ teaspoons cloves (whole), 1½ teaspoons allspice berries and 1½ teaspoons ginger root broken,—and put this in preserving kettle. Add 2 cups each cider vinegar and water, 1 cup sugar, and bring to boiling point. Add the crabapples and just simmer for 20 minutes. Turn off heat and let stand overnight. Remove apples by skimming out of syrup with sterile spoon, into sterile jars. Boil syrup until reduced by about half, and pour it boiling hot over the crabapples. Seal.

Apple Mint Jelly

Quarter sound washed apples and put in kettle and add enough water to barely cover and cook slowly until soft. Drain through jelly bag. Measure juice. Boil 20 minutes and add 2-3 as much sugar—that is to each 3 cups juice add 2 cups sugar. Boil 5 minutes or until you can obtain jelly test on cold saucer. For each cup of juice measured before sugar is added add 2 teaspoons mint extract. Colour with green vegetable colouring to a delicate sade of green. Pour into sterile jelly glasses and coat immediately with layer of hot paraffin, adding a second coat when cold.

QUESTION: Have you a recipe for a Fudge cake that calls for melted butter and squares of bitter chocolate? I had this but lost it—it is a rich chocolate cake.

Lorna.

ANSWER

Wellesley Fudge Cake

Melt 2 tablespoons butter and stir it into 2 beaten egg yolks. Melt 4 squares cooking chocolate. Add 2 cups sugar to the butter and egg yolks, beat well together. Add ½ cup milk. Sift together 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and add them alternately with another 1 cup milk. Beat well, then add 2 teaspoons vanilla and the chocolate. Fold in the 2 beaten egg whites. Bake at about 325 to 340 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes. If this cake is neglected it will burn more easily than the average chocolate cake.

DOROTHY DIX

Consult With Ex-Husbands About Thrice-Married Girl

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a son, 29 years of age, who is going with a divorcee 28 years old. She already has had three husbands and has four children, the eldest 12 years of age. I don't approve of this marriage. She tells me over the phone that my son is 29 and that I should let him alone and let him lead his own life. I want him to live his own life, but not with a woman like her.

Dorothy Dix

Her two younger children, one five years old and the other an 18-month-old baby, are being boarded out. Why should my son take on a readymade family? What do you think?

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER: I don't see how anyone could think that a woman who is only 28 years old and who already has had three husbands and three divorces is calculated to make a durable wife, to say nothing of her having the handicap of four children to be reared and educated.

Poor Chooser

Either the lady in question must be a poor picker of men if she made three bad bargains in so short a time, or she is of an exceptionally fickle nature herself, or else she is lacking in domestic instincts and cooking and baby-tending get on her nerves.

At any rate, I think your son will be very wise if he will contact the three ex-husbands and find out why she divorced them. Was it because they were drunkards, or philanderers, or because they just didn't make enough money to satisfy her tastes?

Certainly any man who is 29 years old has seen enough of the world and knows enough of life to realize what he is doing when he saddles himself with a readymade family and takes a sporting chance on a wife with a divorce complex; so his fate is on his own head, if he is Number Four.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am pretty sick and tired of hearing the returning hero complaining of how the gals have changed. According to him, none of them are worth anything. One piece of fluff is as good as another. Morals are ten below zero. Gentility and refinement a thing of the past. And the female population of the U.S. degenerated into a grasping, selfish lot of gold-diggers.

Did it ever occur to these characters that while they are so busy knocking the accentricities of women that they should examine themselves a little? Brother, have you changed! Where is that courteous, swell fellow? He is now a swaggering, don't-give-a-darn guy who doesn't give a rap for anyone but himself. A date is just something that can be kept or broken according to fancy. All girls are in the same sooty class, and if you don't like it—"Say, kid, we've been around" is the answer you will get.

Maybe all of this business is part of readjustment. I don't known. For my part, I will just take in that double-feature solo and read my magazines until I come across that courteous fellow I vaguely remember.

A GIRL

Livestock Show Best In Years As Lakefield Holds Its 97th Annual Exhibition

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 4 (ENS). — Lakefield's 97th annual exhibition got away to a good start Saturday when President Clarence Coons officially declared it open. Mr. Coons said that the livestock show was the best in many years. He introduced the master of ceremonies, Gordon Hancock, who acted as official announcer.

Replacing the usual horse races were saddle races, which proved an attraction, judging from the enthusiams with which they were received.

Gate receipts were reported to be slightly down from last year, but in many features this year's fair was superior. Entries in the baking were not quite as large as usual. The art, too, was not up to its usual standard, but in all other classes entries were well up to previous years, and in many cases better.

Car Hits Bridge Passenger Hurt

COBOURG, Oct. 4 — (ENS) — Jack Primeau was taken to Cobourg General Hospital, Saturday night, with a deep gash over the left eye and cut over the left ear received in an accident when the car in which he was a passenger struck a steel bridge east of Grafton.

Police said the driver of the car was Thomas Hogan of Cobourg who was uninjured. The car was a total wreck and the railing up the bridge was considerably damaged. Provincial Constables Lyle Erskine and Harry Wilson investigated.

Lift Press Blackout

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 4 — (AP). — The Peron government Saturday night temporarily restored to five foreign correspondents their right to send press messages. Their privileges had been suspended 12 hours earlier. The government explained neither action.

Dutch Executive Busy Secretary Brussels Treaty

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(Reuters).—Edward Star-Busmann, 44-year-old Netherlander, is one of the busiest men in Europe today as general secretary to the permanent commission of the five-country Brussels defence treaty.

Grappling with the details of Western Europe's defence plans, the tall, red-hair Star Busmann will probably be still busied for a long time to come.

Not only is he responsible to his own government, but to Britain, France, Belgium and Luxembourg—and still he finds the job a pleasant one.

All Have Same Ideas

"It is not difficult to work for them all," he said in an interview. "They all have the same ideas, the same frame of kind, the same civilization."

Few men so young are better equipped to speak of European civilization. Educated in the classics of Holland, Star-Busmann read law at the University of Utrecht and later in Paris. There he became steeped in the centuries-old traditions and culture of the European continent.

Then after entering the Dutch diplomatic service, "because of a love for history," he served in Berlin, Paris, Copenhagen and South Africa, acquiring faultless knowledge of French, German and English.

Star-Busmann is idealist enough to dream of expanding the Western Union to include all "like-minded nations in Europe."

"First, however, we feel that concrete results should be achieved by the original five members," he said. The union should be consolidated now before any new members are brought in.

"Later, Western Union might form the nucleus of a federation or confederation of Europe just as the Benelux Union (Belgium, Netherlands, Luxembourg) has been the nucleus for Western Union," he added.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

GIVE HIM EVERY CHANCE

TOP-RANK players are now agreed upon the best way to open the bidding with a hand not quite strong enough for an opening game-strength suit bid of two, but which contains three biddable suits and a singleton. Regardless of which may be the singleton suit, they start the ball rolling with a call of 1-Club when they hold such a powerhouse. That makes it easy for the partner to show a biddable holding in any of the opener's suits, and if he does the opener then can jump at once to game in it.

This deal was produced by the shuffle for a duplicate tournament, in which those who made the expert opening of 1-Club were tied for top score on the board, for all of them made the contract and all except one careless declarer scored an extra trick. Those who bid according to the old-fashioned procedure, opening with 1 Spade and intending on succeeding turns to be prepared for bids of hearts and then diamonds, found themselves left in some [illegible] spot.

With three suits of four cards in a hand of bare borderline strength, it usually is best to open with a suit immediately beneath the singleton, since the partner's most likely response is in the suit in which the bidder has the fewest cards. In other words, if the singleton is in spades, a heart opening is usually best; if in hearts, a diamond call; if in diamonds, 1-Club; if in clubs, 1-Spade. With a hand of quite good strength, most good players would rather open with their highest raking four-carder and follow with the other suits in descending order.

This idea of opening extremely powerful hands, just under two-bid strength, with 1-Club, regardless of what may be the three suits, was first introduced six years ago by Cecil Head of New York, who now holds the Masters Pairs championship, partnered with S. Garton Churchill.

Watch Power In Use Today

Peterborough's power consumption Sunday was 170,000 kwh., the same as on Sunday Sept. 26. The previous Sunday's figure was 224,000 and on the 12th 164,000.

But, all that is water over the dam, or rather under it. Utilities Commission was anxious about today's register, and particularly the effect of the industrial switch from Monday to Saturday.

The local power quota is 240,000 kwh. for each of the five days from Monday to Friday inclusive. If Peterborough succeeds in reducing its power use to 240,000 kwh. today it should escape the summary control Hydro is threatening in periodic breaks every hour, from dawn to dark.

Every household and store and factory in the city will be effected by official pulling of switches, if the worst occurs. That means they are affected now, or should be, by voluntary saving in the use of lights and appliances.

Utilities Commission is hoping to avoid any further industrial disturbance, and especially any reduction in the hours of employment.

William Lyburn Dies Veteran Of 21st Btn.

William Lyburn, 74, formerly of 374 McDonnel St., died Sunday at DVA Hospital, Kingston, following a lengthy illness. He was born in Scotland, son of the late Alexander Lyburn and Martha Allen. His wife, the former Jean Fraser, predeceased him in 1941. Mr. Lyburn resided in Peterborough for 23 years, when 12 years ago he was hospitalized in DVA hospitals in this city and in Kingston. There are no immediate survivors.

Mr. Lyburn was employed as a weaver for some years at the Peterborough - Brinton Carpet Company and also worked for the old Turnbull Company. He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, an elder, roll clerk of the session for several years, and taught in the Sunday School. He was also interested in Men's Association and was prominent in Boy Scout circles.

He was a veteran of World War I, enlisting with the 59th Regiment in Peterborough. He was drafted overseas to the 21st Battalion and was wounded at the Battle of the Somme. His war wounds caused almost permanent disability.

Funeral service will be held at Comstock Funeral Home on Wednesday at 2 p.m., and the Rev. C. G. Boyd will officiate. Burial will be at Little Lake Cemetery.

Suspend Sentence In Hotel Cheque Case

Leslie Arbaham, no fixed address, on a plea of guilty to a charge of passing a worthless cheque, was today given a suspended sentence of one year by Magistrate Philp.

It was charged that last February he defrauded the Empress Hotel of $15 by writing a cheque on a local bank in which he had no account.

When he appeared in Police Court he at first pleaded not guilty and claimed that the whole matter was a mistake and restitution had been made. When Crown Attorney McElderry agreed that financial restitution had been made, and informed the magistrate that a suspended sentence would be satisfactory to the Crown, Abraham changed his plea to guilty.

Wheat Market Issue Causes Sharp Debate

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP)—A contentious resolution outlining party policies on agriculture came before the Progressive Conservative national convention again today with prairie delegates at logger-heads over the delicate issue of state marketing of wheat.

One of thet main planks in a party platform now in the making, the resolution was submitted to approval Friday and promptly ran into opposition which led the convention chairman to refer it to this later session for consideration.

The resolution said the party would favor a return to the pre-war basis under which the Canadian Wheat Board guaranteed to all producers the right to market wheat or other grains "by any other means" than by the present method of compulsory sale to the Board.

Opposes Grain Exchange

This would mean the re-opening of the Winnipeg grain exchange to wheat marketing.

A. Haarstad of Bently, Alta., said that if the convention went on record as favoring the re-opening of the Winnipeg grain exchange he, for one, would have to go back home "and hand in my resignation."

W. J. Wilde of Red Deer, Alta., said that the farmers of Alberta were opposed to the open market system "because the wheat producers of western Canada hope that a more acceptable means can be found for marketing this most important of all our natural products."

"Another reason why we are opposed to it (the grain exchange) is because of the speculative and uncertain effects that it has upon producers."

Admit Reds Encircle Key Point In North

PEIPING, Oct. 4—(AP)—Pro-Government reports today said that Chinhsien, important Manchurian city 105 miles north of the Great Wall, had at last been encircled by Communist troops.

Chinhsien, northern rail terminus of the combined railway and air-lift supply route to Mukden, has been a major objective in the Red drive to cut the Manchurian corridor.

The airport, four miles north of the city, was reported still held by a small Nationalist garrison, but surrounding Red artillery recently has prevented its use by the Mukden air lift.

Friends Give Party For Marmora Family

MARMORA, Oct. 4—(ENS)—About 30 friends and neighbors of Mrs. T. J. Byrnes assembled at Tipperary Hotel, Crowe Lake, Thursday evening for a farewell party, prior to her departure for Oshawa where she has purchased a home.

Cards were played and Mrs. James McGrath led in a singsong. Mrs. Byrnes was presented with a table lamp and end table. Timmy received a bed lamp. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Byrnes and son Timmy with the former's mother, Mrs. M. McGrath are leaving Monday for their new home. Mr. James Byrnes is at present residing in Oshawa.

Christ Church Campbellford Is Redecorated

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 4—(ENS)—Christ (Anglican) church Campbellford, has been completely redecorated after a lapse of 35 years. The design and color sketch was prepared by one of Canada's outstanding ecclesiastical artists and lecturer in art at Toronto University, Mr. Gustav Hahn, RCA, OSA.

The job was entrusted to one of Canada's most prominent church decorating contractors, J. O. Dougall, Toronto, who for many years have been engaged in this kind of work, in all parts of Canada.

A new heating system has also been installed and as a result of a canvass made during the month of August sufficient funds were received or promised to meet the total cost.

The church was re-opened with special services on Sunday, Sept. 19 and Sunday, Sept. 26. On Sept. 19 Harvest Thanksgiving was also observed and Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's, Peterborough, was the special preacher. At the evening service the rector, Rev. W. J. Le[illegible]x, gave the sermon.

Sept. 26 was a day of re-dedication, the rector preaching at the 11 a.m. family service. The Rev. H. R. Hunt, rector of St. John's, Toronto and Rural Dean of Toronto West Deanery, was the special preacher at the evening service.

On Monday, Sept. 20 140 members enjoyed the excellent supper prepared by the Chi Rho Society.

The history of Christ church parish dates back to 1835 and that of the church to 1854.

Won't Ban Catapults

Won't Permit Kisses Measured

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 2 (CP).—Science received a setback Friday when a machine, built by ingenious medical students to measure the intensity of kisses, was banned by school authorities on the verge of its first public appearance.

It had been planned to try it out at a frosh dance in Port Stanley but students said Dean J. B. Collip turned thumbs down on the proposal.

"The machine is to test the strength of the ordicularis oris muscle (lips to laymen)" explained a student.

"An electrode is placed between the lips of the couple and the tension during osculation is measured in alpha waves a second."

He said that if any "specialized" type of kissing was indulged in, the machine hoisted a red flag and a sign saying "tilt."

Query Britain On Obligations

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—American delegates to the International Monetary Conference have been quietly sounding out Britain on her obligations under the $3,750,000,000 loan from the United States.

Closed conferences have been taking place between sessions of the governing boards of the world bank and the International Monetary Fund, diplomatic officials disclosed.

The hub of the British-American talks is the requirement in the British loan agreement that Britain make the pound sterling freely convertible into dollars in foreign exchange. This requirement was waived temporarily last year with American consent.

Britain attempted to make good on the requirement in July of last year, but the effort quickly brought on the British "dollar crisis."

The rush of other countries to convert their unspendable pounds into dollars almost exhausted what was left of the loan and caused such a drain on Britain's dollar reserves that top British officials flew to Washington for help. The waiver agreement followed.

American officials said privately they have no hope in the present meetings of pinning down a date when convertibility can be resumed.

W.M.S. Entertains Baby Band, Mothers

OMEMEE, Oct. 4—(ENS)—The Omemee Trinity United Church WMS entertained the Baby Band and their mothers Thursday in the church basement. Eighteen mothers were present with 28 children up to five years of age.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. M. J. Sandy. Mrs. V. Lang, who presided, welcomed the guests, and Mrs. H. Deyell, Baby Band superintendent, gave a brief report of the year's work.

The address by the Lindsay Presbyterial Baby Band secretary, Mrs. Worsley of Cameron, was enjoyed. Mrs. Worsley's topic was "The Jesus Way of Life," and the interpretation by means of simple illustrations was adapted to very young children. This was followed by a duet, "Tell Me the Stories of Jesus," sung by Mrs. T. J. Pogue and Mrs. W. D. Weir.

Graduation exercises were conducted by Mrs Deyell. The five children eligible for Mission Band membership were received by Mrs. R. Brooks, Mission Band superintendent.

At the close of the program gingerbread men and sandwiches were served.

Russ Offer Cheers McNaughton

If Plan Not Sincere Then 2 Years' Work Has Been In Vain

PARIS, Oct. 5 — (CP). — Canada and Australia said to-day that Russia's compromise offer on atomic control marks an important step forward "if sincere."

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada said if the Russian plan, calling up simultaneous banning of the atomic bomb and setting up of an international control body, means Russia is willing to establish control in the sense of the majority reports of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, then "all is plain sailing."

Speaking in the United Nations Assembly's Political Council, McNaughton told delegates, including Andre Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, that he shared the "perplexity expressed Monday by Warren Austin, United States delegate, regarding the exact meaning of the Vishinsky resolution.

Work Waster.

If the Vishinsky resolution does not mean acceptance of the commission's majority reports, then "all the work which has been done for 2½ years is discarded, and we must start again to retraverse the ground already covered in the vain hope that in regard to the points where we then failed to obtain the assent of the Soviet Union we now could achieve this much-desired agreement."

Lt.-Col. William Hodgson of Australia said although he can not accept the Soviet proposal as it now stands it nevertheless shows that progress has been made.

"The great enemy to be encountered is not the particular instruments of war, but war itself. We want to ban war."

McNaughton demanded approval of the Canadian proposal to send the Atomic Energy Commission back to work drafting a treaty based on western proposals to control the atom.

Speaking of the Vishinsky resolution, he said:

"If these words meant what they ordinarily mean in the conventional usage of our language," he said, "then I would say . . . the choice between two conventions or one would only be a drafting matter of no difficulty or concern."

"Discarded"

But if the Vishinsky resolution Saturday did not mean acceptance of the three reports of the Atomic Energy Commission, then "all the work which has been done for 2½

3 Dead, Hundreds Injured Hurricane Lashes Havana

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 5—(AP).—A vicious hurricane that killed at least three persons and injured many others in Havana, Cuba, blasted Key West today with winds reported to have reached a peak velocity of 132 miles an hour. Communications southward over the Florida Keys were failing, but David Newton, Miami Daily News correspondent, messaged at noon:

"Indications are that eye of storm will pass just east of Key West. Highest wind reported so far is 132 miles per hour."

Circuits to hard-hit Havana went out at noon.

Storm forecasters described the storm as "small, but plenty tough." It is moving along fairly fast, causing winds to increase swiftly to destructive force as the centre approaches.

Preliminary reports indicated several hundred persons were injured in Havana.

Communications were out between Havana and Piner Del Rio in the western Cuba cigar tobacco area, which apparently was in the path of the storm.

Jose Aloyo Maldonado, Associated Press reporter in Havana, said "It appears there were several hundred persons injured in Havana alone." Property damage in Havana was heavy, and glass litters Avenida De Italia, better known as Galeano, in the heart of the business district.

"Business houses on San Rafael and other streets in the downtown business area suffered heavy damage. . . ."

Moving North-East

The weather bureau said the storm is travelling about 15 miles an hour in a northeasterly direction.

The hurricane followed almost exactly the same course as the storm of mid-September.

The present course will bring the centre near Key West by noon, and Miami by late afternoon or early tonight, chief forecaster Grady Norton said.

Norton said five inches or more of rain would fall along the hurricane route.

Havana streets were patrolled by heavy detachments of police, firing pistols into the air to warn would-be looters. Several rivers were reported overflowing their banks in Pinar Del Rio province.

Heavy clouds hung over Miami with an almost constant rain pelting the city.

Chiefs-of-Staff Continue Talks

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Chiefs-of-staff of the five countries of the Western European Alliance met here today to continue the task of co-ordinating their defences.

Lord Tedder, chief of the air staff, presided over the meeting of the military chiefs of Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The session was arranged prior to Monday night's formal announcement of the appointment of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as permanent military chairman of the alliance's defence council.

Viscount Montgomery is expected to resign shortly as chief of the imperial general staff. Speculation on a successor to that post has been fixed largely on general Sir John Crocker, 52, British commander-in-chief in the Middle East.

Security Council Debates Berlin, Russia Boycotts

PARIS, Oct. 5 (CP)—The Security Council voted today to discuss the Berlin crisis. Russia immediately boycotted the proceedings.

The vote to take up the Western powers' charges was nine to two, the same as that by which the Security Council in 1946 decided to take up the Iran case. That decision led to a temporary Russian walk-out from the United Nations.

Today Russia's Andrei Vishinsky refused to say whether he will attend tomorrow's sessions, but made it clear Russia will not take part in the debate.

The Soviet Ukraine joined the Soviet Union in voting against placing the Berlin issue on the calendar. Immediately Vishinsky told the council:

"The Soviet Union considers that the Security Council, by agreeing to put the Berlin question on its agenda, has violated the charter of the United Nations."

Only Russia and the Soviet Ukraine voted against discussing the Berlin crisis. A majority of seven affirmative votes was required.

Vishinsky said the adoption of the agenda was a violation of the United Nations charter, specifically of Article 107.

Dmitri Manuilsky of the Ukraine then announced that he also will refuse to participate in the debate on Berlin, "for the reasons outlined by the Soviet delegate."

Council President Juan Atilio Bramuglia of Argentina then adjourned the Council at 5.30 p.m. (11.30 a.m. EST) with the announcement that there would be two meetings tomorrow.

Dismiss Motion To Free Seamen

WELLAND, Oct. 5 — (CP). — County Court Judge H. E. Fuller today dismissed a motion by defence counsel George Bagwell for the quashing of the conviction of three members of the Canadian Seamen's Union on the ground that neither the information nor conviction showed an offence in law.

The judge ruled the information disclosed all elements of the offence.

The defence then resorted to trial De Novo for Nick Sawchuk, Louis Schmaltz and Joe Miller, all of Thorold, Ont. (Trial De Novo is the appeal procedure in which all the evidence is presented afresh before a county court judge.)

On Raft 35 Hours, Save Doctor, Son Gone

VICTORIA, Oct. 5. — CP). — After clinging to a life raft for 35 hours, Dr. H. A. McLean, head of the Nootka Mission Hospital, was rescued off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

He reported the loss of the Messenger II, sturdy little mission and hospital ship, and the disappearance of his 14-year-old son, Bruce, presumably swept overboard on Monday.

Retrial On Libel Case Ruled By Supreme Court

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 — (CP). — The Supreme Court of Canada today upheld an Ontario appeal court judgment ordering a new trial in a libel suit brought against the Toronto Daily Star by Premier Drew of Ontario.

The court dismissed with costs an appeal by the Star against the Ontario court's decision and agreed with the reasons of Chief Justice Robertson of Ontario that there should be a new trial in the "Gestapo" libel case.

The Star and its publisher, the late J. E. Atkinson, had appealed to the Supreme Court against an Ontario Appeal Court order for a retrial of the libel action brought by Premier Drew. The original trial court found that the Ontario Premier had not been libelled by the Star.

The case arose from editorials the Star published during the 1945 Ontario election campaign, dealing with provincial C.C.F. leader E. B. Jolliffe's charges that the Drew government maintained a "gestapo."

The appeal to the Supreme Court was heard last April 8-8. The Star was represented by E. N. Phelan; Mr. Drew by J. R. Cartwright.

During the Supreme Court hearings Mr. Phelan dealt with the appeal court's ruling that he had not introduced evidence in the original trial in March, 1947, to prove the circumstances surrounding publication of the editorials. The Star claimed for them the protection of "qualified privilege" — a defence against libel.

Mr. Cartwright contended that the Star's editorials were not privileged, could not be protected by the plea of "fair comment" and libelled Mr. Drew. He argued that it had been the law of England and the Empire since 1838 that privilege ceased to be a defence against libel in cases arising out of election campaigns when statements were published in the press.

Locate Four Missing On Boat

BELLE RIVER, Ont., Oct. 5 — (CP). — Four Kent county residents, missing on Lake St. Clair since Saturday, were located today three miles northeast of here. Belle River is 18 miles east of Windsor.

A widespread search had been underway for the two couples whose yacht was unreported for more than two days.

Aboard the craft were:

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bedell, Harwich township; Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Meredith, Ridgetown.

The party left Mitchell's Bay Yacht Club on Lake St. Clair Saturday bound for St. Clemens, Mich., where they intended to spend the week-end. Friends in Mt. Clemens said the motor yacht, Gloria, owned by Bedell, failed to arrive. It should have arrived by Sunday.

June Baker Visiting, Police Told

Intensive Search For Toronto Girl Ends As 'Tip' Given

OTTAWA, Oct. 5 — (CP). — Ontario Provincial Police said today that June Baker, 21-year-old Toronto University student missing since last Thursday, has been located in Ottawa.

"Miss Baker is safe and unharmed," said a constable at the local detachment.

He told The Canadian Press that Provincial Police authorities in Toronto are being checked by telephone before details are released.

He declined to elaborate, pending completion of the phone conversation with headquarters in Toronto.

However, as news of Miss Baker's "discovery" spread through downtown Ottawa, there were unconfirmed reports that the attractive girl had been located in a Bank St. restaurant.

She was working as a waitress, one report said.

The statement by provincial police here followed an announcement by Toronto police that Miss Baker had been found in Ottawa at the home of friends.

There was no confirmation here of that report.

The Toronto police statement, in turn, had followed an announcement by Paul Baker, the girl's father, that he had a "hot tip" that June was alive and well, although "in very nervous condition."

It had been feared that Miss Baker, a medical student, had met with foul play. But Toronto police said Monday there was a possibility she had considered giving up her medical studies and had decided to take a trip to think it over. They admitted, however, that there was little basis for that theory.

A member of the Baker family said today that Mr. and Mrs. Baker would leave here today "to go to June."

Baker, after making a radio appeal for clues, offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to the return of his daughter.

Boy Friend Influence

Police said they believed the fact that Murray Day, regarded by her family as her steady boy friend, was on his way to becoming a doctor might have influenced the girl to give up her medical studies on the grounds that one doctor in the family was enough.

Police said they learned that the girl was not entirely happy in the medical work, that the tedious work of last year and the concentrated studies of the term just started were bothering her.

A police appeal went last night to all hospitals, private rest homes, rooming houses, bus drivers and street car operators to notify Toronto police if they have seen the missing girl.

Fire Threatens To Hit Hamlet

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5 (CP)—The forest fire threat to the north-central Manitoba town of Riverton was believed over today after 24 hours of continuous flame combat work done by more than 100 volunteers and experienced fire fighters.

Another bush fire, however, was moving in the direction of a settlement of 350 persons on the shore of Hecla Island in Lake Winnipeg, with observers predicting a west wind would spell ruin for the hamlet.

Fire fighting equipment was flown to the vicinity Monday and an overnight vigil maintained by residents of the little settlement.

The bush fire which Monday had been sweeping down toward Riverton, causing alarm to its 1,000 inhabitants, was described as "under control" late Monday night after school children had spent the day working alongside their parents in a last-ditch attempt to quell the flaming brush. Riverton is 90 miles north of Winnipeg.

More 'Buzzing'

BERLIN, Oct. 5 (Reuters). A British Tudor aircraft was "buzzed" by a Russian Yak fighter Monday in the Hamburg-Berlin air corridor. The British chief controller at the Berlin air safety centre has handed a written note of protest to his Soviet opposite number.

Varcoe Argues Margarine Ban Parliament Job

OTTAWA, Oct. 5—(CP).—F. P. Varcoe, Deputy Minister of Justice, argued today that the 62-year-old ban against margarine is within the jurisdiction of parliament.

He was opening the Dominion's case before Chief Justice Thibaudean Rinfret and a full bench of seven judges of the Supreme Court of Canada on a Federal Government request that the court rule on the validity of legislation which has kept margarine from the Canadian dinner table for 62 years.

Mr. Varcoe held that the question was beyond provincial jurisdiction because it goes farther than provincial concern.

"A province," he said, "could not prohibit importation.

Not Provincial Job

"A province could not exclude inter - provincial transactions. Since some provinces produce more butter than they require and others less, a uniform scheme would not be adopted by all nine provinces.

"The province could not prohibit manufacture except for local use. The province could not prohibit importation interprovincially or otherwise. If provincial legislation alone existed, there could still be margarine manufactured in Canada for export and for interprovincial trade.

"So margarine would be available for substitution or aduleration and the existence of margarine factories might endanger the system now in vogue."

Also arguing for retention will be the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, pro - margarine groups, whose representations will be heard later, contend the legislation invades the field of property and civil rights granted the provinces under the British North America Act.

Mr. Varcoe said the legislation was aimed at "a uniform rule throughout Canada to protect and secure the production of milk and milk products which branch of agriculture, in the opinion of parliament, would suffer under competition with butter substitutes such as oleomargarine."

He said butter production accounted for approximately one-third of the income of Canada's dairy industry. The cost of dairy products in Canada was excessive compared with other countries because herds had to be stabled for half the year because of winter conditions.

Opposed to the ban are the province of Quebec, the Canadian Association of Consumers, L'Association Canadienne Des Electrices and Senator W. D. Euler, the Liberal Senator from Ontario who has been trying to lift the ban for some years.

The hearing is expected to last two days, after which the court

Call For Railway Strike, French Miners Still Out

PARIS, Oct. 5 (Reuters)—The Communist - led Confederation du Travail today ordered a general strike on all French National railroads in the Moselle department of Eastern France, as the national strike of 335,000 French miners entered its second day.

Strike pickets took up posts in the Metz railroad station, where only through trains continued to run. In Thionville and in the yards at Basse-Yutz all traffic stopped, agence France-Presse said.

While C.G.T. members stopped work, railroad workers belonging to the non-Communist force Ouvriere and Christian Trade Union stayed at their posts.

A Union meeting later was expected to decide on the duration of the strike.

A government official today predicted trouble in the coal strike.

Jean Souvraz, top aide to the Prefect of Nord Department, told reporters:

"These things always go quietly at first. It is different after the people begin to think of going hungry and when there are a constant succession of meetings to keep them excited. Watch for trouble after a few days."

No immediate solution was in sight for the strike, France's biggest work stoppage this year.

Communist leaders who called the strike want the government to reverse a decision to cut the pay of government employees, including miners, by eight per cent.

Each day the strike continues, the European recovery program loses between 145,000 to 170,000 tons of coal.

British Communists Heckle Recruiting Drive, Interrupt Eden Speech

Woman, 11 Men Held After Demonstration During Alexander Recruiting Drive; Anti-War Leaflets Make Appearance All Over

By MICHAEL O'MARA

LONDON, Oct. 5—(CP).—Communists who have served warning that they will fight the Government's present preparedness recruiting drive were active again today. Hecklers shouting Communist slogans demonstrated at a territorial army recruiting rally today for the third time in two days. Anthony Eden, deputy Conservative leader, was the rally speaker. The hecklers distributed Pacifist handbills. Mounted police and plain clothes men who mingled with the crowd broke up the demonstration. Three men were arrested.

A woman and 11 men, arrested after a demonstration while Defence Minister A. V. Alexander campaigned Monday, were brought into court today on charges ranging from illegal distribution of handbills, to threatening a breach of the peace.

The woman, student Sylvia Elizabeth Singer, 24, was discharged. Four of the men were placed under bond to keep the peace for six months and one of them also was fined five shillings ($1).

The remaining seven were held for trial.

About the same time Eden was speaking, a group entered the monument museum in the city of London and showered anti-war leaflets from its 202-foot high platform.

West Ahead

Eden did not allow the disturbance to stop his speech. Appealing for non-partisan support for the recruiting drive, he said:

"This is not an issue on which the Communists have any right to be heard. In 1940, when we stood alone, the Communists would give us no help. But if this country had gone down in 1940, where would the world be now and where would Communism be now?"

A handbill favorite bears a picture of an atomic bomb explosion and the words "Fall in for This? Not——likely!"

At one major recruiting rally Monday at London's Mansion House in the heart of the City, they showered defence minister A. V. Alexander with this and similar leaflets in a stormy scene. Banner were raised and two men climbed onto a balcony from which Alexander was addressing noonday crowds.

Airliner Crash-Lands 23 Aboard, None Hurt

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 5—(AP).—A chartered airliner bound for Puerto Rico with 23 persons aboard crash-landed in the surf near a lonely Bahamas Island early Monday after running out of gasoline. There were no severe injuries.

Two coast guard rescue planes alighted near the downed twin-engined transport to bring the 19 passengers and crew of four to Miami.

Lights Blink Today In Many Ontario Centres

TORONTO, Oct. 5. —(CP). — Lights started to flick off in Southern Ontario today as Belleville pulled switches to conserve power. The cut off lasted for an hour from 6.30 a.m. EST.

Toronto will shut off power Wednesday — first step in a program that will inaugurate blackouts—up to ½ hour duration — on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings

Hydro officials in Ottawa said that electricity may be cut today in the Dominion's capital. If necessary, feeders will be discontinued at various times between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., according to zon. The Commission has not set definite days for cut-offs.

Cut-Offs in Lindsay

Authorities in Stratford, Belleville, Lindsay, Preston and Tavistock also planned to begin daily cut-offs today.

Hamilton, Kitchener, St. Thomas, Niagara Falls and Galt officials reported their consumers had voluntarily rationed their power well enough to prevent immediate compulsory blackouts.

Latest reports from the Ontario Hydro Commission in Toronto Monday night showed that power demands all over the province increased six per cent — or 120,574 kilowatt hours — during August.

Dave Archer, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said Federation members would demand extra pay for week-ends and overtime work made necessary by staggered hours to save power.

Brantford church groups Monday protested against Sunday work.

In Niagara Falls, Ont., city officials said the city's tourist industry will suffer unless the mighty Niagara cataract is illuminated. They suggested electricity to light the falls be brought from the United States.

Northern Fires 'Under Control'

BLIND RIVER, Oct. 5 (CP)—After a two-day lull, the big Grasett township forest fire near here roared to life again Monday and ravaged 10 acres in a few minutes.

The largest of 19 bush blazes in the Blind River-Sault Ste. Marie area of Northern Ontario, it covered more than 800 acres Monday night and was still spreading.

Aircraft flew in emergency crews to the fire scene, boosting the number of firefighters in Grasett to about 185. Forestry officials said rocky terrain hampered fire fighting methods.

Three new fires broke out in the same district Monday, but all were reported under control.

Kingston Man Found Safe After 6 Days

TORONTO, Oct. 5.— (CP).— Donald McIntosh, 23, missing from his home here since Sept. 29, was found alive and well at Kingston, police said. Police here were unable to explain his disappearance.

His wife said McIntosh had telephoned her to say he would be home soon but never arrived. She said earlier she believed he had met with foul play or was a victim of amnesia.

Soviet Warns Planning 'Parachute Practise' In Berlin Air Corridor

May Be Part Of Fall Military Manoeuvres, Do Not Indicate Details Of Exercise
West Expects No Early Easing Of Blockade

BERLIN, Oct. 5—(AP).—The Russians today notified the Western Powers that they plan parachute practice in the air corridor used by British and United States planes supplying blockaded Berlin. The Soviet warning, posted in the four-power Berlin air safety centre, said the drill was to begin today from a 2,500-foot altitude. The notice did not specify how many men or planes were involved or how long the exercises would last. The locale stipulated is in the Bueckeburg-Berlin corridor, used by all airlift planes on their return flight to western Germany.

The exercises may be part of Soviet fall military manoeuvres which German reports had said were set for early October.

Protest Buzzing

Meanwhile, Britain handed the Russians a protest over Monday's buzzing of a British air-lift plane by a Yak fighter.

The protest said the Russian plane dived within 200 feet of the transport in the northern air corridor about 40 miles west of Berlin.

The western powers gave renewed indication they expect no early lifting of the Soviet land blockade, by ordering the withdrawal of some 500 railroad cars of coal which had been standing for weeks at the British-Soviet zone frontiers ready to roll if the ban was raised.

The trains now have been pulled back to the west and some of their coal cargoes taken for the air lift.

Gen Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor, said Britain and the United States can keep up the air lift for two years if it is necessary to continue it "until economic recovery restores the stability of Europe."

Elections Delayed

Berlin City officials told reporters last night that municipal elections will not be held Nov. 14 as scheduled, because the Russians have refused to permit the printing of posters and election regulations in the Soviet sector.

The anti-Communist city assembly decided Sept. 6 to hold municipal elections. The decision was opposed by both the German Communists and the Russians. City officials said the assembly will consider the question of setting a new date for the balloting.

Clay pointed out in his interview that since the Russians forced Britain and the United States to supply western Berlin by air more than 100 days ago the combined air forces have hauled in 231,191 tons of food and coal to the blockaded city.

Clay indicated he thought western European recovery would in itself snap any blockade because it then would be necessary for the east to re-establish trade.

Typhoon Kills 800 In China

CANTON, Oct. 5—(AP).—Press dispatches reaching here today said 800 persons were killed when a typhoon struck Leichow Peninsula and the Pakhoi, Kwangchouwan and Hoihow areas Sept. 27.

The reports said 600 persons perished when the typhoon sank more than 100 fishing boats near Lichow. Another 200 were killed when 70 salt-laden sailing junks were destroyed near Pakhoi.

Heavy damage and casualties also were inflicted by torrential rains which inundated the area around Hainan Island.

Minor Price Changes On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—(CP). — Base metals made the best showing in dull trading marked by only minor changes and a narrow showing of issues on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Even the base metals were uncertain, with a number of minus signs and some issues losing part of earlier gains.

Quemont gained ½. Noranda was unchanged, and Mining Corporation off ¼ after an earlier gain. In addition to Mining Corporation, active trading companies were Buffalo Ankerite, up 29 cents, Lake Dufault, up 3, and Omnitrans, up ¼. Smelters gained 2, and Hudson Bay 2¼. Nickel lost ¼ and Falconbridge 20 cents.

Western oils were lightly traded with Calgary and Edmonton down 10 and Home slightly up.

Bell Telephone New gained ¼ among industrials but most issues traded were unchanged or down slightly.

Active gold gainers included Eldona, down 3.

Hard To Decide

KINGSTON, Ont. — (CP). — A youth sentenced here to six months in reformatory for theft told the magistrate he quit his job because he didn't like it. "It's better than jail, isn't it?" asked the judge. "I don't know about that," the youth replied.

Assault Charge Follows Fight At Fair

Hugh Stewart, farmer and livestocker breeder was today found guilty of assault occasioning bodily harm on Albert E. Thompson, Park St. and he was fined $100 and approximately $40 costs by Magistrate Philp.

The alleged assault is said to have taken place just outside the east doors of the horse barns on the closing day of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. According to witnesses, as well as his own testimony, Stewart knocked Thompson to the ground after a bet had been placed on the result of the free-for-all pacing event to come later in the evening.

According to Stewart's testimony he had been warned by Dr. A. M. Johnston, veterinary surgeon that threats had been made against him by some of the horsemen because of his ruling that there was to be no drinking of liquor in the horse barns.

Stewart said that when he went to the stables he met Thompson there in a drunken condition and that Thompson insisted upon betting $5 that Stewart's horse, Stewart Worth, would be defeated by Blacklock, owned by Thomas Fritz of Brighton.

Bets Taken

Stewart said he asked Thompson to bet some larger sums if he wanted to bet and told him to go away. Finally, he said, he consented to Thompson's request and both gave the money to Stanley Blewett, a Peterborough horseman, as stakeholder.

"Then I gave him a shove and told him to stay away," said Stewart. And he declared that Thompson came toward him "with a mean look on his face."

When Thompson came up to him again Stewart said he hit him twice, once on the jaw and once on the ear. Thompson went down, he said, and he walked away.

Crown Attorney McElderry gained the admission from Stewart that he did not feel in physical danger when Thompson came up to him. The Crown Attorney pointed to the discrepancy in height and weight between the two men as confirmation of this.

Struck in Mouth

Giving his testimony Thompson said that he had made the bet with Stewart that Blacklock would beat Stewart Worthy. "The next thing I knew I got a fist in the mouth," he said. "I've got a lump there yet."

He said that he was in somewhat of a daze after this but remembers being taken to the office of Dr. Raymore Scott.

When asked if he knew of any provocation on his part, Thompson said no. And he added "I've never had a fight since I was a child."

According to Dr. Raymore Scott who was called to the witness box, Thompson, when brought to his office was badly cut about the face. He had a long split in his right ear and it was later learned that his ear drum had been punctured. His chin was scraped, his lips were swollen and he complained of bodily pains. A subsequent X-ray revealed one fractured rib, Dr. Scott said.

The next day Stewart went to Thompson's house "to apologize." According to Stewart, the injured man offered to settle out of court if he were given the race horse Stewart Worthy. Stewart said he laughed at this and refused, and then Thompson said according to Stewart, he would be agreeable if Stewart would pay the bills.

Thompson said he had consumed a half pint of beer in the barns at one time during the week but nothing else. And he claimed that on the night of the alleged assault he had consumed a pint of beer before coming down to the exhibition, and he was not drunk.

Ira J. Fallis, Omemee, swore that Stewart struck Thompson with his fist, then he hit Fritz, knocking him down. After this he hit Thompson again, also knocking him down.

Fallis claimed that afterward the police came over to the barns where Thompson was having his ear washed out and informed him that he was drunk and he had 15 minutes within which to leave the grounds.

Magistrate Philp said that while Thompson may have been bothersome the force used by Stewart was out of proportion to the occasion. He found Stewart guilty and fined him $100.

On a second charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm on Thomas Fritz of Brighton, Stewart was found guilty and fined $20 and $8.50 costs. T. J. Carley, KC, represented Stewart in both cases.

years is discarded and we must start again to retraverse the ground already covered in the vain hope that in regard to the points where we then failed to obtain the assent of the Soviet Union we now could achieve this much-desired agreement."

McNaughton spoke in the political committee as the Security Council prepared to meet in the second round of the Berlin dispute. Monday Vishinsky opposed a Security Council hearing on the Soviet Berlin blockade when he spoke at the Council's opening session on the question. He said Russia could not be a party to what he declared would be an illegal move, adding that the dispute was a matter for the four-power foreign ministers to handle, and not the U.N.

McNaughton added that the truth could not be said to lie between two extremes. "It isn't a question of compromise on principles," he said. "What we need is what is precisely right and necessary—nothing more and nothing less—and in the considered judgment of the majority of the Commission this is what we have given you in our three reports.

Reports Basic Principles

"These reports define the principles which are basic. They are free and flexible as regards details which still must be worked out."

McNaughton opened by answering a question raised Monday by the Indian delegation as to whether adoption of the Canadian resolution approving the majority reports would mean that the Commission could proceed with its work and complete a draft treaty.

He said the answer was "yes—if" and "if" referred to whether or not the resolution, when voted on in the General Assembly, received the support of at substantial majority of members "including all those nations which are endowed with great power in this world."

Drafting Not Difficult

Granted such a favorable decision, there would be no difficulty in drafting a treaty. The Commission's principles were so clear and precise that the details could be completed quickly.

During the atomic debate, Dr. Vlado Clementis, Czech minister of foreign affairs, said that, despite the Canadian stand, 'our attitude is one of suspicion."

He accused the majority of exerting "unqualified pressure" to obtain adoption of the Canadian proposal, but added that "we must do all possible to keep the road open to further negotiation."

British Communists

The Communist Daily Worker reported the demonstrations had been "organized by the London Communist Party." The newspaper said those arrested included "ex-army officers" and that the demonstration had taken "police and Mansion House attendants...completely by surprise."

This apparently was not the case at the evening meeting in Croydon Civic Hall, where Air Marshal Lord Tedder was officiating at the opening at the borough's territorial army recruiting week. Here the police searched men entering the hall with bundles and took from them many of the leaflets. The men were afterwards allowed into the hall.

Alexander was not disconcerted at the reception.

The minister spoke from the steps of the Mansion House, official residence of the Lord Mayor in the heart of the financial quarter.

Showers of pamphlets headed "fall for this? not...likely," were thrown into the air when he began to speak and at the same time two men appeared behind him with a banner bearing the words "No war for Yankee dollars." They were hustled down the steps by attendants.

"Not Wall Street"

Young men in the crowd distributed bills and posters with slogans calling for disarmament and prohibition of the atom bomb. Others raised banners saying: "Fight for peace, not Wall Street."

Some of the pamphlets bore the imprint of the London district Communist party.

The minister said that the world would judge by the response to the recruiting campaign "whether the manhood and womanhood of Britain are the true heirs of those who throughout our history sacrificed to defend the right and to maintain our freedom and common justice."

will reserve judgment pending study of the argument.

The case stems from the adoption by the Senate of a motion, introduced by Senator Euler, asking the Federal government to refer around legislation approved by parliament in 1886 which prohibits the manufacture, importation and sale of margarine and other butter substitutes on the ground they are "injuries" to the health.

While the fight against the ban has waxed and waned over the years, it has been intensified since the ending of the war by the periodic butter shortages which have developed as a result of lower production and higher consumption.

Leo Copp Speaks At Lakefield Rally Day Service

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 5—(ENS)—Encouragement to Sunday School teachers and workers was the keynote of an address given by Mr. Leo Copp of Peterborough on Sunday morning at the Lakefield United Church on the occasion of rally day in the Sunday school.

"The measure of our chance of success in the world depends on the measure of our achievements in the Sunday School and in the church," declared Mr. Copp.

"We sometimes get discouraged and wonder if this work of the Sunday School is worth while, but when we consider that in the small space of 10 or 12 years the youngest child here will be helping to mould the destiny of Canada, we can see how important it is that the right seeds be planted. It behooves us not to let go, but to keep right on. We cannot see the whole truth now, but we can see a little. That's all we can hope for," said Mr. Copp.

The junior choir, replacing the regular, choir sang. Mrs. P. H. Darling told a story, and the scripture was read by Miss Ruth Little. Mr. Roy Brown, superintendent of the Sunday School, acted as leader.

Prior to the church service the promotion exercises were held in the school room.

New MLA Hurt

COCHRANE, Oct. 5.J(CP). — John P. H. Careere, recently elected Progressive Conservative Member of the Ontario Legislature for Cochrane North, was seriously injured in an automobile-train collision today.

LARGE GRASS FIRE

A large field belonging to G. H. Roper, in North Monaghan township between Sherbrooke St. and Smith St., caught fire destroying between four to five acres, at mid-day Sunday. The flames, fanned by a high wind, spread to some bush and burned out line fences. The blaze took firemen one hour and a half to extinguish. At 1.58 p.m. on Sunday, the Fire Department had a call to a grass fire on McFarlane St. near the canal, and at 4.03 p.m. to a fire at the house of Mr. A. Mongahan, 422 Rubidge St., where some damage was done to the roof by a spark from the chimney.

Cost-of-Living Jumps Again, Index Up 1.4

OTTAWA, Oct. 5. — (CP).— Substantial increases in shortening, lard and meat prices helped bring about a 1.4-point rise in the official cost-of-living index, the Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

The Bureau attributed the rise generally to an advance in the costs of foods, clothing and housefurnishings. The index climbed to an all-time high of 158.9 at Sept. 1, compared with 139.4 at the same time a year ago.

57 Per Cent Jump

Calculated on the basis that 1935-39 equals 100, the index had climbed 57.6 per cent between the period Aug. 1939 and Sept. 1948, the Bureau said.

Specifically, among the subgroups, the food index mounted from 202.6 on Aug. 2 to 203.9.

In the fuel and light series, the rise was from 127.7 to 128.5, due mostly to changes in coal and coke prices. The clothing index climbed from 175.9 to 179.9.

Home furnishings and services also moved up substantially, said the Bureau, from 161.4 to 164.2.

Personal care items and some changes in newspaper rates advanced the miscellaneous index from 123.4 to 124.4. The rent index moved up slightly from 120.9 to 121.0.

Cobourg Plans To Apply For 27 More New Houses

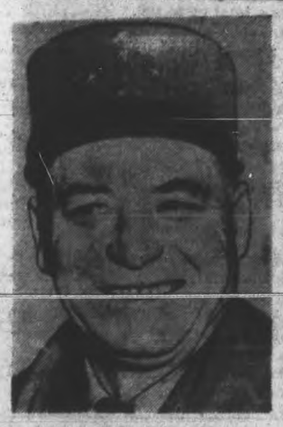
COBOURG, Oct. 5 — (ENS). — Cobourg will apply for 27 more new houses, Council decided Monday night, which will make 77 new houses under construction. Mayor Joe Smith declared that the CGE wanted to raise its employees to more than 500 in number but the town was hard pressed to house the slightly more than 250 already employed there. Councillor Geo. Galbraith said that the Legion had a long list of returned men looking for houses.

"We have one moderate-sized house being occupied by 15 people—three families," Mayor Joseph Smith observed.

Councillor Fred Bell, who has been ill for several months, was back after a lengthy absence and was welcomed by the Mayor. Councillor Bell made up for lost time by discussing at considerable length the high cost of living, questioned the wisdom of building a $275,000 sewage disposal plant in these days of inflated costs and cautioned that there was a limit to the amount of taxes the people could pay. Councillor Bell also charged that there was more than a scarcity of water underlying the present power shortage.

Councillor Victor Climo, chairman of the police committee, reported that in a 10-day period there were only two parking meters that went out of order due to wear and tear. Six became jammed by coins. Council was informed that a building bylaw, 115 pages long, would be ready by October 18. At present Council has practically no control over building.

Councillor Climo announced that effective January 1 next year bicycles would be licensed at 50 cents a year. Councillor John Westington said that the Council should make it clear to the people that any increase in the water rates to cover part of the cost of the new sewage disposal plant would not go into effect until the plant was in operation.



GENERAL ALPHONSE-Pierre Juin, who declined the post of commander of the land forces of western Europe, which had been assigned to him in the joint defence plan drafted in Paris by defence ministers of the five powers, Britain, Belgium, France and Luxembourg and the Netherlands. Hold Reception For Couple Wed 70 Years

HASTINGS, Oct. 5—(ENS)—Seventy years ago Friday, Oct. 1, Mary Hutton and Robert C. Smith were married in Brockville. The bride was of United Empire Loyalist ancestry, a fifth generation Canadian. The groom, born in Annan, Dumfriesshire, Scotland came to Canada as an infant.

The reception, held at their home on Morningside Drive, Swansea, was a happy event for the couple. Heading the list of congratulatory messages was a cable from Buckingham Palace, from the private secretary of their majesties. It said: "The king and queen are most interested to hear that you are celebrating the 70th anniversary of your wedding day and send you hearty congratulations and good wishes on this memorable occasion."

Cable included one from the mayor and council of Annan and congratulations from Prime Minister King, now overseas. Telegrams included messages from Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, acting prime minister; Premier Drew, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Lieutenant Governor Ray Lawson and Mayor McCallum and Rev. Ritchie Bell, the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The couple are life-long Presbyterians.

The drawing room in the Smith residence was covered with cards, telegrams and flowers sent by admiring friends. Mrs. Smith, receiving her many guests, told of the olden days, and her experiences when she first went shopping as a young housewife, 70 years ago.

Mr. Smith is still the first man of his office staff to reach his desk each day, though admitting that lately he has given himself the privilege of going home in mid-afternoon. It is 40 years since he founded his advertising business.

Dr. Bell-Smith, Hastings, a grandson of the elderly couple, attended a family reception held last Sunday, when 19 children with grandchildren and great grandchildren attended.

Suspended Sentence Given In Assault Case

LINDSAY, Oct. 5.—Two years suspended sentence plus a bond and restitution for expenses and time lost by Mr. Doug Thompson, Lindsay, was the sentence passed on David Blair, Lindsay, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting Mr. Doug Thompson on September 28.

Mr. Thompson said in his evidence that was selling tickets outside the Big 20 Cafe and asked four men whether they would like a ticket after which he did not know anything until he regained consciousness at a much later time. He had suffered from concussion and also a fractured skull. He added that the doctor told him he would be one month off work.

Mr. Blair gave a voluntary statement to the court as to what he maintained happened. He said that Thompson came up to them and tried to sell tickets but said he told him he didn't want one and when he asked him again gave him a push with his hand on the jaw. He said that Mr. Thompson fell backwards and cracked his head on the sidewalk and when he lifted him up tore his shirt. He said he pleaded guilty because it was his fault it happened.

Thieves Have 'Yen' For Taking Car Tires

GORE'S LANDING, Oct. 5 — (ENS). — Disappearance of auto tires from cars this past two weeks is causing concern. Hans Williams, Rice Lake House, had his car stolen. It was found near Bewdley in the ditch with one wheel stolen and all the tools.

A wheel was taken off the car belonging to Josh True of True Vacationland Tourist park recently. The four tires and all accessories were taken off a car parked near Burrison's dance hall. The provincial police are working on these thefts.

Democracy And Conventions

The Liberal Convention in August was sharply criticized by the Conservative press on grounds that it was not "democratic"; framing of the party platform was said to be "cut and dried" and insufficient attention was paid to suggestions from the floor of the convention. The public was assured that none of these faults would be found in the Progressive Conservative Convention.

* * *

That Convention has now come and gone. It appeared to us to be thoroughly organized and well conducted; it was, in fact, quite the equal in this respect of the Liberal Convention, and we doubt if a stranger to Canada could have found any real democratic failure in either of them. But now that the Conservative Convention is over we think that the Conservative party organizers will admit that the kind of democracy which exists at a national convention cannot be exactly the sort of democracy which is shown at a village meeting. Thousands of people are present; the agenda is a heavy one; time is limited. Therefore there can be no dawdling, and time cannot be wasted explaining complex questions of policy to delegates who are unable or unwilling to understand them. Resolutions are drawn up by committees of experts and are presented to the whole meeting for discussion; relevant discussion is treated with respect, but there is no time for vapouring. The meeting must keep moving, or conventions would stretch out till the crack of doom.

* * *

Democracy does not mean doing everything in the most inefficient way possible; it does not mean listening to twenty speakers cover ground which has been adequately covered by one. Both Liberal and Conservative conventions, in our opinion, were thoroughly democratic — but they were also thoroughly organized.

When And Where Highway Accidents Happen

Some shocking statistics about motor vehicle accidents in the Province of Ontario have come to hand. From January to the end of June this year there were 11,407 accidents involving 18,267 drivers, 19,226 vehicles and causing damage from a scraped fender to the loss of life. In the corresponding period of 1947 there were fewer accidents—9,082. The situation is not as horrible as it seems from these figures, for the number of fatalities to the end of June this year was 233. Nevertheless, that means 233 citizens are now as dead as the wheels of the demon internal combustion engine, and other damage to person and property has been shocking.

The times and conditions under which these accidents occur may disconcert some. The worst day of the week is Saturday, the worst hour of the day from five to six in the afternoon. That is not surprising, for more cars are on the roads then. Other statistics are surprising. Only 157 of the 18,267 drivers involved were intoxicated, only 60 had physical defects, only 89 were suffering from extreme fatigue. The rest were in "normal" condition. Only 848 of the drivers were female. Half the drivers were between 25 and 40 years of age; too many (4,500) were between 18 and 24. Of the 19,226 vehicles involved in accidents 13,681 were going straight ahead, not making a left turn (1,529 were caught on that), nor a right turn (557 involved), nor skidding (877). Nearly three-quarters of all the accidents occurred in clear weather. Only 95 of the 11,407 happened in fog, only 942 in snow or sleet. More than half took place in daylight, and at dusk, when people say the light is the worst possible for driving, there were only 457 accidents. Incidentally, there were more pedestrians killed than drivers, more pedestrians injured than drivers. Fourteen thousand of the eighteen thousand drivers had five or more years' driving experience.

It would seem then that for safe driving the following are essential: (a) the driver should be a woman, (b) travel in fog, (c) at dusk, (d) between five and six o'clock in the morning or after dark rather than in daylight, (e) on Wednesdays, (f) the driver should be inexperienced, (g) the vehicle should be backing up, (h) headlights should be glaring and not in good condition, (i) the car should run away by itself, and have no driver. That is what the statistics show. What they imply is, of course, that the better the driving conditions, the more people seem to relax and think that nothing could happen on a fine road like this, a bright day like this, with an experienced driver and a car in ship-shape order. That is the time accidents happen—as much because the motorists have dropped their guard as because there are more cars on the road when driving conditions are good.

Canada And The Berlin Air Lift

In a letter published elsewhere on this page a correspondent expresses a sincere concern that Canada is not taking part in the Berlin air lift. We have said in a recent editorial on the subject that Canada has not been asked to assist in the air lift. (Incidentally, contrary to our correspondent's statement, neither were Australia and South Africa asked to assist; they volunteered their help.) It may be quibbling to stress this point, for if Canada offered her planes and airmen, there is little doubt that the offer would be accepted. Nevertheless, the fact that she has not been asked means that her aid is not considered essential. The lift is succeeding without Canada's help. Therefore our correspondent's charge that "Canada's policy does not aim to make it succeed" is not directly relevant. It is worthy of note that Australia and South Africa have not yet sent or been requested to send planes.

The relevant point is this: Canada is seeking a preponderance of strength on the side of freedom. Aid in the Berlin air lift would be a half-measure. Canada looks for larger co-operation, a defensive pact with West Europe and the United States. In essence its present aloof position from Berlin may mean this: "The Berlin show is only a part of all the problems which we of the western democratic world must face. Before Canada commits itself in Berlin, let us have the larger agreement. Let there be no piece-meal effort for one specific task, but full and permanent co-operative defence".

Why should other Dominions offer their help and not Canada? They are not next-door neighbours to the United States. Canadian aid now, without the large defensive alliance, would have more significance than theirs. By standing apart, the world knows that Canada does not automatically follow where the United States leads. The air lift was primarily an American plan; it is primarily an American operation.

Sculpture And Civic Ornamentation

Our Third Column and the two illustrations which appear on this page today are devoted to an outdoor exhibition of sculpture in London, England. We suggest to our readers that sculpture is not a subject so remote from Peterborough as it might at first appear. We have in this city one fine sculptural piece —the War Memorial in Confederation Park; there are many Canadian cities which possess memorials which are horrors and it is a matter for civic congratulation that ours is so fine.

Having one fine statutory group, should we not give some thought to acquiring another, and a third, and so on? After the war there was a rush of enthusiasm for "useful" memorials; at the time we expressed some doubt as to whether usefulness was a quality greatly to be desired in a memorial. It all depends, of course, by what is meant by "useful". The citizens of a city do not play with statues, but they look at them, and they grow up in close proximity to them. If the statues are things of beauty they contribute an element to the lives of the beholders which is most uncommon in Canada. Our Canadian cities are, in the main, dull and utilitarian in appearance and often downright ugly. A few fine pieces of statuary, given to the city as gifts or bought out of public funds as public amenities, would do much to raise Peterborough out of the ruck of Ontario provincial towns.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Sculpture In A London Park

By BERNARD DENVIR

BATTERSEA PARK is not as well known as the larger parks nearer the centre of London. It is situated on the south bank of the Thames, and runs along that side of the river facing Chelsea. Seagulls are as much at home in it as blackbirds. The surrounding district is predominantly artisan; small red-brick houses are dominated for the most part by the large power-station designed with great beauty by Sir Giles Gilbert Scott. Equally obvious is a large gasometer, dating from the days when London was not so conscious of the relation of art to industry.

During the war the park became conscripted into Britain's national war effort. Grasslands became allotments, pig farms grew up, and groups of huts housed the gunners serving the anti-aircraft batteries set up in the park. Now the guns are gone and the huts partly demolished, their brightly coloured interiors standing out against the dark background of the surrounding foliage.

IT is in this park, which reflects so perfectly the currents of contemporary life, that is being held the exhibition of modern sculpture organized by London's governing body, the London County Council. Forty-three pieces covering the hundred years between the time of Rodin and today have been arranged in an enclosed section of the park.

This exhibition, the first of its kind to be held in Britain, is remarkable both for its inception and its nature. The London County Council has always been energetic in sponsoring various forms of cultural activity; it has organized performances in the parks of ballet, opera and orchestral music, but to turn to sculpture is an innovation which the skeptical hardly expected to see crowned with popular success. Within a week of its opening the exhibition had quickly become absorbed into the other communal activities of the park, which reaffirmed its essential nature as a peoples' garden.

SCULPTURE is, next to architecture, the most public of all the arts, a fact which has been underlined in this exhibition. The park has not been treated as a kind of al fresco museum; it has, so to speak, had more furniture added to it, and the process has not only enlivened the scene, but made the sculpture more relevant and understandable. Even the acerbities of a Lipchitz or a Zadkine have been softened down by the surrounding influence of nature. It is impossible, or at least very difficult, to exhibit sculpture in a museum without running into all kinds of problems of lighting and arrangement, nearly all of these are automatically solved out of doors. Familiar works assure a new meaning and significance.

The site chosen for the exhibition afforded the greatest possible variation of scenery. The land is undulating and woody, with beds of flowers, bushes and thickets, which present endless possibilities for variation and contrast. In the background is a lake, across which, from time to time, pass the boats of holiday-makers. It is rather like a setting for some modern fete champetre.

THE siting of the exhibits was the work of three sculptors, all of whom had work on show, Henry Moore, Frank Dobson and Charles Wheeler. They took great pains with the arrangements; branches were cut down, ponds built and flower beds re-arranged, and as they were dealing with their own particular medium, they were prompted by intuitive taste and knowledge. A sort of counterpoint was established between nature and the works which man fashioned out of her. The texture of bronze and stone contrasted with that of tree and grass, and the play of light on sculptured surfaces stood out against the varying colours of the leaves.

Yet another significance hinted at by the exhibition is the opening up of new sources of patronage for sculpture. Till now public sculpture in Britain has been mostly either commemorative or architectural, and many commemorative works inevitably take on a representational form, and so do not lend themselves to a modern idiom. There are of course exceptions, the most obvious being the statue of Eros in Piccadilly Circus, which is a monument to Lord Shaftesbury. But the exceptions stand out by their rarity, and London is perhaps less plentifully endowed with purely decorative sculpture than most European capitals. Now in Battersea Park there has been a restatement of the possibilities of sculpture for public pleasure.

FROM this point of view, as well as from an aesthetic one the dominating piece in the exhibition is a group Three Figures by the contemporary English sculptor, Henry Moore. It was commissioned by The Contemporary Art Society, a body of co-operative art patrons, which supplements public patronage of the arts by private generosity; it is to be presented to the London County Council for permanent exhibition in one of London's parks. It is one of Moore's most important works, rare in its monumental qualities and impressive in its significance, and had it not been for the direct commissioning he might well not have undertaken it.

Rodin was born in 1840; Karin Jenzen, the youngest exhibitor in 1914, and between these two dates a great deal happened to European sculpture. The aim of the exhibition has been to epitomise these happenings, and considering the limitations of its size it does so very successfully. The last statement of the Renaissance tradition, represented here by Rodin's Age of Bronze and John the Baptist led eventually to the pursuit of more archaic ideals and to a more impassioned devotion to the demands of a medium, which freed sculpture from its dependence on the anecdotal and the representational. It opened the way to the sculptural Fauvism of Zadkine, the sculptural Cubism of Lipchitz and Henghes and the sculptural Abstraction of Barbara Hepworth.

BUT parallel to this enthusiastic quest for three-dimensional purity there ran a movement which kept closer to Rodin, and to his successor, Maillol, represented here by Three Graces, Woman With Necklace and The Blanqui Monument, all from the collection of the Tate Gallery. The sturdy craftsmanship of Mestrovic's Torso, the graceful lyricism of Epstein's two bronzes, the classical beauty of Eric Gill's Mankind and the academic suavity of Reid Dick's The Manchild are all examples of a more cautious line of development.

Certain of the exhibits have a value which is documentary rather than purely aesthetic. A bas-relief by Matisse and a head by Modigliani both indicate that these two artists were fundamentally justified in their choice of painting as a medium.

The final note of actuality in the exhibition is that visitors can actually see sculptors at work. In a tent in the grounds of the exhibition students from a London art school emphasize by their work the continunity of artistic creation.

Faster Than Sound

(LONDON TIMES)

A BRITISH pilot's flight for the first time faster than sound is a milestone. He follows hard on the heels of at least one American. It has long been known that abnormal difficulties would crop up at these high speeds, but until the jet engine came the prospect of reaching them was remote. Now supersonic speed is a fact. At sea level the speed of sound is about 760 miles an hour, and it decreases with altitude until at 40,000 ft. it is only 660 miles an hour; above that it remains constant. As the speed of sound is approached, air around an aircraft is speeded up by the aircraft's movement, the amount of speeding up being largely determined by the thickness of the wing which is being forced forward against the atmosphere. At what are now regarded as moderate speeds for fighters—up to 500 miles an hour or so—the air usually flows smoothly over the wing surfaces, but at faster speeds the velocity of the air-flow over the wings can rise to the speed of sound, even though the speed of the aircraft itself is lower. As the speed of the aircraft goes up the steady flow of the air over the wing breaks down; a dangerous condition known as a shock-stall occurs at the thickest part of the wing; the aircraft may break up or the pilot may lose control. This is the unknown territory into which Squadron Leader Derry has taken his D.H. 108. These are the risks that he has sped through.

Ever since more powerful and more efficient engines and more suitably shaped aircraft made flight at high speeds possible the "sonic barrier," as it is called, has been a bogey to alarm designers, technicians, and pilots alike. Progress has been largely by groping forward hesitantly into the unknown, for wind tunnel tests are of only limited use for speeds near the speed of sound. A man in a machine had to make the trial.

NEAR UPSET

One night at a theatre a man who had dined rather too well stood up in his seat in the middle of the play and cried: "Is there a doctor in the house?"

The actors faltered slightly, but the play went bravely on.

A moment later, the same man, still standing, repeated his question.

At this second call another man rose and said: "Yes, I'm a doctor," whereupon the other nearly finished off the performance by asking in a tone of great good nature: "How do you like the show, Doc?"

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O my God, my soul is cast down within me ....Deep calleth unto deep at the noise of thy waterspouts: all thy waves and thy billows are gone over me. Yet the Lord will command his lovingkindness in the daytime, and in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life....

Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why are thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God. (Ps. 42: 6, 7, 8, 11.)

❖ ❖ ❖

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death.

For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh; that the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. (Rom. 8: 1-6.)

Letter To The Editor

CANADA AND THE AIR LIFT

Sir: Your editorial regarding a Canadian share in the Berlin Air Lift appears to overlook the main question. Australia, New Zealand and South Africa received requests for assistance and are providing it. Like Canada, none of these countries is represented on the four power government of Germany. Why has Canada not been asked for assistance?

The only answer appears to be that the Canadian Government let it be known that such a request would not be favourably received, despite the fact that Canada has far greater material resources than the other three countries who are giving help to their former allies.

If the air lift fails, all democratic countries stand to suffer. Canada's policy does not aim to make it succeed. Why not?

Yours truly,
C. W. HOLMAN.

Making Democracy Work

Individually the French are brave, fine people, with a passionate love of their country. But recent events have shown that democracy in form means nothing and less than nothing. A parliament without support of unselfishness and the will to do unpopular things, if necessary, is an insult to the whole tradition of free institutions. There can be no freedom without discipline and restraint; only chaos.—Hamilton Spectator.

Soviet Zone Being 'Cleared' Of Anti-Reds

BERLIN, Oct. 5.— (AP).— A casual reader of the Russian-controlled press certainly gets the impression that the Soviet occupation zone of Germany is overrun with crooks, grafters, black marketers and spies.

"Economic saboteurs" in industry and agriculture seem to be discovered and exposed nearly every day under big headlines in the official Soviet army and Communist party organs.

The Communists explain they are cleaning out the "capitalist and reactionary vipers" who have got into influential posts where they are "systematically seeking to hamper the economic reconstruction" of the Soviet zone.

Berlin's anti-Communists also have an explantion of what's going on in Eastern Germany.

They say the Communists are denouncing manufacturers and business men as "economic saboteurs" and throwing them in jail so the can confiscate their properties for socialization.

Scope Of Work Done By Lions Outlined To Club By Emmons Crawford

In a speech to the Lions Club, Monday night, Emmons Crawford of Bowmanville, past district governor, asked local members to rededicate themselves to the principles of Lionism.

"We must give God a place in our home, our club, and our business," he said. "We must be prepared to make known to those we work with, to our political leaders, and to those who write our editorials that we as a people, believe in certain things and we are willing to go out and fight for them."

He outlined the duties of a district governor and described the framework of the organization. Mr. Crawford told members that there were about 365,000 Lions in the world, spread over five continents and 23 countries.

"Communism is socialism in a huarry," he said. And he advocated stern measures "to meet firmly and adamantly the various "isms" trying to destroy the way of life we hold so dear."

Dedicated to Service

"Lions International is an organization dedicated to service," he said. "It is dedicated to the service of helping the other fellow."

Continuing, he said: "It is only by the clean and clear thinking of our citizenry that our ideals can grow and prosper."

"Yesterday your attention was for the needy; those in need of food and shelter and clothing. Today your attention is for those who do not yet enjoy the right to govern themselves," said Mr. Crawford.

Greater Freedom

"Yesterday your attention was for your own neighbors and friends in your community," he said. "Today your attention is for every person created in the image of God and given the eternal birthright of freedom of government and freedom of worship."

BLOCKED OUT by surrounding players Johnny Hall of McGill is seen going for an 11-yard gain in Saturday's victory over Aggies of Guelph in Montreal recently. [illegible] which McGill won by 24-1. Doing the big job of interference on the play were Johnny Newman (36), Vic Latimer (50), centre and Allan Mann (33) at left, who is seen passing Dewart (60) of the Aggies.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Petes' lacrossers are off on the haul to Huntsville tonight determined to bring back a victory in their OLA senior "B" finals. They really want to wind it up before a home crowd Friday, but a loss tonight of course will prolong it. No injuries or absentees except Arn Dugan, who is away on puck business. A titular triumph here Friday no doubt would touch off another big victory parade like last season when Miller Bowl bulged at its seams with a wildly cheering crowd. Coach Red Creighton won't spare the horses this eve. Red is a great worrier, as well as a valuable goalie out there whenever needed.

* * * * * *

With the old lucky straw skimmer aslant on his thinning red locks, the coach hangs over the gateway to the penalty box and mentally takes part in every move out there. When one of the Petes gets banged about on the [illegible] Robert the Red suffers, too. And he glares wickedly at the offending enemy as he pushes past toward the sin bin. He and Kelly DeGray, Oshawa coach, nearly came to blows several times during the season, though they're good friends at all other times. Similarly, Mick Magee of the Petes and Red, his coach in lacrosse, when playing opposite each other in hockey last winter didn't spare each other on the bumps. It's the old fighting spirit.

* * * * * *

Coming Grid Events

Nothing doing in football around these parts, except for a junior joust with Lindsay at Lakefield tomorrow, until the week-end. Lots of action then as the ORFU Panthers trek to Oakville on Saturday and have Oshawa Raiders here on Monday, the holiday. Oshawa Collegiate plays the PCVS seniors at the Oval this Saturday after a junior fray betwixt Lakefield and PCVS, with St. Peter's going to Lindsay. The PCVS squads and St. Peter's juniors are all idle on Thanksgiving Day. This is the big month for the clubs to dig in as playoffs pop in November.

St. Kitts' scribe says Dit Clapper personally is handling the large hockey school at Hershey and the boys are working hard. And he writes: "George Sullivan, although still suffering from a six-inch gash in his lower lip, continued his fine all-around work and centred Wayne Service and Bill Irwin on another line. Both Irwin and Service are over age for junior but Sullivan will be back for another fling with St. Catharines junior 'A' TeePees. His improved skating and continuation of his deluxe stick-handling ability should give St. Catharines' fans plenty to enthuse over during the coming winter months." Good stuff, Red.

Legion Getting Set

Legion pucksts re-organized at a meeting last night with Cy Withers in as president and Glen Carson returned as secretary-treasurer. Ned Vitarelli is coach with Mick Magee manager and assistant coach. Fred Board again looks after equipment. They talked over player prospects, rinks for practices and a grouping, the latter causing some worry as no word can be obtained yet from either Kingston or Belleville. With OHA play promised on local ice once more, a two-team senior "B" grouping of Petes and Legion is no good —two more strong clubs are required. However, something may break before long. Legion expect to ice a stronger squad than the one which went so well last winter.

Jim Flowers sends word that the Peterborough Harriers' Club will hold the annual re-organization meeting at the YMCA this Thursday night at seven o'clock. Plans are out for a solid organization for the coming season with a large executive and some honorary members who take a real interest and will support the club. The past year has seen a good revival of interest in track and field around here, and club members don't intend to let this interest die out during the coming year.

Indians And Braves

We're glad to see Cleveland Indians in there against Boston Braves in the world series, which starts tomorrow in Boston. Like a lot of long-distance ball fans, as far as the majors go, we like to see these pennants spread around, and the Red Sox have been up there lately, but the Indians haven't made it since Tris Speaker led the way back in 1920. When we were all much younger. The Indians beat Boston Sox yesterday 8-3 to clinch the American League pennant, and the heroes were southpaw Gene Bearden—after a one-day rest—and that inspiring leader, shortstop Lou Boudreau, who hit four for four. Great stuff, and we hope the Indians sweep the big series.

Want Manager For Yankees, Harris Leaves

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP). — The job of leading the fabulous New York Yankees is open again for the fourth time since 1946.

Bucky Harris, who piloted the Yanks to third place this season after bossing them to the American-league pennant and a world series triumph in 1947 is out in the cold.

The move, which surprised few, was made Monday following a conference among Yankee president Dan Topping, general manager George Weiss and Harris.

In a prepared statement the Yanks said that Harris' contract would not be renewed for 1949. The decision to let Harris go was by "mutual agreement," the terse announcement added.

The new manager will be sidered for the post are several selected at a future date, and conman "not including a player active with the 1948 team."

Rumors had Harris on the way out for some time and the guess was that either outfielders Joe DiMaggio or Tommy Henrich would take over.

Among those believed considerfor former Yankee pitcher, and Billed for the job are Jim Turner, Skiff, who led the Yanks' Newark farm club in the International league last year.

Another possibility is Chuck Dressen, one-time manager of Cincinnati Reds and coach of the Yanks in 1948.

Harris, 51, joined the Yanks in 1946 in an executive capacity under Larry Macphail. During that season, Joe McCarthy, Bill Dickey and Johnny Neun piloted the Yanks.

Doug Baptie First In Handicap Swim

For the third consecutive season, the YMCA weekly handicap swims got under way last night, with Doug Baptie winning the 40 yards free style event by a touch from Ken Stacey and Gerard Armstrong who were second and third respectively. Bob Boyce was the fourth swimmer in the final.

David Cuffe, Fred Johnson, Gary Gilders, Donald Wood, John Boorman and Donald Moffatt qualified for the semi-finals.

New personal record times were established by Cuffe, Johnson, Don Wood, Moffatt, Stacey, Armstrong and Boyce.

Gordon Minty, honorary coach, was in charge of the even and Cory Barnes assisted as timer.

BRAVES' FLAG HOPE - - By Alan Mavi

Happenings In Hockey

They gave Turk Broda the Vezina trophy last year because he let fewer pucks past him than any other goal tender in the National Hockey League.

But they forgot to tell his team mates. The Leafs scored on Broda 14 times in less than 2½ periods Monday night.

It was in an exhibition charity game at Schumacher, against a pick-up team of Northern Ontario amateurs who took on the world champion Toronto Maple Leafs after less than one week's practice.

Broda went into the All-Stars nets when Leafs jumped into a 5-0 lead after 12 minutes. Leafs won 19-5, with the first line of Ted Kennedy, Howie Meeker and Vic Linn getting more than half the total of 45 scoring points the Leafs accumulated.

Among the things that cost a lot of money these days are hockey players. In fact, says manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers, you just can't buy them.

Boucher said recently that he offered $75,000 and Grant Warwick last year for an unnamed player, but he couldn't get him.

After a recent training camp game in which Rangers beat New Haven Ramblers, their American League farm team, Boucher and New Haven coach Lynn Patrick were talking it over at a dinner table packed with reporters and hockey executives.

Somebody mentioned "bricklayers."

"You know, Lynn," smiled Boucher, "after watching your team this afternoon, I think you have a few bricklayers there."

"It's your fault, you gave me the team," cracked the big-boned Lynn.

Veteran Frankie Brimsek will be missing when Boston Bruins break their training camp at Hershey, Pa. Coach Dit Clapper told Brimsek, who reported for practice seven pounds underweight and with a "strep" throat, to get out in the sunshine for a week.

Jack Gelineau, former McGill University hockey captain, will take over until Brimsek gets back in the Boston nets.

With Montreal Canadiens swinging through a Western Canada exhibition tour, they all dropped into coach Dick Irvin's Regina home yesterday to hear the big baseball broadcast yesterday.

Canadiens play exhibition games at Moose Jaw, Regina, Winnipeg and Port Arthur before returning to Montreal for the Oct. 14 season opening.

Two casualties — left winger Howard (Rip) Riopelle and goalie Bill Durnan—are back in action.

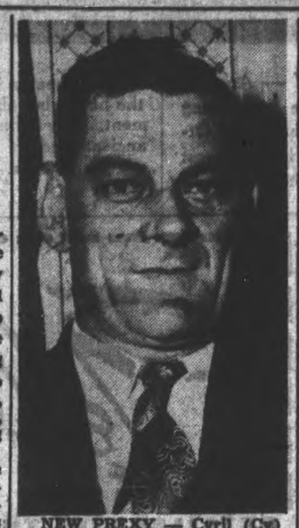
Trophies Given At Closing Peterboro Club

Trophies for the year were presented at the closing day of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club on Saturday. Hugh Waddell won the senior club championship trophy, with O. A. DeGraw the runner-up, Robt. Abbott making the presentation. The junior club title was taken by Ross Cutmore, George Kelly being runner-up, and Chas. Westbrooke presenting the cup.

Bert Cutmore presented the Westclox Trophy to Herb Hawley, who finished ahead of J. Huddart. The Stratton Trophy was taken by W. J. Hardill, with George Kelly, Sr., next, and M. Hardill presenting it. Ross Cutmore received the MacDonald Trophy from Herb Bradburn, George Kelly, Jr. being runner-up.

The J. E. Girven Trophy, emblematic of the city championship, went to Stan Whiddon of the Kawartha Club this year, and was presented by Hugh Waddell. M. Ruiter and F. Dunfield were runners-up in the Kawartha Club to the city champion, while Joe Watson and Stan Payne led the Peterborough Club in this competition. The Dobbin-Glover Cup, taken by the Kawartha Club, was presented by Don McIntyre.

J. E. McKerchar supplied popular entertainment at the "do" with his bagpipes, while Joe Frost led the gathering at the piano with a sing-song.



NEW PREXY — Cyril (Cy) Withers last night was elected president of the Peterborough Legion Hockey Club, in OHA senior "B" company, for the coming season. He is chairman of the Legion sports committee, etc.

Legion Chooses Cy Withers Puck President

Officers were elected as the Legion Hockey Club re-organized at the annual meeting held in their hall last night. Cy Withers was chosen president for this coming season, with Glen Carson returned as secretary-treasurer. Ned Vitarelli goes back again as club coach, with Mick Magee appointed manager and assistant coach. Fred Board again will be in charge of equipment.

There was some discussion on rinks for practises, prospective players, and equipment, but actual rulings were left over to the new executive. The club may get on ice in Lindsay in November for workouts and possibly a few exhibition games, later playing in Peterborough. The meeting approved an invitation to help open the new Marmora rink when ice is available against an all-star TVL team. The gathering worried about a good senior "B" grouping with Kingston and Belleville doubtful starters.

McGill Redmen Have Top Men For Lineup

By BERT ALLEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (CP).—Vic Obeck is like that old woman in the shoe. Only in his case it's football players who are bulging the shoe laces.

With only four days left before the McGill coach sends his Redmen against Queen's in the Senior Intercollegiate League opener at Kingston Saturday, the makeup of Obeck's first team still is subject to change on a day-to-day basis.

The McGill mentor has a good nucleus remaining from last year's squad that finished third behind Western and Varsity, and has added several promising newcomers, including four Americans.

Last Year Men Back

Standouts from last year back with the team include: halfbacks Murray Hayes, one of the best broken-field runners in the league; Doug Heron, 220-pound line-crasher and placement-kicker; Rocky Robillard, a good forward-passer and booter; Johnny Hall and Johnny Meagher.

Veteran linemen include: Snap Vic Latimer; Insides Johnny Poter and Wally Kowal, Middles Johnny Newman and Allan Mann, and Ends Al McLeod and Johnny Crnelch.

Best of the newcomers appears to be Dave Hackett, a fast-stepping, swivel-hipped halfback from Boston who turned in some dazzling runs and scored a touchdown in each of McGill's two exhibition games.

Other Americans with the team are Middle Mervin Melrowitz and End Bill Nichols, both with Syracuse University last season, and Hal Biewald, a halfback from Mohawk College, Utica, N.Y.

Melrowitz, a tough 210-pounder who played with the San Diego Navy team in 1945, appears to have clinched a starting berth on the line.

Another promising backfield prospect is George Valois, a husky French - Canadian who graduated from Montreal Junior ranks. Tipping the scales at 210, Valois has shown tremendous running power and will take some of the load off Murray Hayes.

Have Made Good Showing

The Redmen looked formidable in exhibition victories over intermediate teams. They swamped Ottawa University 37-0 and plastered a 24-1 setback on Ontario Agricultural College, who always come up with one of the best intermediate squads in the country.

As a means of comparison these scores give a fair line on McGill's strength. Western whipped OAC 35-3, while Queen's beat Ottawa U. 17-10.

Home-Run King Hack Wilson Ill

BALTIMORE, Oct. 5.—(AP).—Lewis (Hack) Wilson, whose National League home-run record set in 1930 still stands, is in serious condition in Baltimore hospital.

Wilson was rushed unconscious to the hospital Monday. His wife told police she found him alongside his bed where he had fallen. She said he had been ill recently.

A doctor said his condition was due to an internal ailment, and not the fall.

Talun Favored To Unmask Marvel

Besides his important main bout between Blockbuster Talun and the Masked Marvel, Brock Arena manager Jim Laidlaw has lined up two other bouts that should be ripsnorters. In the semi-final Laidlaw has 270-pound Jim Goon Henry against the ladies choice Mike Sharpe.

Pat Flanagan Handsome Mike is more than just a good-looking big man however and he hopes to prove it at the 'Goon's' expense.

In the opening bout Jan Gotch, another wrestler from Poland, meets popular Pat Flanagan. Flanagan is going great guns in his Maple Leaf Gardens engagements these days but the surly Gotch will try to change the thin-haired Irishman's good luck.

Wladyslaw Talun's rage over his disqualification last week has not abated one whit and he intends to take out all of his frustration at the expense of the Masked Marvel and claims he will unmask the mystery man.

RED HOT—George (Red) Sullivan, former local junior "B" puckist, is hot now on Hershey workouts under direction of Dit Clapper. Red will likely line up again this winter with St. Catharines in OHA junior "A" company.

Indians Whip Sox 8-3 For Flag; Feller And Sain To Open Series

BOSTON, Oct. 5 — (AP). — Cleveland's newly-crowned American league champs, still walking on air after their playoff success, have named Bobby Feller, to face Johnny Sain of Boston Braves in tomorrow's world series opener at Braves Field.

Rapid Robert will have to go hard to top the performance young Gene Bearden made in Monday's 8-3 victory over Boston Red Sox in an unprecedented sudden-death playoff.

The big Cleveland ball park with its 95,000 capacity is certain to set a series record. If it goes seven games, despite the size of Braves field which holds only 40,000 bulging at the seams, a record cut for the winning players may result.

Bearden Credited

Working with only one full day of rest after shutting out Detroit Saturday, the 28-year-old gamester Bearden silenced the guns of the fence-denting Red Sox in their own ball yard to gain the American league title.

He did it with a little of this and a little of that—but mostly his knuckle ball. He threw the dipsy-doodler four out of every five pitches. The knuckler got him home, parlayed with the raw courage that brought him back to baseball from Pacific war action with aluminum plates in his head and left knee.

Cool as a veteran who has been winning pennants for years, this rookie fugitive from the New York Yankees' chain gang, brought Cleveland its first flag since 1920.

Knuckle-Ball Did It

"I wasn't concerned about his pitching with only one day's rest," said manager Lou Boudreau in the midst of a joyous, noisy clubhouse celebration. "He's that type. You can't keep him off the mound."

"The knuckler did it," added Boudreau, "they just couldn't hit it. I know one of their coaches was tipping the hitters every time he threw it—which was four out of every five—and they still couldn't connect."

Boudreau was the hitting star of his own team's sensational triumph with two homers and two singles. Right behind him came Ken Keltner, whose three-run homer knocked out Denny Galehouse, manager Joe McCarthy's surprise starter, in the fourth inning.

Boudreau—And Boudreau

Boudreau, the player, never came through for Boudreau, the manager, in any more sensational fashion. It came right when the Tribe needed a lift. They had blown a two-game lead in the waning days of the season and were forced to take that long overnight train ride from Cleveland to play this extra game.

Up stepped Boudreau, the player, in the first inning of a no-score game to slam a Galehouse pitch over the left-field fence. Everybody on the Cleveland bench was out to shake his hand except Boudreau the manager.

In the fourth inning with the score tied 1-1, Boudreau slashed a single to left. Joe Gordon followed with a single and Keltner banged his homer. Before it was over, four runs were in and Galehouse had been replaced by Ellis Kinder.

Second Homer

Not content with a 5-1 lead, Boudreau slammed another homer into the screen atop the left-field wall with two gone and nobody on in the fifth.

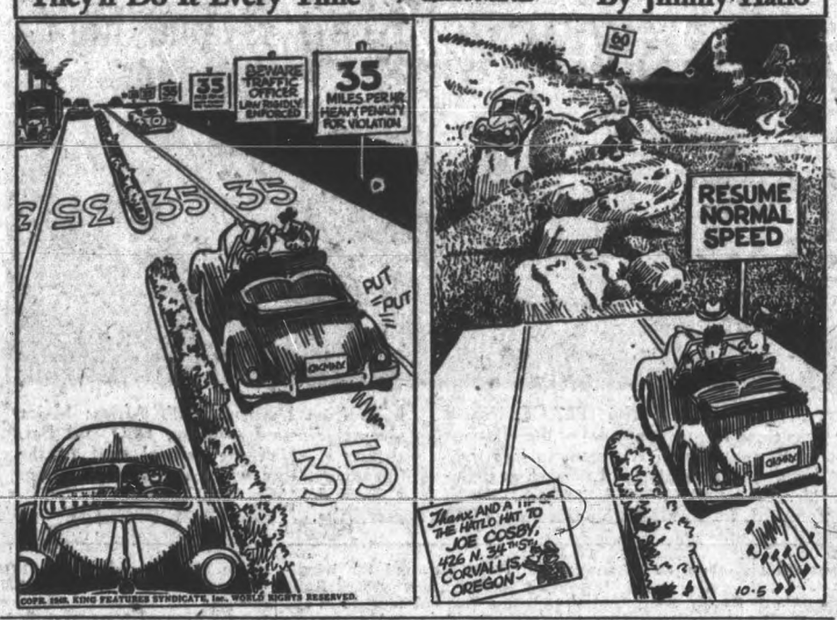
In the seventh he was walked intentionally in a rally that finally sputtered out with the bases full. Again in the ninth, Boudreau's single helped push around Eddie Robinson with the final score of a game that was fast becoming a rout.

Boudreau hitting and Boudreau fielding, taking part in two of the three Tribal double plays, made you forget that other stars like Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr were on the field.

And after it was all over, walking out of the shower room to accept more congratulations, there was Boudreau talking about the others and how they did their part to win.

"We're just going to Boston for the world series one day early," said Boudreau in Cleveland after their Sunday loss had forced a tie playoff. He was r[illegible]

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo



Cleveland Makes Whoopee Over Flag Win

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—(AP).—This city, after biting its fingernails down to the second knuckle the last few weeks as the Indians dilly-dallied in their attempt to win the American League pennant, was a debris-littered mess today.

The celebration, set off by the 8-3 victory over Boston Red Sox Monday in the league's first sudden-death playoff, lasted into the wee, small hours.

To a casual visitor, not knowing the pent-up emotions of the oft-frustrated Cleveland fans who have been denied a pennant since 1920, the celebration — a swashbuckling, noisy affair—must have resembled the Armistice Day blowout.

The hotels were the first to take action as the final score winged in. They immediately cleared their lobbies of furniture. And it was a good thing they did, for a few minutes after a flock of bands, generally headed by some big guy beating a brass drum, roared in.

Snake dances were a dime a dozen, but pennants bearing the legend "Cleveland Indians, 1948 world series champs," were a buck a copy. Practically everyone had one.

In every bar the pennants were table centrepieces, stuck in empty beer bottles. Folk dances were staged around them, with some of the highball-bearing customers bowing low to the flags and offering sundry toasts to the team.

Up and down Euclid avenue, the main drag of the baseball-mad city, the fans surged on the sidewalks. In the street the lanes were filled with cars tooting their horns. Traffic was at a standstill for hours as the boys and girls let off steam.

Utter strangers, mostly of the younger set, planted kisses on the unresisting lips of many of the pennant-waving gals.

Canadiens In Good Shape For Coming NHL Season

By BERT ALLEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, Oct. 5 (CP). — Montreal Canadiens will start the season with a goaltender and a defence second to none in the National Hockey League, two of the highest scoring forwards in Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard, and a flock of question-mark veteran and rookie forwards.

To Coach Dick Irvin, the wily Hab. mentor who missed the playoffs last year for the first time in 19 years of handling NHL teams, the club everyone has to look out for is the only one Canadiens finished ahead of last campaign—the Chicago Black Hawks.

What about the Toronto powerhouse, Dick?

"Worried about the Maple Leafs? Hah! (Toronto Manager) Conny Smythe was scared to death of us all last season and it'll even be worst this year. The club to beat? Well, I think that the team that's going to surprise everyone is Chicago."

Durnan In Good Shape

The Montreal coach thinks Goalie Bill Durnan, four-time Vezina Trophy winner, is in for a great season.

"Durnan has never looked better and is fully recovered from his knee injury that bothered him last year. He knows now that his knee will stand up and he hasn't a thing to worry about in that respect."

Irvin will open the season with the same defence that finished the schedule last year. Sure of regular spots are Kenny Reardon, Emile (Butch) Bouchard, Doug Harvey and Glen Harmon. Either Roger Leger or Hal Laycoe will be held in reserve, and the other probably will be farmed out for Buffalo of the American League.

Left Wing Open

Up front, the choice of a left-winger to take Toe Blake's old sport on the punch line with Lach and Richard has created a lot of speculation. Right now, Irvin is using Rookie George Robertson, a Winnipeg-born speedster up from the Quebec Senior League Montreal Royals on the left flank.

The Hab. coach intends to keep experimenting until Canadiens return from their Western tour to open the NHL in Montreal Oct. 14 against New York Rangers. But whoever gets the nod for the coveted spot, should get himself a bundle of scoring points.

Eddie Dorohoy, 19-year-old speedster who played with Lethbridge Native Sons Juniors last season, impressed while playing with Lach and Richard in early practices, but now Irvin has shifted him to another line. Robertson and Dorohoy are two rookies pretty sure to stick.

The other attacking units are far from set. Billy Reay centres Joe Carveth and Norm Dussault on one trio, while veteran Murph Chamberlain has been playing left wing on two lines, with Dorohoy and Bobby Fillion and with Kenny Mosdell and Fillion. Howard (Rip) Riopelle and Tod Campeau are the other forwards.

Cornwall Beats Tigers Ties Lacrosse Finals

CORNWALL, Oct. 5 (CP). — Cornwall seniors forced a deciding game in their Eastern Canada senior lacrosse final with Hamilton Tigers when they upset the Ontario champions 14-12 here Monday night.

The champions of the Quebec league showed an amazing reversal of form from the first game of the best-of-three playoff, which they lost 13-4 at Lachine, Que., Saturday night. They spurted to an 11-2 lead and then fought off Tigers closing drive.

The deciding game will be played here Wednesday night. The series winners then meet the Western Canada champions, New Westminster Adanacs, for the Mann Cup in a best-of-five Dominion final opening in Toronto Oct. 11.

Fritzie Zivic outpointed Henry Armstrong in a thrilling 15-rounder for the world's welterweight boxing title at New York eight years ago today. Solving Armstrong's buzz-saw style, by backing away and dancing beautifully, the colorful Pittsburgher closed the Negro's eye early in the fight.

Newcombe, McGlothin Starters At St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP).—the holder of the year's best pitching record in the International League will be on the mound when Montreal meets St. Paul tonight in the opener of the Little World series.

Clay Hopper, manager of the pennant and play-off winning Royals, will go along with Don Newcombe, sensational negro right-hander who racked up a 17-8 record.

Manager Walt Alston will rely on the long right arm of Pat McGlothin, author of a no-hitter against Milwaukee toward the end of the regular season in the American Association.

The series is St. Paul's first since 1931. Both clubs are part of the Brooklyn Dodgers' farm system.

Dick Irvin Keeps Close Record Of Play

REGINA, Oct. 5 — (CP). — The mastermind of the National Hockey League's Montreal Canadiens sat on an apple box in the sun-drenched garden of his Regina home and topped beets.

And between snips of his topper, white-haired Dick Irvin had a few things to say about a statistics system he's used since the late 20's when he coached Chicago, and which Branch Rickey of the National baseball league's Brooklyn Dodgers has adopted.

Irvin scrutinized a large beet carefully, scraping some mud from it. He finally rejected it as too big.

"These are last of the crop," he said.

"And this system has grown bigger than when I first used it. Used it at Toronto, and they still have it. Gave it to Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings two years ago when we were out here on that exhibition fling. Now Branch Rickey's got it."

What he meant by his system was a record kept during every game of such factors as when a line or player went on the ice, and when it, or he, left.

The number of goals scored by, or against a line; the number of shots taken by a player, where he shot from; shots missed, and other data as technical as an engineer's handbook all go down.

Irvin, back in Regina with his Canadiens who are staging a series of exhibition matches in the province before starting the season next Thursday, said he likes his record system.

"You know, I've seen good players go for games without getting a shot. Just couldn't get one. But sometimes I wish we kept a record of the defensive as well.

"Those goals players stop from being scored are sometimes more important than the goals they get."

FROM FAR-FLUNG PLACES came these three former comrades of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment to join their "buddies" in a regimental reunion at Belleville. Left to right are Sgt. Major George Ponsford, MBE, MM, who travelled 9,000 miles from Durban, South Africa; Major General Howard Graham, DSO and Bar, deputy chief of the general staff of the Canadian Army who came from London, Eng., and Lt.-Col. D. C. Cameron of Calgary, Alta.

Arnold (Lefty) Cooper last night pitched the second no-hit, no-run game in the northern Ontario baseball championship playoffs. He tossed a 2-0 win over Sudbury All-Stars to give Kirkland Lake Greyhounds a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

He matched the performance of southpaw Johnny Barbeau of Sudbury who won the series opener 9-0.

Chances are Calgary Stampeders will be coming east for the Grey Cup final this year.

They wrapped the western conference up last night by trouncing Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 26-6 — their eighth straight victory.

As the bruising Stampeder line continually harassed the Winnipeg backfield, quarterback Keith Spaith scored one touchdown and threw touchdown passes.

Spaith kicked two singles while Fred Wilmot booted two field goals.

The loss brightened playoff hopes for Saskatchewan Roughrider cellar club who have only one victory. It was Winnipeg's fifth loss in eight games.

Stan (the man) Musial joined Manager Eddie Dyer Monday in reaching a two-year agreement with the St. Louis Cardinals. Stan signed the contract, which calls for "a substantial increase," after a 15-minute talk with Redbird President Robert E. Hannegan. Neither Musial nor Hannegan would say what salary the new terms call for, but most sources estimated it would bring the slugging Cardinal outfielder around $50,000 a year.

Dyer signed his two-year contract as manager last week.

Representatives of nine western Ontario Canadian Legion branches conferred at Preston Sunday to draft this year's indoor sports program. Four sports on the schedule are bowling, cribbage, darts and billiards. Legion branches represe Ed were Paris, Galt, Stratford, Brantford, Kitchener, Guelph, Hespeler, Waterloo and Preston.

Plan To Develop Saint Lawrence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—The federal power commission today begins consideration of a New York state proposal that it be licensed to harness the vast hydro-electric potential of the St Lawrence river.

The estimated $463,000,000 project, which could be undertaken jointly wtih the province of Ontario, stems from a directive issued last April 30 by governor Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee for the United States presidency in the Nov. 2 general elections.

At that time, Dewey instructed the State's power authority to negotiatiate with Ontario on the proposed power development. The two would share the costs and benefits.

His action followed United States Congressional refusal to pass legislation that would have authorized not only construction of the power project but which would have provided a 27-foot deep channel—for ocean shipping—from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

Before the proposed power development can become a reality, approval by the international joint commission is also required. The commission, which regulates the use of international boundary waters, is composed of United States and Canadian members.

Engineers estimate that the river can generate an annual total of 2,200,000 horsepower. This would make available to both New York and Ontario an annual yield of 6,300,000 kilowatt hours of energy.

Drunk Driver Given 7 Days

Stewart Harding, Princess St., was sentenced Monday to seven days in jail by Magistrate Philp when he was convicted of drunken driving. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and was defended by W. C. Grant.

Three police constables, Sherman Kellele, Donald McKay and Reginald McMillan testified they had observed Harding drive his car down George St. early on the morning of September 26.

P.C. McKay, who was patrolling his beat on George St. drew the attention of the other two policemen who were in a cruiser car to Harding's driving.

It was claimed that Harding was weaving as he went south on George St. and that he nearly ran into the east curb by the Custom's House. And the officers said he speeded up to 60 m.p.h. going down George Street.

When he was stopped at about Lock St., both constables declared they detected signs of drunkenness.

Harding said he had gone with two companions to the Lindsay Fair earlier in the evening and that they had consumed a bottle of whisky before returning to Peterborough, but he maintained that he was not drunk.

Toronto Council Criticizes Cost

TORONTO, Oct. 5 — (CP).. — City Council members Monday demanded an explanation for the mounting operating costs of the Toronto Welfare Department.

"In 1934, when there were 119,000 persons on relief, the department spent only $390,000 (for administration expenses), while to-day, with only 920 families, it is spending $500,000,", Alderman Charles Walton said.

Con. John Innes said he thought Welfare Commissioner R. S. Rupert had so expanded the department that "it does not know where it is going."

Mr. Rupert said after the meeting that Alderman Walton's figures were not correct. The $500,000 included the administrative costs of the whole department and not just for administration of relief.

Belmont Council Changes Election Dates

HAVELOCK, Oct. 5—(ENS)—Municipal nominations and election dates were shoved ahead to the fourth Friday in November and the first Monday in December respectively, at a meeting of the Belmont and Methuen council, Saturday.

The new bylaw reads that for 1948 and the following years nomination of candidates for the council, and school board shall be held at the township hall on the fourth Friday in November at 1 p.m. Polling will take place on the first Monday in December from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The change was made because the council thought the roads would be in a better condition at that time and it would be more convenient for the electorate to get to the polls.

On motion by Councillors Newton and Barrons, the road superintendent, Robert Marshall, was instructed to cut brush and temporarily repair the road surface between the Cordova Road and Jason Roe's house on No. 7 highway.

On motion by Councillors Whitney and Newton, the assessment of west part 21, concession 2, Belmont, 150 acres, was authorized to George Prymer for 1948 at $100 for the land and $25 for the buildings, the bill for 1948 taxes to be forwarded by R. Marshall to Mr. Prymer.

On motion by Councillors Newton and Barrons, the reeve, clerk and treasurer were authorized to sign the deed on lot 28, concession 5, Belmont, which was sold to Lorne Hornsby for $25 plus half the cost of transfer and registration. Mr. Hornsby also purchased the centre part of lost 21, concession 3, Belmont, for the sum of $20 plus the cost of transfer.

The following accounts were passed: Donald Newton, one lamb $19; Rae Williams, relief account, $15; Scott's Bakery, relief account, $12; Willis Newton, two lambs, $30; Earl Pollock, on salary, $100.

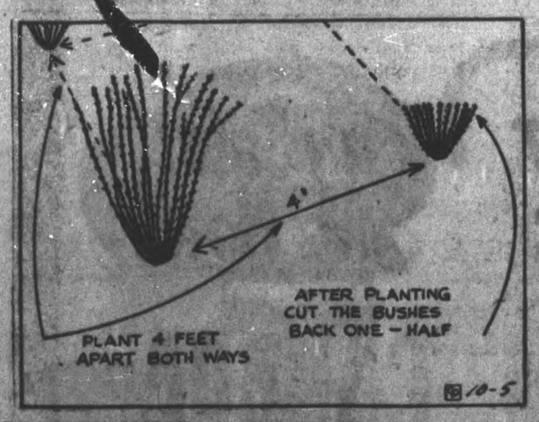
YOUR GARDEN . . .

Plant Bush Fruits This Fall



BY DEAN HALLIDAY

Did you have good luck with your Freedom garden vegetables this season? If you did perhaps you want to expand the garden and grow bush fruits, since any location and soil that has grown good vegetables can grow fruits.

Of the bush fruits currants are the most suitable for the home garden. They also have considerable ornamental value. They can often be used as an informal hedge on the property line to divide the flower and vegetable garden.

Gooseberries also have a place in the Freedom garden which contains bush fruits. They may be grown the same as currants. An exceptionally good variety is named Downing.

It is advisable to plant currants and gooseberries in the fall, since they shed their foliage and start growth again very early in the spring. Both are extremely hardy.

Plant the bushes four feet apart both ways, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Plant them at the same depth as they formerly stood in the nursery. After planting cut the bushes back fully one-half, as illustrated.

It is best to protect newly planted bushes over the first winter with a mulch of strawy manure.

There are three types of currant, the red, the white and the black. The red is the most popular for home gardens. The black currant is banned in most states because it is an alternate host of the destructive pine blister-rust disease.

Britons Debate Remobilizing Issue Uneasily

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A question argued up and down Britain today is: Should Dad get back into uniform?

Men who bade profane and heart-felt farewell to khaki after the Second World War have been asked by the government to come back at least on a weekly basis and lift the strength of the Territorial Army to 150,000 by next Spring.

My next-door neighbor's comments were typical. Resting from the [illegible] over the back fence:

"Well, how do you like that? Five blinking years in the army last time . . . All through the Desert and Italy . . .

"When I got out of the army I swore as big an oath as a man could swear they'd never get me into uniform again."

"No more they will," said his wife. "I won't have it — you going off again. You did your bit last time."

"If We Show The World . . ."

"Yes I know," he said uncertainly. "But this is different. After all it's only one night a week, some week-ends and summer camp. And if we can show the world we are strong it may keep something from happening."

"That's the way it starts," she cried despairingly. "Let someone else do it this time. I had five years without you . . . You should have seen this street during the war — not a man on it — just women and kids."

They looked at one another hopelessly. Their argument will be continued, and similar arguments will wage in thousands of kitchens, sitting-rooms, back gardens and pubs all winter. The country's answer will be known only when recruiting figures are totted up.

Meanwhile, the government is doing all it can to make the Territorial training as pleasant as possible. "Terriers" will get special pay and rations — even doing away with the old title of "drill hall" and calling it a "Territorial Centre."

Susan Hayward More Impressive With Each Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 55 (AP).—Proof that John Lund is well on his way to top stardom: Other studios are seeking to borrow him from Paramount.

Lund is being mulled by 20th-Fox for the leading male role in "Come To The Stables." He would play a popular composer who seeks rest from the mad world at a country estate, only to be beset with some nuns who live next door. Loretta Young and Celeste Holm will portray the leading nuns . . .

Garbo is eager to get back to work after all these years of inactivity. She calls producer Walter Wanger regularly and talks about their future film. Wanger says she's a "great girl" . . .

Prediction Department

Susan Hayward is my prediction for the screen's next top dramatic actress. She impresses more with each picture. Now two studios are seeking her services —Columbia for "Anna Lucasta" and 20th-Fox for "Cloak of Innocence" . . .

The outlook is good for Richard Widmark. He'll go right from "Down To The Sea In Ships" to "Innocence," in which he'll get his first romantic interest. After five pictures in 14 months, Dick would just as soon have a little rest.

Notes From Lots

Sydney Greenstreet voiceless, due to a cold . . .

Ava Gardner wants to get East after "The Great Sinner," — "so I can get a snootful of cold air" . .

Zachary Scott shaved off his moustache, "just for something different" . . .

Jack Carson's hobby is looking up the origin of jokes. He traced one back to Roman times. That wouldn't surprise radio listeners.

DOURO, Oct. 5 (ENS). — In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McManus and Rose, neighbors and friends gathered at their home Thursday evening. A pleasant social evening was spent with music and dancing and lunch was served. On behalf of those present, who regret the departure to Peterborough of Mr. and Mrs. McManus, an address was read by Mr. Fred Crowe and Mr. John Sullivan presented a floor lamp.

DEWEY of New York, making the circuit of western states in behalf of his Republican presidential candidacy, was presented with a fine string of silver salmon by the citizens of Kelso, Washington, when he paused there to speak. Increase Defence Budget—Col. Goforth

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—(CP).—A $500,000,000 annual expenditure for defence was recommended Monday by Col. Wallace Goforth, former deputy director-general of defence research, to maintain Canada's position as "pivotal hinge" in Anglo-United States defence plans.

He told a meting of the Canadian Club here Monday that the Canadian Parliament should pass a permissive selective service bill at the opening of the next session and the military budget should be increased from $235,000,000 to $500,000,000 annually within the next three years.

Shot To Death

NEW SALEM, N.S., Oct. 5 — (CP). — Clifton Mitton, 38, was shot to death by a hunting companion near this western Nova Scotia village Monday. It was Nova Scotia's second hunting fatality since the season opened four days ago.

Human Beings Out-Of-Season Hunters Warned

By RAE CORELLI

HALIFAX, Oct. 5 (CP). — For innumerable years, hunting seasons have opened across the country. When they do, hunters — who are breed of people with infallible faith in their own mortality—head for the woods bedecked in red. The brighter the red, the better.

Red is supposedly the hunters' woods passport. It will prevent him from becoming a target for an eagle-eyed, bird-brained fellow woodsman intent on taking home a prize, be it moose or squirrel. The bright flash of color will stay a hunter's finger on the trigger.

But there is one firm, immovable, unshakable sportsman who believes all this bunk about wearing red in the woods — is bunk. In a letter to The Halifax Mail, Gordon Baker of Bedford, N.S., says:

Red Causes Same Mishaps

"The writer . . . is far from alone in the opinion that the 'wear red' hunting season slogan is not only dangerous, but has actually been the indirect cause of serious, if not fatal, accident in the woods."

He continues: "No one has the right to discharge a high-powered rifle at any object which he cannot identify positively, be it red, black, or white, and no hunter has the right to fire on a partially screened object simply because no red is showing."

This gentleman, far from being a non-constructive heckler of custom, offers his "hunting license for the poor-sighted," which reads in part:

"The government assumes that you, the holder of this big game license, are reasonably sane, possessed of passably good sight and that you know exactly what deer, bears and moose look like.

"There is still a very strict closed season on humans.

"There may be hunters . . . who will be wearing clothing of a color almost or resembling that of the game you are seeking.

"If there is the least doubt in your mind that you can refrain from firing on these people, under any circumstances, you are hereby warned to stay out of the woods and thereby avoid the possibility of becoming an unwilling ward of the Federal Government."

Doomed to extinction?

A duck that nests in trees and prefers wooded swamps to open water! That's the Wood Duck, the most beautiful of our waterfowl. They are well protected by law, but the draining of wetlands and clearing away of the dead tree trunks they nest in presents a serious threat to their survival. Everything you do to preserve their natural nesting areas will help to conserve the Wood Duck for years to come.

The Labrador Duck became extinct before 1900. Today 44 stuffed specimens are all that remain of this little sea-duck, showing what happens when sound conservational practices are neglected.

Architects Cut Hospital Fee By 50 Per Cent

The architects of Civic Hospital have cut in half their fee on construction costs in excess of specified amounts. Their motive in this voluntary reduction of service charges, as expressed in a letter by Walter R. L. Blackwell to the council Monday night was "our sincere endeavor to assist them (the municipal authorities and Board of Governors) in the unforeseen difficult conditions confronting them".

The architects are the local firm of W. & W. R. L. Blackwell and J. S. Craig, associated with Govan, Ferguson and Lindsay of Toronto.

The reduction is from 3 to 4 per cent on the main building, and from 7 to 4% on the laundry and power house structure.

Blackwell Offer

The leter signed by Mr. Blackwell was, in part, as follows: "We have been considering for some time the matter of our fee for architect services in relation to the rapidly mounting cost of the hospital building.

To help relieve the situation and assist in the reduction of these costs we desire to make the following contribution.

Our present fee of 8% will apply only on the amount of $1,357,000 being the cost of the 1,180,000 cubic feet of hospital building at our estimated cost of $1.15 per cubic foot, which figure was adopted by the council Nov. 25, 1946. On all costs of construction over and above this amount of $1,357,000 the fee will be reduced to 4%.

Similar Reduction

In accord with the above suggestion, and further to our letter of Aug. 15, 1948, in which we reduced our fee on the power house and laundry building to 7%, we will make a similar reduction of our fee on this building.

Our reduced fee of 7% for the power house and laundry will apply only on the amount of $172,500, being the amount of our estimate in April 1948. On all costs of construction over and above this amount of $172,500, our fee will be reduced to 4%.

In making this contribution towards the cost of the hospital, we trust the council and the city and the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital will appreciate our sincere endeavor to assist them under the unforseen difficult conditions confronting them."

Get Fee Anyway

This letter was referred to the special hospital committee. The only reference to it was a later comment by Ald. Swanston in the discussion of plans for the nurses residence. He said the architects would collect their fee whether their proposed plans were accepted or not.

"I don't think they are giving us any great bargain or that they have done so much," Ald. Swanston said in regard to the Blackwell letter. "The extra costs of the hospital have been in the materials and labor that have gone up above what was estimated. I don't see where the architects are entitled to charge their fee on any amount over the $1,400,000 we believed the hospital was going to cost us. We understand now that the total cost may go up to three millions, but that is due to the increase in the cost of building. It is not the architect's cost."

Nurse Residence Plans Left To Local Firm

Sketch plans of the nurses residence at Civic Hospital are to be prepared by the local firm of architects, W. & W. R. L. Blackwell and Jas. S. Craig, as authorized by the council Monday night in a motion by Ald. Gordon Armstrong.

Ald. Raine recalled a previous opinion that in estimate of $738,000 was too high for the nurses residence.

"The architects would like official instructions to prepare plans", Ald. Raine, chairman of the special hospital committee, said. "This does not mean that we'll necessarily accept them, but it is hoped that the cost may be brought down to $450,000 by the elimination of some details which were originally considered. For this building I don't think we need the services of the Toronto architects, Messrs. Govan, Ferguson and Lindsay. They were engaged as hospital consultants on the main building, but it seems to me we don't need Mr. Govan in his previous capacity. If we retained them it would increase the fee by one per cent, or a little more.

Mayor Ovens recalled that the Toronto firm were specialists in hospital construction of whom there were only several in Canada. "The intention is to obtain plans of the nurses residence with an estimate of cost," His Worship said.

"As I understand it," said Ald. Armstrong, "we are asking for a sketch plan. Working plans would come later if we approved the sketch, which we would ask for even if we did go ahead with the working plans. It gives us an idea of what is in prospect. I think the architects should be given a maximum figure of cost, $450,000 if that is what we have in mind, and that should be included in the instructions to the architects. If the cost was going to amount to $750,000 we would be right back where we started. The architects should carry on so that we could get from them a fairly accurate estimate of the cost of this building."

Ald. Raine said: "the figure will be set, and they will have to cut their cloth accordingly. The figure will be set as to how much is going to be spent."

Accept Tender Of $24,858 In Sewer Laying

Acceptance of the R. A. Blyth tender of $24,858 for the laying of sewers was authorized, in a motion by Aldermen Dodds and Doug. Miller at the Council meeting Monday night.

Three bids were received for sewers on O'Connell Road, St. Catharines St., Rose Ave., Monaghan Road in the south end, Wolsley St. on the north border and Caddy St. in Ashburnham. They were: Spartan Contracting Co., $50,055; Macioli Construction Co., $33,712.37; R. A. Blyth, $24,858.

Reynolds Construction Co. are making "marvellous progress" on the latest Central Mortgage and Housing project here, Mayor Ovens said.

"The work is going ahead much faster than any other housing project built in Peterborough."

Central Mortgage has not yet decided to build on the west side of Monaghan Road 26 more houses of the present plans, thereby increasing the present No. 10 project to 226 houses.

These references were casual observations of the south-end work that is under way, with the first roofs already finished in the easterly group, west of the Locks Bridge and north of Brinton Carpet Co. Ald. Gordon Armstrong said there were 26 in that block south of Lansdowne St. Some of them will be ready for occupancy in eight or ten weeks.

"There are 70 basements in another block, and as many more have the footings in," Ald. Armstrong said. "I am mentioning this in the hope that sewers will be laid in time for tenants."

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Peck, Vancouver, last week is of interest to their friends in Peterborough and Lakefield. Mrs. Peck, 86, was before her marriage, Alice Strickland, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Percy Strickland of Lakefield, a pioneer family of the village and also of this county. They were married at Lakefield, went on their honeymoon to Vancouver, and remained there, many years ago. Mr. Peck reired 13 years ago as a marine engineer.

Safe To Use Ice From Two Lakes

LINDSAY, Oct. 5 — Summer residents and others using ice from the waters of Sturgeon and Pigeon Lakes can continue to do so despite the fact that several head of cattle died after drinking water in which a poisonous weed was growing in these two lakes this summer. And, according to Dr. J. T. Phair, Deputy-minister of Health for Ontario—they can continue to do so without fear of ill effects.

Dr. Phair writes: "Our investigation has established the fact that this condition was due to the concentration of blue-green algae in the bays along the shore where cattle had access to the water. The Department reported a similar instance in 1924 at Fraser Lake in the northern part of Hastings County. The condition is known as 'water bloom poisoning.'

It can only occur where there has been an abnormal growth of this algae under favourable conditions in sheltered bays. There is no record at any time of humans having been affected.

KINSMEN TO HEAR ROCK DOCTOR

Members of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club will have Douglas B. Weaver, M.A., of Lakefield as guest speaker on Thursday evening, Oct. 7. Mr. Weaver, a well-known geologist, will speak on mineral occurrences in the Peterborough area. He has taken a prominent part in the recent uranium discoveries in Haliburton and Peterborough Counties.

Rotarians Take To Hills, Touring Nepheline Mines

For the first time in Club history, Peterborough Rotary Club travelled 35 miles in a body on an educational trip in lieu of the usual club session. By motor coach and private cars, 60 members drove north as guests of the American Nepheline Corporation to view the mining operations at Blue Mountain with the beauty of the autumn wilderness thrown in for good measure.

The 'Rotarcade' got away to a smooth start and reached the property about 1 p.m., where the rough ride on the back roads had them hanging around the cookhouse door waiting for the cook to yell, "Come and get it."

They fell to on good miners' fare with a minimum of singing and speech-making. The shortest welcome, though sincere, came from host mine manager Ernest Craig, who said, "Welcome, I nearly missed my dinner."

Asks Volunteers

A few business details had to be attended to and Clare Collins urged more drive in their car ticket selling campaign and asked for volunteer teams to handle the project at various approaching affairs. He also told of progress in the ticket drive for the coming Paul Whiteman musical concert and that members should not advertise it as a dance.

After the fine dinner the party continued by motor from the camp site to the mine on the eastern slope of Blue Mountain where they were split up under direction of host H. R. Deeth, vice-president of the Corporation, one section continuing to the open quarry on the mountain top and the other to view the crusher house, mill and underground operations.

The group that went underground were taken down the incline shaft to the ore "grizzly" where an electric "mule" with a string of cars dumped its load over the "tipple" onto the grizzly bars. They were standing at the spot where a "raise" also spilled ore onto the grating from an open shaft that came out on the mountain top. Some members went below to the next level to see the steel "skip" being loaded from the chutes and followed the skip to surface where it dumped automatically into the crusher house bins. A tour of the crusher methods and grinding operations in the mill building made them familiar with the various processes the ore goes through to become a finished product for the ceramic industry.

Plant Shutdowns Aiding Power

The readiness of Peterborough industries to co-operate with the Utilities Commission in saving electric power by switching Monday operations to Saturday produced helpful result.

Use of power here Monday was 212,000 kwh. as compared with the quota maximum of 240,000 kwh. Not all the industries were shut down Monday.

"Today is really the test of our efforts," Ross L. Dobbin, Utilities manager, remarked to the Examiner. "The question confronting is how near we can reduce consumption to our quota level. If it is satisfactory, we won't have Hydro intervening with cuts. They will know before we do what our Monday total of kilowatt-hours amounts to, and we will have word from them in the morning."

Mr. Dobbin said he had no information from merchants about the extent of their proposed closing all day Wednesday.

"They could be a help to us in avoiding an order from Hydro to pull switches. And we need all the power saving that can be accomplished in the homes. We'll know tomorrow what we have done today, and what is in store for the rest of the week."

5-Foot Setback Hits Woolworth

"We might have to cancel our building plans for Peterborough," is quoted from a letter received by the council Monday night from F. W. Woolworth Co. expressing their embarrassment by the proposed five foot setback on Charlotte St.

The letter affirmed that the company had not bought all the land it felt necessary at Charlotte and George Streets for the store they intend to build. But cutting down aisle and show case width they had succeeded in accommodating the building to the property.

If the George St. frontage was to be reduced five feet, it was said, the company would be seriously concerned.

Sale Of Seals To Pay For Mass Chest Survey

A mass chest X-ray survey of children of secondary school age and all adults in Peterborough early next year was announced by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association following an executive meeting on Monday night. It was also announced that Christmas seals would go on sale in the very near future and the revenue received from this sale will help defray the costs of the survey and also the bi-monthly visits of the clinic to the hospitals.

Plans are underway for an open meeting in the city, probably next week, when Mr. J. E. O'Brien, secretary of the provincial association will be the guest speaker.

PLOWMEN'S WORRY

If this grand weather continues, as it was Monday, what's the big plowing match west of Lindsay next week going to do for rain? That's the question farmers are beginning to ask while their urban neighbors bask in sunshine and worry about the Hydro's insufficiency of electric power. You can't do good plowing, they say, in soil heavily crusted by drought. That's something for Alex Huston and Howard Quinn and the other local directors to wonder about, to say nothing of John A. Carroll, Toronto, secretary-manager of the international match.

Severe Shortage of Cement Halts Scores of New Homes

Building of some scores of new houses in Peterborough is being held up by an extreme and continuing scarcity of cement.

A contractor told The Examiner today that one man had 26 houses that he could start on at once—if he could get cement. This man himself is stalled with four which he probably will have to carry over to spring.

A dealer source said they had 32 houses which they have scant hope of building at this late stage of the season.

"There is some United States cement coming in from Buffalo and selling at $2.25," it was reported, "but the building supplies trade won't touch it. We were offered a car of it yesterday at $2.20 a bag. Their bag is about ten pounds more than ours. People can buy it if they want to. That is their business if they want to encourage that sort of thing. Our own cement price is 90c a bag."

A great quantity of domestic cement is going into the Hydro-Electric Commission projects. Dominion Government is said to have several large works under way. They are being served first. After them come the priority groups, such as Wartime Housing Co. and others. Even some of them have had to kick their heels waiting for supplies. Down at the bottom of the list is the general public, the private builders trailing the procession.

These few facts suggest the only answer to the local contractor's query today: "Where can we get some cement—and soon?"

The trade has no hope for the rest of this season. Frost will bring a solution by freezing most of the work until spring.

Charge BC Union Funds Used To Finance LPP

By RAY TIMSON

VANCOUVER, Oct. 5—(CP)—The 27,000 loggers of British Columbia's multi-million-dollar timber industry today were virtually without a union and the dues they have paid since its inception of 1937.

They also were told by James Fadling, president of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO), that some of their funds had been diverted to help finance the chief of the province's Labor Progressive Party.

Fadling, of Portland, Ore., late Monday obtained a supreme court injunction "freezing" all monies and records of the BC division of the IWA. The interim order will remain in effect until Friday.

New Union "Illegal."

It was declared "illegal" the new-born Woodworkers Industrial Union of Canada, formed by the leftist General Council of the B. C. division when it severed all international labor ties in a disaffiliation move.

A courtroom battle loomed on another charge by Fadling— that $100,000 has been spent by "The Communist-dominated B. C. Council" and in no way was the council accounted for the way it spent it.

The rebel district council, dominated by L. P. P. figures Ernie Dalskog and Harold Pritchett has filed a counterclaim against the International Union, claiming $9,634 advanced to the I. W. A. for contract negotiations. Earlier Monday, International officials claimed $18,945 is unaccounted for in the B. C. council books.

Locals To Make Choice.'

Meanwhile, throughout the Province, locals of the mighty lumber union assembled to decide whether they would remain in the I. W. A. fold or follow their leftist council into the new woodworkers industrial union, if it is certified.

Dalskog, who was president of the strife-torn I.W.A. in B. C. and boss of the new organization, said he expected 20,000 of the 27,000 unionists to support him. There are 13,000 non-union loggers in the province.

OECTA Hears Psychology Talk

Members of the O.E.C.T.A. of Peterborough, met Saturday, with Sister Marion, President, presiding. Reverend Father Coughlan opened the meeting with a prayer. The president then greeted the teachers, extending a special wlcome to new members.

The teachers were entertained and instructed by a folk dance demonstration in which the pupils of Immaculate Conception School took part under the direction of Sister Vincentia.

Guest speaker of the afternoon was Reverened Brother Philip, M. A., Phd. Head of the Psychology Department of Queen's University. Doctor Philip opened his address by defining psychology as "the application of common sense to ordinary life." He then discussed the part played by attention in the acquistion of knowledge. He shattered the illusions that motor control and intellectual determinig factors in attention. "The roving eye is not indicative of the wandering mind. Children learn more easily under ordinary attention than under constrained atention." He suggested the lower voice and the dramatic pause as devices to elict atention. The speaker encouraged questions from the floor, so that current problems might be dealt with.

Mrs. Leo Begley's musical contribution to the program was a French song by Bizet which displayed a fine subtlety of tone and interpretation, followed by a gay and attractive song, "The Sleigh." Mrs. Marion Aman was accompanist.

The following slate of officers submitted by nominating committe was approved. The executive for the coming year will be President, Reverend Father Coughlan, B.A., Past President, Sister Marion, B. A.; Vice President, Sister Stanislaus; Secretary, Mrs. C. Rodd; Treasurer, Miss H. Guerin; Councillors, Sisters M. Clement, Sister M. Ursula, Misses Rita Heffernan and Patricia Twomey.

Following the meeting the teachers enjoyed a social hour during which afternoon tea was served.

U.S. Develops New Airborne System

EGLIN FIELD, Fla., Oct. 5 — (AP)—The United States is making long strides in the art of airborne troop warfare, joint military exercises here reveal.

Among new techniques and equipment disclosed in demonstrations are two of major significance:

1. An airborne force now can move twice as many fighting men with the same number of aircraft as in the Second World War.

2. The conventional parachute may be on its way out as a method for dropping assault troopers, to be replaced by a rotary glider.

Operational plans and preliminary demonstrations for "operation combine" dealing with the airborne phase of these exercises, which are being run by the battle-tested 82nd Airborne Division, shows that one modern transport-cargo type plane can carry 42 fully equipped paratroopers compared with only 20 for most wartime types.

This means that not only fewer planes now are needed to get the same number of men into battle but that also fewer fields are needed from which to operate them.

Indications are that 55,000 men plus light artillery and vehicles are to be transported in about 1,500 airplanes and three thousand gliders, far better than in wartime campaigns.

Sidney Scobell, RR 3, Peterborough, pleaded guilty to being drunk in a public place and was fined $10 and costs.

RECORD SALE—This aerial picture was taken while the annual sale of the Manitoulin Island Livestock Co-operative was in progress. This is the second largest stock and feeder cattle sale held annually in Canada, being outranked only by one in British Columbia. Co-operative farmers on the island in Lake Huron pocketed roughly $382,000 as a result of the one-day sale, setting a record for the sale. This is the fifth year the sale has been held. Pens were almost depleted and most of the railway cars had pulled out for points in Canada and the U.S. when this picture was taken.

New U.S. Bomb Guides Itself Towards Heat

ELGIN FIELD, Fla., Oct. 5 — This proving ground of the United States Air Force has an uncanny bomb which is designed to guide its own fall on to enemy ships, factories, oil refineries, or other targets giving off heat.

Observers on Monday saw this weapon among a display of guided missiles.

The Air Force designation of the weapon is VB-6 or "heat-seeking bomb." Technicians explained the bomb "homes in" on any target which radiates more heat than its surroundings.

It was emphasized that the bomb is not yet ready for operational use. However, it is evident that research is well advanced because it was disclosed that the bomb has been test-dropped a number of times.

Taxation Highlights

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.— (CP). — Here are some of the highlights of the government's 1948 "taxation statistics" publication issued Monday:

Of the $1,317,706,890 tax collections made in 1947-48 the Toronto district shelled out the biggest individual share, $304,428,978. By provinces, Ontario led the field with $581,873,929. Quebec came second with $383,967,886.

During the last 20 years, Canadians have paid out more than $11,000,000,000 in tax. Of this about $8,000,000,000 was in the form of income tax, about $3,000,000,000 in excess profits tax and $128,352,371 in succession duties.

This year's income tax collections of $1,059,848,357 compares with 1947's total of $963,458,245. This year was also the biggest post-war income tax collection year, ranking higher than 1945's $1,072,758,068 and licked only by 1944's total of $1,151,757,035, a war-year record.

Similarly, 1948 proved a bonanza succession-duties collection year. The total of $30,828,040 was the highest on record.

Canadian corporations have shelled out $2,588,141,081 in excess profits tax since 1941. Individuals contributed $130,050,827. Corporations got a break in 1948. Excess profits tax totalled $213,886,014 compared with the high of $465,556,732 in 1946.

Canadian territory with the smallest total tax contribution in 1948 was the Yukon with $807,850. Next came Prince Edward Island with $2,550,139.

Of all the income tax acts, the War Tax Act gave the government the biggest yield in 1948. It swept into the treasury more than $1,000,000,000.

Some 7,000 companies showed a loss during the 1946 taxation period, compared with 23,000 which showed a profit. Minning proved a comparatively poor venture with 343 companies showing profits and 1,016 showing losses.

Girl, 11, Killed On School Swing

WYOMING, Ont., Oct. 5.—(CP). — Eleven-year-old Lois Ramsey died from head injuries Monday, within minutes of being injured when one of a battery of three swings she was riding toppled over on her at the local public school grounds.

Four other children on the swings also were thrown to the ground, but escaped with bruises.

The swing assembly was not secured to the ground, and it reportedly tipped over previously last month.

The five girls were riding the swings at the same time, with the Turnbull girl on the same swing with the victim. It is believed that two of the three swings reached the upswing at the same time, causing the whole structure to fall over. In the fall, one of the bars struck Lois on the head.

COLORFUL WOOL DRESS—Many a dress carries its smartness and fashion interest on its sleeve. Bright sleeve interest is at its best in this design for Fall 1948. The slim black wool dress buttons crisply along a raglan line to one bright sleeve of glowing red, deeply cuffed and gold-embroidered in an heraldic design. This is a nice frock for general daytime wear on its own now, with furs or under a coat later.

Resume Sewing For Britain Under Red Cross

Twelve ladies spent a busy afternoon Monday in the Red Cross sewing room, corner George and Brock Sts., which has re-opened for the fall and winter season. They were engaged in making warm flannel shirts for boys which are designated for the children of Britain.

These garments are urgently needed with winter coming on, and there will have to be dresses and other articles made for little girls, too. If able to sew and willing to help, there is a chair and all necessary equipment available at the centre, which will be open each Monday and Thursday from two to five o'clock.

The Red Cross Society of Peterborough is making a fine showing and deserves the support of all women in the city who can give a few hours of their time.

Difficulties Face Many Fall Brides

About a half-million girls will become brides this fall and, according to one top-flight marriage counsellor, more than half will be experiencing troubled matrimonial seas by Christmas.

And, as if that weren't discouraging enough, Dr. James F. Bender, director of the National Institute for Human Relations in the United States, estimates that one-third of this fall's brides will be telling their troubles to divorce judges within a few years.

After exhaustive study of family life and the underlying causes of present-day divorces, Dr. Bender is convinced "our brides today should dedicate themselves to seeking to restore dignity and prestige to marriage."

While agreeing that modern bridegrooms are not without serious shortcomings, Dr. Bender writes:

"All the evidence puts up the fact that marriage, instead of being a 50-50 proposition, is in reality about a 75-25 proposition (with the wife supplying the 75). For that reason our young wives must bear the greater part of the responsibility for our marital breakdowns."

In addition to their desire to have "everything 50-50," Dr. Bender says that today's brides are entering wedlock with one or more of the following shortcomings:

They are restless from overstimulation . . more emotionally on edge than they were 10 years ago.

They don't know what a thimble is. Three-quarters of all young brides who bring marital troubles to him admit they can't bake a pie.

They think babies are all right, but—

They can't make up their minds what they want in life, such as a husband or career, or both.

They are apt to be too assertive. Unintentionally they now frequently take the dominant role in marriage.

They know too much about sex and too little about love.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM M. ROCHE of Peterborough, whose wedding took place recently in Assumption Church at Windsor. Mrs. Roche is the former Rosemary Barth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barth, Riverside, and her husband is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Roche, Peterborough.

Brighton Girl Lives With Indians

LORLIE, Sask., Oct. 5—(CP)—From Brighton, England, to the Files Hills Indian reserve near this town 60 miles northeast of Regina, was a long way for Mrs. Myra Anderson.

She met her husband in 1945 while he was serving overseas with the Canadian Army and followed him to the reserve in 1947. Elmer Anderson is a member of the Peepeekises band, treaty Indians mainly employed in agriculture.

Mrs. Anderson finds the reserve a lot different from Brighton. But she says Canadian homes are much warmer than British houses.

Woman Barrister Ignores Emotion

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5—(CP)—Proof that sex is no barrier to a professional career is the success of Dr. Frances Moran, the only woman senior counsel in Dublin, Eire. She visited Winnipeg recently under the auspices of the Canadian Federation of University Women's Clubs and was a guest at government house.

In her profession, she says, "you are a barrister first and a woman second. From the moment you enter college to become a barrister you are trained to ignore emotional outlook towards a case."

Dr. Moran has scored many firsts. She was one of the first women called to the Irish bar in 1924. She was the first of her sex to become regius professor of law at Dublin University, in 1944, which means she is head of the institution's law school. Dr. Moran is the only woman to "take silk" in the British Isles, result of being women senior counsel, equivalent to the Canadian KC.

Travelling provdies the greatest enjoyment and relaxation for the busy woman barrister. She has travelled extensively in Europe. This is her second visit to Canada and her first tour of the West. Dr. Moran will return to Dublin in October.

The home was attractively decorated with baskets of pink chrysanthemums and gladiolia.

Mrs. Rowan and her daughter received the guests in the living room, where the wedding gifts were also displayed. Mrs. W. L. Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Wise Girl Seeks to Chart Happiness in Marriage

A girl who is contemplating matrimony wants to know what questions an engaged couple should ask each other. A wise young woman. A female Daniel came to judgment. For if sweethearts did less billing and cooing and more sleuthing into each other's habits and tastes and mental processes before they took each for better or worse, there would be a slump in the number of divorces.

Dorothy Dix

According to the formula by which courtships are conducted, the high contracting parties spend their time telling each other how beautiful and wonderful they are and yes-yesing everything the other says. This makes it not only possible, but common, for boys and girls to enter into a contract that will be the making or the marring of their lives, without having the slightest knowledge of what sort of life partners they are getting, or on what kind of platform they will stand.

So it would save a lot of trouble if every engaged girl would break away from the petting long enough to ask her prospective husband just how much money he was making, how big a balance he had at the bank, and what his views were concerning giving his wife an allowance for her own personal behoof and benefit, and questions asked.

Dazzled By Show

Many a girl marries a man under the belief that he is rich because he showered orchids on her and took her to swanky places of amusement, only to find out after marriage that he was a showoff trying to dazzle her, and that she has to pinch pennies for years to pay for the expensive presents he made her. And many another wife discovers that when her husband swore at the altar to endow her with all of his earthly goods, it was a figure of speech, and that she has to chloroform him before she can get a quarter out of him.

Another question the engaged girl should ask the man she is about to tie up with is whether he is going to spend his evenings with her or with the boys at the pool room. Still other pertinent questions on which girls should get reliable information before the wedding are:

Whether the prospective bridegroom thinks that a wife's place is in the home, and that she should desire no livelier amusement than cooking and scrubbing and baby-tending and listening to him snore behind his evening paper. Whether he will look upon her as an unpaid servant to whom he does not even have to be polite, because she canont give notice and quit. Or whether he will be tender and kind and do everything he can to make her happy.

Whether he will be a critic on the hearth who will find fault with everything she does, and tell her how fat she is getting; or whether she will always be a Lady Love to him and prettier than any glamour girl. Above all, every engaged girl should try to find out whether the man she is thinking of taking on as a life job is one of the kind who passes into the silence when things don't happen to please them, or who goes into tantrums and kicks the cat and spanks the baby if somebody has moved his pipe, and who has to be handled with gloves and flattered and cajoled to keep the peace. Or whether he is a reasonable human being who doesn't have to be babied in order to get along with him. For on the answers to these questions depends her happiness or her misery.

Of course, there are questions that every man should ask the Girl Friend, but that's another story.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, October 6.

Under a generally sinister, treacherous and intriguing sidereal rule it might take more than customary precaution, alertness, sagacity and sound principle in order to safely and profitably navigate the shoals. From every angle, business and personal, there is danger from fraud, duplicity and subtle snares with danger of entanglements with those in authority, as well as in social, cultural and affectional relations.

It might be as well to postpone major decisions, or to act upon the highest tenets of principle and honor, during this menace.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are warned of a year in which it is advised that the best preparation for the incoming year is to establish an open and above-board policy of honesty, and high principle, since any other approach is likely to lead to a sinister morass of subtlety, craft, schemes, and intrigues, in which the final outcome is so beclouded in danger and obscurity as to make the denouement anything but delectable. Home, reputation, the emotional and spiritual life as well, could be indrawn to such pernicious and baneful pitfalls and ignoble alliances.

A child born on this day should be grounded in high principle, honesty, straightforwardness and integrity, lest it be the dupe of its own feelings and emotions as well as sinister forces from without. Well grounded it could escape all harm.

Dealers Find Antiques Running Short

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—Mrs. Roslyn Rozier thinks that in another 10 years dealers in antiques may have sold themselves right out of business.

Mrs. Rozier, a dealer herself, says "we are running out of things to sell, and people are beginning to realize that junk is junk—and not buying it.

"There'll be collections from estates to be broken up and a few people will always be wanting to sell. But even now we are finding plenty of trouble getting good stuff. The American, French and British countrysides have been ransacked and fine-tooth-combed."

All along New York's antique row on Third Avenue, dealers say business is swell. They agree the big demand is still for 18th and 19th century English furniture, Chippendale, Hepplewhite, Adams and Sheraton. Things are so active in the antique business that dealers have little chance to worry about any bare showrooms in the future.

Period pieces, as Mrs. Rosier wryly pointed out, aren't like automobiles or modern furniture, turned out with an eye to meeting demand. The supply is strictly limited. The United States customs department, for one thing, has decreed that an antique is an article made before 1830 (such are duty-free). It's the demand which fixes the price.

Mrs. Rosier, whose 50th Street shop specializes in imported antiques, estimates prices have increased 150 per cent in the last nine years. It was in 1939 that furniture factories started converting to the production of such items as army cots and barracks furnishings. "Prices went up when antiques were about all you could buy," Mrs. Rosier said. "Now they have dropped a little for the second class stuff, but high prices are holding on the good pieces. There's a big demand."

Big Advance In Prices

She pointed to a handsome chest she recently brought back from France.

"That's a perfect piece of French Provincial, with a bomba—curved front," she said. "Before 1939, it would have sold for $250 or $275. Now it's priced at $1,000. a number of people are interested in it."

Most dealers, including Mrs. Rosier, agree French Provincial has been coming into its own during the last five years. It's smart, hard to find—even in France—and expensive.

"Incidentally," said Mrs. Rosier, "prices for antiques in France are as high or higher than they are in this country. People with money to invest are buying antiques instead of stocks and bonds because they are afraid of conditions there."

Paul Joseph of the Olga Erlanger establishment on 57th Street said the continuing demand for antiques is the result of gradual easing of the housing shortage.

"People couldn't get what they wanted during the war, and now they are ready to spend the money they saved," he said. "The timeless stuff, Chippendale and the others, always is in steady demand. Right now we are feeling the demand for French Provincial, and that, of course, never is easy to find."

He said the bottom has dropped out of prices for later Victorian pieces, although there is a steady call for early Victorian—"sort of like Louis XV and really not bad."

PRECISE SLIM LINES—Your handsome new suits will look slimmer as to skirt, more moulded as to coat, with an appearance of extreme femininity no matter how classic the tailoring. A good example is shown above, made of yarn-dyed pale gray gabardine delicately scored with black braid binding. It's an American adaptation of a French original, and it is presented in a manner currently fashionable . . . with important hat and cape-stole of handsome mink. The notion is to keep a woman looking feminine, no matter how precise her precision tailoring can get. Favored length for this slim suit skirt hits just below mid-calf, complementing the long, column-making jacket.

Men Improperly Dressed For Their Own Wedding

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, Oct. 5. (CP) — Warning to prospective bride-grooms: Some fashion experts (women, of course) are convinced you make a good field for missionary work in wedding styles and etiquette.

For some men this warning comes too late. At least half of them committed the unpardonable sin of being dressed improperly at their weddings. That's the opinion of the experts.

"There should be a campaign among grooms for correct dress—they need guidance as well as brides," says Jean Stocker, bridal consultant of a big Winnipeg department store.

Mrs. Stocker says grooms were guilty of errors in dress and etiquette at 50 per cent of the weddings she attended in the past year.

Editors of a Canadian bridal publication go further. They claim only one groom was dressed correctly in hundreds of Canadian wedding photographs they examined recently.

One reason grooms make style errors is that they aren't as style-conscious as women. They can't be bothered to wear formal dress when it is called for.

Money — or lack of it — is another important reason.

"Men don't want to buy $150 outfits they will perhaps never wear again," says Mr. Stocker, who was married after becoming bridal consultant. "Also, they dislike putting their attendants to the same expense. They're more practical than brides in this respect."

But brides never wear their formal wedding clothes again either. So the grooms' excuse of being practical just isn't practical.

Millbrook Man Works On Book

MILLBROOK, Oct. 5 (ENS)—Just published by the University Press, in Toronto, and the Oxford Press in England, is "The suppression of the Rebellion of the North West Territories of Canada, 1885," by General Fred Middleton, edited and with introduction by Dr. G. H. Needler, of Toronto, who was born and brought up in Millbrook, a member of a pioneer family of this community. Dr. Needler was for 45 years on the faculty of the University of Toronto, and for the greater part of that time, dean of his department.

Just 19, and a student at the University of Toronto, when the North West Rebellion broke out, Dr. Needler saw active service throughout the campaign. He joined the Overseas' Officers Training Corps in 1914 a branch of the Canadian OTC, to furnish young officer recruits for the imperial forces, was made commanding officer, and rose to the rank or major. Since his retirement from the University staff in 1936, Dr. Needler has kept fully occupied with research work in Canadian history and literature.

He is presenting a copy of this latest book to the local Public Library, the critical and biographical notes in the volume, intended for student use, being entirely his work. Although in his 82nd year, Dr. Needler looks younger, and can still strike out quite vigorously on his daily walks. His previous published books include a verse translation of the Niebelungenlied, The Lone Shieling, and The Letters of Anna Jameson to Ottilie von Goethe.

Dr. Needler's younger daughter, Miss Winnifred Needler, has charge of the Egyptian and Palestinian rooms at the Ontario Museum, Toronto, and has lately returned from a ten months' trip to Egypt where she studied historical monuments a first hand. She has now in the printers' hands a book covering the history of Palestine.

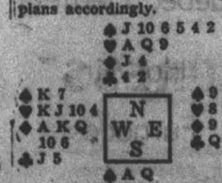
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

COUNT HIM FOR PLENTY

YOU CANNOT place too much faith in the indications of strength given by a not-vulnerable opponent by some fairly high bid during the auction. But when a vulnerable player sticks his neck out at an appreciable altitude, such as three or more, you can usually count on him for plenty. If you find yourself later in a tough contract, the success of which depends on the location of outstanding honor cards, it pays to consider them as being in his hand, and build your playing plans accordingly.



(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣
3 ♦	Pass	Pass	5 ♣

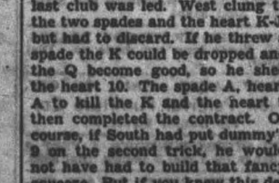
If you are going to be the same kind of hand-hog as South, you had better also be a player like him, who can squeeze the maximum out of a hand. A better bid on his second turn, after he had made that great strength-showing jump before, would have been 4-Clubs, leaving room for North to bid again, which he would have done at 4-Spades. That would have been a cinch contract, with no losers in eight [illegible] monds and a trump. But South put the weight on himself with his bid [illegible] seven tricks.

West pulled off his "book" with the first two tricks in diamonds and then tried to scare South out of taking the heart finesse through a lead of the 4. The declarer figured out his plan, however, seeing no chance unless that finesse would work and also noting that West's bids almost surely showed possession of the heart K.

South based his plan on West having every consequential card, so built a squeeze. After winning with the heart Q, he played for a club division and ran the rest of the suit. He discarded from dummy to leave there the spade J-10 and heart A-9 as the last club was led. West clung to the two spades and the heart K-J, but had to discard. If he threw a spade the K could be dropped and the Q become good, so he shed the heart 10. The spade A, heart A to kill the K and the heart 9 then completed the contract. Of course, if South had put dummy's 9 on the second trick, he would not have had to build that fancy squeeze. But if you knew this declarer you would never expect him to use simple means when complex methods were available.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. North-South [illegible].)

If West had overcalled with [illegible] East had stuck in a heart bid and the diamond K is led, how should South play for 6-Spades, doubled by West?

Rotarians Take

formation they were driven to the mountain top up the switchback road by experienced drivers. The panorama from the summit was breath-taking in the burst of autumn colors and they were able to pick out "Kosh" Lake, Big and Little Mountain Lakes and Stony in the distance. They also saw the open pit quarry where a great deal of the ore is blasted and trucked to the mouths of two raises to fill the loading pockets underground.

Two women, Mrs. John Fisher of Rittiman, Ohio, and Mrs. C. C. Pilon, accompanied their husbands on the tour and enjoyed it every bit as much as the men and kept step on the stiff climbing that was necessary. Guests V. T. Griffith and J. Copping of the [illegible] were also present and Joseph Wright, mine superintendent; John Mather, mechanical superintendent; Ralph Crawford, engineer, and John Sabatino, mine foreman, all played a splendid part in explaining their various operations to interested Rotarians.

By the time the coach and last cars left the property late in the afternoon, everyone agreed that it was the finest outing the club had enjoyed for many years. For many Peterborough members, it was the first time they had an opportunity of viewing that section of their county and they were noticeably impressed.

Torso Of Woman Matches Limbs

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 5.—(AP).—The nude torso of a woman found near Olean and three limbs discovered more than 50 miles away near Wales Center, "matched perfectly," Sheriff Arthur D. Britt says.

After a pathologist's report was given to Britt last night he said there 'is no question but that it is one body, a woman of about 130 pounds, five feet, one inch tall and undoubtedly a mother."

The torso was found Sunday by two men looking for a post on which to attach a mail box.

Two knees and a forearm were found near Wales Center two weeks ago. One knee and the forearm were discovered by a farmer while repairing his fence. The other knee was found by state police.

Authorities estimate all the parts were exposed about a month. They believe the head, arms and legs were removed by use of a saw. The torso had no stab or bullet wounds, Britt said.

Man Pleads Guilty To Three Charges

JoJhn McGuire, 30, of 521 Parnell St., today pleaded guilty to three charges: drunkenness in a public place, creating a disturbance at a local restaurant, and assaulting a police officer while performing his duty.

On the charge of assaulting PC Andre Dalton on Monday night, McGuire was ordered by Magistrate Philp to pay a fine of $100 and costs, or three months in jail. Fines of $10 and costs were levied on the first two charges with alternatives of 10 and 12 days in jail, respectively. Jail terms would run concurrently.

When PC Dalton attempted to arrest McGuire it is alleged he was kicked in the stomach suffering painful injury.

CLAIMS SEEING MISSING GIRL

A girl looking very much like the 21-year-old medical student, June Baker of Toronto, who has been missing since Thursday was reported in a George St. restaurant on Monday night. An unidentified resident of Peterborough told police he saw the girl enter the restaurant with two men and they later drove away in a car at about 11 p.m. The licence number was obtained and an inquiry is being made.

NIGHT SCHOOL REGISTRATIONS

Registration on Monday evening for night school at the PCVS were the highest ever recorded on the first night. A total of 656 people registered in comparison with 610 last year. The sewing classes are already filled and there is now a waiting list of 51. C. S. Browne, principal, says that the record first night registration does not necessarily mean an increased attendance this year, it will depend upon the number registering on Wednesday.

Sherbrooke St. 'Promoted' To Aid Traffic

So that Sherbrooke St. residents may know what is afoot in town planning that will directly affect them, they probably read the recent report of a project to provide a secondary and parallel street to reduce traffic volume on Charlotte St.

For that purpose Sherbrooke St. is being nominated, at least its stretch from Monaghan Road to George St.

[illegible] to Charlotte, so it is considered, Bolivar St. halts at Park, Patterson and Wolfe Streets have jog flaws or other defects. That leaves the field to Sherbrooke St.

"What will that mean to Sherbrook St. frontages?" the Examiner asked an alderman yesterday. "Will it take out the boulevards, for instance?"

His answer was: "I'd say that the street will be widened to the sidewalk curbs. The council is not dealing with it at present. This secondary crosstown street is coming from the town planning committee."

Sherbrooke St. people who have kept their boulevards green and planted with trees and shrubs will have to sacrifice them. At least that is the prospect. They want width on these heavy-travelled streets, although Charlotte St. retains its boulevards.

If Sherbrooke St. gets the promotion that is brewing, there will be no compensation for the property owners who would prefer to remain as is.

West Will Not Hand Over Atom Information— 'We All Fear Russia'

Effective International Control Necessary Before Stock Piles Will Be Destroyed; Britain's Dread 'Real And Abiding'—McNeil

PARIS, Oct. 6—(Reuters).—Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, today told Soviet Russia that Britain and the United States would not agree to hand over information on the atom bomb or to destroy stocks because "we all fear Russia." He was addressing the political committee of the United Nations General Assembly in the resumed debate on control of atomic energy.

The committee had before it the Russian proposal for simultaneous conventions (1) to destroy atom bomb stock piles and (2) to set up international control.

Must Be Effective

McNeil said the kernel of the question was whether Russia agreed that a fully effective international control system should come into operation before the two conventions were put into effect.

He added that an "unbridgable gulf" existed between the majority (the Western Powers) and the minority (the Soviet Union and its supporters) in the Atomic Energy Commission."

"Let us, in simple unambiguous language, seek to understand the differences so far lying between us," he said.

"The United States recognizes that there will be absences of confidence and tranquility upon which alone world peace can be built as long as she holds in her hands this strange power, atomic energy—half curse, half blessing."

"Certain Conditions"

"So she has decided to hand over to the world this awesome secret on certain conditions."

"We are asked: Why not unconditionally?"

"The United States and Britain and all the governments who signed the majority report will not agree to hand over this information, to destroy the bombs and stocks of nuclear fuel semi-conditionally because, as M. Spaak (Belgian Foreign Minister) has already told us with words, imagery and passion that I cannot match—we all fear Soviet Russia."

Fear of Russia might be unjustified but in Britain it was "real and abiding."

"Nor will it diminish with this most recent act against our diplomatic representatives," McNeil added, referring to Russia's recent restrictions on foreign travellers.

LESLIE E. BLACKWELL, Attorney-General for Ontario, who Tuesday called for an open convention of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Party to select a successor to Premier George A. Drew, and announced himself a candidate.

Leslie Blackwell New Candidate For Premiership

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Attorney-General Leslie Blackwell, 50, will be a candidate for the Ontario premiership.

In an announcement Tuesday, he called for an open convention of the Ontario Progressive Conservative party to choose a successor to Premier Drew, newly-elected national leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

Reports had indicated existence of a plan to have Mr. Drew appoint a member of his cabinet—Agriculture Minister T. L. Kennedy had been mentioned—as Ontario's new premier, Mr. Blackwell said. He felt that such a step would be "fatal to the future of the party."

Will Call Cabinet

Premier Drew, on a holiday at the Seigniory Club in Quebec, said Tuesday night that he will call a cabinet meeting within the next day or two to discuss his resignation from the Ontario government and the procedure for the selection of his successor. He said he had no comment on Mr. Blackwell's announcement.

Mr. Kennedy Tuesday night said he thought it was "the right thing" to hold a convention.

Mr. Blackwell, attorney-general since his election in Toronto Eglinton riding in 1943, said that following the Ontario election last June he tendered his resignation with the idea of returning to private law practice. Since then, John Bracken had resigned as national leader of the party and Premier Drew had been selected as Mr. Bracken's successor.

No Discussion Yet

During this period there has been no formal discussion in the cabinet or in a caucus of members of the party of the course to be followed in choosing a leader in Ontario.

"Most of those who had some reason to feel they should let their names stand at a convention felt they should not make statements of intention nor conduct personal campaigns unless Mr. Drew decided to stand for the national leadership and was chosen as leader....

"Representations have been made to me and to others to indicate that they will let their names go before a convention so that one may be assured."

Two Choices: UN Or Force, Says Britain

Only Alternatives To Break Blockade; Russia Still Silent

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(CP).—Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain told the United Nations Security Council today that the western powers' appeal to the Council was the only alternative to breaking the Russian blockade of Berlin by force.

While Sir Alexander spoke, Russia's Andrei Vishinsky sat silently listening to the debate on the Berlin crisis. Earlier he showed signs of both interest and boredom. He returned to the Council Chamber after lunch without indication whether he would break his silence.

Tuesday the deputy Soviet foreign minister said he would not participate in the debate on the British, United States and French charges that Russia is menacing peace by blockading Berlin.

The "illegal and forcible measures" imposed by the Soviet government in Berlin left the western Allies with three courses of action, Sir Alexander saaid.

These were:

1. To submit passively to the efforts of the Soviet government to deprive them of all their authority and rights in Berlin, and thereby to consolidate the political system which it desires forcibly upon Britain and the Soviet zone."

2. To "continue discussion under duress."

He added "it is inconceivable that the British government, for their part, could consent to either of these courses.

3. To "resort to force as the only possible way of defending and maintaining their legitimate rights."

To do that, Sir Alexander said "would be equivalent to adopting the very methods employed by the Soviet government, of which we now complain."

For their part my government are content to place themselves in the hands of the Council, and I am authorized here and now to declare that they are prepared to carry out in all good faith any resolution which the Council in its wisdom may see fit to adopt."

Vishinsky sat through the first part of Sir Alexander's speech with his translation ear phones off, taking notes rapidly. His face was grimmer than it was at the morning session.

The deputy United States delegate, Philip C. Jessup, led off the debate with a long statement on American views on the Berlin blockade, now more than 100 days old.

Takes Notes

Vishinsky at first took copious notes and made great flourishes indicating he was interested. Later he threw down his pencil and earphones, whipped out a French Socialist newspaper and began to read.

He was taking notes, however, when Jessup, a Columbia University professor, declared at the outset of his speech:

"We have not made a restricted or qualified submission to the Security Council."

There was no immediate indication of how Vishinsky would carry out his avowed intention of not participating in the hearing against Russia. Asked if he would speak during the council session, he told reporters: "Wait and see."

Angry At Reporters

Vishinsky was in a towering rage at reporters when he left the Palais de Chaillot. This was in contrast to the somewhat jovial mood he displayed when he arrived before the meeting.

He pushed reporters aside, say-

Walled City Of Meshed Badly Hit

Big Mosque Damaged Report 'Quake Tremors All Over The World

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 6 (AP). — Two hundred persons were killed and thousands were injured by an earthquake last midnight, a dispatch from Meshed said today.

Damage was reported great. The dispatch said parts of the famous Meshed mosque called Gowharshad collapsed.

Meshed is the capital of Khorasan province in eastern Iran.

A walled and holy city, Meshed lies on a fertile plain about 100 miles northeast of Tehran. It contains the superb mausoleum of the Imam Riza, which is visited annually by about 100,000 pilgrims. Commercially, it is an important regional trade centre.

(Strong earth tremors were reported from various observatories Tuesday night. The West Bromwich, Eng., observatory reported severe shocks, centred in the area of northern Iran, continuing for three hours. Fordham University in New York placed what it called " a ripsnorter" of a quake some 6,400 miles from New York. Fordham said the quake seemed far heavier than the one which took 3,238 lives at Fukui, Japan, last June.)

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 — (CP). — The Tehran quake which killed and injured hundreds of persons in Iran was registered on the seismograph at the Dominion observatory, seismologists reported today.

The official report of the quake here came almost exactly at the same time first reports of the disaster filtered in over news wires. Although the shock was recorded here nearly 24 hours before the first news report was received, there was delay here in changing and reading the records.

The observatory reported the "strong earthquake" registered on instruments at 3.25 p.m. EST Tuesday, with the record continuing about 2½ hours.

Manitoba Fires Trap Group Of Fighters

WINNIPEG, Oct. 6. — (CP).—Forestry officials said today they were not too concerned over the safety of a group of fire-fighters reported trapped inside a circle of fire near Fisherton, a few miles northwest of Winnipeg.

S. W. Schortinghuis, chief of Manitoba's forest protection service, said the men probably went into the fire area along one route and came out over another. However, forest rangers were going in to investigate.

Three fires converged while the men were trying to build a fire break to check a spreading wall of flame. All carried shovels and picks.

Meanwhile, patients and staff of an Indian hospital midway between Dallas and Hodgson, on the wide land strip separating Lakes Winnipeg and Manitoba, feared that forest fires burning five miles away might bear down on their premises.

Winnds Dangerous

Though the area about the hospital is fairly open, observers said strong winds could send flames leaping through scrub and grass with ravenous haste.

Staffed by six nurses, the hospital normally accommodates 40 patients, but approximately 60 are reported to be there now, including a number of persons from Dallas, the village six miles north which was evacuated Tuesday.

Appeal Tweed Liquor Ruling

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 6 — The recent decision of Hastings county Judge J. C. Anderson with respect to the recount of ballots cast August 25th in the vote on the beverage room question at Tweed, will be appealed at the Court of Appeal for Ontario, it has been learned.

The decision handed down by Judge Anderson upheld the count at the time of the vote when the "wets" failed by two ballots to gain the required three-fifths majority. In the vote the "wets" polled 494 ballots as against 333 for the "drys". The "wets" required 496 votes to win.

Malcolm Robb, local solicitor appearing in the interests of the Tweed "wets" stated the matter had been appealed before the Court of Appeal. However, it was not expected the case would be heard until November.

Taking Uranium

PARIS, Oct. 6.— (AP).— Dr. Jan Papanek Tuesday accused Russia of milking Czechoslovakia of "millions of dollars worth of uranium" daily through forced German labor.

Papanek, anti-Communist former permanent Czech representative in the United Nations, made the charge in the United Nations budgetary committee. Czechoslovak and other Soviet-bloc delegates tried vainly to prevent his appearance.

Papanek said uranium is exported daily from Jachymov (Czechoslovakia) "without any accounting or payment of anyone.

"Not even Czech miners can earn their living there, for the Russians are importing Germans to Czechoslovakia to keep the facts from the world," he charged.

Woman's Head Believed That of Dentist's Wife

BUFFALO, N.Y., Oct. 6.—(AP).—A suburban Kenmore dentist has told police a woman's head found on a lonely country road is that of his wife.

Dr. Howard C. Lindeman, 37, was released early today after police questioned him for five hours. He was taken into custody less than a half-hour after he established identity Tuesday on the basis of dental work. No charge was filed.

Mrs. Lindeman, 38, disappeared Aug. 21. She was the mother of a two-year-old daughter.

Police believe the head found Tuesday near Little Valley had been sawed from a torso discovered Sunday alongside a road near Olean. A pathologist reported the torso and two knees and a forearm found on a roadside near Wales Centre two weeks ago "matched perfectly."

Lindeman had viewed the limbs and torso. He told police he had no way of telling whether they were those of his wife.

However, Mrs. Elizabeth Westcott, mother of Mrs. Lindeman, told police the limbs and torso were not her daughter's. Police estimate all the parts were exposed about a month.

Dr. Oliver Jones, anatomist and assistant dean of the University of Buffalo Medical School, said the dissection apparently had been done by a person well-acquainted with anatomy

Girl Under Nursing Care, Was In 'Mental Blackout'

TORONTO, Oct. 6—(CP).—Tears trickling down her face, June Baker stepped from the Ottawa train shortly after daybreak today at the almost-deserted Leaside station here. Accompanied by her mother and father, their faces showing the strain caused by their daughter's sudden and mysterious disappearance last Thursday, the 21-year-old University of Toronto medical student entered a waiting automobile.

The co-ed was found in Ottawa yesterday working as a $14-a-week waitress in a small restaurant. She was discovered by Bruce Wallace of Toronto, a delegate to last week's Progressive Conservative convention, who recognized pictures of the missing girl he had seen in Toronto newspapers.

Dr. W. E. Blatz, professor of psychology at the University of Toronto, friend of the Baker family, who has been acting as advisor to the parents, said the girl would be placed immediately in a nursing home to recover from mental sickness.

Mental Blackout

Hes said the girl's action in leaving home without letting her parents or anyone else know was due to "a mental blackout." The doctor discounted any other conclusions.

The girl, described by Dr. Blatz as "too brilliant for her own good," collapsed when she saw her parents yesterday. They flew to Ottawa when they heard she was found.

She had packed her bag and hid it behind her house. She left Thursday and went to (Toronto) Union Station. The train to Ottawa was the first one and she took it."

"She is not in any trouble," Dr. Blatz said, "but she is suffering from delusions.

Her Own Actions

"There was no inducement by anyone. Her actions were of her own volition."

For some time while she was in Ottawa June denied her true identity to everyone, he said, "especially to Mrs. Kellock."

Even in her deluded state she had been "clever" in discarding the brilliant green jacket which would have identified her and wearing a drab-colored rain coat.

"We shall be consulting another doctor," he said.

Under Sedatives

The girl was placed under sedatives by Dr. Blatz.

In a statement issued to the press, Dr. Blatz said:

"June is now under sedatives and in a badly agitated state. She undoubtedly is delusional, and at this stage it is mostly rest she needs."

At the home of Mrs. Clarke she said she was "Mrs. Parker of Toronto." Mrs. Clarke was struck by her appearance of being a "well-bred young woman." June was hired as a domestic and

Forest Fires Rage Unchecked

BLIND RIVER, Oct. 6 — (CP). —Cutting a swathe of destruction through rich timberland, the huge Grassett township forest fire near here, Tuesday night roared unchecked. It had burned over 1,450 acres — mostly spruce and pine.

Reinforcements were flown in all day and equipment was diverted from other fire areas to combat the blaze. It is the largest of 21 fires now being fought in the Blind River-Sault Ste. Marie district of northern Ontario.

Constant aerial patrols are being maintained over the fire and forestry officials estimated that about 250 men would be on the scene by this afternoon.

Three new small fires broke out but they were reported under control Tuesday night.

Report Cominform Meeting In Germany

BERLIN, Oct. 6 — (AP). — The United States military government's official German newspaper said today a meeting of the Communist International Information Bureau (Cominform) was held recently in Dessau, in the Soviet zone of Germany.

German Communist leaders participated in the meeting, Die Neue Zeitung said

One of the major items on the Cominform agenda, the newspaper said, was "the attitude of the Cominform in the event of an open conflict."

The A.M.G organ attributed its information to circles close to the central secretariat of Germany's Communist-dominated Socialist Unity Party (S.E.D.).

UK Labor Party Split Over Attitude To Russia

LONDON, Oct. 6.(CP).— The Labor government's old trouble with back-benchers who do not like Ernest Bevin's foreign policy has broken out again.

While some waverers of a pinkish hue have swung behind the government's strong front to Russia, there remains a critical group of perhaps 20 members suspicious of the re-armament program who think Foreign Secretary Bevin could do more to satisfy Russia.

Even in the party leadership there are differing viewpoints on Moscow. Bevin has described the Russian proposals for big power disarmament as "suspicious" but War Secretary Emanuel Shinwell said in a recent speech they should be examined and tested for their sincerity.

Moscow radio picked up Shinwell's statement and said it had "special interest."

Shinwell later explained that he backed Bevin's policies but W. J. Brown, Independent Member of Parliament for Rugby, said in a newspaper article that Shinwell should be sacked for a serious indiscretion. Brown wrote that Bevin "exploded" when he heard of Shinwell's statement.

On the Labor party's left fringe is Konni Zilliacus, M.P. for Gateshead, who is conducting a speaking campaign against re-armament and the Bevin policy. In his speeches he argues that the demobilization slowdown and the arms program mean slashing of the economic recovery program.

It is "wicked nonsense" to talk of fighting over Berlin when the peaceful way to which labor is pledged has not even been tried, he declared.

Bevin is unlikely to have a good word for a resolution tabled in the House of Commons by a group of members asking for creation of a commonwealth bloc. In recent speeches Bevin has indicated hope of commonwealth co-operation in stamping out Communist plans.

Seven Dead, 300 Injured As Hurricane Hits Florida

MIAMI, Oct. 6—(AP).—South Florida's "Gold Coast" dried out today after a tropical hurricane scrubbed the area with wind and rain. One person died of a heart attack and six others were injured in the Miami area but all Florida apparently escaped serious wind and water damage.

Cuba counted 11 dead, 300 injured and crop damage estimated at $6,000,000 when the storm raked the island before moving on Florida. Key West escaped serious damage.

The Caribbean-born storm scored a direct hit on Miami. The centre of the great swirling mass passed directly over the city early Tuesday night, roared on to Fort Lauderdale and sliced out to sea at Pompano.

At 5 a.m. EST the hurricane was 120 miles east northeast of West Palm Beach, moving up the Atlantic at 18 to 20 miles an hour.

Hurricane winds covered an area 50 miles in diameter around the centre and gales extended outward 60 to 70 miles.

There was no local clue or indication of the source of the disease. It usually disappears with the first frosts of autumn.

Wide Stock List Sells At Firm Prices

TORONTO, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Prices quietly firmed as a wide list of stocks traded here to-day. Trading was moderately active in the stronger industrial list and golds and base metals slowly strengthened. Western oils showed a slightly weaker tone as only a handful of stocks showed any change.

Industrials strengthened on fractional gains over a large list of stocks. Papers were brighter and Canadian Vickers Preferred highlighted a strong steels list with a $1 gain. Liquors edged ahead and Imperial Oil traded actively for a gain of ¾.

Utilities also added and foods firmed.

Smelters, International Nickel, and Noranda added fractions in a firmer base metals list. Waite Amulet rose 15 cents and Pend Oreille, Silanco, Labrador, and East Sullivan gained 1 to 15 cents.

A few selected junior golds moved ahead on penny advances as trading slowed to a crawl in the gold issues. Teck-Hughes weakened 5 cents in the seniors and Pickle Crow, Kelore, Negus, Conwest, and Aunor were stronger juniors.

baby-sitter in the evenings.

Then June calmly went into the city and took a job of a waitress. There, a Toronto delegate to the National Progressive Conservative Convention spotted her, "tipped" her parents in Toronto, and a Provincial constable was called in to search restaurants for her whereabouts.

Mrs. Clarke said she engaged the girl to perform light household duties and to act as a baby sitter in the evenings in exchange for room and board. She was "completely amazed" that the girl she had known as "Mrs. Parker" was the missing Toronto medical student.

"The moment I saw her," Mrs. Clarke told reporters, "I realized that she was an exceptionally well-bred young woman and obviously a person of education and culture. She told me she was 'Mrs. Parker' and that she was from Toronto. She offered no other information."

"Mrs. Parker" arranged to work in the Clarke home only in the evenings and be free to seek other employment during the daytime. After she was shown to her room, the girl left to find a job in Ottawa.

She returned later in the evening, said Mrs. Clarke, and said she had been successful in obtaining a job as a waitress in a Bank street restaurant.

"She seemed pleased at her success and appeared to be quite cheerful and happy."

At 10.30 a.m. Tuesday, she admitted her true identity in the presence of a family friend, Mrs. R. L. Kellock, wife of Mr. Justice Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada.

"I am not going to explain anything. I am not going to say anything. I do not wish to listen to anything. There is not a single correspondent who speaks in good faith."

Vishinsky took his seat in the council chamber as presiding officer Juan Bramuglia, Argentine foreign minister, called the Security Council to order at 11:50 a.m. (4:50 a.m. EST).

Jessup said the Soviet Union was using all means to force the three Western Powers out of Berlin and added:

Ready To Meet

"The moment the blockade is lifted, the United States is ready to have an immediate meeting of the council of foreign ministers to discuss with the Soviet Union all questions relating to Germany."

The next question is whether Vishinksy will kill any possible action in the Security Council by using his big-power veto to quash a majority decision.

Russia contends only the council of foreign ministers, and not the U.N., is competent to thrash out the Berlin and general German question.

The United States, Jessup told the council, has made every effort to reach agreement with the Soviets and "remove the threat to the peace which has been created by the Soviet Union and which, while it remains, is the insuperable obstacle to free negotiations."

Threat To World Peace

He emphasized repeatedly that the blockade is a threat to world peace, saying "all the world knows that this is true."

The Russians were forcing starvation on Berlin, and an effort made "to deprive two and one-half million men, women and children of medicines and food and clothing and fuel, to subject them to cold and starvation and disease, may seem to some as a small matter.

"But to us, the welfare of the people committed to our charge is a matter of serious concern."

Industries Plan Weekend Work During Blackout

TORONTO, Oct. 6 — (CP). — As compulsory blackouts started throughout Southern Ontario, industrial operators stepped up their plans to work week-ends and nights to help save electric power.

Many Toronto and district firms are already operating at night and week-ends.

One firm at nearby Trenton will work Saturdays and Sundays but will remain closed Thursday and Fridays. At Kitchener, Local 67 of the Rubber Workers Union voted Tuesday to work in their shoe making plant this Saturday on a straight-time pay basis.

Hamilton hydro commission general manager A. W. Bradt said Tuesday Hamilton factories may have to close down two week days but work Saturdays and Sundays.

These Sunday labor plans prompted another outburst from the Brantford ministerial Association. Association members held a special meeting Tuesday to air their protests against Sunday work.

"We don't like Sunday work," replied assistant Hydro manager Norman Brantfield, "but it is the only way to keep full production and full pay without having switches pulled."

The Lord's Day Alliance approved Sunday work in view of the crisis caused by the power shortage.

Toronto was slated to have its first compulsory blackout today. Municipalities whose switches were pulled Tuesday included Oshawa, Stratford, Tavistock and Preston. Sarnia is threatened with hourly cutoffs every day.

Begin Union Talks With Newfoundland

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—(CP).—Historic Confederation negotiations under which Newfoundland will join Canada as a 10th province start today.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent and a government delegation will meet with a delegation from Newfoundland which landed aboard a chartered plane Tuesday night.

The two delegates will meet at a plenary session in the red-carpeted chamber of the Parliament Buildings. It will mark the second time in a year and the fourth time in history that the two countries have sat down to discuss terms of union.

COBOURG, Oct. 6 — (ENS). — The amount of the debenture issue which will be in force before the end of 1949 may appear alarming in that the amount is $884,373.98. However there are a number of facts which the Mayor and council have outlined. Before going into a financial analysis of the situation, it is pointed out how necessary this work is.

There will be a number of debentures retired within the next few years. For instance in 1949, a collegiate institute debenture, of which the balance is now $1,310.36, will be retired next year. In 1950 two local improvement by-laws at present totalling $17,988.77 in debentures, will be retired. In 1952, two utilities debentures, $26,963.02 and $47,169.77, will be paid off and in the following year, $13,373.74, for a total of $87,406.53. This will reduce materially the debenture debt of the town. Furthermore in 1958, 1959 and 1968, there are more debentures maturing.

The new debentures are being written with an interest rate which will be between 3¼ and 3½ per cent, as compared with debenture interest rates in earlier years of 5 and 5½ per cent.

In the schedule which follows, it should be noted that in 1933 the town had a total debenture debt of $800,000 and that this had been due to an increase added to the debenture debt of the year before, which at that time stood at $494,900. Another point of interest is that when the present debentures are added they are being done at a time when the 1947 debenture debt stood at $177,000.

In showing the total debt of $884,373.98, it should be pointed out that the utilities debenture balance of $87,406.54 and the new utilities issue of $119,613.80, are actually liabilities of the utilities which will be in time written off by the utilities, with the town in the position of the guarantor, the amount involved having no relation to the mill rate or a total taxpayers' liability of $677,353.65.

Debt Schedule

		Mills
1928	$500,380.00	47.
1929	$484,300.00	48.6
1931	$517,965.00	52.5
1932	$494,900.00	52.82
1933	$800,000.00	50.
1934	$785,500.00	51.
1936	$607,500.00	49.
1937	$566,000.00	47.
1938	$515,000.00	45.
1939	$515,200.00	42.
1941	$410,300.00	40.5
1942	$356,000.00	40.
1943	$303,000.00	41.
1944	$274,000.00	40.
1945	$242,800.00	35.5
1946	$210,500.00	40.
1947	$177,000.00	47.
1948	$142,948.00	53.

In the foregoing, the mill rate is the total rate for all controlable and uncontrolable expenditures.

Peterborough HPE Veterans Thumb Noses At Old RSM

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 6.—Lieut.-Col. A. A. Kennedy, DSO, of Owen Sound, former commander of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was re-elected to office for the third time as president of the regimental association at the annual meeting of the organization following the fourth annual reunion here.

Also re-elected were Vice-President RSM Angus Duffy, and secretary treasurer Captain Len Hyslop, both of Belleville.

Picton and Napanee were named as the locale of the next regimental re-union with the final selection left to the members of the association executive. Picton was named as the logical first choice.

Branches of the association represented at the meeting were Assoro, Toronto; Moro, Trenton; Duffy, Peterborough; Naviglio, Kingston and the Cornwall branch.

Branches are named after famous battles in which the regiment took part. And thereby hangs a story.

When the Peterborough branch selected a name, it immediately chose "Duffy", the name of the wartime regimental sergeant major. This was against constitutional regulations and the matter was brought to the attention of the Peterborough branch executive by R.S.M. cmfwypetaoipnpu tive by RSM Duffy.

"Listen, Sergeant Major," growled one of the tough Peterborough originals, "you gave us nothing but a battle all the time we were over there. So what?"

The Peterborough branch was named "Duffy".

During the business session, Lieut.-Col. Reg. Abrams was named chairman of the committee in charge of the printing of the regimental history. Standardization of regimental ties and crests will be the work of a committee headed by Major Fred Burtt, Trenton.

George T. Lingard, age 64, of 53 Young Street, reported by the police as the driver of the southbound car, received a cut on the chin, but was allowed to go after treatment.

The front of both cars were reported by police to have been extensively damaged.

Conservative Policy

The Conservatives have stated a policy in 29 resolutions drawn up by committees and accepted with few amendments by the Ottawa convention. It has the bravery to be expected in the platform of a party in opposition which does not have to implement its promises immediately and is concerned with making them attractive to voters. There are plums for everybody except communists, and for every section of the country. Because it is the platform of a party in opposition and because the Conservatives themselves are depending on the new leader more than on the platform, too large importance must not be given it. When we examine the dish to see what has been cooked up, these two qualifications are kept in mind.

* * *

It is not a centre-of-the-road policy. It is well to the right of even Mr. Bracken's political creed as he outlined it on the first day of the convention. There could have been no possibility of Mr. Diefenbaker winning the leadership of the party from the delegates who approved this policy. It is a Conservative, even a Tory policy, and the only true Tory among the contestants was Premier Drew.

* * *

Its central arch is free enterprise. Again and again throughout the structure of the policy the arch is repeated like an architectural theme. It is on this that the Conservative party will stand or fall. The theme enters into the clauses on housing, marketing wheat and gold, social insurance, health program, employment of natural resources, cost of living, labour. Here are sample extracts:

(From the resolution on Free Enterprise): "We believe that a system of free and competitive enterprise operating under the proper restraints against monopoly and unfair competition which are imposed by the civil and criminal law is the only sound basis for personal liberty".

(From the resolution on Labour): "The Progressive Conservative Party believes that an ever-expanding level of production and opportunity for employment in Canada under a free enterprise system will gain the greatest job security and the highest take-home pay for Canadian Labour".

The clear, rugged and perhaps too simple emphasis on free enterprise and the profit motive will be hailed with relief by those who believe in the beneficence of capitalism and who feared lest the Conservatives should be waylaid by any lures of planning. The Conservative policy will not of course appeal to people who do not believe that personal liberty has its only sound basis in free enterprise.

* * *

The Conservative platform is not as forthright and vigorous as some supporters would have us believe. The resolution on the cost of living illustrates this. Here it is in its entirety:

"Cost of living is a matter of grave concern to all citizens. We will attack this problem by reducing the cost of government, by the reduction of income and other taxes and by encouraging and freeing production. Maximum production is the surest way of reducing the cost of goods to the consumer. We advocate that the production and sale of all foods beneficial to health be permitted in Canada".

Some Conservatives at the Convention thought that this clause was inadequate. Indeed, even people who are not Conservatives might think in these days of maximum production that "maximum production" is not "the surest way of reducing the cost of goods to the consumer". Much depends on the kind of production (whether consumer goods or girders for a new movie house) and on where the profits go and how large they are.

* * *

The resolution quoted above sounds rather queer because of its last sentence. That sentence was introduced as an amendment. It must be the sentence to which the Toronto Globe and Mail had reference when it said editorially:

"The unqualified demand for the removal of the existing ban on margarine was an example of the delegates' determination to define their views candidly and with positiveness".

It is the only phrase in all the 29 resolutions which could have any reference to margarine. We, like some of the delegates, do not think that this is calling a spade a spade, or margarine margarine.

* * *

The party is called Progressive Conservative. Mr. Drew said that the platform was the most progressive of any Canadian party. He may have been referring to the numerous resolutions on social security, veterans, housing, completion of the Trans-Canada highway, assistance to the Maritimes, to B.C. and the like. The program, including extension of the armed services, is almost as elaborate and costly as any the C.C.F. have devised. It is difficult to understand how the Conservatives could, if they achieved power, put this program into effect and at the same time reduce tariffs, raise the income tax exemptions and lower the tax rate. They cannot count on the surplus which the present government has built up, for that has already been used to pay off large amounts of the national debt.

* * *

It is also difficult to believe that the serious and informed officials of the party can believe that more production will be a panacea, unless they are prepared to curb the diversion of manpower and materials from investment (where so much is now going) into consumer goods. To do that would, of course, be interfering with free enterprise. However, all this is only a party platform.

A Nation's Doctor's Bill

On July 1 of this year Britain's new national health scheme came into effect, and the people of Britain have been making the most astounding use of it. People are having their eyes examined and their teeth attended to in numbers far exceeding anything foreseen by the people who prepared the scheme, or the socialist legislators who put it into effect. Dental treatment alone is costing more than seven times what was expected; approximately 30,000 estimates of necessary dental care are being sent to the appropriate board for consideration every day. The dental plan, which was estimated to cost $28,000,000 a year, is apparently going to cost something like $220,000,000.

The number of applications for spectacles is described by sober British papers as "enormous" and "incredible". Pharmacists are swamped by the numbers of prescriptions which they are suddenly called on to fill; the county of Middlesex alone, with two million people, is expected to require more than 6,700,000 prescriptions this year. The pharmacists also report a heavy demand for expensive drugs and appliances — presumably trusses, braces and the like.

There are people in Britain who feel that this is a scandalous situation, and that the free government treatment is being abused. Canadians who have lived for some time in England may have their doubts about this. One of the most painful marks of being "lower class" in Britain was to have badly decayed teeth, or ludicrously bad false teeth. No one could be blind, either, to the fact that many people were wearing cheap spectacles which they had bought "ready-made" in a shop, and that many children who needed the attention of an oculist had not received it. And the stock complaints of the English poor were rupture in the case of men and varicose veins (horribly described as "me bad legs") in women.

It is not surprising that these people are snatching eagerly at their first chance to get the medical attention they need. The cost will probably be very heavy for several years. But can we doubt that the outcome will be good? The English poor have a mighty spirit, but they have appallingly neglected bodies. If, in the course of two or three generations, the national health scheme can correct some of their obvious physical ills, it will be cheap—whatever the cost.

An Unfortunate Resemblance

We feel that we cannot permit the death of Warren William to pass without a brief tribute to a man who gave a great deal of pleasure to many millions of movie-goers. After a successful beginning on the stage he went to Hollywood in 1932, when the talking pictures had created a demand for actors who were also trained speakers. He possessed pleasing gifts, including a handsome face and figure, but it was thought by many people that his appearance was against him; he bore such a striking resemblance to the late John Barrymore that he was inevitably compared with him, and it was assumed by unthinking people that William shared not only Barrymore's features, but some of his erratic personal habits.

Warren William was last seen in a film version of Maupassant's novel Bel Ami. His resemblance to Barrymore was never more striking. It was unfortunate that his career was shadowed by a resemblance to a greater actor which was purely a matter of chance.

CANADIAN CAUSERIE

Why Canadians Are Bad Talkers

By GEOFFREY VIVIEN

NO one, I imagine, questions the assumption that we are bad conversationalists? If any proof is needed, the best lies in the dullness of our Parliamentary debates. Here the art of talking has its highest assignment—a kind of prolonged tete-a-tete with Destiny; and one would expect to find an especial distinction in the Canadian proceedings since here (and here only) are united the two great traditions of oratory of the modern world, the French and the English. Yet in fact our debates have all the wearisomeness of a long train journey. Somewhere in crossing the wide Atlantic our inheritance has got lost; and our attempts to untie our tongues on formal occasions are generally as hapless as a penguin's attempt to fly. Why?

* * *

CHIEFLY, I think, because of mistrust. We mistrust conversation as "unprofitable". It cannot be distilled, like whiskey, and used for building up foreign credit. (If it could, Ireland would be one of the richest nations on earth!) It lives and dies with the moment, as exciting, erratic and beautiful as dragonflies in their flight. At the same time it is a great thief of time, a serious crime in our code; and it plays casually with ideas, which for the sensible Canadian is like playing casually with an atom bomb. In a word it is an art, akin to music but without even the good reason for existence that music can give to matter-of-fact people—that she is mother to an industry.

* * *

IT is the tragedy of great talkers that their art dies with them, and even when they are lucky enough to have an inspired biographer at hand, as Dr. Johnson had in James Boswell and Winston Churchill has in himself, they still leave only a fraction of themselves behind. The tone of voice, the gesture, the timing and the whole business of making a phrase astonish the air—all these are lost for ever. The great actor has to accept this limitation on his immorality, though today he can look forward to a permanent record of his work in the talkies. But this may be a doubtful gain; style in acting, like style in clothes, becomes ridiculous as soon as out of date. I think we might have a rude shock if David Garrick returned and gave us his Hamlet. And he would no doubt find our present stage style equally intolerable, especially the convention which Stephen Haggard characterized so aptly in a letter to Athene Seyler: "So many actors nowadays act as if they were aware of being watched and must therefore behave as inconspicuously as possible, for the sake of good manners".

* * *

IT seemed possible that the talkies would do something for the lost art of conversation. Is not dialogue a kind of conversation? The answer to that one is: No! Dialogue is at best a kind of shorthand notation of character and at worst a product of gag-factories which handle words as a match-factory handles trees. Conversation can only be achieved by a man who is in love with words.

* * *

RADIO may yet revive conversation as an art. The English "Brains Trust"—a rather more solemn version of our Information Please Program—aimed at something of the sort. And in Dr. Cyril Joad they found a man who might, one felt, have held his own for a while in any of the old haunts of good talk—the Mermaid Inn, the Turk's Head, Will's Coffee House and the like. In America, Alexander Woollcott was an even more hopeful portent, and many thought that the illustrious past was renewed in the dining room of the Algonquin hostelry, where he brought together a circle that included Heywood Broun, Robert Benchley, Marc Connelly, and Brock Pemberton. But in Canada—well, we must be hopeful.

* * *

OR shall we make an effort? Courses might be given at the universities in the Art of Conversation. How delightful examination-time would become—a visit to the local inn for the gentlemen, and for the ladies a tea-drinking in the style of a noble salon. (But where would we get adequate professors? I can think of only one suitable candidate and he drives a truck.) Beyond university, the school status of the "Conversationalist" would have to be carefully built up. When he dined with the great the fact would appear in the social columns of the press. And gossip-writers would carry items such as: "I was told confidentially that leading Conversationalist A. is now earning $10 for every spoken word. He generously made me a present of $95 today, telling me that he's planning to spend the winter in the Bahamas. The $5 is for the apostrophe". Absurd? Well, perhaps. But one of the most graceful ways in which help came to Oscar Wilde in his downfall was in the form of a cheque for £1,000 as a "wholly inadequate recognition of the pleasure his conversation had given."

* * *

THE love of conversation goes on even in Canada, like a spring of water, sometimes underground, never wholly drying up. And it breaks out in the most unexpected places. Here is an account from an old friend, historian Gourley, of a gathering about one hundred years ago in an Ontarian mansion:

Leaders in the conversation were well chosen and freighted with interesting subjects, free from controversial tinge and tendency. Then at the table the hostess would contrive to place a lady modestly talkative and silver-tongued by the side of a taciturn gentleman. She would mate a voluable gentleman with a sweet amiable lady of not too great a flow of words....

It has the right idea—the genuine seriousness with which the art of conversation should be taken. But there is one dreadful flaw: "Free from controversial tinge and tendency." How terribly Canadian!

Letters To The Editor

PROPOSED HISTORY OF PETERBOROUGH

Sir: The undersigned is engaged in the task of compiling a complete history of the settlement and development of the city and district of Peterborough covering the past 150 years. For this purpose, it would be appreciated if any persons possessing diaries, letters, pictures, and other data of historical value dealing with events and people in early Peterborough would get in touch with me. Any such materials which are sent to me for study will be handled carefully, returned by registered mail, and acknowledged in the book.

I would also like to hear from any others who have personal knowledge of historical events and landmarks in the district, including stories and reminiscences of pioneer forefathers, in order that I might arrange to visit them and gather such materials accurately when I am next in the neighbourhood.

There are thousands of people living in the Peterborough district whose ancestors helped to found this thriving community 100 years or more ago, and their co-operation will go far towards making the proposed history complete and authoritative as well as interesting and instructive.

LEISURE AND MARGARINE

Sir: The recently announced butter purchase is, of course, only a partial solution to the shortage—from both the consumer and dairy viewpoints. The latter claim that higher returns from fluid milk, cheese and other users are responsible and a better price for butterfat would remedy the situation. In my opinion that would only create a shortage in some other product or, as is more likely, force others to raise prices also, thus enriching the farmer and storage operator without altering the shortage, because people don't readily change habits when times are good, nor are such adjustments easily made.

In the U.S., parity for fluid milk is $3.55 and for butter .56½, with actual prices around $5.00 and .81 respectively. In view of this, their higher grain prices and purchasing power, and the fact that Wisconsin and other leading dairy states have climates similar to ours, our price structure on dairy products seem ample high.

It appears that our dairy farmers, who have been pampered for some time, look to the official swivel chair rather than the one-legged stool to better themselves. Or are farmers just too prosperous to bother with a few dairy cows which would tie them down to a regular everyday job? Anyway, why should they when beef brings such a fabulous price? With some other commodities also priced sky high, it would take a price rise incentive that is out of all reason to overcome the butter shortage, and a moderate one would make no impression.

The trend toward more leisure makes it imperative that we conserve our inadequate milk supply for beverage and other food uses where suitable substitutes are not available. Oleomargarine can fill the gap, be produced less tediously, and provide food and vitamin requirements now in short supply in low income homes, and which are highly essential for stamina and health in a rigorous climate such as ours.

Yours very truly,
JOHN W. GILBERT.

NOT PERFECT

The male half of a new dance team was pleading with a producer.

"You never saw anything so sensational," the dancer raved. "At the finish of our act I take my partner by the hair and whirl her round for exactly twenty spins. Then I wind up the whole thing by heaving her through an open window."

The producer paled.

"Heave her through an open window," he repeated incredulously. "Do you do that at every performance?"

The young man shrugged.

"Nobody's perfect," he admitted. "Sometimes I miss!"

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha....When Jesus heard that, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby....

Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.... Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.... Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again....

Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go. (John 11: 1, 4, 17, 21, 23, 41-44.)

Tabby Versus 'The Rest'

At this time of year when field mice and grey rats begin to feel the nip in the Autumn air and seek a warm cellar as their Winter quarters, there arises the question of the best defence against these ugly and destructive beasts of the field and home. Not a few stick up for the tabby-cat as the best means of keeping down the four-footed household pests, and in some cases cats have done the job of rodent-elimination with great success. The Cornwall Standard-Freeholder takes comfort from the thought that "a cat can earn her keep" in this fashion.

But that's just the point. While a good and preferably a mongrel cat can earn its keep by battling mice and rats it seldom does—not in Ottawa at least. The overwhelming proportion of this city's cat population is so overfed that they would let a mouse or rat cross the room a few feet away without flicking a whisker. And what holds good for the private home also holds good for the institutional cat in Canada's Capital. When the Bureau of Statistics building near Rideau Falls was afflicted with one of its more serious rat plagues, cats were brought in as members of the staff.

By a gentleman's agreement, the cat was supposed to kill the rats and in exchange the Dominion Government actually paid $1 a month for milk for each animal. The statistical cats originally did kill a number of rats and mice but in a few months were corrupted and would lie around the corridors objecting to move even for a VIP who had come down to the Bureau. They were corrupted by members of the Bureau staff, who would take quite unneeded and unwarranted pity on the cats and share their lunch with them—the lunch in most cases being more palatable to pussy than raw rat or raw mouse. In the service of their country these cats, even as their brothers and sisters in private homes, became pets, their hunting and fighting abilities dulled.—Ottawa Journal.

A BRITISH OPINION

Ask Citizens Co-operate, Prevent Fires

This is Fire Prevention Week, in which the objective is to point out forcefully the duty of every citizen to co-operate in preventing fires. Records show 90 per cent of Canada's fire loss last year could have been avoided. Nine out of ten fires could be prevented if every citizen would do his share in removing fire hazards and exercising care in handling materials that can cause fires.

Fire Chief George Smith gives a few simple rules to remember in the home. Extinguish cigarette, cigar butts and matches before throwing them away. The 1947 report of the Dominion Fire Commissioner shows that the careless smoker is the number one fire bug. Smokers were responsible for a total of 18,202 fires last year.

Never smoke in bed. It is an extremely dangerous habit. Keep matches out of children's reach, Chief Smith warned. Never use gasoline to clean clothing or floors. Dry cleaning at home with gasoline is just asking for trouble. People who thought they could save a little money by following this practice found that the 1,824 fires they caused were much more expensive in the long run.

Have all worn electric cords and wiring replaced. Be sure and have an electrician make the needed repairs. Never allow rubbish to accumulate in the basement, shed or yard. Fires can get a quick start and spread rapidly, the Chief declared. Carelessly discarded cigarets and matches or sparks from stoves or furnaces will often go out of their own accord if there is no rubbish or other combustible material to ignite.

Clean Out Attic

Clean out all old pieces of furniture, books and papers in the attic. Have the chimney cleaned and repaired before using it. Replace all smoke pipes from furnace and stove that are rusted or defective before starting the winter use. Never hang an oily dust mop or furniture polishing cloths in a pantry corner. All these things have caused fires, he stressed.

Finally, says Fire Chief Smith, talk to the children about Fire Prevention and when in doubt as to the methods of preventing fires in your home, call the Fire Department which is only too glad to assist you in your problems.

WCTU Holds Annual Thanksgiving Meeting

FAIRVIEW, Oct. 6 — (ENS) — Mrs. Elmer Milburn opened her home Monday afternoon for the annual Thanksgiving WCTU meeting for Smith township and Lakefield village when 30 women were present.

The president, Mrs. J. Gordon Mann, opened the meeting with a Thanksgiving poem. The worship service was taken by the Bridgenorth women, with Mrs. R. T. Petterson in charge. Rev. D. P. Morris gave a short talk and led in prayer. Mrs. Clayton Telford and Rev. Morris sang.

Mrs. C. Bell was appointed to look after temperance in Sunday schols and day schools. It was moved that in future each church be responsible for topics of meetings in the various communities. A splendid paper on Christian Stewardship prepared by Mrs. Percy Darling and given in her absence by Mrs. W. W. Yale was enjoyed.

Mrs. Austin Poast and Mrs. Clarence Mann read poems. Mrs. Mann conducted a reception service when two new members were received, Mrs. Walter Heard A. Heard and Mrs. R. T. Petterson. This brings the total membership to 40 members. It was decided to send $10 to the budget fund.

John L. Lewis Enters Fight, Blasts Truman

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (CP).— Intrusion of the critical international situation and the blast against President Truman delivered by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers of America (AFL), today dominated the United States presidential election campaign.

The first-named development could be read as significant of the utmost gravity in world affairs.

Lewis' blast against Truman could be interpreted as the "kiss of death" for Republican candidate Thomas Dewey whom Lewis didn't mention.

When Lewis came out against his old friend President Roosevelt in 1940 his miners apparently paid no attention and Roosevelt went on winning elections.

Lewis got the headlines today with his bitter condemnation of the President but the international aspect of Tuesday's developments provided more food for thought.

Dewey's own representative on the United Nations delegation in Paris, John Foster Dulles, flew to Albany, NY, Tuesday to make a personal report to his chief.

Later Tuesday it was announced that Truman had called home State Secretary Marshall, who heads his delegation in Paris, and cancelled speaking engagements in New York to meet Marshall here Saturday.

Nobody here discounts the gravity of the situation created by the Russian attitude at the General Assembly in Paris. But observers wonder what could be said by or to the returning delegates that could not be said over the fast communication systems which operate between here and Paris 24 hours a day.

HELP PREVENT FIRE LOSSES

LET'S ALL DO OUR PART . . . AND FIRES WON'T START

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, OCTOBER 3-9

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A TON OF WATER

Fire Loss in 1947 in Peterborough amounted to $368,957.00, representing 51 fires. It's the duty of each one of us to do our part in preventing fires. A few simple precautions and a great many fires may be prevented.

8 Out of 10 Fires Caused By Carelessness Chief Says

"Eight out of ten fires can be prevented if we just stop and think," said Fire Chief George Smith in an interview today, dealing with fire prevention week. Carelessness is undoubtedly the cause of the large majority of fires throughout Canada. Last year there were 52,931 fires causing damage totalling more than $57,000,000 and 390 deaths.

During the past five years 1,815 people have lost their lives in fires. Damage during the same period totalled $220,394,032 caused by 258,817 fires. The fire loss for Ontario from 1943 to 1947 was 522 deaths, a loss of $73,733,633 and 88,732 fires. Peterborough during that period had 228 fires causing damage totalling $646,046.

More than two-thirds of all deaths occurred in dwelling places, which ranged from apartment houses to dwelling trailers. Many of these homes were completely destroyed, although the majority were only damaged. However, even if a home is only damaged, the resulting loss may be crippling financially to the owner or tenant. With the present housing shortage, the total loss of a home is more than ever something to avoid at all costs.

Wiring Trouble

Fire officials are stressing care in the installation of electrical wiring, a job for the expert and not for the amateur. The proper maintenance of heating and lighting equipment is equally important. Good housekeeping generally, with avoidance of piles of rubbish about the premises will help to prevent the outbreak of any fire.

Forest fires took a particularly heavy toll this year, when during the summer much standing timber was destroyed in large fires, many of them in Ontario. In 1947 it is estimated that forest fire losses totalled more than $3,000,000. These forest fires not only cause the loss of much valuable lumber and pulpwood, but frequently result in unemployment for lumbermen and millworkers.

Smokers Dangerous

Smokers are blamed for 23 per cent of forest fires, lighting for 21 per cent and campers for 15 per cent. They are the three most common causes. Railways, the next most common cause, are blamed for 12 per cent of all 1947 forest fires.

Losses of different types of timber with comparisons follows:

Type of timber destroyed	1947	Est'd Value Annual Av. 1937-1946
Merchantable timber	$ 734,132	$2,178,827
Young growth	1,065,177	808,173
Cut over lands	97,403	297,451
Other prop. burned	1,211,230	607,897
Total damage	3,107,942	3,893,348
Cost of fire fighting	1,179,608	883,942
Total damage and cost	4,287,550	4,777,290

PURE TONES RARE

Human ears seldom hear a pure tone — a sound having a single frequency or vibration — because most sounds are mixtures of many notes.

ON HIS 77TH BIRTHDAY, former Secretary of State Cordell Hull is cheered by assurances of his doctors that he may soon be able to leave Bethesda naval hospital, Washington. A patient there for two years, he posed in the reception room for this birthday photo.

It's Fall now—and that brings new risks of fire—through carelessness—faulty wiring—rubbish heaps and other sources. For greater safety check the following hazards and remedy those needing attention.

CHECK FIRE HAZARDS

OBSERVE THE SAFETY RULES

SMOKING Smoking in bed is extremely dangerous. If you must smoke, get up!

CHIMNEYS Cracks in chimney are a good place for sparks to start a fire.

ASHES

Ashes should be kept in metal containers and a safe distance from wooden partitions.

RUSTY PIPES

Watch out for worn or rusty pipes. Check for proper insulation near wooden beams and partitions.

OILY RAGS

Never allow oily rags to accumulate. Oil treated mops should be placed in metal containers.

WIRING

Don't take chances with faulty wiring and insulation. See that all extension wire is properly installed.

Inflammable Material

Don't use highly volatile fluids for cleaning at home. Play safe and send your garments to a dry cleaners.

ROOFS

Old curly shingles make an ideal place for sparks to start a fire.

HANDLING THE SNAPBACK CHORES for the senior McGill team when it faces Queen's at Kingston in their Intercollegiate Union start Saturday are Vic Latimer, left, and Ron Sharpe. Both rangy boys who hit the scales around the 200-pound mark, they have shown well so far this season with Coach Vic Obeck's team.

Here And There In Sports . . .

BY CANADIAN PRESS

The British boxing board of control turned a deaf ear today to promoter Andy Niederreiter's proposal that Freddie Mills be compelled to defend his world light heavyweight title against Gus Lesnevich or declare it vacant.

Charles Donnall, secretary of the British board, said at London Tuesday he had not received Neiderreiter's suggestion, cabled by the New Yorker Monday night on behalf of the Tournament of Champions. But when it arrives, Donnall said, the board will "just laugh."

Donnall said the board never asked a British champion to defend a newly-won title until at least six months after he wins it. Mills took the crown from Lesnevich, veteran Cliffside Park, N.J., battler, here last July 26.

Frank Gnup, coach of Hamilton Wildcats in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union, will be back in uniform this year. A playing-coach for the last two seasons when the team played in the Ontario Union, Gnup decided to stick to coaching this year.

The other Big Four clubs approved his late registration, and Gnup will play his old backfield spot against Argonauts in Toronto this Saturday.

At St. Catharines, Etobicoke Aces Tuesday night kept their Ontario Lacrosse Association juvenile crown by downing St. Catharines Kiwanis 13-7. Etobicoke won the first game of the best-of-three series 14-7.

At Ottawa, sports promoter T. P. (Tommy) Gorman Tuesday said he has been urged to seek election as mayor of Ottawa and said he would make an announcement later this week. He said it was "a great surprise" when a 20-man deputation walked into his office a few days ago and suggested that he seek the job which Mayor Stanley Lewis is giving up after 12 years.

Coach Ranji Mattu of the Vancouver Blue Bombers junior football club has been suspended for the remainder of the season. The husky East Indian moulded the team last year and led it to the Canadian junior title in the Dominion final against Hamilton Tigers. His suspension followed North Shore Lions' 6-0 win over the Bombers Saturday when Mattu struck head linesman Jack Duggan in protest over a decision.

Toronto Peter Cans Tuesday eliminated Sarnia from the Ontario Baseball Association playoffs by winning an 11-6 victory over the Sarnia club at Toronto. Toronto now meets Kingston in the provincial finals.

AT THE BROCK TONIGHT—If Waldyslaw Talun can live up to one-half the threats he has made against the Masked Marvel in their bout in the Brock Arena ring tonight, the 300-pounder will be extremely popular with the mat fans. The Mask appeared to be lucky to escape in their first bout here and now that the Polish Giant is thoroughly roused it looks as if the mystery-man of wrestling might get his final comeuppance. Mike Sharpe will meet Jim Goon Henry in the semi-final and Jan Gotch will try to dull the vastly improved Pat Flanagan.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Word from Howie Macdonald is that the annual re-organization meeting of the Girls' Basketball League will be held this Friday eve at eight in the YWCA. It is open to everyone interested, particularly the players and those thinking of entering a team this year. They will elect officers and make plans for the coming campaign at this open session. Seven squads aboard last semester with Nurses winning the senior title, Normals taking intermediate honors, and St. Paul's the junior championship. Also an entry in the LOBA. Some neat cage play is dished up by the lasses and they have a lot of fun and good exercise during their games.

And so we move into the planning phase of the winter sports' program in Peterborough. Recent years have seen more and more sports of the four seasons overlapping to some extent. All except local hockey—and that may occur when artificial ice appears here. Right now big league ball and major hockey overlap a bit in the fall and quite a bit in the spring. But here hockey starts later in the fall and finishes before summer sports get going. Rugby is underway on Peterborough gridirons before ball is quite finished, and lacrosse still holds sway. Now, hockey and basketball are in the planning stages long before football will pass from the scene. So it goes.

Could Be An Upset

And the world series is slated to start today in Boston. The Braves aren't considered a great team and will take the short end of the betting, but series surprises are not uncommon in the national USA game. We like the Indians, who certainly have the color, though they've been an up-and-down club most of the season. For years, in fact, as they've been picked early to win the American League pennant different years only to flop in the stretch drive. However, they've got a strong club this season and should be plenty hot after that late drive which went into overtime to declare a winner. We know at least several local chaps who will take in the series as it shifts back to Cleveland after tomorrow's game.

* * * * * *

Ron (Chico) Horton has been playing a pretty steady brand of lacrosse for the senior "B" Petes this season. A rugged character, indeed, El Chico backs away from no one. In a game like lacrosse you need a few players who can throw the torso effectively when the going gets heavy, and Horton is a solid citizen out there. Not a prolific scorer, he yet manages to get his share of goals and assists, hustling all the time. Doesn't yell when he gets hurt but just decides to bump 'em harder the next time around. Yeah, we like to see a club carrying one or two "policemen" — as the jargon has it—who can soften up an unruly opponent if the need arises. Horton also plays hockey for the Petes in OHA company.

* * * * * *

Petes Were Rolling

There wasn't any doubt in Huntsville last night as to the Petes' superiority. They rolled to a convincing 22-10 victory to go up three to one in the best-of-seven OLA senior "B" finals. A win here Friday will give them the title again—and they can then seek all-Ontario honors against Windsor. They were clicking like castanets last gloaming before a full house up north, everyone shining from Goalie Bun Hill out. Horton not only was plenty hot as rover to lead the sniping parade but he did a whale of a job checking Bucko McDonald as the big coach of the Hawks got back into playing harness. Lou Vitarelli, Terry Gordon and Rowan Chute were also prominent on the attack, but the whole team went good.

* * * * * *

Before the game, Red Creighton introduced Horton to Bucko and said: "Take a good look at him, Bucko, as you'll be seeing a lot of him tonight." Which he did. Later during the game — which wasn't a gentle affair—Red rode the former NHL star so hard that McDonald was threatening to have him thrown out of the rink. If the gang goes as well here Friday, the title should be wrapped up at home before a record crowd. But the speedy young Hawks might be tough enough in a do-or-die drive. They fought hard last p.m. but were simply outclassed by a fighting club that hustled from start to finish.

Took Tennis Titles

Quaker Tennis Club wound up its championship tourneys with the mixed doubles, Isabel Whitehouse and Doug McPherson winning it. In ladies' doubles previously, M. Charlton and M. Armour had come out on top, while D. Seymour and R. Charlton took the men's doubles. R. O'Connor was the ladies' singles champion, and D. McPherson the men's titleholder. Quaker have a playoff with Point Anne on the Quaker courts next Monday, Point Anne having won the Quinte Tennis League, as Quakers won the Kawartha League title. This is the first year these two league winners are playing off.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

Some time ago, each one of last season's curlers received an application to be filled out and sent to the secretary not later than Monday, Oct. 4—that is if they intend joining up with the club this season.

At a meeting of the board of directors the other evening, it was disclosed that while the response has been fair, it is a long way off the required number necessary for 70 rinks. Just why so many, who have curled for years and years, and fully intend to curl this season, delay sending in their applications is hard to figure out.

The meeting for drawing up these rinks is set for Monday, Oct. 18, but if there is not enough curlers to fill the 70 rinks, what can the board or the committee do about it?

The point we wish to make is this: Any of last year's curlers who intend to curl, please cooperate and send your application in tonight to R. F. Downey or I. Moore. It will help out an awful lot and the committee will then have some idea how many new members will be necessary to take the place of some former curlers who may not see their way clear to curl. Put yourself in the committee's position and we feel sure you will act at once.

THREE HOME RUNS, two by Lou Boudreau, playing-manager of the Cleveland Indians, and one by third baseman Ken Keltner, paced the Tribe to an 8 to 3 victory over the Boston Red Sox at Boston in the first play-off game in the history of the American League and gave the Indians their first pennant since 1920 when Tris Speaker managed the club. Boudreau, who had a perfect day at bat with two homers and two searing singles in four official times at bat, crosses home plate in the first inning after rapping his first four-bagger (left photo). He is greeted by second baseman Joe Gordon. Boudreau and Gordon hail Keltner in the fourth inning as he scores after his home run with Boudreau and Gordon on base (right photo). Petes Go Two Up In Series After Win Over Huntsville

Defeating Huntsville 22-10 up north last night, the Petes went ahead three games to one in their best-of-seven OLA senior "B" finals, next one being here Friday. Playing in top form, the Creighton crew racked up an early lead and showed superiority throughout. They had a 7-1 lead in the first quarter, made it 12-3 at the half, and 17-6 going into the fourth. Play was rough enough and the Petes at one stage in the fourth had but the goalie and one forward on the field. Connelly, W. McDonald and Terry Gordon each drew majors. A feature of the game was the way Ron Horton checked Bucko McDonald, hefty playing coach.

Horton starred both on the attack, being in on eight goals, and defensively Lou Vitarelli, Terry Gordon, Rowan Chute and Bun Hill were other Petes' stars, but the whole team clicked in fine fashion to earn the decision handily. Bond went best for the losers, and Bucko was always dangerous but Horton took care of him neatly.

The teams:

Petes — Goal, Hill; defence, Chute and Magee; centre, Creighton; wings, Foote and R. Breakspear; rover, Horton; alternates, Warren, J. Breakspear, L. Vitarelli, D. Vitarelli, Gordon, Connelly and Smith.

Huntsville—Goal, Tunney; defence, Snowden and R. Gordon; centre, Chabrian; wings, Watt and Bucko McDonald; rover, W. McDonald; alternates, C. Higgs, V. Higgs, Bond, Kaye, Payne, Millest and Scriver.

Referees — R. White and E. Walsh.

Hockey Happenings

By The Canadian Press

There's one scant week to go before the National Hockey League season opens. But many a coach in the loop wouldn't mind an extra week to whip his squad into shape.

Both Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens still are shifting forward lines, while Chicago Black Hawks haven't yet decided on a first-string netminder.

Coach Dick Irvin of Canadiens has six forwards in a wide-open battle for positions on his third line. Jacques Locas, Kenny Mosdel, Murphy Chamberlain, Tod Campeau, Eddie Dorohoy and Gerry Plamondon all are hot after the job.

Railbirds say rookie George Robertson is fitting in like a glove on the punch line. The 21-year-old Winnipeg-born speedster apparently has clinched the left-wing job alongside Elmer Lach and Maurice Richard after a brilliant showing in the Habs Western exhibition tour.

Irvin figures the second line probably will be Billy Reay pivoting Joe Carveth and Norm Dussault.

At Quebec, Frank Boucher's New York Rangers of the National Hockey League scored almost at will Tuesday night as they routed Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League 10-2 in an exhibition game. Fred Shero and rookie Nick Mickoski shared scoring honors for the National Leaguers with three goals apiece. Tony Leswick potted two and Frank Eddolls and Eddie Kullman one each.

Despite the protests of Aces and the referee, Goalie Chuck Rayner of New York played up the ice for the last 10 minutes of play—and was officially credited with an assist on one Ranger goal.

Too fast and too polished for their amateur opponents, Chicago Black Hawks Tuesday night defeated Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Senior Hockey League 5-0 in an exhibition game at Waterloo. Hawks rushed in four goals in the first period. Two of them by Gaye Stewart who added another in the final period. Conn and Bentley got the other two.

Odds On Cleveland To Win As World Series Gets Rolling

BOSTON, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Prospects of chilling rain and raid-50 temperatures threatened today's World Series opener at Braves Field with Bobby Feller of Cleveland Indians and Johnny Sain of Boston Braves primed for a classic duel.

Rain or not, the rollicking American league champs with the bristling power in their batting order are strong 5-to-11 favorites to beat off the stubborn Braves in the best-of-seven series.

The Indians, who won the pennant from Boston and Red Sox Monday in the first tie playoff game in the league's history, are about 5 to 7 in the man-to-man wagering to take the opener behind Feller. Game time is 1 p.m. EST with a full house of some 39,400 assured.

Boston's last series was in 1946 when the Red Sox met St. Louis Cards at Fenway Park, but the Braves' loyal fans have been waiting since 1914. That was the year George Stalling's "miracle men" upset tthe favored Philadelphia A's in four straight games.

All Eyes On Rapid Robert

Feller, the farm "boy" who now is a personal corporation with a six-figure income, will be realizing one of his few unsatisfied ambitions in pitching a series game. He already is the all-time strike-out leader and is generally accepted to be the top-paid player in baseball.

Manager Billy Southworth, an intelligent handler of men who deserves much of the credit for the Braves' success, naturally leads with his ace Sain, the curveballing right-hander from Arkansas who won 24 and lost 15. That's five better than Feller's final mark of 19-15.

Sain won 20 in 1946 and 21 last year, his first full two seasons in the big show. So his 24-game splurge this season is no mistake.

Short On Hitters

Unfortunately for Southworth, they are short on power hitters. That is especially true since the unfortunate injury to Jeff Heath, the former Fort William boy who broke his ankle in Brooklyn after the pennant had been clinched. Third baseman Bob Elliot, a right-handed batter, represents most of the extra-base spark and home-run threat. A .283 hitter, Elliott hammered home 100 runs with 153 hits that include 26 doubles and 23 homers.

The Cleveland club that was so impressive in outslugging the Red Sox revolves around manager Lou Boudreau, one of the greatest players in the game.

Boudreau lead the team in hitting with .355, forming one of the neatest second-base combinations with Joe Gordon, the old Yankee pro who hit 32 homers and drove in 124 runs despite his .279 average.

Ken Keltner, another old timer who was supposed to be on the way out two years ago, clubbed 31 homers, driving in 114 runs, and played effective at third. It was a pair of homers by Boudreau and a three-run circuit drive by Keltner that beat the Red Sox in the playoff.

Centerfielder Larry Doby, who hit 14 homers and batted .301, will be the first Negro ever to play for the American league in the series. Jackie Robinson, who came up from Montreal to Brooklyn Dodgers, played for the National league last year.

The probable line-ups: (Batting averages in parentheses)

Cleveland: Dale Mitchell, lf (.335); Larry Doby, cf (.301); Lou Boudreau, ss (.355); Joe Gordon, 2b (.279); Ken Keltner, 3b (.299); Walt Judnich, rf (.257); Ed Robinson, 1b (.256); Jim Hegan, c (.248); Bobby Feller, p (19-15).

Boston: Tommy Holmes, rf (.325); Alvin Dark, ss (.322); Earl Torgeson, 1b (.251); Bob Elliott, 2b (.283); Marv Rickert, lf (.211); Bill Salkeld, c (.244); Mike McCormick, cf (.299); Eddie Stanky, 2b (.315); Johnny Sain, p (.24-15).

Umpires: Plate, Bill Stewart (National), first base, Bill Summers (American); second base, George Barr (National); third base, Bill Grieve (American). Alternates—Babe Pinelli (National) and Joe Paparella (American).

Series Tickets Selling Slowly

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—(AP).—The expected rush Tuesday night for 5,000 standee tickets for the first and second world series games fell flatter than a pancake.

Twenty minutes after the ducats went on sale for $4 a copy at Braves field, the box office men were the only ones standing and waiting—with fistfuls of tickets but no takers.

Four hours later you could wander out there leisurely and purchase a pair for either of the first two games.

About 1,000 fans were on hand when the ticket office opened. Twenty minutes later the area was almost as lonely as a desert outpost.

St. Paul Wins 4-0 Over Royals

ST. PAUL, Oct. 6.—(AP). —A superb performance by Pat McGlothin, who whipped Montreal 4-0 Tuesday night in the opener of the Little World series, was the talk of the town as St. Paul and the Royals prepared for their second encounter tonight.

McGlothin threw five-hit ball, striking out eight and apparently growing stronger each inning. He was never in serious trouble, and only twice did Montreal have two men on base at the same time.

Don Newcombe pitched seven innings for the Royals, giving up six hits and the four runs of the game. St. Paul blended three hits, two walks, an error and a wild pitch into the evening's only scoring spree.

RETAILERS PREDICT that prices of Thanksgiving turkeys will be 25 per cent. or more higher than those last year. An official of the Ontario Turkey Breeders' Association said producers are demanding 60 to 65 cents a pound for dressed birds, which is equal to what they can get in the United States. Butchers say this means that there will be fewer turkeys on Canadian tables this year. Four tons of turkey meat on the hoof is shown on the ranch of Russell Munroe at Kogawong, Manitoulin Island, Ont. Increase in price is blamed on high feed costs and US prices which have upped 12 to 17 cents a pound since 1947.

Rescue Six Men In Launch Wreck

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 6 — (CP) — Two residents of this Northern Ontario city told Tuesday how, late last week, they rescued five Michigan fishermen and an Algoma district guide from the wreckage of a fishing launch which exploded in Lake Superior.

Bob Rennison and Wilfred Langstaff of Sault Ste. Marie saw flames sweep over the launch after an explosion five miles off shore in Batchawana Bay, 30 miles northwest of here. Rennison and Langstaff raced two miles in a 20-foot motorboat, and pulled the occupants of the wrecked craft to safety.

Rescued were Dr. W. R. DeYoung, Dr. O. A. Bolt, Dr. E. S. Stevenson, Dr. William Stoehower and John Juries, all of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Murray Savers, a guide from nearby Batchawana.

A Toronto broadcaster Tuesday promised the rural folks nothing less than a deluge for today. That was once he wasn't all wet.

Find Minden Man Dead At Wheel Of Car

James Isaac Trumble, 56, of Minden, was found dead early Tuesday night in the front seat of his car on the Minden-Haliburton highway, about two miles east of Minden.

Although death is believed to have been sudden, it is thought Mr. Trumble realized his condition and pulled to a parking position by the side of the road. He was found there shortly before 6.30 p.m.

Dr. Carl, Minden coroner, attributed death to coronary thrombosis.

CGE Test Man Is Electrocuted

Two former employees of the CGE in Peterborough have died since Friday, one by electrocution and the other as a result of natural causes.

Jack Morrison, 28, a graduate engineer for four months, came to Peterborough after graduation to take the CGE test course in switch gear. He left the city about nine days ago to work at the Davenport plant, Toronto.

While helping to test a transformer on Monday he received a charge of 2,500 volts and although artificial respiration was begun immediately he failed to rally. Firemen and police continued the artificial respiration for about two hours, and he was then pronounced dead by Coroner Dr. C. N. Mooney.

Morrison was born in Vancouver and was graduated from the University of British Columbia four months ago. His parents live in Canoe, B.C.

Lacrosse Club Gets 10-Year Lease On Bowl

Peterborough Lacrosse Club received a ten-year renewable lease of the Miller Bowl property, owned by the city, on Townsend St., from the Council Monday night. Taxes will be remitted as an annual contribution by the municipality to the club.

A clause requiring the club to vacate the premises on six months' notice was deleted at the request of Ald. Doug Miller.

Ald. Grant Miller declined to vote for the removal of that time clause. He had previously expressed his position that the Memorial Community Centre was still without a site, and the Townsend St. property might yet be needed for that purpose. Until that detail of Centre location was decided he said the Council should retain some control of that property.

Ald. Doug Miller said there had been some suggestion that eventually the market might be transferred to the city property at George and Townsend Sts.

"There was a feeling that the market could go down there without interferng with the lacrosse box," Ald. D. Miller said. "The club has between ten and twelve thousand dollars invested in the bowl, and if we had to move we would take quite a beating."

$3,000 Expansion

More than $3,000 was spent in expanding the bowl this season on the understanding that the Lacrosse Club could carry on.

Ald. Grant Miller declared his attitude: "I don't think we should enter into this agreement until we know that the Townsend St. property will not be needed for the Community Centre. That is still a question mark, and an important one. I think this matter should be left in abeyance until the Community Centre site has been decided."

Ald. P. J. Anglesey said he understood the Centre committee had abandoned the Townsend-George location.

Ald. H. Dodds: "It was in fourth place on the committee's list of prospective sites. If they did go there I don't think it would make any difference to the Lacrosse Club."

The six-months notice clause was struck out of the agreement in a motion by Ald. Doug Miller, seconded by Ald. Adam Sands. All the members of the Council were present except Ald. Hugh Waddell, who was in Montreal on business.

Only 13 Stores Remain Open

Power-saving merchants on the six-block length of George St., from Sherbrooke to Murray, outnumber those establishments which decided to stay open on Wednesday morning. Banks, railway offices and most restaurants in this area are exceptions and the survey boils down to the following businesses still staying open:

There are two tobacco stores, five drug stores, one fruit store, a candy store that uses no lighting until 4:45 p.m. each day for the past week, an optometrist who has her own generating plant, a photo studio, a large novelty chain store and a small dress shop. A sewing machine supply store is closed all day, but open in the evening due to a previously-advertised style show.

Jewellers, grocers, large department store operators, butchers and paint salesmen and shoe merchants seem to feel their Wednesday morning's loss of business will be picked up later in the week. One shoe store operator said that Peterborough was in a much better position than other cities in being able to close down in that there were no nearby competitive centres to affect them.

Present Awards Offered By Red Cross

Special feature of the Red Cross meeting on Saturday was presentation of Red Cross awards to young swimmers of the city who have qualified during the summer program. Twenty-two girls received awards at the YWCA prior to June, 35 awards have been won by swimmers at Inverlea Park and 52 at Riverside Park. Convener Mrs. Fred Hooper expressed appreciation to Mrs. J. Forbes who has co-operated with the Society and was the examiner at most of these tests. Other examinations were conducted by Mrs. V. R. Currie, Mr. Al. Clark.

Awards have also been won by 29 swimmers at Bancroft who swam under direction of a graduate of the Red Cross instructor's school, and were examined by Mrs. Forbes. Six were won at Camp Ponacka on Baptiste lake and 12 children passed the tests at Keene from the class of Mrs. Harold Wilson. Many of the swimmers will take their tests during the winter season at the YWCA or YMCA pools. Mrs. Powell, swimming instructor at the YWCA has already contacted the Red Cross regarding awards.

Instructors who submitted classes for examination were: Mrs. V. R. Currie, YWCA; Mr. Ed. Nicholls, Bancroft; Mrs. H. Wilson, Keene; and the Misses Joan Coombes, Anne Harvey, Jill Groombridge, Jean MacTavish, Betty Merrett and Beverly Martin, at the local parks.

In conclusion, the convener reported Red Cross ring buoys and pike poles were presented to Inverlea and Riverside Parks, and a ring buoy to Keene.

Presentation of awards to the children present was made by Mrs. A. G. Howson, in absence of Mrs. Hooper.

AGAINST OPENING PRESERVE

At a general meeting of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association recently, a resolution was passed putting the Association on record as opposed to the opening of the Crown Game Preserve to any type of hunting. A letter expressing this opinion was forwarded to the County Council.

Give Canadian Citizenship To 3 Peterborough People

Canadian citizenship was conferred upon three residents of Peterborough on Tuesday afternoon, when the County Court opened with Judge Sheldon L. Smoke presiding. They are Mrs. Mary Gladys Wild, of 465 Downie St.; Jens Kaj Dinesen, of 647 Park St. North, and Eric Carl Dinesen, of 257 Carlisle Ave.

After taking the oath of allegiance, citizenship certificates were handed to the new Canadian citizens by the clerk, John A. Hartstone. Judge Smoke then congratulated them on receiving their certificates and having become Canadian citizens.

"I want to take this opportunity," he said, "of welcoming each one of you as members of the Canadian family."

"Citizenship is the highest honor a nation can confer upon an individual who has not been born into this heritage. Without citizenship much else is meaningless. There is no country in the world of which its citizens have a greater reason to be proud than Canada. There are older countries, there are larger countries, but no country holds today a higher place in the esteem of other nations. To be a citizen of Canada is to hold a passport which will be honored everywhere."

Laid Foundation

"The Fathers of Confederation laid the foundation for this, our freedom and our opportunity. Their hope for Canada rested not upon a single generation, nor upon a single race, not yet upon a dull political uniformity. So it has come to be that this nation has been enriched by the loyalty and sacrifice of persons who have come from many lands and traditions. To each this nation has given an opportunity to live and grow and share in the common weal. From each Canada has accepted the gifts of diverse cultures, and made them into an enduring heritage. From sea to sea this rich inheritance is yours, as it is mine, because we are Canadian.'

"To be worthy of such a heritage should be our chief ambition. To be so worthy means accepting fully and without reservation our duties as neighbors and citizens in this community, in this province, and in thi nation. For as Canadians we belong to each other and our future success depends on the unity with which we work together for the common good."

Stewart Hall School Wins Fraser Trophy

Stewart Hall school in Otobabee has won this year the Fraser Trophy for the most improvement in rural school grounds. Miss Alberta Anderson is the teacher.

The neighboring school at Coldsprings, nearer the city, was placed second in the competition. Mrs. Dorothy Wright is the teacher. And in the third slot is S. S. No. 12, on No. 7 Highway, east of the Mark Burnham woods.

These schools are in the inspectorate of Mr. K. O. Birkin, Public School Inspector.

The two winning schools in the inspectorate of E. C. Andrew, Lindsay were: SS No. 1 [illegible], Miss Elsie MacEachern, teacher; and second: No. 4 Harvey, Mrs. Hazel Hill, teacher.

The results have been announced by Wm. Wilks, secretary of the Peterborough Horticultural Society. "So many of our rural schools have been in this competition, and have already done a great deal in the improvement of their grounds and buildings, that it becomes keener every year. On the other hand, the affects in beautification and other good appearance are quite distinct." The judges this year were Dr. A. J. Madill, Ross F. Downey, J. Rigden and Mr. Brooks.

Wins Top Honors.

King Edward School won top honors in the Public School contest in the city, scoring four points more than Prince of Wales that held last year the prize shield presented by the Board of Education. This was another school grounds improvement competition. Mr. Wilks says it has already been a stimulant to all the schools and has enlisted the interest of children.

John Jessen and C. H. Bacon wer ecity school judges. Mr. Wilks said the society offered its congratulations to the teachers and inspectors and K. S. Wightman for their support.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE

G. Shearer of Indian River decided Monday that somebody must have gotten the seasons mixed a bit. He brought a large goose egg in to the Examiner Monday afternoon which had been laid that morning. A goose ordinarily only lays eggs in the spring.

Ask Hunters Watch Fire Hazard In Woods

A serious fire hazard applies, in arying degrees, in the counties of Haliburton, North Peterborough and North Victoria—which forms part of the Trent district, Department of Lands and Forests revealed today.

Duck hunting is now in progress. The partridge season opens on October 9. This means that a great many hunters will be invading the forested lands, which, as a result of low rainfall, will be tinder dry and in the heat of the day will be very inflammable.

All hunters are requested to be particularly careful with smoking materials.

Peterborough Scrapes By By Slim Margin On Power

Peterborough's consumption of electric power averaged 235,000 kilowatt-hours, a small margin under the Hydro quota of 240,000 kwh. for the five days from Monday to Friday inclusive.

Power used Monday was 212,000 kwh. and Tuesday 256,000. Retail merchants extended their Wednesday afternoon closing to the entire day, with a few conspicuous exceptions. One of them was a big novelty store which was ready for business as usual with a few of their ceiling lights turned off.

Response generally to the request of the Retail Merchants' Association, in their endeavor to assist the Utilities Commission and the community as a whole, was comprehensive, with the few exceptions that have been mentioned.

Gordon S. Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, was gratefully impressed by the spirit of the merchants in closing shop today.

There is no compulsion in this co-operation of the city's reatilers. The Utilities Commission could make the suggestion, but action remained with the merchants themselves.

Disappointed

The Commission was somewhat disappointed by the 258,000 kwh. used Tuesday. It has necessarily adopted the policy of resignation, living from day to day, hoping for the best results of community effort.

Today, Thursday and Friday may fail the joint endeavor to comply with the Hydro quota of 240,000 kwh.

The prospect of Hydro ordering Peterborough to pull switches is a daily threat to the Utilities Commission and to the city as a whole. Weather has been a helpful factor since Sunday, but if darkening rain clouds come these next two days in the industrial necessity of carrying on production, there may be official and drastic power saving interruption by the Hydro.

Utilities opinion was not looking into next week this morning, although the compulsion of conserving power is bound to continue indefinitely. The immediate concern was about Thursday, tomorrow, and the necessity of the community as the whole saving electricity at every switch, from lights up the scale of power use.

Provincial Chapter IODE Stresses Seriousness Of Present World Situation

Theme of the opening addresses at the IODE semi-annual meeting of Provincial Chapter of Ontario today was the seriousness of the world situation. "These are days of testing and the decisions we reach at meetings such as this may be more far-reaching than we ever realize," said Mrs. Cecil L. Brown of Hamilton, Provincial president. "Never before perhaps have the people been in a more nervous state. Never before has there been greater need for loyal Canadian women to reiterate their allegiance to British freedom and work for unity in the Empire. The main question before us as Daughters of the Empire is 'How can we best serve our country and help to maintain the principles of freedom and justice for which it stands?'"

"In the final analysis," continued Mrs. Brown, "women determine the undercurrent of opinion. We must increasingly continue to work for peace. As members of this Order we must be at all times actively alert and intelligently aware of current events." In the Chinese definition of "crisis" it is described as "a time of danger" and also "a time of opportunity," said the president. "Let us make this crisis a time of opportunity for us as members of the IODE."

Mrs. Lionel Millen, honorary president and immediate past president, said "I hope we will be able to iron out all your problems at this meeting. We are all working for the same goal—welfare of humanity and our country." A letter of greeting from National IODE president, Mrs. F. P. McCurdy, read by Mrs. W. L. McFaul, secretary, said in part: "I hope the meeting will bring inspiration to every member and a full realization of the dangerous threat of Communism to our country."

Mrs. A. W. Turner, regent of Municipal Chapter, IODE, of Peterborough, welcomed members from out-of-town, and expressed the hope they would be able to see something of the beauty of this city and district. A civic welcome was extended by Mayor Wm. Ovens who expressed confidence in the women to support their country in whatever situation may develop in the near future.

Mrs. Earl Dodd of Brantford replied to the addresses.

Opening ceremonies commenced promptly at ten o'clock in the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel with a procession of standard bearers. Prayer was offered by the Rev. W. J. Gilling, rector of St. Luke's Anglican Church.

Mrs. Cecil L. Brown introduced vice-presidents and honorary officers seated on the platform, including Mrs. R. E. Clarke of Peterborough, provincial standard bearer.

Registration of the delegates was handled by Mrs. Geo. Barns, Mrs. J. Richardson, Mrs. K. Kingston. More than 150 are present from Hamilton, Waterdown, North Bay, Sudbury, Owen Sound, St. Catharines, Brantford, Sarnia, Picton, London, Oakville, Campbellford, Toronto, Tillsonburg, Bowmanville, Port Nelson, Lindsay, Whitby, Ottawa, Dundas, Windsor, Perth, Peterborough, and other points.

85 PCVS Pupils See Hamlet, Macbeth Plays

Eighty-five PCVS students who are studying the Shakespearean tragics, Macbeth and Hamlet, this year are going to have a chance to observe more than the printed text of these plays. Late today and again tomorrow a bus will take these students interested in Shakespearean drama to Toronto where they will see the skilled productions of Margaret Webster, New York director, and her all-New York cast.

Miss Webster, daughter of the late Dame May Witty, has collaborated with Maurice Evans on his famous productions of Hamlet, Macbeth and Richard II.

Through the co-operation of the Toronto Board of Education, many high school students have been able to see special matinee performances of these plays at reduced prices.

Night Performances

The Peterborough group, however, will not attend the matinees, but instead will see the evening performances. The first class of 41 students will go to Eaton Auditorium tonight to see Macbeth. Lloyd Hale, head of the English department, will accompany the students.

On Thursday about 44 students together with Miss Fern Rahmel and Arnold Noftall of the Collegiate staff will see the production of Hamlet.

Both plays are being studied this year by students in middle and upper school.

Mr. Hale explained it was felt that witnessing an adult performance would help the students in their appreciation of Shakespeare.

Dr. J. J. Craig Addresses Home and School

HAVELOCK, Oct. 6 — (ENS). — Dr. J. J. Craig of Peterborough was guest speaker at the meeting of the local home and school association held in the school Monday evening.

Dr. Craig's address was on dentistry, dental health and nutrition. He showed several lantern slides to illustrate his talk and at the conclusion of his address, showed three other films.

Dr. Craig said education plays a very important part in health conditions. Tooth decay at the present time is six times faster than the dentists can take care of it and they were trying to approach the problem through education. Traditional fear was keeping more adults away from dental offices than any other cause, while the attitude in making the visit should be with the thought of being helped not expecting to be hurt. He particularly stressed the necessity of care for the child's first set of teeth and quoted statistics to show that 50 per cent of children at 2 years show dental decay, 80 per cent at 3 years, and 90 per cent at 4 years.

During the afternoon Dr. Craig took a dental survey of the pupils in Grades 3 and 4, the result being bad. There were no perfect sets he said and while some had said they had visited the dentist there was no evidence of dentistry other than missing teeth.

Principal D. Buchanan moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Craig for the address.

Install Officers

The secretary, Mrs. Nobes, installed the following officers who were not present at the annual installation ceremony prior to the holidays: Second vice-president, Mrs. H. McNeely; treasurer, Mrs. F. Bennett; program convener, Mrs. D. Kirk; executive committee, Principal D. Buchanan.

The society was invited to send representatives to the Home and School Region Council to be held in St. James church at Peterborough on October 22 when two sessions will be held. Anyone wishing to attend is asked to contact the president or secretary, Mrs. J. Wilde and Mrs. W. Nobes.

If there is a registration fee of $1, it was authorized to be paid on motion by Mrs. H. McNeely and Mrs. R. Backus.

The treasurer reported a bank balance of $16.84.

Principal Buchanan reported approximately $63 had been realized from the tag day for the Navy League.

Harvey, Robert and Gary McNeely sang as a trio and Mrs. R. Backus was accompanist. The attendance shield was won by Miss Hunter's room.

COLORFUL ARRIVALS in New York were Seth Ramkrishna Dalma, of India, and his wife, Dineshandini, who are shown as they left their plane. Despite Big Home Building Boom Thousands Still Lack Shelter

By The Canadian Press.

October is not the headache it once was to truckers moving families from one home to another.

A Canadian Press survey shows that most Canadians are staying where they are, not necessarily because they like it, but because they can't find any better place to move.

With thousands of new homes sprouting across the Dominion, the nation is experiencing the paradox of long waiting lists for any sort of shelter—from houses to converted barracks.

A housing review published by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation showed 21,000 houses completed in the first half of the year in towns and cities, 3,000 more than the same period last year. In villages and countryside 30,528 new housing units were completed in the first half of this year.

Speeding Up

The tempo will increase, the review shows. Twenty - four thousand houses were started in cities and towns—39,768 started in villages and rural areas—in the first half of this year.

Basic reason for the shortage is the population increase, set against the background of the long depression and wartime period when housing construction was below normal.

Canada's population this year is estimated at 12,883,000, against 11,267,000 in 1939 and 10,376,000 in 1931.

Building materials and labor are both more plentiful, but the houses still cost more.

Few moves will be made this month in Quebec city, which is about 2,000 dwellings short of its needs.

About 7,400 private homeswere completed in Quebec Province during the first eight months in 1948, with about 5,200 of these in Montreal.

2,500 in Province

Central Housing and Mortgage built 2,500 low-rental homes in Ontario since January 1, and completed another 2,600 under an integrated scheme whereby individual builders construct the projects for sale to veterans at a price set by the corporation.

"There won't be any moving in Toronto this month because there is no place to move to," commented a city real estate dealer.

He said a home was slightly easier to buy than last year, but prices had increasd.

"It will take five years to catch up with the demand for moderate housing, and another 10 years before the supply is normal," stated a Toronto real estate broker.

Toronto has spent $2,356,022 for 2,235 emergency housing units since the program started during war years.

Hundreds Hunting

"We are besieged by hundreds in search of homes," say officials of the Emergency Housing Office in Ottawa. They report the situation is still acute despite provision made of emergency housing for 700 families, new apartment settlement for 400, soldiers' housing projects for 400, and private building. There is little indication that many will move this October.

It is the same story throughout Ontario. In Peterborough the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation is building 200 homes while 150 are being built privately. In Kingston some private residences are being converted into apartments, while in Kitchener there are no rental homes available, although a wartime project will provide 100 homes for veterans.

Of 266 houses under government construction in Guelph, 186 are already occupied. Mayor Gordon Rife said he believed it would be two years before the situation was back to normal.

About 80 new units are under construction by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in Woodstock and 50 in Owen Sound. Following a record house-building boom during the summer and shortage is no longer acute in North Bay. Scores of homes now under construction should be completed by Christmas.

'Red Dean' Plans Talk Tour Of Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red" Dean of Canterbury, who recently refused entry to the United States, will make a speaking tour of Canada next month, it was learned Tuesday night.

Called the "Red" Dean because of his outspoken sympathy with Russia, Dr. Johnson has been invited to make the tour under the sponsorship of the Canadian-Soviet friendship council of Toronto. His address in Ottawa Nov. 8 will be on "international peace and goodwill."

Ask Ban Lifted On Imported Foods

TORONTO, Oct. 6 — (CP). — The Federal government was asked Tuesday to lift the import ban on fresh fruits and vegetables not available on local markets. The request was made in a resolution passed by the Ontario food branch of the Retail Merchants' Association at closing sessions of its two-day annual convention.

Lifting of the ban was urged "to prevent a repetition of the outrageous prices of last year."

Welfare Head Denies Relief Costs Too High

TORONTO, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Welfare Commissioner R. S. Rupert Tuesday issued a firm denial to charges voiced Monday by Alderman Charles Walton that his department was "loaded with fads and fancies," and that administration costs were too high.

Ald. Walton had said administration costs for 920 families on relief were $500,000 in relation to costs for $390,000 for the 119,000 persons on relief "in the peak depression days."

Commissioner Rupert Tuesday declared that the $500,000 administration figure used by the Alderman covered the costs of administering all divisions of his department of which the issue of relief was but one part.

Try this Taste-Test!

131 housewives did and 85 voted HEINZ their top flavour favourite

When a group of average housewives in a typical small Canadian city were asked to make a "blindfold" test of two leading brands of Cream of Tomato Soup, the result was overwhelmingly in favour of Heinz.

Of course, the women were not actually blindfolded, but they were served two bowls of heated Cream of Tomato Soup that were identified only by the letters A and B, and asked to write down the brand they preferred. Nearly 65 percent voted Heinz FIRST for flavour. Less than 35 percent voted for another well-known brand, with one lone lady registering no choice.

Here are a few of the comments made by another group of women when asked their opinion of Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup:

- "It's No. 1 soup in our home."
- "No other competes with it."
- "Have always preferred Heinz because the flavour is definitely superior."
- "Heinz tomato flavour is truer."

Try this taste test on your own family. Heat a tin of Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup and a tin of any other brand. Serve half-helpings of each and get your family's verdict, when they have tasted the wonderful difference. Chances are it will be two to one for Heinz. If you have been buying some other brand for any reason, try Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup just ONCE. It will be the beginning of a long friendship. Taste will tell!

Envoy's Daughter Usurps Princess' Boy Friends

By GERALDINE HILL

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 6 (UP).— Blonde Sharman Douglas, pretty 20-year-old daughter of the American ambassador, now is dating not one, but two of the select group of young bachelors who previously have been regarded as the property of Princess Margaret Rose.

Society Buzzes

Last week Mayfair society buzzed when the good-looking Marquess of Blandford, reportedly the top candidate for the hand of the royal family's glamor girl, began giving Miss Douglas a heavy rush.

Now the gossips are twice as excited, because the 29-year-old Marquess of Milford-Haven, who's been very much in the race for the princess, appears to have switched his interest to Ambassador Lewis Douglas' daughter.

They were in the six-shilling ($1.20) seats at movie "Fallen Idol" the other night, and Milford-Haven, who was the Duke of Edinburgh's best man at his wedding to Princess Elizabeth last year, has been alternating with Blandford as Miss Douglas' escort since.

Out Of Town

Princess Margaret, 18, and a close friend of Miss Douglas, hasn't been in London to compete.

She spent the summer at Balmoral Castle in Scotland with her parents, the King and Queen.

But she's due home to Buckingham Palace Thursday.

Here's how it's been going:

David Milford-Haven, tall, dark and handsome, took Miss Douglas to the Daily Express film ball at Albert Hall. Two nights later she went to dinner and the movies with Tony Blandford. And then it was Milford-Haven again.

Wooed At Lunch

Blandford, son and heir of the Duke of Marlborough and a captain in the guards, seems to have a little more time at his disposal. He manages to lunch with Miss Douglas frequently at the American embassy canteen.

Milford Haven, a former naval lieutenant, recently quit the service and is believed to be considering a job with the British broadcasting company.

Those who should know say he's not as rich as Blandford, but he has plenty.

Having Fun

Miss Douglas, who spends part of every day taking a shorthand and typing course at a London secretarial college, isn't talking. But her gaiety leaves no doubt she's having fun.

Princess Margaret left Balmoral to spend the weekend with the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch and their 25-year-old son, the Earl of Dalkwith, who's another eligible.

She'll be in London for the winter social season.

Both Leaving Soon

But both girls will be leaving Britain within four months. The princess is going with the royal family to Australia and New Zealand on a six-month tour.

Miss Douglas is going home to the United States. They say she probably won't return soon unless a heart interest brings her back.

Mayfair will be watching.

6 Plays To Be Presented By Town-Sponsored Group

TORONTO, Oct. 6 — (CP). — A group of 20 young actors and actresses may soon realize the ambition of most stage-struck Canadians. They are stablishing on of the Dominion's few year-round semi-professional repertory theatres.

The Midland Players don the make-up for their winter season opening at the Royal Ontario Museum Theatre here to-night. They will present six plays — I Like It Here, Papa Is All, Blithe Spirit, The Family Upstairs, Angel Street, and Ramshackle Inn—over the next seven months, giving two performances of each.

Adopted By Midland

One of seven summer groups to spring to lige in Ontario this year, it was the only one municipally sponsored. The group was adopted by the Town of Midland, 90 miles north of Toronto, in the heart of the Georgian Bay resort area. Winter population is 6,800, but in the summer the district holds close to 30,000.

Director of the group is Jack Blacklock, formerly of Woodstock, a graduate of the Department of Dramatics, Columbia University, New York.

Long an advocate of just such a group as he now is building Mr. Blacklock agrees with recent Western criticism of competitive drama.

"If we are to establish a national threatre we must abandon our concentration on national support," he says, "and intensify our concentration on wider popular appeal and a practical commercial theatre built upon high artistict standards.

"One of the most detrimental obstacles to the progress of the theatre in Canada is competitive dramatics for it fosters too much group emphasis on competition and too little on good theatre."

In the group in some of the best talent in Toronto. Edith Haig, daughter of Manitoba Senator John T. Haig, is from Winnipeg. Adrienne Walsh is from Hamilton, Catherine McKie and Cameron Langford are from Owen Sound. Youngest member of the group is 16-year-old Joan Armstrong of Toronto. Rolf Kenton and Marjorie Douglas of Toronto form one of the few husband-and-wife acting teams in Canada.

Though all is tranquil on the domestic scene, twice in two plays, "Angel Street" and "Kind Lady," Rolf has set out to murder Marjorie.

900,000 Members In Trade Unions Now

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Trade union membership in Canada reached a record 912,124 at the start of this year, the Labor Department reported yesterdaq.

The new figure is a jump of almost 10 per cent from the previous high of 831,697 recorded a year earlier.

The membership totals, based on reports from headquarters of unions, showed the metal industries as having the biggest group of unionized workers with 181,000. Next were railway workers with 138,000.

Unions advanced their memberships in 1947, the report said, in all branches except food workers. Membership in this group declined from 41,000 to 39,000.

FASHIONABLE FLATTERY—The hat that "does something," that confers beauty and flattery without ostentation, that is eminently wearable, is a pearl of great price well worth its cost in cash. Here is such a hat, a profile-flattering breton of black velvet. Sprays of simulated aigrettes at each side accent the tilted pose and a sequin medallion sparkles on the head-hugging crown.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Forsaken Wife Is Urged To Play the Waiting Game

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married thirty-years and have lived very contentedly together. We have four children, all of whom are married and have families of their own. About a year ago my husband got a much better paying job than he ever has had before, and he has left me for another woman and wants a divorce.

Dorothy Dix

I am stunned and bewildered and cannot believe that he will go through with it. He gives me very little money as he says he wants to spend it on the other woman. I am not trained for any kind of work except housework and I do not know how I could support myself if he cast me off. I am living with one of my married sons, where there are four grandchildren and where we are very crowded.

Do you think I should give my husband a divorce, or wait and see if he might change his mind?

UNHAPPY WIFE

✣ ✣ ✣

ANSWERS: Your case is emphatically one in which the wife should play a waiting game, for there is every chance that the husband with whom you have lived amicably for 36 years will tire of the other woman and come back to you. In all probability he is just going through the brainstorm that so many men have at his age, when they suddenly decide that they have fallen out of love with their faithful old wives and in love with some adventuress who is playing them for suckers.

Bemused By Flattery

For a while the man is pleased and flattered at being told how young and handsome he is and what a devil he is among the ladies, so he puffs out his chest and poses as a gay Lothario. He had thought that he was done with romance and love-making and here is a woman who is so fascinated by him that she simply is throwing herself at his head, so he is hell-bent on swapping the old wife for a new one.

But that doesn't last. Pretty soon he finds out that his old bones won't go the pace, nor his pocketbook stand the drains that the little gold-digger is putting on it. He misses his wife's good cooking and the care she took of him, and if she has had the patience to wait and just let him have his fling, he will come back to home and mother.

So my earnest advice to you is not to give your husband a divorce. But, in case you do, don't say that you have no way of making a living. You have one of the best trades in the world and one that is in universal demand—it is being a good cook and housekeeper. You are at the prime of life and have many years of usefulness ahead of you. So don't sit down on your children and be a parasite on them. Get a job in some nice family where you not only will have a comfortable home, but get paid real money for your york for the first time in your life.

✣ ✣ ✣

DEAR MISS DIX: To settle an argument, will you give us your opinion on this matter? If two people who are going out together seriously decide to break up, is he or she obliged to give back valuable gifts of jewelry, such as friendship rings, etc.? Does one have to ask for them if he or she wishes to get them back?

MARGARET AND GEORGE

ANSWER: If a boy gives a girl an engagement ring and she breaks the engagement, she is bound to return it at once because it was a pledge of a bargain she is not going to keep. But if either one gives the other a ring that is just a token of friendship, no such obligation is incurred. However, good taste demands that all love letters and gifts should be returned to the sender after the relationship is broken up. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

BEJEWELLED OPENINGS—The season for First Nights is right around the corner, but the glittery openings we write of are on your arms, or sliding up and down your back. For someone has gilded the already wonderful zipper closing, by paving it with mock jewels, and turning a by no means unattractive dressmaker accessory into a highly decorative addition. Mount gems on zipper tapes and use them on the seams they close, as photographed, above. The edgings are of rhinestones.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, October 7

A most welcome change, practically a complete about-face from recent harrowing and sinister events may be suddenly precipitated. A very desirable and welcome situation is likely to effect the romantic and emotional life, with a glamorous and revolutionary thrill. While intimate affiliations are mainly dramatized yet all matters in which ingenuity, skill and creative abilities of outstanding scope and inspiration, are more than likely to glow in the limelight. The hearty endorsement and cooperation from those in influential places is seen.

Those whose birthday it is, may be suddenly "taken by surprise" in a most heart-warming and dramatic manner, in which not only the "love life" by the aims, aspirations and especially the creative abilities, are up for applause and possibly public recognition. There are elements of the unexpected, spectacular and unique, in which talents, affiliations and experience may prove dramatic or dynamic. The emotional drive may be toward the creative and inventive, with much promise of exceptional adventures and change. Make every effort to develop and publicize exceptional skills, ideas and ideals.

A child born on this day should be bounteously endowed with outstanding talents, skills, ingenuity and aspirations. This, supplemented by a romantic personality, should beget an adventurous career.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Miss M. Ross, VON supervisor, addressed Central Home and School Association members at the regular meeting Monday evening. Her topic was the motto of the World Health Organization, "Spiritual, Mental, Physical."

"We cannot get away from healthful living," said Miss Ross. "We have recently had dental health week and immunization week. Every day we are seeing spectacular results of the research of the past 50 years such as immunization and the miracles of penicillin and sulpha drugs but there are stil many deaths and shorter lives due to prejudice or indifference. Health and the resulting happiness, are not just accidents. We must work for it, and remember that the young people of today are responsible for the health of the next generation of Canadians."

"In mental health," Miss Ross declared, "the members of the armed services have some advantages, such as security and responsibility. They are individuals with a contribution to make, but this can be developed in civilian life if given the opportunity. Spiritually, a child needs an ideal to pattern himself to. When the Bible speaks of a whole life as being the 'good life' there must be a happy combination of threefold health—spiritual, mental, physical."

Miss Ross was introduced by Miss L. Esplen and following the address, Miss E. Dix expressed the appreciation of parents and teachers.

The audience also had a brief talk on dental health by Dr. E. M. Crough who remarked that after 2,000 years of dentistry, the members of his profession are still trying to do something about the cause behind tooth decay.

"We are prone to neglect our teeth because the ravages of dental diseases, although far-reaching, are not immediate. Diet, proper care and systematic inspection is the 'stitch in time' in dental health," concluded Dr. Crough.

The program included two films, "Champions in the Making" and the "Work of the VON".

Aileen Osborne delighted the audience with a piano solo.

Business of the meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. S. Malsch, who announced the regional conference, and asked for good representation. Mrs. Malsch also reported on the dental health dinner. Articles were requested for a rummage sale to be held October 29.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. T. Pritchard and her assistants.

Car Overturns Driver Injured

Condition of Harry Bothwell, Bethany, who on Tuesday was operated on for a broken shoulder bone, is said to be "satisfactory" today. Mr. Bothwell was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital on Saturday as the result of injuries received when his car skidded and turned over on the sixth concession of Otonabee, two miles south of No. 7 Highway.

Two passengers, Mrs. Harry Bothwell and Miss Hazel White of Cavan, were shaken up.

According to Provincial Police, Bothwell was driving north and saw another car, driven by John L. Evans, London St., approaching head on. Both vehicles reached the top of a grade in the road at about the same instant.

The Bothwell car skidded and then plunged into the ditch, snapping off a Hydro pole and finally coming to rest in an upturned position among some cedar trees. Before the car could be extricated the trees had to be cut down.

Provincial Constable George Henderson investigated.

GRATEFUL FOR AID — Getting back on the job in Washington after his hectic campaign tour, one of President Truman's first appointments was with Sir Stafford Cripps (right), Britain's chancellor of the exchequer. Sir Stafford visited the White House to "express gratitude" for U.S. post-war aid.

Union Leaders Lose Power By Court Order

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Three Leftist chieftains of British Columbia's rebel woodworkers today were temporarily stripped of their powers as the flaring fractional labor dispute continued throughout the province's huge timber industry.

Supreme Court injunctions, obtained by the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.) were served on the trio, Ernest Dalskog, Harold Pritchett and Bert Melsness, respectively president, vice-president and secretary of the New Woodworkers Industrial Union of Canada.

The writs ordered the men, all prominent members of the provincial Labor Progressive party, to keep their hands off all files, funds and property of the B.C. district of the I.W.A. The district council, run by Dalskog, Pritchett and Melsness, severed all ties with the international body at the week-end in a swift disaffiliation move.

Soccer Standing

During the last two weeks the standing in the local soccer league has changed considerably through two high-scoring wins of the Legion over the Petes who had led the league in the early part of the season.

At present Legion are leading with 20 points, while CGE have 19, with both teams having a game with Lindsay to complete the schedule. Petes have to play Lindsay twice and O'Hallorans have to play Lindsay. League standing:

	W	L	D	F	A	Pts.
Can. Legion	8	3	4	41	22	20
C. G. E.	7	3	5	50	25	19
Petes	5	5	4	38	38	14
O'Hallorans	3	8	3	27	42	9
Lindsay	2	7	2	9	21	6

Saturday's game is the Canadian Legion cup game with Toronto Silverthorns, who are of major calibre in the big city and have an excellent record this season. Kick-off is scheduled for three o'clock prompt, with Asa Downer as referee. The winner will meet the winners of the Brampton-Chatham series in Guelph the following Saturday in the final.

It is expected that the C.G.E. will travel to Lindsay on the holiday. O'Hallorans will play the Petes in the Mayor Ovens' injured players' cup. Kick-off at two o'clock in King Edward Park.

Report Marshall Wants Spain Accepted

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 — (AP). — The New York Times today says in a Paris dispatch that State Secretary Marshall has proposed to Britain and France that the United Nations Assembly be asked to rescind its Dec. 12, 1946, resolution against Franco Spain.

This resolution recommended that all members of the United Nations withdraw their ministers and ambassadors from Madrid until the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco is ousted.

The Times Dispatch says both Foreign Secretary Bevin and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France were reported to be hesitant about sponsoring a move to rescind the U.N. action. They were reported concerned about the reaction the move would cause in the British Labor party and the French Socialist party.

City's Fire Losses $368,957 In 1947

Peterborough's yearly fire loss has been steadily increasing. In 1943 it was $51,458 and in 1947 it was more than seven times that figure, $368,957. This has been due to several fires at large industrial plants, but the large majority of local fires are at private homes. Nine out of ten of those fires could have been prevented by a little thought and care, Chief George Smith said in a fire prevention week statement.

Slides Tell Story Of Good Samaritan

ROSENEATH, Oct. 6 (ENS).— The YPU of Roseneath United Church resumed its activities on Monday night holding a regular meeting in the Town Hall with Howard Lemon, president, in the chair. A special feature was the showing of slides of the "Parable of the Good Samaritan" by Rev. R. C. White. Miss Aureen Brown conducted the devotions on the theme "Honor and Praise to God" and told a story, "Them that honor Me I will honor." June Linton and Myra Adams sang a duet, Mrs. Reginald Timlin was the pianist, and Barbara Adams read the Scripture. Neil Adams was in charge of the recreation.

The next meeting will be held on October 18 in the Town Hall. Rev. R. C. White will conduct devotions and Doris Robins will arrange the recreation.

Obituary

GEORGE SIMPSON

MILLBROOK, Oct. 6 (ENS).— The funeral of George Simpson, for the past three years a resident of Millbrook, took place from the McPherson Funeral Home, King street, Monday afternoon. Rev. G. C. R. McQuade, pastor of St. Andrew's United Church, conducted the service. Burial was in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough.

Mr. Simpson had been in ill health for some time, and his death, in his 74th year, took place last Friday morning. He was a son of the late George Kidd Simpson, and his wife, Jane Manes, and was born and brought up in Clarke township. He had been a farmer all his life, living at one time on the Fallis Line, and for more than 50 years on a fine farm property three miles east of Scott's Corners. Growing ill health compelled retirement when he came to Millbrook, living with his sister, Mrs. Thomas Robinson, who is now the last surviving member of a family of six children, three sons and three daughters.

A life-long Methodist and United Church member, Mr. Simpson was also active in the Orange Order, never failing to take part in the annual Twelfth of July celebration, until the present year when he was compelled to remain at home.

Pallbearers were all former friends of the Scott's Corners area, and included: R. O. Ball, John Clarke, R. Dobbin, Harry Young, Perry Neals, and Robert Holden. Suttle Pritchard, south of Millbrook, is a nephew.

BORDERLINE ANEMIA*

can rob you of energy and ambition!

WE ALL KNOW people whose stamina and spirits seem always under par — who lack ambition and drive — who look like pale, tired failures. Often, such effects come from a blood condition. They may indicate a Borderline Anemia, a mild anemia due to a nutritional deficiency of iron. They may mean that your red blood cells may be too faded and puny to transmit full energy to your body. Many women, men and children go dragging through life with this Borderline Anemia.

How Ironized Yeast Tablets "Build Up Your Blood and Vigor

Take Ironized Yeast Tablets if you're too pale, too tired because of this blood deficiency. They are formulated to help build up faded red blood cells—thus restore vigor.

Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may come from other conditions—so consult your doctor regularly. But in the meantime take Ironized Yeast Tablets to help build up your blood. Take them to start your energy shifting back into "high"—help restore your color! Take them so you can enjoy life again!

*A mild anemia due to a nutritional deficiency of iron.

BORDERLINE ANEMIA
why it can make you
TIRED · PALE · LISTLESS

Blood that builds energy! This is how energy-building blood looks under a microscope. Here are big, plentiful red blood cells that can release vigor to all your body.

Blood in Borderline Anemia! Many have blood like this and never know it. Cells are pussy, faded. Blood like this can't release the energy you need to feel and look your best.

YOUR GARDEN . . .

Scented Geraniums

BY DEAN HALLIDAY

Geraniums made to feel at home on your windowsills this winter should include some of the old-fashioned scented kinds. The plants are surprisingly hardy and will flower all winter long, some of course, more than others.

There are more than 50 species and varieties of scented geraniums. Some of the most popular are the rose-scented, lemon-scented, peppermint-scented, almond-scented, strawberry-scented, cocoanut-scented, nutmeg-scented, filbert-cented and orange-scented.

One now enjoying great popularity is Lober's Lemon Rose geranium, a leaf of which is shown in the accompanying Garden Graphic. Its fullness is so pronounced that it completely fills a room with its pleasing lemon-rose scent.

The Nutmeg geranium, also illustrated, is a dwarf variety with small pale gray, velvety leaves and tiny white flowers. Its nutmeg scent is very delicate.

Geraniums, scented or otherwise, should have a sunny window location. They grow best when the roots are restricted by small pots. The pots should be just large enough to take care of the roots and allow about half an inch of space around them.

Scented geraniums frequently send out long shoots during the winter months. When this happens nip off the tops and ends of these shoots to keep the plant developing compactly.

The ends nipped off can be used to scent linen drawers or closets. They can also be used as cuttings for propagating new plants.

While the cuttings are in the sand and before they are rooted, care must be taken about keeping them too moist for fear of "damping-off." As soon as the cutting develops roots it should be potted up at once

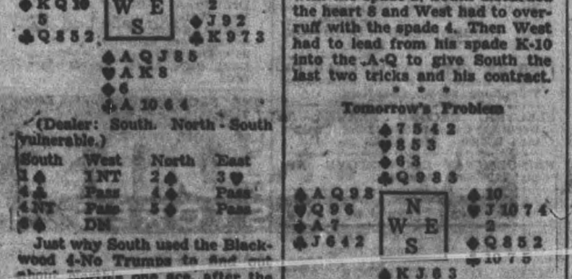
COUNT SUIT-LENGTHS

CARD-READING covers mainly two entirely different kinds of items—honor cards and suit-lengths. In some situations the fine player can be absolutely exact in these matters. In others he can make a calculation of the probable situation, and if he is right he can get away with plays which otherwise would not be possible. The average player may believe that in most cases a top-rank declarer usually knows the exact situation after a trick or two. He doesn't except once in a while. But his greater dependability in figuring out what is probable helps him on a tremendous percentage of all hands.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	1NT	2 ♠	3 ♥
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♠	Dbl

Just why South used the Blackwood 4-No Trumps to find out about [illegible] one ace, after the latter had shown it with his cue-bid of 4 ♣, [illegible] the revealing of the spade fit, is not clear. Perhaps he just likes to bid—as who doesn't?

West's double, followed by disclosure of the unexpectedly weak dummy after the diamond K lead, let South see he had a job to do. He put on his thinking cap and ruminated about as follows: "If West had held a singleton, he would not have bid No Trump, and if he had possessed three-card support in hearts he probably would have shown his fit for sacrifice purposes over the 4-Clubs, being not vulnerable. Hence West almost surely has exactly two hearts. If he had a five-card suit, he probably would have bid it over the 1-Spade instead of No Trump. Hence he undoubtedly has two four-card suits and a three-carder. If the three carder is spades, I see a chance."

So he took the diamond K with the A, ruffed a first diamond, scored the club A, ruffed a first club, ruffed a second diamond, ruffed a second club, ruffed a third diamond, scored the two heart tops, ruffed a third club and led the diamond 8. East trumped with the spade 2, South discarded the heart 8 and West had to over-ruff with the spade 4. Then West had to lead from his spade K-10 into the A-Q to give South the last two tricks and his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

How should South bid after West opens this deal with 1-Spade?

6—In Memoriams

BOOTH—In loving memory of John J. Booth, who died October 6, 1947.
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed —
How sweet the memory still—
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by son Walter and family.

MASTERS—In loving memory of our dear dad, Ora Masters, who passed away October 6, 1945.
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept,
Of one we loved and never will forget,
And though the years be many or few,
We'll always be thinking dear daddy of you.
—Dearly loved and remembered by daughters Lucille, Harriette, Alberta and Andree.

MASTERS—In loving memory of a dear father, Ora Masters, who passed away October 6, 1945.

—Lovingly remembered by Don, Alice and family.

MASTERS—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and brother, Ora Masters, who passed away October 6, 1945.
You left me beautiful memories,
Often silent tears,
But you will always be with me,
As I journey through the years.
You are always in my mind, Orrie,
No matter what I do,
All the time within my heart
There is a thought of you.
Never for a moment
Are you very far away,
Absent, yet near, you seem,
But dearer every day.
—Lovingly remembered by wife Georgina, son George and sister, Mrs. A. MacIntosh, Grafton, Ont.

MASTERS — In loving memory of our dear Dad, Ora Masters, who passed away, October 6, 1945.

You oftimes said I'd miss you,
Those words have proved too true:
I lost my best, my dearest friend,
Dear dad, when I lost you.
—Remembered always by his Son Arthur, and Daughter-in-law Marcelle.

NORMAN, Clara Annie — In loving memory of my dear wife, who passed away October 6, 1945.
When earth's last picture is painted,
And the tubes are twisted and dried,
When the brightest colors have faded
And the youngest critic has died.

Lie down for an aeon or two,
Till the Master of all good workmen
Shall set us to work anew.
—Ever remembered by her Husband.

Oldest Debating Society Has Illustrious History

LONDON, Oct. 6 — (CP). — Women have the better of many a verbal battle, but they haven't got the last word with the oldest debating society in the world, whose members have argued on and off for 193 years.

Ye Antient Society of Cogers decided at their annual meeting at a rendezvous in Fetter Lane, near Fleet, Street, women could attend debates once a month. But their tongues are shackled. They are forbidden to take part.

The society was formed in 1755 by one Daniel Mason. The primary aim was "the promotion of the liberty of the subject, the freedom of the press, and the maintenance of loyalty to the laws. . . ."

It subsequently became the meeting place of intellectual giants who bickered every Saturday night over ale, tobacco, and the week's events.

In Own Pub

One of several gathering points was the Old Barley Mow, off Fleet Street, an early London "mug house" which was destroyed in 1937 and replaced by a pub called The Cogers to mark the association.

Arguments there are still the mode. But the measured eloquence of older years is drowned by groans of foreign newspaper men and Britons dismayed at the price of cigarettes, lack of alcoholic substance in a pint of "wallop," and talk of Communists and income tax almost in one breath.

The Barley Mow knew many famous Cogers, including Dr. Samuel Johnson and Oliver Goldsmith, the writers; historian Lord Macaulay; poet William Cowper, and Charles Dickens, who got his Simon Tappertit from a frothy waiter named Piper. All were leading lights in their day.

On one of Dickens' visits to the Cogers' Hall he ceased to be popular with a waiter when he said, while a prominent member was speaking "with much sound and fury": "What do I owe you, Charles?"

"Sir," replied the waiter indignantly, "I will ascertain; but your interrogatory obstructed the sublimity of my ideas dewring this haringue."

The spelling of the society's title in old English doesn't merit kinship between coger and codger, which the Oxford Dictionary terms a "fellow, buffer, queer old person." The accepted derivation is from the Latin word "cogitare" —to think.

4 Hunters Dead In Maritimes

HALIFAX, Oct. 6 — (CP). — While bullets zing through central Nova Scotia farmhouses and the Maritimes' hunting death toll stands at four, a Mountie today offered a solution to this year's woods menace: "Don't go hunting."

Since the season opened Oct. 1, two persons have been shot to death in Nova Scotia and two in New Brunswick. Three victims were killed by their own hunting companions.

Two of the fatalities — the last one occurred Tuesday—have resulted in court cases. One man has been charged with manslaughter and another with illegal possession of a revolver.

Superintendent J. Howe of the RCMP advised "Don't go hunting."

Adding to the year's hunting madness, residents in the Albany area of central Nova Scotia report it is not uncommon for rifle shots to whistle through bedroom windows during the night. Police investigation has so far been unsuccessful.

In the same district, a farmer was awakened one night by gunfire and on investigating, found a valuable farm horse shot dead, apparently mistaken for a deer.

F. W. Tufts of Wolfville, NS, secretary-treasurer of the Nova Scotia Fish and Game Association, blames this season's hunting deaths on "damn stupidity."

28,500 Register

WINNIPEG — (CP). — Registration in Winnipeg public schools totalled 28,511 on Sept. 7, Ewart Morgan, assistant superintendent of public schools, announced. He said 300 more were expected.

FLOW OF WATER, main source of electrical energy in Ontario, has dropped to an unprecedented low level in the Ottawa Valley, as shown by this graph prepared by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. To maintain normal production at the Chats Falls generating station, a flow of 27,100 cubic feet per second is required. For the week ending Sept. 26, it averaged only 16,944 cfs., resulting in a reduction of 900,000 kilowatt hours per day below normal production.

Bands On Tour Hope To Revive Their Popularity

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6.—(AP).—The popular band business, now at its lowest ebb in many years, will seek a revival with one-night engagements.

The cry is "hit the road" for band leaders these days. Harry James has left on a 10-week tour of one-nighters. Singer Andy Russell is lining up a band to back him in a series of single engagements. Other maestros are consulting their road maps.

This would seem like the right way to revive public interest in bands. Many bandsmen lost the popular touch during the boom years when money was coming fast and easy. It's time for them to meet the people again.

Hither and Yawn

Billie Burke, looking amazingly beautiful, tells me she hasn't yet discussed a film sale for her memoirs, currently running in a magazine. The story, which reads like a cinderella tale, should bring some lively bidding. But rest assured Billie won't make the same mistake she did in selling "the Great Ziegfeld" to M.G.M. She claims she earned only $10,000 for the deal.... Jack Benny still hasn't found a film vehicle he likes, despite various announcements. Jack hasn't been happy with many of his screen assignments (particularly That) picture, and wants to be sure his movie return will be the right one.

Bob Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck will be separated during the holidays. He'll be in England for "Conspirator" and she'll be working here. Bob plans to fly to Paris for the week-ends, since he won't be working Saturdays and Sundays in the British studio.

Buckhorn WI Told Value Of Citizenship

BUCKHORN, Oct. 6—(ENS)—The September meeting of the Buckhorn WI was held at the home of Mrs. Arnold Bennett, with an attendance of 20 members and two visitors.

The roll call was answered by "My pet superstition." It was decided to send Mrs. Harry Shearer as delegate to the annual convention in Toronto in November.

Aid to displaced children of Europe was discussed and each member agreed to bring at least one article of children's clothing to be sent to Europe for the displaced children.

Mrs. Harry Shearer was appointed to attend a meeting in Peterborough to arrange for classes to be held in November.

The president introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Chas Elliott, who was accompanied by Mrs Elliott. The topic, 'Citizenship,' was discussed by Mr. Elliott, who stressed the point that we enjoy freedoms as citizens of Canada that are denied to many countries.

Mrs. Ferguson, convener, thanked Mr. Elliott and later read a paper on citizenship.

The hostess and her assistants served lunch.

New Russian Travel Bans Blow To Canada, May Withdraw Diplomats

Would Not Be a Breach Of Relations But Staff Would Be Moved To Place Where It Could Work Effectively

OTTAWA, Oct. 7—(CP).—Canada may consider withdrawing her diplomatic representatives from Russia if travel restrictions there make it impossible for them to do their work, it was learned today. The Government has not yet considered what effect new Soviet travel restrictions will have on the Canadian Embassy staff in Moscow. But, said a reliable source, if the restrictions make it impossible for the Embassy to function the Government may:

1. Apply to the Soviet government for relaxation of the restrictions.
2. Retaliate within the limits of existing Canadian laws.
3. Withdrew the staff from Moscow and move it elsewhere.

The withdrawal of the Embassy staff would not be a breach of diplomatic relations, said the source. It would simply involve the moving of a staff from a place where it could not work to a place where it could work. It was possible that in the event of withdrawal a token staff would be left behind.

The Soviet Foreign Office announced Sept. 30 that foreigners in Moscow were prohibited from travelling beyond a 50-kilometre radius of the city without permission. The new regulations extended the list of areas where foreigners are not allowed to travel. They also listed the places where foreigners may not go without a permit.

Don't Know Affect

The source said it was not known whether the regulations will make any practical difference to the Canadian staff in Russia. During the last five years, travel has never been easy. Various excuses were given when foreigners sought to travel outside Moscow.

If the new restrictions made operation of the Canadian Embassy impossible, then the Canadian Government might consider asking foreign representatives here, "as a matter of courtesy to let us know in advance when they plan to leave a given area for any purpose," said the source. The Canadian Government would not pass a law to prevent the movement of travel.

Spain's Exiles Conclude New Agreement

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(Reuters).—A foreign office spokesman announced today that the Spanish Socialists in exile have concluded an agreement on future policy.

The text of this agreement was handed Wednesday to the British minister in Paris, Ashley Clark, and was transmitted to London, the spokesman added.

The Socialist-Monarchist pact was signed by the Socialist leader abroad, Indalescio Prieto, and the Spanish Monarchist leader, Gil Robles. The copy delivered to the British embassy in Paris was handed in by a prominent Spanish Socialist in exile, Trifon Gomez.

In reply to a question the spokesman said that this agreement had the sympathetic support of the British government.

The spokesman drew attention to the three-power declaration made by Britain, France and the United States in March, 1946, calling for the establishment of a truly democratic government in Spain and urging co-operation among the democratic parties in exile.

Hold PC Caucus On Leadership

TORONTO, Oct. 7 — (CP) — A caucus of Progressive Conservative members of the Ontario Legislature will be held next Wednesday morning to decide what procedure will be followed in naming a successor to Premier Drew, it was announced today from the premier's office. The premier was named as national leader of the party at a convention in Ottawa last week.

Several persons have been mentioned in political circles as possible successors to Premier Drew, including Attorney General Blackwell, Mines Minister Frost, Agriculture Minister Kennedy and Robert Saunder, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

Youth Gets 10 Years

TORONTO, Oct. 7 — (CP) — David Cameron, 24, who escaped from Burwash Reformatory on Sept. 9, today was sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary for holding up a taxi driver with a knife and robbing him of $16.

The sentence is consecutive with the unexpired portion of the three-month term he was serving at Burwash. He also was sentenced to three concurrent terms today: three years for breaking into an oil station; two years for escaping from Burwash and two years for another attempted break-in.

Closer Commonwealth Ties Approved By Conservatives

LLANDUDNO, Wales, Oct. 7.—(CP).—E. H. C. (Ted) Leather of Hamilton, Ont., today told a cheering Conservative party convention to "get on the house-tops, equip themselves with the biggest Union Jack you can find and shout that you are proud of your heritage."

Leather, now a London insurance man, fought with the Toronto Scottish regiment during the war.

He addressed the convention in behalf of a resolution, later approved, favoring closer commonwealth relations. He said he was proud to be a member of the Empire.

Leather, who will be the Conservative candidate for North Somerset in the 1950 election, said members of the Labor government spend their lives preaching the destruction of the Empire. The British people are not interested in ancient history but should be interested in staying alive.

Lord Woolton, chairman of the party organization, announced to the 4,000 delegates a membership drive earlier this year had increased the party's membership by more than 1,000,000. Party funds were boosted by £1,000,000 ($4,000,000).

"Our party has been revivified," said Lord Woolton amid cheers.

The conference today unanimously adopted a resolution submitted by Lord Woolton that "this conference, believing national defence to be the direct concern of all classes and of all parties in Britain, urges the unqualified support of the present armed forces recruiting campaign."

The campaign, a major factor in a broad re-armament program, was launched by the Labor government two weeks ago.

The conference also approved the executive committee's agricultural charter outlining the party's free-enterprise farm program. This, with a previously-approved industrial charter and an Empire charter now being written, will be the basis for the Conservative's election campaign in 1950.

BULLETIN

PONTIAC, Mich.—James N. McNally, Wayne County prosecutor, said today he will ask a warrant charging Carl Bolton, 39, and two unidentified persons with the attempt on the life of Walter P. John Carrere Cochrane MPP Dies In Crash

COCHRANE, Oct. 7—(CP)—J. P. H. (Johnny) Carrere, 37, an air hero turned legislator, died Wednesday night without having sat in the Ontario Legislature seat he won last June in Cochrane North for the Progressive Conservative party.

The man who escaped from German-held Europe and came through 97 bombing raids without a scratch was fatally injured in an unspectacular automobile accident Tuesday at the limits of his hometown of Cochrane. His car ran into a train when Mr. Carrere was momentarily blinded by glare.

His brilliant war record, his youth and his popularity served him well when he made his initial entry into politics in the Ontario election. He broke a Liberal hold on this northern Ontario riding represented for many years by Joseph Habel. Ontario Premier Drew Wednesday night described his death as 'tragic."

Carrere was born in Cochrane in 1911, three years after his parents came to Canada from France and chopped a homestead out of the bush. As one of the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Carrere, he grew up in the forests and learned to be a timber cruiser.

When war broke out, he volunteered for the RCAF but was turned down. He went to France, enlisted there and, when the Nazis cracked the Maginot Line, he was serving with an anti-aircraft unit. He escaped through the south of France—just how still is a secret—and left Europe by way of Spain and Portugal.

Home again, in May, 1941, he was accepted by the RCAF for flying duties and later he received his wings at Crumlin, near London, Ont. By July, 1943, he had completed a tour of operations in Bomber Command.

He had 97 missions in all to his credit when he returned to Canada in January, 1945, and went to Greenwood, N.S. as a navigation officer on Mosquito bombers.

His last Air Force rank was flight-lieutant. He was discharged with the Distinguished Flying Cross and Bar.

Present standing of the 90-seat Legislature: Progressive Conservative 51, C.C.F. 21, Liberal 13, Labor-Progressive 2, Liberal Labor 1, vacant 2.

Superfort Explodes Kills 8 During Test

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 7 (AP) —A United States Air Force Superfortress B-29 exploded high over Waycross Wednesday, killing eight persons and spreading fragments of bodies and plane over 20 acres. The big four-engine bomber was on a special research mission testing secret electronic equipment.

"The whole town heard a roar like a terrific thunder-clap," eyewitnesses said. Four of those aboard leaped from the hurtling wreckage and landed safely by parachute in a farm field.

Four bodies were trapped in the tail section, which snapped along with one wing from the main fuselage. Four other bodies were found scattered in two to four feet of water in a swamp.

Several civilian electronic experts were aboard.

Second Game Score 4-1 For Cleveland

Two Runs In Fourth When Cleveland Hops On Lefty Spahn

By JACK HAND

BRAVES FIELD, Boston, Oct. 7 — (CP) — Cleveland Indians evened the world series at one game apiece today by downing Boston Braves 4-1 after losing a heart-breaking 1-0 yesterday.

Bob Lemon squared the series for Cleveland by setting down the Braves with eight hits.

Manager Lou Boudreau, who went hitless in Johnny Sain's opening victory, led the Indians with a sparkling day afield and at bat. His double started a two-run splurge in the fourth and he drove home the third run off southpaw Warren Spahn in the fifth. He started one double play, was in the middle of another, made a fine catch of a pop fly in short centre and picked a man off second.

Up to the fourth, Spahn had held the Indians to one hit, Doby's double in the second. The Braves nicked Bob Lemon for four hits in the first three innings.

An error by Joe Gordon on Alvin Dark's grounder, followed by singles by Earl Torgeson and Bob Elliott produced the Braves' score in the first inning.

The starting lineup:

Cleveland: Mitchell, lf; Clark, rf; Boudreau, ss; Gordon, 2b; Keltner, 3b; Doby, cf; Robinson, 1b; Hegan c; Lemon, p.

Boston: Holmes, rf; Dark, ss; Torgeson, 1b; Elliott, 3b; Rickert, lf; Salkeld, c; M. McCormick, cf; Stanky, 2b; Spahn, p.

First Inning

INDIANS: Mitchell fouled off Spahn's first pitch, then raised a foul fly to Elliott in front of the Braves' dugout.

Clark looked at two strikes and a ball and then went down swinging.

Elliott made a neat pickup of Boudreau's slow dribbler past the mound and tossed him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

BRAVES: Holmes watched two strikes breeze by. Then tapped weakly back to the mound and Lemon threw him out.

Dark hit Lemon's first pitch on the ground to Gordon who fumbled the ball allowing the runner to reach first base safely on the error.

Torgeson lined a single to right and the fleet footed Dark scampered all the way to third.

Elliott ignored two curve balls which broke low, then slammed a high pitch over Boudreau's head for a single scoring Dark with the first run of the game, and sending Torgeson to second.

Council Favors Lifting Berlin Blockade

PARIS, Oct. 7.— (CP).— Six members of the United Nations Security Council not involved in the Berlin crisis were reported today solidly in favor of raising the Soviet blockade.

An authoritative source said that was the first reaction of the six countries — which included Canada—at a caucus Wednesday after Britain, the United States and France presented their charges against Russia to the full Council. The western powers charged that the Berlin blockade threatens world peace.

Thus far, the source said, the resolution has been prepared, but the six "neutral" members feel the first requirement in easing the crisis is for the Russians to lift the blockade.

A British source said Wednesday night representatives of the three western powers met informally and considered the first steps of framing a proposal that the Security Council call on Russia to lift the blockade.

The Council is expected to meet again Saturday or Monday to continue the debate on Berlin.

Study Charges

The Security Council members not involved in Berlin studied the western charges. They had no Russian counter-claims to study, however. Soviet delegate Vishinsky sat silently in the Council Chamber Wednesday, carrying out his avowed intention not to take part in the Berlin discussions.

Lifting of the blockade is the price the Western Powers will accept for agreeing to a four-power foreign ministers' council meeting on the Berlin and general German questions. The Russians consistently have maintained that the Berlin case is one for the Big Four to discuss, and not for the U.N.

Vishinsky also has contended that, actually, no blockade exists in Berlin.

All three powers told the council Wednesday they will be willing to meet in the foreign ministers' council when the blockade is raised.

Preparing for a vote of atomic energy, representatives of Britain, the United States and France sought to write a resolution that they hope the 58-member committee will accept.

Russians Drop Live Bombs Air Lift Fliers Report

BERLIN, Oct. 7—(AP).—British fliers engaged in the Berlin air lift said today they had seen Russian planes drop live bombs in the Soviet occupation zone about 12 miles northwest of Berlin. There is a possibility the reported incident might have been part of large-scale Russian air war manoeuvres announced for today over the Soviet zone, Berlin and allied air corridors, including bomber flights.

United States representatives at the four-power Berlin air safety centre said the air activity announced by the Russians appeared to be the largest since Britain and the United States began using the air corridors to supply Soviet-blockaded Berlin.

The Russians warned the western powers they plan extensive gunnery drills and parachute jumping, as well as flying drills in the air corridors.

Capt. Vincent H. Gokin, United States representative at the air safety centre, said he had protested to the Russians on two counts—flights by bombers over the Berlin zone and the gunnery drills.

He said the Soviet announcement of the bomber flights over the city indicated that formation flying was contemplated. This would be a violation of four-power air rules, he said.

The contemplated gunnery drill drew a verbal American protest on the ground it was regarded as dangerous to allied transport planes.

There were indications that the Soviet activity announced for today was connected with extensive autumn war games being conducted by the Soviet occupation army.

Held For Embezzling

DANBURY, Conn., Oct. 7 (AP).—Bank teller Donald Devine was arrested here on Wednesday on charges of embezzling $40,000, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation quoted him as saying most of the money was squandered on trotting races in which he drove. The FBI reported Devine made a statement in which he said most of the money went in bets placed on himself to win in races in which he was driving as an amateur.

Urge Alliance Outside Of UN

VICTORIA, Oct. 7 — (CP). — A plea for the formation of an alliance outside the United Nations "to meet war if it comes" was made Wednesday night before the national convention of Caanda's Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association.

Senator J. G. Turgeon of Vancouver told the 300 coast-to-coast delegates that such an alliance should remain in force "until the United Nations proves it can be successful."

The alliance, he said at the opening sessions of the three-day convention, would embrace the United States, France, and Western European countries, the United Kingdom, and the entire Commonwealth.

"Canada and other nations should join together and make it known they will do everything possible to prevent war. That in itself would do much to make war impossible," he said

"Canada is the one country in the world that could make an impression on Soviet Russia. This country is held in highest regard practically every place in Europe, and I would like to see Canada make one more effort to show Soviet Russian leaders that there is no reason for the fear and distrust now common in international dealings."

Plan Youth College

CRICCIETH, Wales, Oct. 7—(CP)—Funds are being raised for construction of a youth college of Dwyfor, Carnarvonshire, as a permanent memorial to the late Earl Lloyd-George. Emphasis in the curriculum will be on the appreciation of art, music and drama, and developing an interest in the problems of agriculture.

Power Supply From Quebec Cut Sharply

New Curbs Loom Across Ontario; Rainfall To Blame

TORONTO, Oct. 7 — (CP). — A possibility of more and longer power cuts throughout Ontario loomed today with the announcement of Hydro chairman Robert Saunders that power imported into the province from Quebec would be drastically cut soon.

Mr. Saunders said the new cuts, which may amount to 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 kilowatt hours a week, were definitely on their way.

"I'm not going to minimize the situation," he said. "The public should know what we are up against."

The announcement was made as new power-saving amendments to Hydro regulations were still up for cabinet approval.

"I am told that up the Ottawa valley there has been one inch of rainfall," said Mr. Saunders. "This would dry up on the surface of the ground. Between now and Nov. 9 we will have to have rainfall that will saturate the ground."

Mr. Saunders said in Galt last night that the commission plans new restrictions on the use of power for outdoor lighting and advertising.

He predicted a 40 to 50 per cent reduction in power for store lighting, shop windows, office buildings, parking and used car lots, gasoline pumps, marquees and sidewalk canopies, exits and entrances, outdoor industrial premises and exterior signs for dentists, doctors and druggists.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Saunders said the Commission will help finance the reconditioning of any industrial steam-generating equipment which might be used to alleviate the power shortage.

The Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton is already using a steam turbine which produces nearly 90,000 kilowatts of energy.

First Blackout

Toronto underwent its first compulsory blackout Wednesday morning when switches controlling feeder lines were thrown for 30-minute periods. The cutoffs came four months earlier than those last year.

Hospitals were not affected by power interruptions. Hydro officials during the summer months installed special feeder lines so that industrial areas might be cut

Hold Mother For Aiding Son

MONTREAL, Oct. 7—(CP)—Mrs. Christine Perreault, 55, mother of Douglas Perreault, 27, being held in Lethbridge, Alta., for the slaying of two Montreal policemen was arrested Wednesday night for having aided and assisted in the escape of her son and Donald Perreault, 28, following the bank hold-up of Sept. 23, in which the two constables lost their lives.

Police said Mrs. Perreault accompanied the two wanted men to Sheenboro, Que., where the two bandits found refuge for three days in a logging camp farm owned by Douglas' grandfather.

Say Western Powers Block Disarmament For 20 Years

PARIS, Oct. 7—(CP).—Russia today accused the western powers of blocking world disarmament during the last 20 years, and called on Britain, the United States, France and Russia to reduce their armies by one-third immediately.

Russian delegate Andrei Vishinsky started debate in the United Nations political committee on a Russian resolution calling for a ban on atom bombs and a one-third cut in armed forces and armaments within a year.

The Russian resolution was brought up after the committee had wrangled over solution of the East-West dispute on atomic energy controls.

Urges Scrap Work

In the course of that debate, Russian delegate Jakob Malik had urged that the Atomic Energy Commission scrap its work of 2½ years and "let in a breadth of fresh air."

Committee president Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium named to an atomic-study committee Canada, the United States, Britain, France, Russia, China, Brazil, Ecuador, India, Sweden and the Soviet Ukraine.

Jap Premier Resigns Over Scandal

TOKYO, Oct. 7 — (AP). — Prime Minister Hitoshi Ashida, assuming "moral responsibility" in a growing government scandal, resigned to-day and his entire cabinet fell with him.

Japan's Parliament, the Diet, has been summoned into special session next Monday to selct a new prime minister. Ashida's coalition cabinet, in office since last March 9, will stay on the job until a successor is named.

The fall of the sixth post-war government followed a conference between Ashida and Gen. MacArthur, presumably to obtain occupation approval to resign.

The Tokyo procurator's office is investigating charges of bribery in connection with a 2,800,000,000 yen ($10,300,000) government loan to Showa Denko, a fertilizer company.

The former deputy prime minister, Suehiro Nishio, and Takeo Kurusu, president of the Economic Stabilization Board and member of Ashida's outgoing cabinet, are among those arrested on suspicion of bribery.

Ashida, regarded as the new "strong man" of Japanese politics when he became prime minister last February 23, staffed his government with members of the Democratic, Social Democratic, and Peoples' Co-operative Parties. He is a Democrat.

The Socialists proved his undoing. They demanded the cabinet's resignation because of the Showa Denko case, implying they would withdraw their seven cabinet ministers if Ashida refused to quit.

Lights also flickered off in most other southern Ontario cities where compulsory blackouts — some hourly from dawn-to-dusk — began Oct. 4.

St. Thomas Hydro authorities Wednesday promised their consumers the power shortage wouldn't interfere with the World Series baseball radio broadcasts. They said they wouldn't pull switches during the ball games—u less they had to because of gloomy weather.

Despite the Toronto cut-off, the city still used too much power—136,200 kilowatt hours over its quota—yesterday, Hydro officials said. Mayor Hiram McCallum warned the city would have to stay within the over-all quota for the week "or we will have to lengthen the cuts."

Parade Of Prisoners On Way To 'Chair' Makes Murderer Absolve Two Of Crime

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP).— A parade of prisoners past his cell on their way to the electric chair prompted a convicted murderer to submit an affidavit absolving two others of a crime for which all three had been sentenced to death.

Andrew Sheridan, 46, was brought from the death house at Sing-Sing Prison to General Sessions Court Wednesday. Arguments then were heard on a motion to set aside the convictions of the two other men.

Sheridan, John M. Dunn and Daniel Gentile were sentenced to death for the slaying of boss stevedore Andrew Hintz January 7, 1947.

Gentile and Dunn are awaiting execution in Sing-Sing.

In his testimony Wednesday, Sheridan said he planned Hintz' slaying and supplied the weapons for the shooting which he said was done by Jeff Leport, reported missing by his parents, and John Duff, who died recently.

Asked what made him make the confession, Sheridan replied:

"A lot of fellows that I had known in the death house I saw pass my cell on their way to the chair.....After all, these fellows had nothing to do with it. I talked it over with the priest and he told me that I should make a complete confession of it to the authorities."

Lemon picked Torgeson off second base with a lightning throw to Boudreau. It was the same kind of a play which caused yesterday's bitter dispute between Boudreau and umpire Bill Stewart when Feller attempted to pick Phil Masi off second base in the eighth inning.

Rickert struck out swinging at a fast ball.

Second Inning

INDIANS: Dark tossed out Gordon.

Rickert trotted in and camped under Keltner's high fly.

With the count three and one, Doby blazed a hit into centre and with a great burst of speed stretched it into a double. It was the first extra base hit of the series.

Robinson walked on five pitches.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

BRAVES: Salkeld slashed a single over first baseman Robinson's head.

Mike McCormick, attempting to sacrifice, popped a bunt right into the hands of Lemon, but Salkeld beat the pitcher's throw to first in an attempt to double him off.

Stanky drew a base on balls after working the count to three and two.

Gordon glided to his left to make a nice stop of Spahn's grounder and threw him out as both runners advanced a base.

Holmes took two balls, then rapped back to Lemon who threw him out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Third Inning

INDIANS: Lemon, batting left-handed sliced an outside pitch to Rickert who made the catch. Rickert raced into four territory to catch Mithell's long hoist. Clark bounced out, Elliott to Torgeson.

No runs, no hits, no errors,, none left.

BRAVES: Dark shot a line single over Boudreau's head and fast fielding Mitchell held the runner at first. Torgeson reached at an outside curve and popped it to Clark. Elliott went down swinging. Rickert tapped weakly back to Lemon who tossed him out.

Fourth Inning

INDIANS: Boudreau looked at a ball and then lined a double just inside the right field corner. Gordon looped a single to left scoring Boudreau with the Indians' first run of the series. Gordon took second on the throw to the plate which was cut off by Spahn. Keltner sent a long fouly to Rickert. Doby drilled a ground single into right field scoring Gordon to put the Indians ahead, 2-1. On Holmes' throw to the plate Doby raced for second and slid in ahead of the throw by Torgeson who cut off the throw-in. Robinson lined the first pitch to Rickert who made a nice running over the shoulder catch. Hegan was given a base on balls. Lemon hit back to Spahn who threw him out at first.

Two runs, three hits, no errors, two left.

BRAVES: Salkeld walked. M. McCormick dropped a single into short left, Salkeld stopping at second. Stanky sacrificed the runners along with a neat bunt down the first baseline and was out, Robinson to Gordon who covered first. Spahn hit back to Lemon on one bounce and was thrown out as both runners stayed glued to their bases. Holmes raised an easy fly to Mitchell in shallow left.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Fifth Inning

INDIANS: Mitchell lined a single over Dark's head. Clark sacrificed, Torgeson to Stanky who covered first. Boudreau slashed a single between Spahn's legs through the centre of the diamond scoring Mitchell. Charley (Red) Barrett, a righthander, replaced Spahn on the mound for the Braves. With the hit and run on, Gordon flung his bat at a pitchout and sent a ground ball to Torgeson who stepped on first for the out as Boudreau took second. Keltner sent a soft grounder to Elliott who threw him out.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

BRAVES: Dark fouled off four consecutive pitches and then struck out. Torgeson chopped a high bouncer to Robinson who tossed to Lemon, covering first. Elliott fouled to Hegan in front of the screen behind home plate.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Sixth Inning

INDIANS: Doby struck out. Robinson lined a single into centre field. Holmes made a spectacular gloved hand catch in deep right field while running with his back to the plate on Hegan's long drive, and easily doubled Robinson off first with a peg to Torgeson. Robinson was almost to third, never expecting the ball to be caught. It was the first double play of the series.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

BRAVES: Rickert raised a high pop to Boudreau. Salkeld drew his second straight pass. M. McCormick looped a Texas league single into centre, Salkeld stopping at second. Phil Masi was sent in to run for Salkeld. Boudreau raced behind Keltner to grab Stanky's high bounder and started an inning-ending double play. He flipped to Gordon forcing McCormick and the second baseman fired across to Robinson to nip Stanky by a step.

Seventh Inning

INDIANS: Masi went in to catch for the Braves. Lemon raised a high short fly to Holmes. Stanky scooted to his feet and made a gloved hand stop of Mitchell's bounder and got the man with an underhand toss to Torgeson. Clark reached first safely when Dark allowed his easy grounder to roll up his chest for an error. Boudreau bounced a sharp grounder off Elliott's shins and was safe on the third baseman's error. Clark stopped at second. It was Elliott's third error of the series. Elliott had no difficulty handling Gordon's easy bouncer and threw him out at first.

No runs, no hits, two errors, two left.

BRAVES — Frank McCormick was sent in to bat for Barrett. F. McCormick struck out, missing three straight sliders. Boudreau raced out into short left to haul in Holmes' high pop-up. Dark flied to Clark in short right.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eighth Inning

INDIANS: Nelson Potter, a righthander, went in to pitch for the Braves. Dark raced over near second base to make a nice stop of Keltner's roller and threw to Torgeson for the putout. Doby looked at three balls, and then struck out on the next three pitches, again missing the low outside curve for the third strike. Robinson hit sharply to Stanky who threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

BRAVES: Bob Kennedy replaced Clark in right field for the Indians. Torgeson slashed a single into centre. There was activity in the Indians' bullpen. Elliott rapped into a double play, Gordon to Boudreau to Robinson, the first baseman stretching way out to dig the throw out of the dirt. Rickert bounced to Robinson who tossed to Lemon, covering first, for the out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Ninth Innings

INDIANS—Dark bobbled Hegan's grounder and was charged with an error as Hegan beat the throw to first. Lemon bounced out to Torgeson unassisted advancing Hegan to second. Stanky threw out Mitchell, Hegan moving to third. Kennedy's Texas Leaguer dropped untouched in short centre among McCormick, Holmes and Stanky for a single scoring Hegan. Elliott threw out Boudreau.

BRAVES—Masi fouled to Hegan along the first base line. M. McCormick went down swinging. He was Lemon's fifth strikeout victim. Stanky lined a double over Boudreau's head into left centre. Mitchell made a fine backhanded stop to prevent the ball from rolling to the wall. Ray Sanders, a left-handed batter, went into to hit for Potter and was thrown out by Lemon. It was Lemon's seventh assist, one behind the record set by Nick Altrock of the Chicago White Sox in the 1906 series.

Power Saving Is Improving

Meters at the Utilities office indicate that Peterborough housewives have been helping substantially in electric power saving for the last week or more.

Disposition of the staff who watch the recordings is to give some credit to the women of the city who have voluntarily reduced their use of power in the hope of avoiding industrial cut-offs.

Peterborough saved power Wednesday by the action of most of the retail merchants in suspending business for the entire day. The total consumption was 248,000 kilowatt-hours, as compared with the Hydro quota of 240,000 kwh.

The community's necessity of reducing power use renews its daily appeal to the entire public.

Robert Saunders, Toronto Hydro chairman, told the press today that more stringent restrictions will have to be applied, particularly on shop and sign lights. That announcement signifies that there can be no satisfaction with one day's satisfactory accomplishment.

As one merchant said this morning: "We saved power Wednesday, but a lot of lights were burning in stores today that were not needed. They could have been trimmed a great deal, and business wouldn't have suffered."

The Hydro-Electric Commission is plainly pessimistic about the power supply. The community problem resolves itself into a choice between excessive lighting and other uses on the one hand with industrial curbs on the other.

Every 1,000 kwh that are saved outside the factories that keep the pay cheques flowing means that much more power for use in industry. Operation of factory machinery requires ample electric power for production, wage earning and so on. That should be a primary consideration if employee revenue is to be maintained.

If the Hydro is considering more drastic curtailment of power consumption, it may mean reducing quotas, probably including Peterobrough.

Smith Farmer G. Milburn Dies

George Milburn, 660 George St. N., a grandson of one of the first settlers in the Peterborough district, died in hospital on Wednesday. He was 81. He was born in Smith Township, son of the late Joseph Milburn and Mary Edmison, and had lived all his life in the township.

Back in 1815, John Edmison came up the Otonabee River with Adam Scott, and a man named Fothergill, to explore the possibilities of settlement, and also to seek a site for a grist mill. A few years later he brought his bride with him. One of their children was Mary Ann Edmison, who married Joseph Milburn, and these were the parents of George Milburn.

The family names of Edmison and Milburn are closely interwoven with the history of Smith Township from the early days of the last century. Mrs. Joseph Milburn, the last of the ten children of Joseph Milburn and Mary Ann Edmison, lived to be more than a hundred years old, and died just a few years ago. She was Mr Milburn's mother, and for years was a source of valuable historical data for anyone compiling stories of early Smith Township.

He leaves his wife, the former Lilly Cathcart and two daughters Mrs. R. Dunford (Beatrice) of Toronto and Mrs. M. Tobian (Marion) of Los Angeles, Calif. One son, Allen, and two sisters, the Misses Margaret and Unice, live in Smith township. There are two brothers in Vancouver, Drs. J. A. and H. H. Milburn. He was a member of George Street United Church and was well-known as a successful farmer in Smith.

Funeral service will be held at Comstock Funeral Church on Friday at 2 p.m. The Rev. Dr. James Semple will officiate and burial will be a Little Lake cemetery.

Quash Charges

JERUSALEM, Oct. 7 (Reuters)—The Israeli Attorney-General Wednesday night quashed charges against Frederick William Sylvester under detention for alleged complicity in the Ben Yehuda street explosion which killed 56 persons in February. Sylvester still awaits the verdict, expected Friday, on charges of espionage and publishing information about Israeli defence forces.

Aided By Rain Firefighters Strike At Blaze

WINNIPEG, Oct. 7 (CP)—Fire fighters in Manitoba's inter-lake district, aided by autumnal rains, prepared today to hit hard at fires threatening lives and property.

The situation was described as much improved following Wednesday's light downpours, with hope expressed that all fires would be out shortly.

The chief of fire protection for Manitoba, S. W. Schortinghuis, issued a warning, however, against undue optimism. A little rain, he said, often causes relaxation among the fire fighters.

"This is the time to hit the fires hard. A hot, dry day may put everything back where it was."

The situation was not so good in northwestern Ontario. At Fort Frances, straddling the Canadian-American border, national employment service officers broadcast an appeal Wednesday night for all able-bodied unemployed men to register immediately for fire-fighting duties. A number of fires were reported blazing in the Rainy River district, with predicted rain late in making an appearance.

At Dallas, Man., 120 miles north of Winnipeg, the forest fires which earlier this week forced evacuation of all families were described Wednesday night as "pretty well beaten."

Improvement also was noted in the Hodgson and Lac Du Bonnet regions. But residents on Hecla Island in Lake Winnipeg still were worried, with a five-mile-wide torrent of flame cracking away at tree-tops, although with subdued tempo.

Roseneath City For a Day As Crowds Throng To Fair

ROSENEATH, Oct. 7 (ENS)—Roseneath Fair will be held October 7 and 8, and this little hamlet, becomes a City For A Day. Today we look out over a tented city, hedged in concessions between the many buildings that make up the plant and equipment, housing the Fair.

The real influx began this morning, the first day of the Fair, when the large agricultural building was thronged with exhibitors, while courteous women directors assisted in placing all varieties of exhibits from domestic to fine arts. The produce and fruit from garden and field are there in abundance too.

On the smooth race track, horses are exercised, or blanketed and led about the ground.

The throng swells until Friday, when out of our little hamlet, a city emerges.

It is a motley crowd that enters the gates, for a cross section of the world passes in and out.

Killed By Rifle Given As Fare

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., Oct. 7—(CP)—The rifle he gave as part of the fare to Alaska for himself and his daughter was the gun that killed John McCoas, 52, of Dayton, Ohio, a jury was told Wednesday at the murder trial of Gustave Weigner.

The accused, a 24-year-old Dayton salesman, is charged with the slaying of his fellow townsman on the remote Alaska Highway last Aug. 9.

In a statement given police and read to the jury, Weigner told of accepting $125 and a .22 calibre rifle to transport McComas and his 13-year-old daughter Louise to Alaska, where the girl was to be sent to school.

Weigner said he accidentally shot McComas with the rifle when they stopped to hunt squirrels.

Earlier in the day, the blonde, green-eyed Louise testified Weigner had subjected her to indecent treatment, but not criminal assault, after he emerged from the highway brushlands. "It was then," Louise said, "Weigner told me: I have shot your father."

Judge Calves At Port Hope Fair

COBOURG, Oct. 7 (ENS). — The boys of Hamilton and Haldimand Townships in Northumberland County have selected the name "2H Club" because of the American name for similar activities, which is called the "4H Clubs." Seventeen of the boys got their calves out to the Port Hope Fair for their Achievement Day. John Lean of Harwood judged the beef and placed the Herefords exhibited by Stuart Rowan, Malcolm Rowan, and Bob Gillespie. Everett Brown of Orono judged the 12 Holsteins, placing the calves in the order of Roy Moore, Emmerson Johns, Harold Johns, Keith Philip, Vernon Massey, Bob Line and Ralph Massey.

The only Ayrshire calf was that of Allan Boyle and the only Shorthorn calf was shown by Francis Cooney. In the championship placing this calf went to the top of the line, followed by the Moore and Johns Holsteins and the Rowan Hereford. The best showman was Emmerson Johns, followed by Stuart Rowan and Keith Philp.

In the examination, the standing was Keith Philp, Ralph Massey and Murray Boyle. In the final score the high three were Keith Philp, Francis Cooney and Stuart Rowan.

UNDERGROUND OCEANS

The volume of underground water in the earth has been estimated at nearly one-third the amount in the sea.

Judge At Fair

COBOURG, Oct. 7 (ENS). — The judging competition at Roseneath Fair to-morrow will include contestants from Northumberland County. It will be a good test of girls' and boys' knowledge of practical farming matters.

Fruits, vegetables, seeds, and weeds will be identified. Poultry breeds will be considered and one class each of the common kinds of livestock will be judged, and all farm young people between the ages of 12 and 26 years are eligible to participate.

U.S. Gives Peek At New Carrier

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—(AP)—The United States navy provided an additional peek Wednesday at what its new 65,000-ton aircraft carrier will look like.

The vessel, which will cost an estimated $124,000,000 and take four years to build, is scheduled for keel-laying late this year or early next at Newport News, Va.

Designated with CVA-58, the super-carrier will have a flush deck, with flag and navigation bridges on telescopic shafts on the side.

The navy said the new carrier with a flight deck of 1,030 feet should be capable of operating airplanes well over 100,000 pounds in weight. Admiral Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations told congressmen during discussion of the carrier that it would be able to launch planes the size of a B-29 bomber.

14 New Cases

Mill 128 Years Old

SHELDON, Ont., Oct. 7—(CP)—One of Canada's oldest flour mills, a 128-year-old mill still operates in this village on border of Dufferin and Simcoe counties. But farmers no longer bring their grain to the mill, one of the few old flour mills still being used in the district. Wilfred Nelson, 51, the miller, now chops feed there and delivers it to customers himself.

Taxes And The Level Of Investment

There is a current notion among some businessmen and industrialists that taxes against their enterprises are so high that they are being sucked dry and left no capital for expansion. Mr. Gerald Ryan, president of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, has declared that Canadians are so over-taxed that they are unable to provide capital funds needed for development of our natural resources. The Ottawa Journal refers to this statement editorially and says "We are quite sure this is true".

• • •

This opinion reflects a remarkable state of confusion. If capital funds are not forthcoming the current rate of investment in Canada must be low. Yet if the Journal had enquired what the current amount of investment is it would have discovered that it is higher than in any peacetime year in our history. In June of this year the Economic Research Branch of the Department of Reconstruction and Supply estimated that the gross investment in Canada in plant, equipment and housing, but excluding direct government investment and private investment in inventories, would be about 2.7 billion dollars in 1948. When this astonishingly large investment is compared with the record 2 billion dollars in 1947 and 1.1 billion dollars in 1929 (the next highest peace-time year), it can be seen that both Mr. Gerald Ryan and the Ottawa Journal are talking through their hats. If they compare the rate of investment this year (the estimated 2.7 billion dollars) with 1933 when it was 0.2 billion dollars and with the immediate postwar years after 1918 when it was averaging 0.6 billion dollars, they will, if they are sincere, stop complaining about over-taxation stifling the development of our natural resources.

• • •

They may argue that these figures do not represent the real volume of investment because they are in dollar values which change from year to year. Nevertheless, the story of the rate of investment is virtually the same if we examine the percentage of gross national output which is invested in various years. In 1948 about 17 per cent. of the total output will in fact be used to increase plant and equipment to be used in future production. It is one per cent. lower than for 1928 and is higher than that of any other peacetime year since 1926, the first year for which adequate statistics are available. The comparable figure for the immediate pre-war years was 10 to 12 per cent. It was below seven per cent. in 1933.

• • •

It is widely recognized in the United States that the current rate of investment in that country is extraordinarily high, yet the percentage of gross output invested in Canada is about three points higher than in the United States. The higher rate in Canada is generally regarded as an outstanding feature of the Canadian economy. If the Journal had wanted to make some criticism of the present level of investment in Canada it might have argued either that the current level is too high or that the investment being undertaken is of the wrong type.

Life Begins At Forty

Some years ago a book with the title Life Begins At Forty had a wide vogue. Its theme was that at forty a man could and should begin to take life easy. It popularized the American heresy widespread between the two wars that ours is an age for youth, and that people should retire from their ordinary jobs at as early an age as fifty-five. Ours is not an age of youth. Western nations are aging rapidly and soon all will have more old people than young people. There are not even now enough people under the age of forty to support in semi-retirement those over forty. Further, people are not automatically old because they are sixty. Many are then at their peak of usefulness.

Nevertheless, the heresy continues to be damaging. Retirement is being forced upon people who do not want to retire, who should not retire. Businesses and firms are reluctant to hire men who are in their late forties or early fifties. Mr. MacNamara, the deputy Minister of Labour, has attacked the discrimination against older people in employment as being anti-social and doctors have attacked it as being unscientific. The "accent on youth" is preventing thousands of able and worthy men and women in Canada from earning their own living. Mr. MacNamara points out that the records of his department show that the normally greater experience and steadiness of older persons are greater assets to an employer than age is a liability.

The prejudice against older persons is injurious in two ways: it is depriving industry of valuable employees and it is creating financial and mental problems for the older people. As the Montreal Gazette remarks, they need not sympathy but a chance. The full life of productive effort begins at forty, not the life of semi-retirement.

Distasteful Days Of Prayer

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of" Tennyson has written and we are inclined to agree with him. There are prayers and prayers; private prayer and state prayer are different in kind and function. National days of prayer upon momentous state occasions are justly proclaimed, particularly if they are for thanksgiving rather than petition. However, to have a national race to the Almighty because a strike is not settled or nations are in a stew over Berlin is unworthy of ourselves and degrading to our ideal of the Godhead.

A correspondent of the Montreal Gazette wants to have a national day of prayer over Berlin. The Mayor of St. Catharines proclaimed last Sunday to be a day of civic prayer; St. Catharines wanted the Almighty to mediate in a strike. That is making altogether too free with the Almighty. It is a species of human bumptiousness, license and irresponsibility which we think detestable, shameful and mealy-mouthed. We should not be at all surprised to find hosts of cherubim and seraphim descending on St. Catharines one of these days to box its collective ears, to tell it to mind its manners, and to advise it to use its God-given head to mind its own strike business. St. Catharines was certainly taking undue advantage last Sunday of its sainted name.

Wigs For The Needy

We have been astonished, but by no means displeased, to learn that under the provisions of England's new National Health service, wigs are supplied free to those who are thought by the proper authorities to need them. No one disputes the right of any man to be bald if he chooses; but there are some men, and virtually all women, who feel the loss of their hair as a deprivation comparable to the loss of hand, and who are not happy until some attempt has been made to conceal their trouble. Wigs — even unconvincing ones—are costly affairs; we are glad that the paternal socialist government of Britain is going to shoulder this expense.

Statistics on the number of people who wear wigs are impossible to obtain. Some wigs can be detected instantly, of course, but there are others so skilfully made that they defy anything but the closest inspection. We do not expect that the British government will supply these costly fabrications to the needy public. Perhaps, in true socialist style, one durable type of wig of a standard design and a neutral colour will be issued to all comers. In time it will become recognized throughout the world as the British Utility Wig, and will stand as a monument to advanced social legislation.

The Age Of Chivalry Is Dead

A Mrs. Veronica Dengel, who is something called a "personality instructor" at New York University, thinks that women should have what she calls "dainty coloured autos"; men would know by the colour that the driver was a woman, and would politely give them the right of way on the highway. So says Mrs. Dengel.

Someone should tell this woman that the age of chivalry is dead. Women killed it. They wanted equal rights with men, and now they have them. Men once extended special courtesy to women on the understanding that women would be submissive to men; the submission has gone, and so has the courtesy. Men no longer feel obliged to show any courtesy toward a woman which they would not show toward another man—ordinary, everyday courtesy, that is to say.

There are still women who want to have their bread buttered on both sides; they want equality with men, and as well the courtesy which women exacted as a part payment for the inferior position which they occupied in society. These women are living in the past, and it is time that they brought themselves up-to-date.

From The Critic's Notebook

DOUGLAS Reed is a journalist. He was at one time a foreign correspondent of a kind for the London Times. He wrote a book called "Insanity Fair", observations on the years 1928-38, which was published at the outbreak of the war and has been described as "intrepid and prophetic". After reading his last book "From Smoke To Smother" (observations on the decade 1938-48) one can readily believe that his first one was bold. As far as prophecy is concerned, it seems that he was fifty per cent. right. This journalistic author who has read at least one Shakespeare play, or at least seen Olivier's film version of 'Henry The Fifth', has much imagination, no great academic discipline, an outbursting style, and strong prejudices.

FROM SMOKE TO SMOTHER (Clarke, Irwin) is a violently indignant book. It is also an annoying book—so much so that one wants to throw it down but cannot. The next revelation may be even more amazing than the last one. The book is the flash impressions of what journalist Reed saw, the instantaneous emotions he experienced, the abrupt conclusions he jumped to, and the baneful prophesies he professes, during, about and forward to the years 1938-1948. For good measure he throws in 1949 and 1950.

The "Smoke" part of the book is intended to characterize the years 1938-45, when the war was being won by Merrie England, simple Cockneys and Churchill. After the smoke cleared, Reed expected to find that the England of his nostalgia would be reborn. Instead the Socialists came to power after the general election of 1945. That has resulted in the "Smother". The author says: "In the moment of victory a British Government began to inflict on my own country all the penalties of defeat which a conquering Hitler would have imposed, and set up in England, stage by stage, the regime I had watched Hitler build in Germany".

The writer believes that we have lost the war, that the powers now enthroned in Russia, Britain, U.N., even the U.S., are nihilistic (the governments themselves or the forces behind them). They are bent on destroying all culture, all individuality, all the best of European civilization (like Balkan kings!). The Labour Government of Britain is next door to Communism. And Communism is, in the author's eyes, the same as Fascism. It would seem from Reed's diagnosis that Communists even spawned Fascism and the Nazis as undercover agents of the nihilists.

He may not be wrong, but this reviewer protests with all his will that he is. The author is dangerous because he presents one-sided opinions as documented, forceful reality. He does not argue: he shouts. What must one think of his logic and perception when he says: "The whole truth, however, of these thirty years is that a President Roosevelt is more dangerous to America than Fascism, Communism or any New Weapon"? "From Smoke To Smother" is less the report and comment of a discerning journalist than the fantasy of a madman or prophet. May it be granted that he is not a prophet.

❖ ❖ ❖

THE WEDDING GIFT and OTHER STORIES by Thomas H. Raddall (McClelland and Stewart) is, of course from the pen of the author of the historical novels, "Pride's Fancy" and "His Majesty's Yankees". If you read no further than the first one in this collection you might wonder whether Mr. Raddall knows what a short story is, but he proves that he can turn a witty plot in "The Wedding Gift", a humorous tale, and the best in the volume. For the most part, these are yarns and reminiscent tales, based on old diaries and records of the history of Nova Scotia. One would expect that anyone with a drop of Loyalist blood (and who hasn't), a sense of history, or who is of Bluenose origin, would enjoy some or all of these vigorous stories. The fact that they have been popular for some years in England (Blackwood's Magazine) and in such American publications as "Collier's", speaks of a much wider appeal.

They deal largely with adventures of revolutionary times on the seaboard, when privateers out of Boston harried the Nova Scotia coast, while hardy Bluenoses kept their state for George, because they believed with Justice Blunt, in "Lor and Order".

Such stories as "At the Tide's Turn", based upon the incidents and feeling of the times, should do something to correct the Canadian sense of inferiority to her wealthier neighbours. Proper Bostonians might be surprised to hear their forbears referred to by a proud old sea-captain as "money-grubbing merchants."

"A Harp in the Willows" tells of the almost superhuman effort of the remnants of a regiment from South Carolina, with their wives and children, to build a settlement on the Nova Scotia shore, in the winter-time. Raddall manages to recount their hardships without sentimentality, and he laces all his stories with a robust humour. His characters share in the sound and steady spirit of the eighteenth century colony builders, they have their feet on the ground and are therefore very much alive.

Only the stories in which the diaries show through too evidently, are weak in structure. Recommended unless your taste in short stories is strictly for the contemporary.

A RUSSIAN JOURNAL, by John Steinbeck (Macmillan). The author of this book calls it "a simple reporting job backed up with photographs". The photographs, which are excellent, are by Robert Capa. Steinbeck determined to ignore politics; he wanted to find out what the Russians are really like. We may be forgiven for expressing some doubt as to the possibility of finding out anything vital about the Russians while ignoring their politics, and the superficiality of this book is not concealed by the skill and ease with which it is written. "We found", he says, "as we had suspected, that the Russian people are people, and as with other people, that they are very nice. The ones we met had a hatred of war, they wanted the same things all people want—good lives, increased comfort, security and peace". He also found the Russians profoundly hopeful and energetic. But 300 theatres simultaneously were performing Simonov's anti-American play "The Russian Question".

Pearson On The Risk Of War

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

ADDRESSING a dinner meeting of the Ontario Municipal Association here Tuesday evening, Hon. L. B. Pearson, newly-appointed Federal Minister of External Affairs, warned his hearers that the risk of an outbreak of war is probably greater today than at any time since war ended three years ago. It is not the first time the warning has been given, but it gained weight from the fact that it was the second time in as many days that a member of the Federal Cabinet had bluntly declared that the possibility of war existed. Hon. Brooke Claxton was the other Minister making the statement, and while Canada's Foreign Minister and Defence Minister were careful to emphasize that there was nothing inevitable in relations between the nations, they were equally emphatic about the existence of the risk of war.

❖ ❖ ❖

Events in the United States and Great Britain indicate that the opinion expressed by the two Canadian Ministers is that of London and Washington as well as Ottawa. Measures taken in the United States to rebuild its armed services—particulary its Air Force—as rapidly as possible have been matched by Britain's check on demobilization and its orders for naval refitting. These measures are reassuring evidence that the lesson expounding the folly of unpreparedness has been well learned, along with the lesson demonstrating the folly of appeasement.

❖ ❖ ❖

Further evidence of the existence of the risk of war, if it were needed, may be found in repetition by Mr. Pearson of a plea for rapid formation of a North Atlantic defence system. Canada's place in this may be regarded as its most important contribution toward preparing for the risk of war, and the part the Dominion is to play cannot be selected by it alone. Its great partner in continental defence, the United States, must of necessity play an overwhelmingly predominant part and will naturally exercise considerable influence over the disposition of Canada's resources for defence. Since it is obviously impossible for Canada to provide the manpower to defend its own borders against a major aggressor in the event of war, it seems reasonable to accept the view of United States observers that the Dominion's most valuable contribution would be preparation for complete industrial mobilization.

❖ ❖ ❖

With all these preparations for defence, however, talk about the inevitability of war is as foolish and dangerous as ever. War may be averted, and the third session of the United Nations in Paris is proof that it is still possible for the nations to meet and discuss the issues dividing them. In the light of past records, it is admittedly a weak foundation on which to erect hope that lasting peace may be achieved, yet the fact that all nations are still unwilling to take an extreme step that would lead to war is temporarily reassuring. It indicates the course that the Western Powers should follow—to continue to work for peace as they have in the past, but to recognize and prepare for the possibility of another war more terrible than the last.

What Smokers Do

(A Letter in the London Times)

Smokers, I know, are estimable people with hardly a single fault, other than burning up annually many millions of dollars which we have not got; setting fire to more property than all the criminals who have been convicted of arson in our courts ever since the Middle Ages; wasting lashings of scarce manpower, petrol, and materials in the pursuit of their addiction; demanding endless supplies of cases, lighters, holders, posters, advertisements, and even special sweets and toothpaste to bolster up the illusion that smoking is not much more troublesome or harmful than not smoking; filling our rooms, offices, restaurants, carriages and even telephones with persistent foul and fetid odors; grinding dirty ashes into our carpets and chairs; puffing smoke in our face; and boring the rest of the community stiff with their grouses and mishaps. I hasten to add that they pay special taxation which must now cover a considerable proportion of the actual economic loss which they annually inflict on the nation, so far as it can be paid for in sterling as distinct from dollars or general inconvenience.

Non-smokers are mostly broad-minded and would hate to appear prejudiced, but should not smokers bear in mind, before they work themselves up into too much indignation, that tolerance is also demanded for those who do not smoke, but are merely smoked at?

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else....

Surely, shall one say, in the Lord have I righteousness and strength: even to him shall men come; and all that are incensed against him shall be ashamed. In the Lord shall all the seed of Israel be justified, and shall glory. (Isa. 45: 22, 24, 25.)

❖ ❖ ❖

For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart. Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

Seeing then that we have a great high priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession. For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.

Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need. (Heb. 4: 12-16.)

Letters to the Editor

NO COUNTRY-WIDE SEARCH

Sir: Reports in the press say there has been a "country-wide search" for June Baker, the missing Toronto University student who has now been found.

I just want to say that that is nonsense. There hasn't been a policeman on my street in the last three days. None of the people on my street have been looking for her, and one fellow when I asked about June Baker yesterday thought I was asking about Josephine Baker.

Yours unalarmed,
SAPIENS.

NEW OUTLOOK ON SUNDAYS

Sir: Yes, that Lord's Day Act should be changed. It is a relic of a bygone spiritless, depressive, melancholy, age of ritualism, in which one pussyfooted around with subdued whispers. But since we profess to be Christians let's be consistent, and not make of ourselves a laughing-stock. Christianity has declared that the Sabbath was made for man, that it is a Holy day, and a day to 'do' good. We call it a Sun day then it surely should be a day of Sun of Light of Festival, spiritually as well as bodily. A day of giving and of thanksgiving.

Why not have movies with Biblical stories —lessons (our history is full of them) and great music, classic (leave the jazz for the other six days).

And in the summer have amphitheatres in parks with band music of great hymns, acts of good drama. Have exhibitions of paintings etc., on Sunday. Have a system of bus trips to visit country gardens, other churches etc. And to eliminate congestion and accidents on highways have more buses and smaller ones made on station wagon styles that could be hired by groups or families at reasonable rates. Getting acquainted with God and doing good could be from Isa. 58: 13, 14. A few years under Communism in a concentration camp would tell us that.

A BRITISH OPINION

World Copyright. By arrangement with Evening Standard.

AN INDICATION the power situation is becoming worse was an announcement by Hydro Chairman Robert Saunders Wednesday night that the government will be asked to authorize more stringent restrictions on commercial and outdoor lighting. Mr. Saunders is shown here discussing the acute problem with his power co-ordinator, Gordon Kribs.

Peterborough Second In Eastern Ontario In Amount Of Power Purchased From Hydro

How does Peterborough compare with other industrial centres in Ontario in the amount of power purchased from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission? This is a question that is often asked and especially at the present time when there is a power shortage.

According to hydro figures issued this week for the month of June Peterborough purchased 24,648 H.P. being only surpassed by Ottawa in the Eastern Ontario Division. For many years Oshawa and Kingston exceeded the power used here but now this city has moved into second place. Ottawa in that same month bought 44,325 H.P.

This figure of 24,648 H.P. for Peterborough does not include the power generated by private sources like the Canadian General Electric Co. and the Quaker Oats Co. These two companies have their own power plants. The C.G.E. at Nassau generates approximately 2,300 H.P. and a steam plant generates 2,500 H.P. The Quaker Oats power plant in the city generates approximately 2,000 H.P. Making a total for Peterborough of 31,448 H.P. In all Ontario only seven cities surpassed this figure in June, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London, Windsor, St. Catharines and Kitchener.

Ottawa lead the field in domestic consumers with 16,317, Kingston was second with 8,962 and Peterborough 3rd with 8,283, Oshawa 4th with 7,374 consumers.

Fight To Oust 'Reds' Plan of Canadian Unions

OTTAWA, Oct. 7 — (CP). — The lid is due to pop on the seething issue of Communism in Canadian unions. Next week it will blow off in resounding explosions.

The blasts will emanate from Toronto and Victoria, 3,000 miles apart, but their reverberations will rattle through unions from coast to coast.

In Victoria, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention will be faced with a threatening revolt from anti-Communists demanding an end to Congress tolerance of Reds within that body.

In Toronto, the Canadian Congress of Labor—already engaged in a vigorous house-cleaning of Communists—will do battle over the question of re-admitting a Reddish union it has booted out.

In advance, the Trades and Labor Congress shapes up as the major battleground. There are some pre-convention predictions that the issue may even split it down the middle into two Congresses.

Central Figure

Central figure of that Congress' internal turmoil is Frank Hall, leader figure of a group of top officials in 23 Congress unions who have banded themselves to drive Communists out of the TLC.

Hall started off by engineering a merger of the Canadian Lake Seamen's Union with the AFL-affiliated Seafarers' International Union of the United States. His aim was to force from the TLC the Red-tinged Canadian Seamen's Union by taking advantage of the Congress' close ties with the AFL.

The Congress executive, which has been vigorously backing the CSU in its long battle with Lake shipping companies, promptly booted out Hall and his union, the 122,000-man Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks. They were suspended indefinitely.

Not Communism

The Congress leaders insist the suspension issue was not Communism—just Hall's defiance of the TLC constitution by backing a union opposed to a Congress union.

Hall, who has emerged as one of Canada's most powerful labor chiefs in the last few months, says the pivot of the whole thing is Cammunism.

Though Hall's union is out of the Congress at the moment, he is leading a phalanx of delegates to Victoria. His supporting unions will fight to get the brotherhood reinstated and, if that is done, Hall will take over direction of the battle on the convention floor.

If Hall wins, it could be the start of the end for the stormy Canadian Seamen's Union. And there would be rough weather ahead for other Congress unions reputed to be dominated by Reds.

In the other Congress, this type of union has been badly mauled.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, alleged to be loaded with Reds around the top, has been heaved out. Publicly, the suspension was for casting slurs at Congress officials; actually, the Communist issue was the big factor.

Barred simultaneously for two years was Harvey Murphy, vice-president of the British Columbia Federation of Labor, a CCL affiliate claimed to be led by Reds.

Piccard Expedition Readies To Leave African Port

By HENRY GHYSSELS

DAKAR, Oct. 1—(By wireless) (Delayed) — The Picard expedition mothership "Scaldis" arrived off this French West African port shortly before dawn today. She was met by the French Navy Corvette, "Elie Mennier", flying the Belgian flag of red, yellow and black at the mainmast.

After an exchange of names by blinker, the "Eli Mennier" sent up colored rockets by way of welcome, then put a boat over the side in which the ship's captain, Lieut. Comdr. Jacques Y. Coustau, came over to the "Scaldis".

"Welcome aboard," said Piccard, when Commander Coustau reached the upper deck.

"Welcome to Africa," Coustau replied.

Meanwhile, day was breaking. The "Scaldis" passed beside picturesque Geree Island to enter the port of Dakar.

Later on Friday morning, Professors Piccard and Cosyns received colonial officers on board. Notable among the visitors were Paul Bechard, High Commissioner for French West Africa, and his Chef de Cabinet, Jean Ramadier, son of France's National Defense Minister; also the Consul of Belgium at Dakar.

On Saturday, the two leaders of our expedition will lecture before the French Institute of Dark Africa, whose director, Theodore Monod, is a member of our scientific personnel. On Sunday, the expedition members will be guests of honor at a dinner tendered by the High Commissioner and Mme. Bechard. And on Monday, the Belgian Consul will receive in the expedition's honor.

During this time, the "Scaldis'" cargo will be unloaded and extra supplies taken aboard for the major scientific undertaking which begins in earnest only when we leave this port. Our departure from Dakar is set for October 9 or 10 — that is, next week-end.

Marvel Flattens The Pole To Win Main Grapple Bout

Once again the Masked Marvel triumphed over "Blockbuster" Talun, the huge Pole, to pretty well settle their feud, in the main bout at the Brock Arena last night. The Mask, as usual, won by trickery and had to practically fight his way from the ring to the dressing room with aid of police and a bench in his hands through a hostile crowd. A good-sized gallery viewed a lively three-bout card.

That final round of the last bout lasted almost 10 minutes. They had started off with a rush, Talun, scaling 315, using his strength to advantage but the Marvel offsetting this with jabs at the eyes and other illegal tactics. They mixed on the mat and rolled through the ropes into the crowd, which scattered. As they squared off, the Mask shoved Talun over a bench and piled it onto him. Then he hurried back into the ring to beat the count (which was going on for both) and got the fall. The angry Pole rushed into the ring then and they tangled again, but the referee, who tried to break it up, drew the Pole's ire. As the latter and Referee Bulldog Drummond mixed the Mask escaped with police aid and brandishing a bench till he was safe away.

Took the First

Talun had taken the one fall in 17 minutes with a hard bear-hug. He had applied it previously but the Mask wriggled free after rasping the big fellow's eyes. This time Talun gave him no chance, applying the pressure at the same time he kept twisting the hooded one from side to side. Talun was big and powerful but clumsy while the Marvel had speed and rough stuff to hold his own all the way. He had the better of it for a space till Blockbuster got peeved and tore after him to finally win as the crowd roared approval.

But the Mask, who went 250, evened it in the second round in slightly over eight minutes with an "upender" hold. He caught his rival coming off the ropes with an elbow smash to down him, then grabbed his legs and hoisted them high while leaning his weight forward. This rolled Talun's shoulders onto the mat and they were held there for the count. Talun had opened up strongly and hung the Mask in the ropes, brushing a protesting referee off easily, but the wily Marvel came back with jabs to the eye and other tricks to gain an unpopular fall.

A Good Scrap

Mike Sharpe, at 246, won the semi-final in 20 minutes over Bill Stack, 224, who substituted for Goon Henry—the latter having a fractured arm the day before. Mike won it when he went down under an attempted flying tackle off the ropes, straightening up with Stack on his back to smash him to the floor and pin him. But big Bill had made it a real scrap up to then, showing no fear of his powerful opponent and bouncing him around. They mixed hard and fast, but generally clean, and both had supporters in the crowd, each getting a good hand at the end of an interesting tussle.

Bald Pat Flanagan, weighing 224, won from Jan Gotch, at 230, in a fair prelim. Gotch got rough early and had an edge for a time, but the other came back to bother him in a speedy go. The Irisher was popular but was warned by Referee Drummond for using his feet. The tilt was fairly even most of the distance, but Gotch finally threw Flanagan out of the ring and kept him out with his feet, till Pat finally came back over with a smack to Jan's jaw and a leap onto him as he fell for the win in 22 minutes.

THE CLEVELAND INDIANS, winners of the American League pennant, are displaying here the famous Indian powerhouse. They are, left to right, 2nd baseman Joe Gordon who has clouted in 121 runs including 32 homers; Ken Keltner, 3rd baseman, who has 30 homers and 114 runs batted in; Dale Mitchel, outfielder, who has hit 200 safeties with a .340 batting average; and Manager-Shortstop Lou Boudreau, th team's top hitter who is batting .355.

Happenings In Hockey

By The Canadian Press

If Montreal Canadiens don't climb back on top of the National Hockey League — where they sat for two seasons before last year's debacle — it won't be because they aren't working.

Coach Dick Irvin has been throwing a two-hour workout at the Habs all through their western exhibition tour, even on the day of a game.

During the tour, Canadiens are working out with Fort Worth of the United States League and Oakland of the Pacific Coast League.

They're due for eight exhibition clashes in 13 days.

With today's far-flung farm systems and training camps or tryout schools scattered all across the country, the heavy exhibition game schedule is hitting all six N.H.L. teams, a well as the minor league clubs.

Some of them are working out with amateur clubs.

Cagey Max Bentley might be in for a new role this season — leaving the scoring to his two rookie linemen.

In an exhibition game Wednesday night against Ottawa Senators, Allan Cup finalists last year, Max barely had a shot on goal. But he collected four assists by pulling defencemen out of position and feeding passes to Fleming Mackell and Les Costello.

Mackell got three goals and Costello two, and each Bentley-assisted goal was scored the same way.

New York Rangers just about didn't make it in an exhibition game against the American League's Providence Reds Wednesday night. Rangers won 2-1. Edgar Laprade got the winner by grabbing a loose puck that got away from defenceman Art Michaluk. Dunc Fisher got the other one while Bill Summers scored for Providence.

IN THE DOUGH

Miss Morris Chief, driven by Joe O'Brien of New Glasgow, N.S., finished gamely in the second heat Wednesday to win first money in the Hanover Shoe filly stakes for two-year-old pacers, feature of the day's Lexington Grand Circuit card.

Lindsay Takes Grid Win Over Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 7.—(ENS).—Lindsay Collegiate juniors took a 28-5 COSSA gridiron victory over Lakefield High school here yesterday to open their season. The game was closer than the score indicates as Lakefield had a number of costly fumbles when in scoring position. The homesters were short on reserve strength, too.

The main scorers for the visiting squad were Burns with 15 points and DeBois with 11, Foshay counting the others. Gordon Coyle scored the Lakefield major when he took Kelly's pass on the 20-yard line and raced over for a touchdown, unconverted. Percy Calberry and Gordon Blake also turned in a good effort for the losers. Teams:

Lindsay—Flying wing, Maidens; halves, Georgas, DeBois, Fitzell; quarter, Foshaw; snap, Bellamy; insides, Magee, Wilkinson; middles, Dawson, Pennock; outsides, Richards, McLean; alternates, Burns, Taylor, Murray, Trotter, Logan, Algar and Ward.

Lakefield—Flying wing, Twist; halves, Blake, Coyle, Kelly; quarter, D. Calberry; snap, Deck; insides, Pearson, P. Calberry; middles, Crawford, McCracken; outsides, J. Sloan, D. Sloan; alternates, Sabatino, Darling, Wilford.

Referee, G. Bellamy; umpire, A. Karry; head linesman, D. Wasson.

Lakefield Fliers Edge TCS In 16-5 Victory

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 7 — Lakefield Fliers came from behind with a last-half flourish today to score a 16-5 victory over TCS seconds in an exhibition football game. The Grove spotted TCS a first-quarter touchdown by Derrick Ashton, evened the count with a third-quarter major on a John Easson-to-Allan Frost pass, and won out in the fourth with two touchdowns, one of them converted.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Big sports' attraction here tomorrow night, of course, is the lacrosse playoff. Fifth game of the OLA senior "B" finals, with the Petes two up on Huntsville Hawks. A win for the local gutted-stick aces in Miller Bowl on the morrow would give them the title once more and touch of a round of celebrations similar to that seen last season here. A band will be in attendance and if the Petes come through there'll be a big parade afterward with the club and their friends winding up later at the Aragon. There'll be seating accommodation for 3,000 fans, and more than that may be expected if the weather is okay. Should be a swell scrap, too, starting at nine.

* * * * * *

And Ken Kingston advises that the championship crests for the minor lacrosse winners will be presented during the evening tomorrow at Miller Bowl. All but the bantams, who received their badges before. So the winning juvenile, midget, peewee and tadpole teams are asked to be at the south gate of the Bowl at 8.30 p.m. Friday to meet their managers and loop officials. Arrangements will then be made for the presentations. The minor lacrosse association was organized on a hefty scale this year and proved quite successful, with a large entry in every section handled well, and plenty of good competition. Jack Foote was chief coach.

Some Grid Games

Our grid squads swing into action this week-end. On Saturday, the ORFU intermediate Panthers pull out for Oakville and then they take on Oshawa Red Raiders at three in the Oval Monday aft—the holiday. They've got to get in there and win or else. PCVS seniors have Oshawa here at the Oval Saturday, and then take Monday off. It ought to be a good game, too. Junior PCI-ers have Lakefield here Saturday as St. Peter's play in Lindsay. Both local junior teams then sit it out on the holiday. These are all group games and important in a short rugby schedule.

Mike Rodden of Kingston, commenting on the use of pros in amateur lineups, says: "Laughingly, it can be said that the AAU of C has passed on even if its officials are unaware of the fact. Forty-one years ago the Montreal Winged Wheelers used Ernie Russell, a pro hockeyist, and before the firing was over all players and clubs were banished from amateur sport. Peterborough seniors, having won the championship of the Ontario Union, then defied orders and opposed the Wheelers in the so-called Canadian championship final in Montreal, and were not only crushed by 76 to 2 but were also suspended." And we remember when the late Shrimp McDougall had to sit it out of pro hockey three years before being re-instated as an amateur.

PCVS Holds Meet

The Collegiate track and field meet made a comeback after a 10-year layoff yesterday in Morrow Park, drawing a record number of competitors. The girls, bless 'em, outnumbered the boys with some 250 to 200. And plenty of keen competition was seen in girls' and boys' events. But this meet stressed teamwork, rather than individual marks, and the school was divided into four "houses" of five age groups each. Competitors' points were totalled then to the credit of their "houses", it being a sort of six-event decathalon. The teachers had it well organized and took part as officials during the meet. A good show.

Ted Reeve, Beaches' coach, comments: "We started the year with three quarterbacks, Joe Kane, Bobby Porter and Ernie Becker. Kane went to college, Porter to the sick bed, Becker got a little jittery so we ran in Don Crowe. Crowe was just starting to look real good, but now he's joined the sick-bay list. Saturday in the first half he got hit hard and, though he played the last half in pain, we now find that he has three small bones chipped in his spinal column. He'll be out for a month. How he got through the last half against Sarnia is a mystery and one of those things that scares a coach in this pastime. Some battlers, like Crowe, are too game for their own good. All Johnny Lake, Porter and Crowe need now is a fourth for bridge."

Cuts Down The Pole

Mat fans may not like it, but again last night the Masked Marvel beat Talun, the towering Pole, in the main bout—and, as far as we can see it, he can beat him anytime. The Pole is bigger and stronger, but he is slow and clumsy. And he doesn't rough it up like the Mask. The latter cashes in on all chances, and even used a bench—vacated recently and rapidly by some paying customers—to gain the deciding fall. He also used this bench (still empty) plus a couple of cops to battle his way through the hostile crowd. Talun reminds us of the Angel. Both are oddities—something about glands, except that Talun grew tall and the other squat—and both are powerful but clumsy. Mike Sharpe won the semi-final from Bill Stack in a good go, while Flanagan got the prelim from Gotch.

Women Bowlers End Season With A Banquet

By HERB MARTIN

Augmented by many men guests about 60 members of the ladies' lawn bowling club attended their annual banquet and meeting, Wednesday night, in the club's parlors, McDonnel St.

President Wm. Jeffries occupied the chair and in opening the meeting he paid tribute to the ladies for the splendid dinner and the wonderful attendance. He congratulated all and said he hoped that they would continue with their good work.

Mrs. M. Wilson gave the secretary's report and Mrs. J. Adams the treasurer's report. Both were favorably received. Many items of business were discussed, the main one being just how the schedule rinks were to be chosen. After several suggestions were made, it was finally decided, by vote to continue with the same system as was used last season.

Robt. Hendry conducted the sing-song in his usual capable manner. Many of the men guests spoke and they all agreed that the ladies had enjoyed a fine season, and they too added congratulations. So successful were the ladies in raising money, in different way, that they intend to purchase an electric stove for their kitchen.

The election of the different chairmen was held with the following results:

Social committee, Mrs. H. Staunton; membership committee, Mrs. L. Ackford; games committee, Mrs. L. Bearne. After the prizes had been distributed to the successful winners, one of the best annual meetings ever held, came to a close.

Hamilton Tigers Whip Cornwall By 20-10

CORNWALL, Oct. 7 — (CP). — Hamilton Tigers won their way into the Dominion senior lacrosse final by trouncing Cornwall Seniors 20-10 here Wednesday night in the deciding game of the best-of-three Eastern Canada final.

The Tigers meet New Westminster Adanacs, Western Canada champions, in a best-of-five series for the Mann Cup opening in Toronto Oct. 11.

The Ontario Lacrosse Association champions won almost as they pleased from Cornwall, Quebec Association representatives. Three stars who missed Monday night's game when Cornwall scored a 14-13 upset were back in action to bolster the Tigers.

Feller Doesn't Find Braves Great Shakes As Ball Club

By JOE REICHLER

BOSTON, Oct. 7 — (AP). — Although beaten by Boston Braves the first time he ever pitched in a World Series, Bob Feller today hinted he didn't have much respect for his conquerors as a ball club.

Asked if his two-hit performance in yesterday's losing 1-0 effort against Johnny Sain in the 1948 World Series opener wasn't his best of the year, Feller replied:

"I had pretty good stuff out there yesterday, but I wasn't nearly as good as against Detroit and the Boston Red Sox recently. I might not have given up as many hits yesterday as in the other games, but I pitched against better hitters on the Tigers and Red Sox.

Bob was not too downhearted over his heartbreaking defeat, although he made no secret of the fact that he thought umpire Bill Stewart "blew" a call which decided the ball game.

The incident occurred in the eighth inning with the Braves at bat. Phil Masi, a pinch runner, was on second. Sibby Sisti, another suubstitute runner, was on first and there were two out. Feller attempted to pick Masi off second with a quick throw to Lou Boudreau. The play was close, but Stewart ruled the runner safe. Boudreau argued vigorously to no avail.

Sure Play O.K.

"I thought the throw had him beat," Bob said. "I'd like to see the pictures. I think they'll show I caught two men napping—Masi and Stewart."

Boudreau backed Feller, insisting that he had Masi "clean."

"I put the tag on him as he came sliding head first into the bag," Lou said. "I tagged him up the arm, and knocked his hat off as he came sliding in. He was out in my book, but Stewart thought differently, and he's the boss."

Arguments sprouted up all over town Wednesday night after publication of Associated Press pictures of the vital play.

Many neutral observers insisted that pictures showed that Manager Lou Boudreau of the Indians had tagged Masi a foot off the bag. Others were unconvinced.

Favored To Win

The new odds show Cleveland still favored to win the series at 7 to 10 instead of the 5 to 11 or 5 to 12 existing before the opener. Today's game is about even money in man-to-man betting.

If Spahn is able to tame the Indians, there will be a mad rush to hop on the Braves' bandwagon. He is the No. 2 man of Southworth's pitching duel although his 15-12 record for the year was a bit below expectations.

He failed to finish his last three starts after turning in four successive fine winning jobs.

Lemon, a no-hit pitcher June 30, is Boudreau's choice to get even before the Indians return home.

Pickering Drops TCS In Football Opener

NEWMARKET, Oct. 7 — Pickering College (firsts) opened their football season this afternoon with a 10-7 win over Trinity College School of Port Hope.

Trinity got off to an early lead, Miller going over on a plunge for a major score in the early minutes of play. Wood converted. In the second quarter Pickering came alive to open their scoring with a single and a placement by Terry Sumner. Trinity added another point as a placement kick went astray in the third quarter.

The final quarter was all Pickering. Sumner took a lateral pass from quarterback Ron Umphrey, getting into the clear and over the Trinity line for a touchdown. Ron Umphrey converted.

Odds And Ends At World Series

BOSTON, Oct. 7 — (AP). — The Boston weather bureau and Cleveland rooters are both alibing Wednesday's World Series opener.

The bureau had predicted rain. The reason for the Indian rooters' alibis is obvious.

Paul H. Kutschenreuter, supervising forecaster for the area, might well have been expressing the sentiments of both when he said:

"Boston is considered one of the most difficult forecast areas in the United States."

Satchmo Paige has waited years and years to be a part of a World Series — and when he finally makes it he's barred from the park.

The elderly Negro Cleveland pitcher was stopped at the players' entrance long before game time.

"Ah's a ball player," Paige told the attendant.

Finally, another Cleveland player vouched for Paige and they let him in.

Standees were 10 deep at the rear of the Braves Field grandstand. The most polite standee was the one who clambered atop a water bubbler—he moved his foot every time someone wanted a drink.

A man with a pencil and notebook was busy outside Braves Field taking the names of youngsters who appeared of school age.

He identifeid himself as "an employee of the Boston school department."

A department official said he might be a truant officer but added "if he asks punitive action against youngsters playing hookey the chances are he will get turned down."

Robinson Has Signed To Fight Belloise

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP). — The Tournament of Champions has welterweight champion Ray Robinson's signature on a contract to fight middleweight Steve Belloise.

Sugar Ray signed the document Wednesday night at the Harlem offices of "Ray Robinson Enterprises" in the presence of manager George Gainsford, officials of the T. of C., newspaper men and photographers.

The articles call for the welter boss to receive a guarantee of $20,000 or the privilege of taking 35 per cent of the gate, and the same cut of radio, television and movie money, if any. The bout will be a 10-rounder at the Jersey City Armory Dec. 2.

Belloise will receive a $20,000 guarantee too, or the privilege of 27½ per cent of the receipts.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The 100-game senior Ontario Hockey Association schedule, opening Oct. 15, was released at Toronto Wednesday night.

The season opens with Owen Sound at Hamilton and Kitchener at Stratford. Toronto Marlboros, fifth team in the loop, opens Oct. 18 at Stratford.

Montreal's inseparable ski-racing twins, Rhona and Rhoda Wurtele, are going to be separated by marriage.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. H. Wurtele of suburban Westmount, announced Wednesday that Rhona is engaged to the United States Olympic ski star, Gene Gillis. Rhoda is engaged to Arnold Eaves, Montreal sportsman.

It will be a double wedding Nov. 13 for the 26-year-old twins. Then Rhona and her husband will go to White Fish, Montana, where Gene operates a ski school. Rhoda will live in Montreal.

Four Toronto sports writers were appointed Wednesday by city council to the sports committee of the Canadian National Exhibition in an effort to determine the usefulness of the CNE playing field for rugby games this year.

They are columnists Ted Reeve of the Evening Telegram and Jim Coleman of he Globe and Mail and sports editors Andy Lytle of the Daily Star and Bobby Hewitson of The Telegram.

New York baseball writers covering the World Series believe there's a possibility that Bucky Harris will join the Brooklyn Dodger organization next year. Harris piloted the New York Yankees last season but his contract was not renewed and he's in Boston looking for a job.

Frederick W. (Cyclone) Taylor, member of Hockey's Hall of Fame, returned Wednesday to New York aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth, after a tour of duty in London as a Canadian government immigration official. The ruddy-faced, 63-year-old Taylor, star of the former Renfrew Millionaires of nearly 40 years ago, will visit Ottawa and Montreal before returning to his Vancouver home.

Angelo Di Bacco and Cesare Moretti of Italy held a two-lap lead in Buffalo's 12th international six-day bike race Wednesday night, 24 hours after the start.

Second after 365 miles had been covered were Hugo Koblet and Walter Diggelman of Switzerland.

The all-Canadian team of Torchey Peden, Victoria, and Rene Cyr, Montreal, was in eighth place.

A wild, second-period fight sent two players to the dressing room Wednesday night as Pittsburgh Hornets beat Philadelphia Rockets 6-1 in an American Hockey league exhibition game at Welland. Hornets defenceman Pete Backor and Philadelphia winger George Defelice clashed in the second period and were treated for minor injuries.

Hershey Bears of the American Hockey league Wednesday night defeated the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey league 5-4 in an exhibition game at Hershey. Several of the Bruins regulars played for the Bears, a Boston farm club. Pete Babando led the scoring for the Bruins with three goals.

Two Games Played In School League

Central lost two soccer league points in the public school schedule by a 5-0 count to Confederation, at King Edward Park Wednesday afternoon. The winners took the leadership in the league standing with three straight wins.

Confedertaion settled down to combination early with Crouter breaking away twice to finish with rocket drives. A little later, Daniels connected with a Simmons' pass to make it 3-0 at the interval. Central, on resuming, bombarded the winners' goal without success, with Foster, Withers, Delahaye and Patterson being outstanding. On a pass by Strickland, Holland registered the fourth to be followed by Strickland on a pass from Daniels. Outwater, at centre half for Confederation, was brilliant.

Central—J. Cooper goal; G. Paton and R. Wall full-backs; J. Black W. Foster and W. Lush half-backs; D. Paterson, B. Withers, B. Delahaye, D. Hart-Waxwell and R. Kelly forwards; subs, D. Cuffe, J. Rowley.

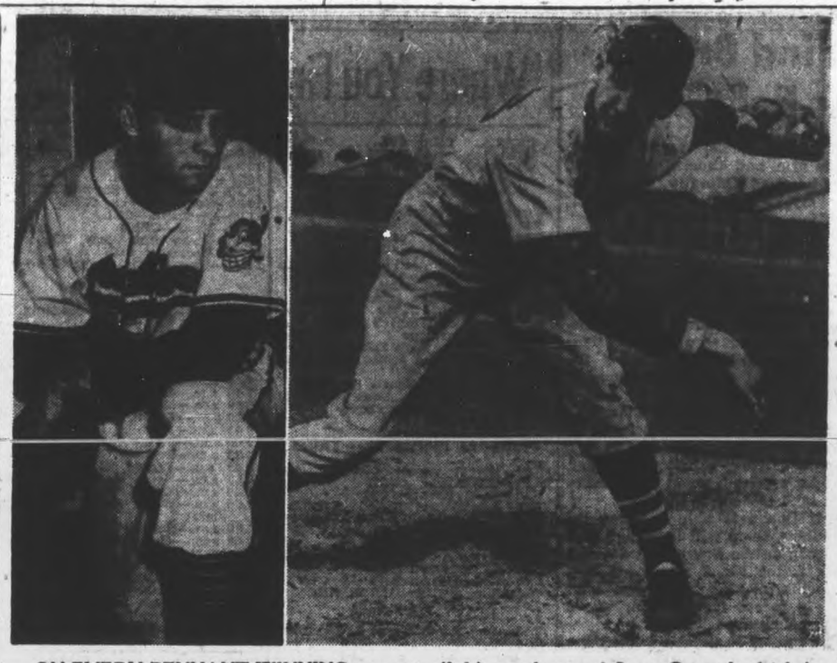
Right from the kick-off, East City boys concentrated their efforts on attack to gain two goals by Simpson and Dubay, King George leading 2-0 at the interval. Queen Alexandra opened with a series of raids that found a solid defence of McKenzie and Rowe. Barker, King George, made it 3-0 later.

King George—R. Withers goal; L. McKenzie and R. Rowe halfbacks; H. Pollard, D. Crowder and D. Barclay half-backs; F. Ash, R. Simpson, D. Dubay, P. Harding and G. Barker forwards; subs, O. Thompson, R. Harvey and F. Johnson.

Queen Alexandra — C. Carter goal; T. Reid and R. Nicholls full-backs; R. McIlwain, N. Nicholls and D. Woods half-backs; R. Kingston, F. Griffin, R. McFagan, D. Bell and W. Oliver forwards; subs, R. Macklin, C. James, W. Kemp.

Referee, Mr. Lawless.



ON EVERY PENNANT-WINNING team are one or two players whose worth to the club in the flag chase is overlooked because their statistical box-score isn't in bold face type. The Indians have those characters, too, in the strapping forms of Jim Hegan, (left), catcher, and Steve Gromek, (right), pitcher. Gromek's record is not much to get excited about but a recognizable link in the Tribe's victory chain. Hegan's a smart receiver, and knows what pitch to call. He has the confidence of the Tribe's whole pitching staff.

Weave Tactics Around Schmidt

By BEN FRENCH

HERSHEY, Pa., Oct. 7—(AP)—Boston Bruins are weaving their plans for the 1948-49 National Hockey League season around Defenceman Milt Schmidt.

The veteran of nine years experience was voted the league's outstanding centre two years ago but the Bruins, in an attempt to better their third-place finish of last Spring, are moving him to the rearguard in practice sessions here.

"It's too early to make predictions," Coach Dit Clapper said.

Schmidt's appearance as a defenceman, in place of his usual centre slot, is the big development of early practices. While club officials are silent on the expulsion from the league of Don Gallinger, local hockey fans figure that is the reason for the big switch.

At least four different offensive groupings are being used by the Bruins in preparation for their league opener at Toronto Oct. 16.

New York Ring

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7. — (AP).—A smuggling ring was believed by state narcotic inspectors Wednesday to have flown in from New York the big haul of narcotics seized here Tuesday. The narcotics, valued at $254,400 at peddler's prices, comprised 18 ounces of French heroin. Michael Saris, 35, night club bartender, was arrested and charged with sale and possession of narcotics.

Big Road Program

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 7—(CP)—Road expenditures in Ontario this year may total $33,633,000, the highest figure in the history of the province, Highways Minister George Doucett said here Tuesday. Of this amount, the Provincial government will pay "more than half" — an estimated $18,000,600 — through its 50 per cent subsidy on roads and 80 per cent on bridges.

Doctors Advised To Work In Groups

LONDON, Oct. 7—(CP)—The day of the family doctor working a practice single-handed is over, the British Medical Association says in a report.

Partnerships should be formed. Better still, doctors should work together in health centres planned under Britain's new Health Service.

The report, prepared by a committee appointed last year to study conditions of practice throughout the country, says single practice entails too much strain on the doctor's wife.

Irregularity of meals in a doctor's house, interruption of family activities and disturbed nights are too much for a woman, the report says. The doctor cannot take a holiday when he wants to, works often when too ill to do so and has no time for post-graduate study.

Old Parking Space Problem Confronts Council Once-More

Seven or eight years ago the council gave considerable attention to Peterborough's inadequate parking facilities. That was their own expression, and at that time, prior to the war, ratepayers heard or read something about the "growing necessity" of obtaining more space.

After the war, it was said, the problem would become more acute as production of cars multiplied.

Several references to the "problem" were heard around the corner of Water and Simcoe streets within the last week. One phase of it was the decision of the council to ask for bids on the property at George and Sherbrooke streets which has been used as a free parking area for years.

At the same time town planning committee is advising that more parking space be bought. Mr. Hubert Sills proposed the other evening that the parking meters collection be used for the purchase of additional space.

It has been suggested that "there must be ample parking space within the down town blocks," rearage areas back of the stores. Mr. Sills headed a planning committee that made a thorough investigation of such potential parking lots. It was a painstaking job, and appeared to deserve more consideration than it has received.

Vacant Spots

Mr. Sills did find certain vacant spaces. He identified them and made various observations about them.

That was all the town planners and the city council accomplished about the "problem" from that approach.

Some citizens may recall declarations before Hitler marched. They were going to do something about parking space, accommodation for people coming into Peterborough from a wide area of Central Ontario; clearing the down town streets of cars; and so on.

There was actually a survey made of the city property at the east end of Simcoe St., along the river. It was created out of the city dump. Only a few minutes walk from the city hall, this area held out possibilities. Investigation this year finally excluded it from parking lot planning.

The council was informed by City Engineer Chalmers that there was a hazard of driving into the water, that the sidings to the Quaker Oats mills might impede access, and so on. The impression at that time was to the effect that this parking site had to be scratched from the list.

So, the problem has come through the decade of years without any change except of pressure. The number of cars, as predicted, has been largely increasing. Parking meters since May of last year collected approximately $35,000. That is the money Mr. Sills recommends for spading into new parking space.

The Dominion government gave the city a bargain on the George-Sherbrooke lot. Use the council contemplated is no longer a factor of ownership since it recently decided that the new city hall should be built at George and Murray streets.

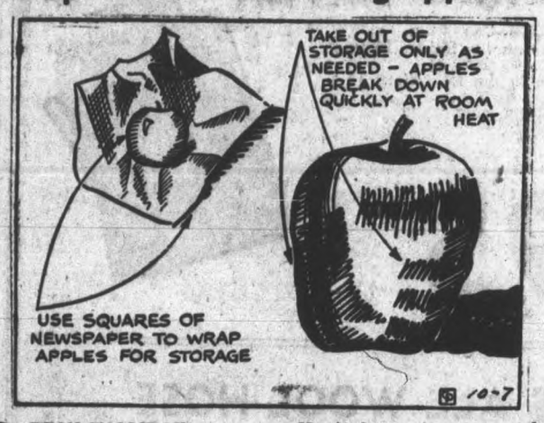
Appeals For Recruits

LONDON, Oct. 7. (CP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery Wednesday declared that the danger of war exists and appealed for a strong Britain. Continuing the drive for 150,000 volunteers for the Territorial Army, he warned against "underplaying the danger of war."

Conductor Fasts

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 .(AP)—A retired contractor who writes religious mottoes has started a "fast to the death" so that "virtue may regain its dignity." John A. Bender, 59, says the last food he ate was toast and coffee for breakfast last Sunday. "Virtue has lost its place in the world," he told newspaper men from his bed in a hotel.

Simple Rules For Storing Apples



By DEAN HALLIDAY

THERE'S a lot of satisfaction in bringing out of home storage a bowlful of your own apples during the winter months.

If you are fortunate enough to have some bushels of late apples from your own trees, you can store them successfully for winter use by observing a few simple rules.

If you plan to store your apples in the cellar, the chances are it will not be as uniformly cool as it should be, therefore wrap each apple in a square of newspaper, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Wrapping apples for storage prevents wilting, reduces chances of temperature, retards ripening, checks the spread of disease and decay, and prevents bruising.

Here's how to wrap apples quickly and efficiently: Place an apple in the centre of the square of paper, then bring the paper around it with a quick, twisting motion. The wrapped apples

Apples are best stored in a cool, frost-proof place where the temperature should be between 30 and 40 degrees. There should also be some moisture in the air should then be packed in a box, so the fruits will not shrivel.

Take especial care in the selection of fruit for storage, Do not include any apples which are bruised, wormy or spotted with disease.

Do not take apples out of storage until you are ready to use them. As illustrated, they break down quickly after being removed from the cool temperature of their storage place.

Zooming Costs Hit Students At University

TORONTO, Oct. 7 — (CP) — "Live and learn" the proverb says, and an estimated 15,000 students enrolled at the University of Toronto are discovering that the costs of both are rising.

The high cost of learning got a big boost when Varsity, troubled with its own high costs, upped tuition fees last year by $50, bringing a year of Arts courses to $180 and Engineering to $341.

Textbooks, a big item for undergrads, cost an average of $50 for first year students, more for students in higher years and still more for medical students who pay $20 and up for many of their texts.

Cost of living in the city is high too, and is given an extra push by the spending of crowds of students who complain of high prices.

Those lucky enough to live in residence—a fair part of the out-of town students, who comprise 20 per cent of total enrolment—pay from $300 to $400 for the session. Single rooms, without meals average $6 a week.

There were 8,030 veterans enrolled last year, about 25 per cent of them married with children, and there will be only slightly less this year. If they want an apartment they have to search a good deal and pay a good deal.

Nothing for Entertainment

Altogether, it will cost the average first-year student from out of town anywhere from $1,000 to $1,300 for a year in Arts or Science. That rough estimate allows a little enjoyment along with studying.

Only five years ago a survey of engineering students reported $805 as a minimum outlay for a school year. Of course, by doing little else but eat, sleep, study and get his clothes washed a student might squeeze through on $900, but it would be a long, dull winter.
